WESTERLY

Charles H. Pendleton, United States post office inspector in the cities and towns of New England, residing at 81 Elm street, has been confined to his Westerly home by illness since last Saturday. In Providence Inspector Pendleton suffered a severe nervous breakdown with lapse of memory, and was ordered by his physician to return home. Word came from Washington this week that the inspector's extension from retirement, which was to take effect April 19 had been extended one year. This makes the second extension in retirement granted him. Mr. Pendleton was eligible for retirement and pension more than two years ago, when he reached his 70th birthday. The inspector's physician believes that with a week's complete rest, he will be able to resume his duties.

Benjamin A. Peabody, Jr., while at "Massachauge" the summer cottage of his employer, Charles E. Sherman of Westerly, located near the Misquamicut Golf club house at Watch Hill, the first of the week, discovered that the cottage had been broken into but the time of the break is not known.

It was found that both houses had been entered and ransacked. Furniture and other things within the houses had been strewn about and cigarette butts littered the floor. He could not see that anything of value had been taken and a complete inventory could not be taken because of the fact that Mr. and Mrs. Sherman are now in the Bahamas. Mr. Peabody reported the matter to the police, and Officer Geo. Champlin went to the resort to make an investigation. He found that, in the first instance the thieves had entered the cottage by forcing a cellar window. At the other cottage, the cellar door was found open and it is thought that the marauders had a key which fitted the lock.

The foundations for the new oil engines to operate the artificial ice plant at Avondale for James Jolly are nearly completed. After the installing the engines the plant can be rebuilt for the manufacture of ice. No ice has been cut this year on the nearby "No Bottom" pond, where a year ago the ice houses were filled.

For an alleged attempt to unlawfully ship a package of 10 sticks of dynamite, six explosive caps and 10 feet of fuses in interstate commerce through the American Railway Express, Dimitrie Serbidio, 53 Pierce street, Westerly was adjudged probably guilty by United States Commissioner Henry C. Hart and held for the action of the Federal Court in $2,500 bail which he furnished.

The government alleged that on Jan. 14 last Serbidio shipped the package to Vincenzo Lupo, 25, Newkirk Plaza, Brooklyn, but an official of the express company, aroused by what he thought suspicious actions of Serbidio, opened the package and summoned Chief of Police Thomas E. Brown. The chief, in testifying, claimed Serbidio had told him first that the package came to him from Chicago and later told him the package had been left with him to ship. The name of the shipper was given as "D. Stella, 52 Pierce street, Westerly." An official of the express company identified Serbidio as the man who brought the package to the express company's office.

The hearing Tuesday followed a second postponement of the case. Present at the hearing beside the chief of police were Railway Express Agent Herbert E. Cooke, and Billing Clerk James W. Shaw of Westerly.

Attorney M. Walter Flynn, Jr., represented the defendant in securing bail.

Miss Josephine Di Ange and Michael Giordano, both of Pawcatuck were united in marriage Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock at St. Michael's church by Rev. J. J. Keane celebrated the nuptial mass which followed the ceremony. They were attended by Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Abate of Norwich. Mr. and Mrs. Giordano will make their home at 5 Thompson street.

The funeral of Joseph E. Bagge, who died Saturday at Pleasant View, was held Tuesday morning at 9.30 o'clock. Requiem high mass was celebrated at the Church of the Immaculate Conception at 10 o'clock by Rev. J. P. Cassagne, S. M. Following the mass Martin H. Spellman sang Face to Face. Burial was in St. Michael's cemetery, where the committal service was read by Father Cassagne. The bearers were Willard Hall, Stanley Laing, Charles Crandall, Leo C. Nye, George Spear and Fred La Fountain, all members of the Modern Woodmen of America. Mr. Bagge was 1864. He moved to Westerly and for born in Wood River Junction Aug. 1, a number of years was a local building contractor, supervising the erection of a number of houses here and at the nearby resorts. Besides his wife he is survived by a son, Joseph E. Bagge, Jr., of Boston.

The funeral of John B. Molin was held Tuesday morning at 8.30 o'clock from his home at 31 East avenue. Requiem high mass was celebrated at the Church of the Immaculate Conception at 9 o'clock by Rev. Henry Bruso, S. M. During the service Martin H. Spellman sang Face to Face, and Miss Rose Bannon sang Beautiful Land on High. At the offertory, Miss Bannon and Mr. Spellman sang O. Salutaris. Burial was made in River Bend cemetery, where the committal service was by Rev. Father Bruno. The bearers were Michael Panciera, Alexander De Fanti, Louis Panciera, Tomthy Campo, Q. Revena and Santo Panciera.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Bread Theater

Long before he started his film career John Gilbert was a swimming enthusiast. Therefore the diving scene required of him in the Fox production, The Lone Chance, was not an unwelcome test of his matatorial powers.

In the picture Gilbert makes an escape which calls for a dive from a prison wall in the dark. The height from the top to the water was 54 feet. In a simulated storm, effected by a battery of wind machines, with the water being tossed in giant waves, John made his leap.

This is one of the thrilling bits of action in the story, which has many stirring moments. The star himself needs little recommendation added to the praise he has earned in many productions. Evelyn Brent, playing the feminine lead opposite Gilbert, has won her laurels for performances in The Shadow of the East, The Arizona Express and The Plunderer. The rest of the cast measures up to the standard of the featured players. Howard Mitchell, the director, is a veteran of screen production.

The Lone Chance heads the double feature bill at the Breed theater today and Thursday.

For the second feature Shirley Mason will be seen in The Great Diamond Mystery. Here is a splendid little entertainment—something quite different from Shirley's usual sort of film, but perfectly within her talents. Denison Clift directed the picture from a story by Shannon Fife and scenario by Thomas Dixon, Jr. No expense was spared, apparently, in getting together a worthy cast, for the supporting players include such screen luminaries as Jackie Saunders, William "Buster" Collier, Jr., Harry von Meter, Hector Sarno, Philo McCullough, John Cossar and Eugenia Gilbert.

Bennie Leonard in Flying Fists and the Fox news make up the remainder of the bill.

Palace Theatre.

Five acts of vaudeville, containing a bill of all around entertainment, and a first class knockout picture composed the bill presented at the Palace theatre the first half of this week. Capacity audiences welcomed the performance.

Bee Jong, the most sensational aerial trapeze performer on the stage, appeared in an act marked with a series of clever feats and thrills, by which she does several hair raising stunts for the benefit of her audiences.

Dandy & Lawrence, two blackboys from the sunny south, display their wares with their feet in several dancing skits and novelty performance.

A little bit of Italy, transformed to the Palace stage and "Hey, what's the mat, Wop?" made a hit.

Catherine Redfield and her seven operatic stars, appear in a new novelty skit, offering to the vaudeville public their "Operalogue." In conjunction with her sketches of the best pieces in opera, a beautiful showing of elaborate scenery and costumes to bring perfect harmony is made.

What can possible be classed as one of the best acts seen in Norwich is "Sig Taba Troupe," seven artists in an "Arabian Nightmare," full of vim, pep, and packed with thrills. They are a perfect troupe of tumblers and astonish with their skill as they flip, and twirl before the footlights.

Richard Bartholmess in "Classmates," alone is worth the price of admission. In his stellar role of a shy country boy, developed into manhood by the rigid training at West Point, and along with some of the most beautiful scenes, a perfect panorama of beauty and life at West Point, make "Classmates" a wonderful production for the silver screen.

Broadway Theatre.

It's coming to the Broadway theatre the last half of this week starting tomorrow. It's a Keith Carnival of Joy, coming to tickle you with delight.

The dainty little Irish playlet, Moonlight in Killarney, is the feature special attraction. The act consists of a company of five with Thornton Flynn and Danny Barrett. Beautiful Irish landscape scenery and effects make this offering vaudeville's sweetest little Irish playlet.

Burns and West, knock-'em dead every where with their line of chatter, Laughs—and thats all and we make this definite statement by saying that they will make you laugh whether you want to or not.

And three other selected acts of Keith vaudeville on the same programme.

No less a person than Fannie Hurst the well known authoress, supplies the theme of "Daring Youth," B. F. Keith's latest attraction which will be the feature of the Broadway theatre starting tomorrow. Not only does Miss Hurst's matrimonial romance, furnish the keynote of the story but her opinions on marriage are used for some of the opening subtitles.

"Daring Youth" is what its name implies, a drama of youth braving conventions to insure happiness. This does not mean a disregard of moral conventions for the picture has been made with a careful eye towards pleasing everyone without offering the slightest offense.

Lincoln Avenue Residence Sold.

Archie W. Colt has recently sold for Wilbur H. and Susan M. Baldwin their new home on Lincoln avenue to James M. and Anna P. Morton, who purchase the property for their residence. The house, of the Dutch Colonial type reveals unusual charm, and is modern in every detail. It is one of the most beautiful homes built in Norwich for some years. The grounds, too, are attractive and there is a three car garage with servants' quarters. This makes the seventh residence on Lincoln avenue sold by the Colt agency within the last few months.

About forty gambling machines were seized in 16 to 35 Lakewood, N. J., hotels in raids made by Ocean County Sheriff Grant and four aides.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

On the eve of a semi-annual dividend period the Brooklyn Savings bank of Danielson has taken $50,000 from its profits and loss account and added it to its surplus account, which now amounts to $200,000, the highest point touched in the history of the bank, founded in 1872, in the town of Brooklyn. Announcement of the increase in surplus was made following a meeting of the trustees.

The trustees declared a semi-annual dividend at the rate of 4 1-2 per cent., per annum, payable March 1. This dividend, payable to approximately 8,800 depositors, will amount in round figures to $96,000.

The bank has had a very prosperous six months, the net earnings for the period after dividends and all expenses have been deducted amounting to $30,721.22. The net earnings of the bank in the past 12 months have been $42,000.

The deposits at the institution continue to show a steady and healthy growth. They amount at present to $4,467,344.91. At the present rate of increase the total should reach $4,500,000 within a very few weeks.

The Brooklyn Savings bank has had a remarkable growth since it located in Danielson, justifying the predictions of those who favored the change in location, and has constantly added to its strength and reserves.

In the town court Tuesday morning Judge W. Fenner Woodward imposed a fine of $200 and costs, a total of $234, on Adelard Perreault, who was arrested Sunday following the seizure of two kegs of home brew at his home on Dyer street. Two counts were filed against the accused, reputation and keeping with intent to sell. The court fined Perreault $100 on each count. He was unable to pay and was committed to the county jail at Brooklyn to work out the fine and Tuesday morning the funeral of [illegible] was held at his home in Hampton with a high mass of requiem, of which Rev. James McCarthy, M. S., assistant at St. James' church and in charge of the parish mission work in Hampton, was celebrant, at St. James' church. Numbers of relatives and friends attended the service, many of them from distant towns and cities. Burial was in St. James' cemetery. The bearers were James Fitzgerald, James Rice, James Kelley, [illegible] Murphy, Frank Coffey and [illegible] E. Kennedy was in charge of the funeral arrangements.

The final meeting of the Killingly board of relief—Edwin P. Lawrence, William J. Young and James N. Tucker—to hear claims for readjustment of assessments as filed by the board of assessors, will be held Tuesday at the board rooms in the town hall building. There has been very little for the board to do this year, other than be on hand at the stated times and to hear an occasional expression of opinion on the part of some calling taxpayer that the assessment [illegible] the grand list as certified to by the board of relief, will show few changes [illegible]

It may not be good news to the farmers, but the fact appears to be [illegible] of deer enough to [illegible] surrounding territory to annoy them by damaging crops and trees during the coming season. It is not at all unlikely that a very considerable number of deer have been killed within a few miles of Danielson since last fall. This does not seem noticeably to have reduced the numbers in any great degree, for deer are reported almost every day as being seen about fields in various sections of the town and surrounding towns.

There were rumors here Tuesday of a plan by some Providence men to establish a motor bus freight and express line between Providence and Hartford via Danielson and Willimantic, but no check-up of the story was possible here. For several years past there has been a motor truck freight service between Providence and Danielson, but the proposition talked of would indicate an intent to do business on a larger scale.

The effort to obtain additional honorary members for the fire department has brought no enthusiastic response from citizens. This to be regretted, for the honorary members are an asset to the department, which is an exceedingly efficient one, though maintained on a volunteer basis.

Mention in this column that more money is really needed by the patriotic organizations that have charge of the Memorial day observances in Danielson has directed attention of the public to a matter to which little thought has been given by anyone other than those directly concerned. Comment on the subject would indicate that the public is favorable to allowing an increased appropriation.

PUTNAM

The following letter has been sent from a large mercantile house in New York to a number of Putnam customers.

"Gentlemen:

"In reading the January 'Inland Merchant' we have just read an account of the courage, faith and indominatble energy which has characterized the merchants of your town.

"The catastrophe of a bank failure, entailing loss on persons who have given so much of their life to succeed, is probably one of the most discouraging things that can happen.

"To accidentally lose money is bad enough, but to have money misappropriated through misplaced confidence is infinitely worse; yet the reaction on the part of the business men in your town is simply superb.

To be able to collect $200,000 to start two new banks, to stage a series of sales and come-back days is ample evidence that the spirit of that great general of 77 who left his plow in the furrow, still animates those who live in the town that was named after him, and we wish to extend to you and all your business associates our sincere congratulations.

"Yours very truly,

"BUTLER BROTHERS."

The annual firemen's ball Monday evening was a success in every way. It was held at the Armory and marked the end of a quarter of a century during which the department has given a ball always on the Monday before the beginning of Lent. The proceeds of the ball are used each year to make their quarters more attractive and to help in giving the men a little diversion from their regular line of duty.

There was a concert program by Harry Sharpe's orchestra from eight to nine o'clock when the grand march formed. This was led by Assistant Chief Alphonse Dumas and Mrs. Dumas and the second couple was Charles T. Thayer, superintendent of fire alarm, and Mrs. Thayer.

The general committee in charge of the ball was: Frank Dumas, chairman; Edmond Keane, secretary; Walter A. Wheaton, treasurer; Harry Simone, Joseph Cady, Wilton Greene, Edward Benoit, Frank Baker, Arthur Dawson, Louis Beausoliel, Edgar Auger, Rosario Mayotte, Elzear Guertin, Charles A. Ryan; floor director, Philip Gagne; reception committee, Frank Dumas, Rosario Mayotte and Walter Wheaton.

H. H. Davenport, formerly state highway supervisor, has sold his beautiful 40 acre tract of land in Florida. It is situated on the Gulf of Mexico, the city of Clearwater. On acquiring this tract a year ago he gave it the name of "Pomfret on the Gulf." He sold it to the Belleair Development Company, one of the largest companies in Florida. This company runs the Bellevue hotel at Belleaire, a suburb of Clearwater, also the Griswold, below New London, Conn., and is a concern in which Mr. Davenport has an interest.

LEGISLATIURE CUTS BUSINESS SHORT BECAUSE OF GOVERNOR'S RECEPTION

Hartford, Feb. 24.—Legislative cares were laid aside by members of the general assembly this afternoon when they went from the capitol to the state library to attend the reception given by Governor John H. Trumbull who was assisted in receiving by Mrs. Trumbull and former Governor Marcus H. Holcomb.

Shortly before 2 o'clock Governor Trumbull with "Uncle" Marcus Holcomb and followed by the officers of the staff marched into the great hall of the library and took position at the far end, Mrs. Trumbull taking her place by the governor's side. The staff officers served as ushers and introductions were given by the adjutant general, George M. Cole.

Members of both branches of the assembly passed by the receiving party each being cordially greeted by the governor. Many of the members were accompanied by members of their families. The reception lasted two hours and proved to be a pleasant gathering. A buffet luncheon was served in the rotunda of the building.

Owing to the reception the house and senate held short sessions but considerable business was transacted.

SENATE

The committee on roads, bridges and rivers reported unfavorably on bills to include in the trunk line system a highway from Waterbury to Bristol, and the Blue Hills extension from the corner of Park avenue and Blue Hills avenue in Bloomfield to North Bloomfield. The reports were accepted and the bills rejected.

The committee on incorporations reported favorably on the bill for the incorporation of the College of Our Lady of Mercy in Milford. Tabled for calendar.

On the motion of Senator Smith house bill No. 158 concerning the annexation of a portion of the town of Salem to Montville be recommitted to the committee on cities and borough.

Nine Factory Inspectors

The bill increasing the number of factory inspectors to fifteen was passed after a discussion in which Senator Ford asserted that appointments of some deputy factory inspectors, not being authorized by the board of control, were illegal. He offered an amendment reducing the number in the bill. The amendment was lost and the bill passed.

The committee on banks reported favorably on the following bills: That private bankers shall not commence operations to establish a new bank, that banks and trust companies shall make returns to the banking department on or before November 1 of each year; amending the charter of the Stamford Trust company by fixing the time for holding annual meetings.

The committee on manual and roll reported favorably on a bill to provide for the printing and distribution of 15,000 copies of the state register on legislative years and on other years 12,850 copies. Calendar and printing.

Calendar

The following bills were taken from the calendar and passed: Authorizing the New England Gas Light company to increase its capital to $2,000,000 and to issue bonds to the amount of $800,000; that the number of directors of the Middlesex hospital shall not be less than sixteen nor more than 24; providing for the advertising in two daily papers published in Bridgeport or the annual meeting of the Bridgeport Ladies Charitable society; extending to November 1, 1925, the time with which the Village Water company of Simsbury may accept an amendment to its charter approved May 1, 1923; fixing the penalty at $25 a month for failure to comply with the requirements relating to the boarding out of children; authorizing the release of girls from institutions on parole; extending to January, 1927, the time for organizing the Title Guaranty and Abstract company.

The senate adjourned to Wednesday at 11.25 a. m.

THE HOUSE

Speaker Darbie called the house to order at 11.30 this morning and Chaplain Lewis in his prayer asked for the inspiration of George Washington for the legislators. Unfavorable reports and rejected bills from the senate were concurred in.

Favorable report was received from the committee on cities and boroughs on House bill No. 56 amending the charter of the city of Hartford, providing for an amendment to chapter 30 of the public acts of 1921, providing for a department of finance consisting of the mayor, the treasurer, controller and six electors; not more than three electors of same politics party; two shall be aldermen of different parties. The bill was tabled for calendar and printing.

The bill amending the charter of the city of Hartford concerning the high school committee was passed.

Reports from the committee on incorporation were favorable on the following bills: No. 332, extending to until next general assembly time for organizing Glastonbury Gas company; No. 384, providing authority for the United Illuminating company to distribute electricity in certain part of the towns of Trumbull and Easton; No. 378, providing for increase of capital stock of the Torrington Electric Light company to an amount not exceeding $2,000,000; No. 26 authorizing Bristol and Plainville Electric company to change par value of stock. Tabled for calendar and printing.

Mr. Johnson of Manchester in the speaker's chair. Bills taken from the calendar and passed were:

Extending time to January, 1927, for organization of Rosemary Hall, Inc., of Greenwich; amending charter of Griffen hospital of Derby to provide life memberships and providing for from 12 to 36 directors; amending charter of Water Witch Hose company No. 2 of New Milford to authorize membership not exceeding 250 and property holdings up to $50,000; authorizing East Haddam Free Public Library and Reading Room association, Inc., to hold property to value of $50,000; authorizing New Britain Trust company to increase capital at any time with approval of stockholders and trustees to any amount approved by the bank commissioner; authorizing Connecticut Agricultural College to exchange land with town of Mansfield; permitting United Workers of New Haven to hold property to value of $250,000; validating increase of capital stock of Hatch & Bailey Co. to $250,000 and authorizing that company to issue stock up to $500,000 and to issue stock of no par value; providing that state may take out administration of estate of a state charge when the estate does not exceed $300; providing two judges for town court of West Haven at salaries of $1,500 a year each; authorizing highway commissioner to appoint special counsel for his department; extending to January 1, 1926, time during which Greenwich Country club may accept amendment to its charter.

Concurrence was voted with the senate on the joint resolution raising a joint committee of one senator and two representatives to investigate the joint rules of the senate and house concerning legislative committees and legislative procedure, to report by April 21, 1925. Speaker Darbie appointed Mr. Alling of New Britain and Mr. Averill of Branford as house members of the committee.

The speaker today called for reports from committee chairmen as to the state of business before the committee. The judiciary committee which had 450 bills—exclusive of resolutions—referred to it has had 100 hearings and expects to finish by April 10. Most of the other committees which have an amount of bills expect to conclude hearings by the middle of March. The committee which reported no bills referred to them were: Capitol furniture and grounds, excise, legislative expenses, new towns and probate districts, rules, sales of lands, school fund, state prison, unfinished business, woman suffrage.

House bill No. 108 concerning salaries of state officers, which had been referred to the judiciary committee, was not of the kind of salaries that committee has to deal with and a change of reference was made today to the committee on appropriations.

The house adjourned at 12.20 until Wednesday at 11.30 a. m.

LEGION EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE DISCUSSES MEMBERSHIP DRIVE

Members of the executive committee of Robert O. Fletcher post, No. 4, American Legion, met for their monthly meeting at the Wauregan hotel and after a dinner the meeting was opened by Commander Webster D. Comp and Adjutant Jonathan L. Johnson, read the minutes of the preceding meeting. Plans were discussed relative to the membership drive which is to start in April and suggestions were made relative to the work of the service committee, giving this committee more power.

The meeting also went on record as favoring the community chest and voted to recommend that the post take similar action on this matter, which will greatly reduce the number of drives for funds put on in Norwich yearly.

Other business of routine nature was conducted, following which adjournment took place at 9.30 o'clock.

WEDDING.

Pierson-Pearson.

At 3 o'clock Tuesday afternoon at the Swedish Lutheran church, Hickory and Golden street, Walter L. Pierson, of No. 32 Fifth street and Miss Elsie E. Pearson of No. 606 North Main street, were united in marriage by Rev. H. L. Johnson, of Bristol, a former pastor of the church. The bridal party entered the church to the music of the bridal chorus from Lohengrin. There were two flower girls, Miss Irene Ellison, cousin of the groom, and Miss Carol Pearson, a sister of the bride. The bridesmaid was Miss Dorothy Pearson, a sister of the bride, and the best man was Elmer Pierson, brother of the groom. The bride was given away by her father.

The bride was charmingly gowned in white flat crepe and wore a veil caught up with orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of roses and sweet peas. Her bridesmaid wore a Hindu flat crepe gown and carried Ophelia roses. Mendelssohn's Wedding March was played and during the ceremony To a Wild Rose was played by Mrs. Carl O. Johnson,who presided at the organ.

Following the wedding ceremony there was a dinner at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Pearson, No. 606 North Main street. Over 50 guests were present and the house was prettily decorated with ferns, palms and cut flowers. The bride received many beautiful gifts, including money, cut glass, silver, linen and china. The groom's gift to the bride was a string of pearls, and the bride's gift to the groom was a platinum stickpin. The flower girls were presented gold bracelets. The bride presented the bridesmaid a Bible and the groom presented the best man a Bible. The ushers were Richard Pearson and Arthur Ellison.

During the early evening the bride and groom left or a wedding trip to New York city and other places. On their return they will make their home with the groom's parents.

Mr. Pierson is a native of Norwich and is the son of Olga T. and the late Oscar V. Pierson. He has resided with his mother at No. 32 Fifth street and is employed by the Norwich Belt company, in Greeneville. His bride is the daughter of Charles W., and Hildur Berggren Pearson and was born in Norwich. She graduated from the Norwich Free Academy in the class of 1920 and has been employed as a stenographer. Both bride and groom are well known and popular with their many friends who extend to them best wishes for a happy and prosperous future.

Abeles-Shereshevsky.

A quiet home wedding, with relatives and a few intimate friends as guests, took place Tuesday evening, when Otto J. Abeles of New York city and Miss Mary Shereshevsky of 7 Aqueduck street, were married at the home of the bride's uncle, David Shereshevsky, 54 Asylum street. The ceremony was performed at 8 o'clock by Rabbi Samuel Jacobson, the bridal party entering the parlor as the wedding march was played by Miss Esther Shereshevsky, piano, and Miss Miriam Shereshevsky, violin. The bride was given away by her father, Moses Shereshevsky, and the groom was attended by Herman S. Sears.

The bride was becomingly gowned in white crepe de chine, trimmed with chantilly lace, and carried a shower bouquet of white roses. The house was attractively decorated with flowering plants and palms and a wedding supper was served after the ceremony. The bride received a large number of beautiful gifts.

After a honeymoon trip to Lakewood, N. J. and Atlantic City, the bridal couple are to reside in New York city where the groom is in business.

PRESTON ANNEXATION AND SHANTOK PARK BILLS FOR HEARINGS TODAY

(Special to the Bulletin)

Hartford, Feb. 24—Several bills of interest to Norwich people and other residents of eastern Connecticut are scheduled for hearing Wednesday before the committees of the legislature. The bill concerning the annexation of a part of the town of Preston to the town of Norwich is scheduled for tomorrow. However, it is understood that as a result of a conference of the town officials of the two towns held this week, the bill is to be withdrawn.

Another bill that is of especial interest to eastern Connecticut is the bill making an appropriation for the Fort Shantok Park in Montville, which will be up for hearing before the committee on State Parks and Reservations. A number of Norwich people will speak in favor of the bill as will several from Montville, in an effort to preserve this historic spot which is so full of Indian lore. Those who will be present at the hearing are Arthur L. Peale, Henry G. Peck, H. M. Lerou, Francis Gilman, Mrs. George A. Ashbey, regent of the D. A. R., and others from Norwich and Montville, who will represent historical societies.

The committee on roads, bridges and rivers will devote attention to the consideration of bills relative to motor vehicle legislation. The labor committee will also hold a session regarding the regulation of working hours for women and children. The finance committee will hold hearings on several bills relative to inheritance and other taxes.

MRS. MINER'S BIRTHDAY OBSERVED ON HOLIDAY

Washington's birthday was quietly celebrated at the home of Wellington Miner on Vergason avenue when in honor of Mrs. Miner's birthday a few guests, with the Birthday club, were entertained at a turkey dinner. The menu consisted of tomato soup, baked turkey with stuffing, brown gravy, mashed potato, mashed turnip, creamed carrots, pickles, white bread, raisin bread, apple pie and ice cream. The table was prettily decorated in red, white and blue, with a centerpiece of little flags. The favors were little white hats with banner shaped rims of red, white and blue, filled with mixed candies. Place cards were laid for Mr. and Mrs. John Sherman and the former's mother, Mrs. Gay, Mrs. Frank Wheeler and daughter, all of Norwich, Mrs. William White of Lebanon. Mrs. George Peck, one of the club members, was unable to attend on account of sickness. The day passed very pleasantly and after partaking of a delicious supper the guests departed wishing the hostess many happy returns of the day. Mrs. Miner was the recipient of many very pretty useful gifts.

DISCUSS ENTERTAINMENT FOR CAST OF BIMBO

In charge of General Chairman Harold T. Robinson, members of the committee of Robert O. Fletcher Post, No. 4, American Legion, in charge of arranging for the show Bimbo, met Tuesday evening at the Wauregan House, to discuss plans for an entertainment for the cast which aided materially in making the show a success.

It was voted that Harry W. House and Warren Wilcox be named the committee in charge of sending out invitations to the members of the cast, following a report from John A. Cunningham and William A. Anderson, as to when and where the entertainment will take place. It is expected that over 100 members of the cast will be entertained at this party and after a dinner, dancing will be enjoyed.

It was also voted that a prize be awarded to the girl who sold the most tickets for the play, as has been customary in Legion plays heretofore.

Gave Musical Programme at Hospital.

The patients and staff at the William W. Backus hospital were entertained Sunday afternoon by Thumm's orchestra of six pieces, assisted by the Misses Frieda Phillips and Margaret Seidel, pianists, who rendered several piano solos and duets which were greatly enjoyed. The orchestral numbers were of unusual merit and the selections played were the latest numbers. The concert was from 3 until 4 o'clock and the hospital authorities expressed their appreciation of the kindness shown by the members of the orchestra in the giving of the delightful musical entertainment.

Members of the orchestra were: Fred Thumm, piano; Roy Grover, drums; Chet Parker, banjo; Fred Freeman, saxophone; Ray Wood, trumpet; David Lyon, violin.

A Correction

A typographical error that substituted "ten" for "two" made it appear that Miss Caroline B. Scarlett of 46 Grove street who celebrated her 90th birthday Monday had resided for ten years in the house now occupied by H. W. Gallup. Two years of her residence in Norwich have been in that house and 68 years in her present home.

INCIDENTS IN SOCIETY

Tuesday afternoon Mrs. Samuel E. Smiley of Slater avenue entertained with three tables of bridge.

OFFICERS ELECTED BY HEBREW BENEVOLENCE ASS'N

A meeting of the board of directors of the Norwich Hebrew Benevolence Association was held Tuesday evening at the residence of Alexander M. Pasnik, 79 Williams street. The meeting was well attended and the following officers were elected for the ensuing year:

President, Abner Schwartz; vice president, Morris Sussman; association treasurer, Samuel Taylor; endowment treasurer, Rev. Max Stamm; secretary, Alexander H. Manes.

Mr. Pasnik was chosen song leader for the evening and as song leader and host his efforts will long be remembered.

The meeting got underway with a spirited address on Social Organization delivered by the president, Abner Schwartz, whose address was followed by a very interesting lecture by Rabbi Stamm on the peaceful objects to be attained by the Palestine Restoration fund and organization, otherwise known as the Keren Hayesod. Samuel Taylor also addressed the meeting upon the Palestine Restoration fund, his remarks being greeted with great applause. The next speaker, Morris Sussman, delivered an interesting address on the subject of Good Fellowship and Good American Citizenship.

Refreshments were served by the host in bachelor form as Mrs. Pasnik was out of town and adjournment was taken after the singing of the Star Spangled Banner.

EVENING OF WHIST BY A. O. H. AUXILIARY

A successful evening of whist, with 23 tables playing, was conducted at the Buckingham Memorial Tuesday evening by Division No. 18, A. O. H., Ladies Auxiliary, the attendance making this the largest of their series.

The attractive prizes went to the following: Ladies, first, Mrs. P. Dufresne, 39, pair of candlesticks; second, Miss McManus, 37, berry dish; consolation, Mrs. J. Moore, 10; gentlemen, first, Edward Sullivan, 47, billfold containing a dollar; second, Mr. Dingivan, 46, linen handkerchiefs; consolation, Mr. Throw, 11. J. F. Donohue became the fortunate possessor of the prize cake.

The arrangements were carried out by the committee, Miss Ann Edwards, Mrs. M. E. McCormick and Mrs. Ellen Callahan.

ENJOYABLE DANCE BY HEBREW YOUNG WOMEN

Over 125 couples enjoyed the informal dance given by the Young Women's Hebrew association at the Wauregan House ballroom Tuesday evening. The music was furnished by Thumm's orchestra and the selections rendered were most recent numbers, meeting with the approval of the many dancers. The proceeds of the dance are to be used for association purposes and the patronage was from cities other than Norwich, including friends from New London, Willimantic, Hartford and Colchester.

The committee in charge of the dance, which was one of the most successful held by the association in many months, comprised the Misses Ida Fishken, Betty A. Smotrich and Pauline Abramson.

INSTANTLY KILLED BY BURSTING CIRCULAR SAW

(Special to the Bulletin)

Somers, Conn., Feb. 24—Wilbur Holmes, aged 66 years, who lived in this place was instantly killed late on Saturday afternoon when a circular saw, with which he was cutting wood, broke and struck him. Holmes and a friend were using the saw, which was mounted on the back of an automobile truck, when the blades suddenly gave way and flew from the apparatus, striking Holmes and killing him instantly.

He was born in West Stafford, but had lived in Somers many years. He leaves his wife, a son, Henry and five daughters, Mrs. Paul Cody of Thompsonville, Mrs. Fred Worthington, Mrs. Everett Kibbe, Mrs. Joseph Thompson and Miss Grace Holmes, all of Somers.

GAVE WASHINGTON PARTY FOR COLLINSVILLE GUEST

Over twenty couples attended the Washington Birthday party given by Miss Gertrude Hathaway, at her home on Ward street, Tuesday evening, in honor of Miss Vivian Demmons of Collinsville, Mass.

The house was most attractively decorated in holiday colors of red, white and blue and the tables were also decorated in the national colors, making a most attractive setting for the party. During the evening several guests entertained with vocal selections and dancing was also enjoyed. Later in the evening a buffet luncheon was served by the hostess, assisted by friends.

GAVE KITCHEN SHOWER FOR MISS HAGGERTY

Some twenty-five friends of Miss Alicia Haggerty gave a kitchen shower for her Tuesday evening at the home of Miss Mary Butler on Elm avenue, Norwich Town. Miss Haggerty is soon to be married to Albert VanWagenen, Jr. The bride-to-be received many gifts from her friends.

During the evening various games were played and there were instrumental and vocal selections by guests. Dainty refreshments were served later in the evening. The house was tastefully decorated in holiday colors in honor of the occasion, red, white and blue, being used as the color scheme throughout the house.

Following the Giants.

Edward G. Hannis of New York, a former resident of this city, has favored Norwich friends with postal cards from Sarasota, Florida, where he will remain during the training season of the New York Giants and follow along with them as they come north when the training season is over.

Dance by G. & E. Employes

An enjoyable dance was given Tuesday evening at Odd Fellows hall under the auspices of employes of the gas and electric department.

NORWICH, CONN.

Connecticut College

Tuesday evening the first of the series of basketball games was played, the opening game being between the freshman and sophomore second teams, the second between the senior and junior first teams.

The gymnasium was densely crowded, each of the classes occupying special sections of the gymnasium.

Just before the teams came on the floor as the class banners of '25, '26 and '27 were being brought forward, the huge new buff and blue banner of '28 was unrolled amid deafening cheers and thunderous applause. Cheers for '28 then followed and after that

NORWICH WILL HAVE BASEBALL TEAM OF BIG LEAGUE CALIBER THIS SEASON

Norwich is to have the best baseball in its history as a baseball town this season according to William L. Derby of Boston, for a number of years manager of semi-professional ball clubs. Mr. Derby in conference with Edwin V. Ross, signed a lease of the Norwich Fairgrounds Tuesday afternoon and will immediately begin his plans for putting on real major league baseball in Norwich every Sunday.

Mr. Derby, with several years of professional and semi-professional baseball in back of him, has picked out Norwich as the best city for such a venture in Connecticut and thinks that it will go big here this season. According to his present plans he expects to open his season about Memorial day or the first Sunday in June. The first game will be played against some major league outfit and he has already booked several of the big league organizations for games during the summer. Mr. Derby is well known to big league baseball managers and for several years has booked teams from the big leagues to play against this team which is always on a par with the big timers. As Sunday ball is not legalized in the Bay State the Braves and Red Sox have open dates nearly every Sunday during the summer when they are at home, so that they or their opponents can be brought to Norwich.

As to his own team Mr. Derby said that he had been in communication with several former big leaguers and well known minor leaguers and has several players of national reputation on his roster. He said that he was not able to give out his entire lineup at the present time but said that one former Red Sox player had already signed a contract. This player is Harold Janvrin who was a member of the world's champion Red Sox team in 1916. Janvrin although 31 is still fast and playing exceptionally fast baseball.

A renovation of the field where the games are to be played will be the first necessary step after the signing of the lease for the use of the fairgrounds, Manager Derby plans to erect bleachers which will sit between 6,000 and 7,000 persons and with cooperation from Norwich fans, he will extend himself to the point where the best possible baseball will be seen in Norwich. A rearrangement of the diamond will be necessary and several other minor details.

The history of Manager Derby's activities on the diamond is interesting. He played and managed various professional baseball teams in all parts of the country. In 1922 he managed the Providence Braves, and during his career as manager of independent baseball teams has produced teams that have won many victories over major league towns.

Manager Derby leaves for Boston Wednesday and will further matters by finishing up minor details.

AGGIE FRESHMEN TO CLASH WITH BROWN TONIGHT

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Storrs, Feb. 24.—Following a week and a half of inactivity, the Connecticut Aggie freshmen quintet will swing into action again tomorrow night when they meet the fast Brown freshmen team on the Hawley Armory surface at Storrs.

The loss of Williams, former Killingly High athlete, as a result of scholastic difficulties has weakened the Aggie yearlings, and Coach Alexander has been forced to shift his men about in an effort to rebuild a smooth working combination. Eddy has been moved from right forward to center to fill the gap left by the loss of Williams, and Watson will be given the opportunity to team up with Captain Hadley in the fore court. Watson formerly played with the Weaver High team of Hartford. He is being brought up from the second team, and he will have the opportunity to demonstrate what he can do tomorrow.

The Brown Cubs come to Storrs tomorrow with a good record for the season to date, having won seven of eight contests played. A win over Dartmouth Freshmen at Providence is perhaps the best piece of work turned out by the Brown yearlings, though they also have a couple of victories of the M. I. T. freshmen, Worcester Academy, and other strong fives to their credit. Dean Academy is the only team that has tripped the Brown five to date, and coming as it did when three Brown regulars were out, it cannot be considered a fair test of the real value of the team.

Of added interest in this contest is the fact that it will see a "brother against brother" clash when the two teams take the floor. "Hymie" Heller, former Windham High athlete and now playing left guard for the Aggies, will line up against his brother who will start at right forward for the Brown yearlings.

BULKELEY PLAYS TWO HOME GAMES THIS WEEK

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, Feb. 24.—With five straight victories under her conquest belt, Bulkeley is preparing for one of her most strenuous weeks of basketball campaigning when the Orange and Black five will probably play twice in town. A game is tentatively scheduled with Plainfield High for Thursday afternoon, this game being originally set for Friday night at the Y. M. C. A. But due to the strenuous game on the following day (Saturday) with Leominster High from Massachusetts, the game with Plainfield has been cancelled and an effort is being made to have the two teams meet on Thursday afternoon.

With Leominster High as an attraction on Saturday, one of the best court games of the year is expected to materialize.

SUB BASE TO TACKLE COAST GUARD FIVE AGAIN

(Special to the Bulletin)

New London, Feb. 24—The Submarine Base basketball team will make a strong attempt to regain its lost championship of the city, meeting its previous masters in a game scheduled at the Y. M. C. A. this Saturday. The team to oppose the Sub Base is the U. S. Coast Guard Cadets and the city title will be at stake. So far this season, which has reached over the half way mark, the Sub Base has gained the majority of the games played. Nine games are won and five lost, but in that five which were lost some important games were dropped.

The subs are behind in the race for the city championship, which is although mythical is nevertheless convincing in the games won and lost by the two leading contenders for this honor. The Coast Guard Cadets have yet to lose a game this season, and they will seal the doom of the subs if they are the victors in the determining contest on Saturday. The victory over the Newport Training Station on Friday has gained an even break for the Sub Base in the race for the Eastern Service title quest.

At present the team is enjoying its most successful campaign winning in and out of town with a marked frequency. A formidable array of basketball talent is rounding into shape for the several important games which will appear on the Sub Base card. A string of victories which has reached five straight is the best winning effort the Sub Base has attained in all her weeks of hard campaigning.

Among the Sub Base victims, the reader will recognize teams with good talent have gone down for the final count. On the other hand, the teams to cause the subs the most trouble were the fives representing Taftville and Plainfield. These reverses were unlooked for at the time they were administered to the subs. The defeat suffered at the hands of Taftville was the second game of the season and the reverse at the hands of Plainfield was the third game of the year. Since that time the playing of the Navy players has improved with every succeeding game.

In the total points scored, the Sub Base leads its opponents by a margin of 51 points. Two victories nearing the half century mark are partly responsible for the large difference in the scoring.

The season record to date:

Sub Base		Opponents
36	Westerly Cycle Club	16
18	Army-Navy—Taftville	28
19	Plainfield	33
20	U. S. Coast Guard	21
18	Colchester	28
47	Newport Torpedo Station	17
36	Army	24
24	Hudson A. C.-New Haven	23

JEAKLE OUTPOINTS LEE IN ELIMINATION BOUT

New York, Feb. 24.—K. O. Clyde Jeakle, of Toledo tonight outpointed Georgie (Kid) Lee, of Worcester, Mass., in one of the first round matches in the New York state athletic commission's tournament for the lightweigth title.

Jeakle, making his first appearance in New York proved a furious battler, pummeling his opponent's body throughout and interspersing a right handed uppercut that slashed Lee's face. Although both men were fighting hard at the end, the Worcester boxer had taken a severe drubbing and there was no question about the decision.

Jeakle's victory puts him in line with Jimmy Goodrich of Buffalo, Tommy O'Brien of Milwaukee, Eddie (Kid) Wagner of Philadelphia and Joe Benjamin of the Pacific coast, three of whom won their ten-round bouts yesterday. Wagner, although the decision went against him, remains in the tournament by verdict of the commission.

Jeakle weighed 134 and Lee 135 1-2.

CHAPMAN-PRATT GAME TO BE PLAYED THIS EVENING

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, Feb. 24.—Chapman Technical High's game with Pratt High to be played at Essex on this evening was originally set for Wednesday night and will be played at that town on Wednesday night instead of tonight as previously stated. The team will leave from the school building at 6 o'clock by automobile.

It will be the second meeting between the teams, and the Tech five is expected to break the bad spell which has been following the five in its past games. To date the Red and Black has lost five straight games, and unless a victory is forthcoming in the game tomorrow night it is most likely that the string of defeats will reach seven straight for Bridgeport High is the next on the schedule.

LARGE NUMBER OF COLLEGE TEAMS IN I. C. A. A. A. MEET

New York, Feb. 24.—Twenty-two college teams, two less than last year, will compete in the fourth annual I. C. A. A. A. indoor track and field meet at the 102nd Engineers armory, Saturday, March 7. Eight hundred and twenty entries from the 22 colleges had been received when the lists closed today.

Following are the colleges which will send athletes to the games: Boston College, Brown, Colby, C. C. N. Y., Columbia, Cornell, Dartmouth, Fordham, Georgetown, Harvard, Holy Cross, Lafayette, Maine, U. I. T., N. Y. U., Pennsylvania, Penn State, Princeton, Rutgers, Syracuse, Williams and Yale.

Amherst, Bates and Bowdoin will not be represented this year.

CASE AGAINST RITOLA IS DROPPED BY A. A. U.

New York, Feb. 24—The case against Willie Ritola, growing out of the failure of the Finnish-American distance star to appear yesterday at the American Legion games in Boston has been closed with Ritola still in good standing.

Lafay Beats Travers

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 24.—Frankie Lafay, of Troy, was awarded the decision over Mickey Travers of New Haven, Conn., in a slow 12-round bout here tonight. Lafay weighed 133 1-2, Travers 133 1-4.

RAY SMASHES HIS OWN RECORD FOR THE 1,000 METER DISTANCE

New York, Feb. 24—(By the A. P.)—Joie Ray, veteran little distance star of the Illinois Athletic club, established a world's indoor record of 2:29 3-5 seconds tonight for 1,000 meters in conquering Willie Goodwin of the New York A. C., in a race at this distance featuring the meet for the benefit of the Cathedral of St. John the Divine at Madison Square Garden.

Ray broke the tape ten yards in front of Goodwin, with Walter Gegan of Georgetown university, the only other starter third, 15 yards further back.

Gegan set the pace for the first two laps, when Ray took command and won as he pleased. His time for the distance, which had not been raced indoors before, was only a second behind the outdoor record held by Sven Lundgren of Sweden.

Carl Christiernson, blond timber topper of the Newark A. C., leaped to a close triumph in the seventy yard high hurdles over B. T. Elliott, of Princeton, and Herb Meyer, also of the Newark A. C., who were second and third in a blanket finish. Christiernson's time of 9 seconds flat, was two-fifths of a second behind his own world indoor mark.

Gerald Murchison, of the Newark A. C. a younger brother of Loren Murchison, indoor sprint king, reached the finals of the sixty yard handicap but finished fourth and last in the deciding heat, which was won by Eugene Dwyer of Brooklyn.

Willie Plant hung up a decisive victory in the one mile handicap walk, overcoming allowances of from 15 to 30 seconds conceded to his opponents, but failing by five and two fifths seconds to equal the world's record held by George Goulding of Canada. Plant's time was 6:33 2-5. Mick Weiss and Charles Eschenbach, two local rivals, were second and third respectively.

Lafayette College's medley relay quartet took the measure of three rivals over the one mile and seven eighths route, due to a fine anchor mile by Boettcher. Fordham was second, Union third and New York University, fourth. The time was 7:56 3-5.

Paavo Nurmi raced virtually alone and unmolested to a colorless two-mile triumph tonight, but failed to endanger any world's indoor records in an event which was an anti-climax to a sensational race by Willie Ritola, who shattered his own word's marks for three miles and 5,000 meters.

WAGNER IS RESTORED IN LIGHTWEIGHT TOURNEY

New York, Feb. 24—(By the A. P.)—Eddie (Kid) Wagner, Philadelphia, was restored to the lightweight championship tournament today by the state athletic commission, which ruled that he was the victim of an unjustified decision last night when he was declared the loser in a 12-round bout with Jimmy Goodrich, Buffalo, in the opening title competition.

The commission also announced that Jack Bernstein, Yonkers, N. Y., had decided to remain in the tournament and would take on Basil Galiano, of New Orleans, Saturday night in a first round match.

Inasmuch as no report on the condition of Tommy O'Brien's right hand, reported broken in the Milwaukee man's victory over George (K. O.) Chaney of Baltimore last night, was received by the commission, he is considered as officially remaining in the tournament.

This announcement was made by Commissioner William M. Muldoon, speaking for Chairman George E. Brower, who was unable to attend today's meeting because of illness. Muldoon, who was the only member of the board at the fight, claimed Wagner was the victim of an unjustified decision and for this reason would be included in the draw for the second round of the tournament.

A survey of the ballots revealed that at the termination of the tenth round, Referee Jack O'Sullivan voted in favor of Wagner while the two judges agreed on a draw. The judges' verdict nullified the referee's vote and the fight was continued for two more rounds, after which it was announced that Goodrich was the winner. In the final verdict, both judges voted for Goodrich, while the referee declared for a draw.

Jack Bernstein, of Yonkers, N. Y., announced he was physically fit to compete in the tournament. He is matched with Basil Galiano of New Orleans, Saturday night. Cuddy De Marco of Pittsburgh, who was named originally as an alternate but elevated as a regular when it appeared that Bernstein would not be able to compete, was relegated to an alternate's position again.

The commission announced that the challenges of Tom Gibbons and Harry Wills for Jack Dempsey's title, would not be acted upon until next Tuesday.

ADVANCE GUARD OF BRAVES OFF FOR SOUTH

Boston, Feb. 24.—The advance guard of Boston's major league baseball teams, consisting of five pitchers and catchers of the Boston Braves, in charge of Coach Dick Rudolph, left here tonight for St. Petersburg, Fla., Here the National Leaguers will undergo their spring training this year in preparation for the opening of the season with the Giants here on April 14.

Three recruit pitchers, Ike Kamp, Joe Batchelder and George Hartsgrove, and two catchers, Edward Cousineau and Edward Phillips, make up the group that will become larger as regulars and newcomers join the party along the route to St. Petersburg. Jim Cooney, star southpaw, boarded the train at Providence, R. I., and Pitchers McNamara, Van Brunt, Greenwich and Ogrodowski were scheduled to get on board in New York. Manager Dave Bancroft and Emil Fuchs, vice president of the club, will meet the party on arrival at St. Petersburg Thursday evening. The remainder of the battery squad will make their way independently to the training camp to report for practice by March 1. The second squad, composed of infielders and outfielders, is due to report at St. Petersburg on March 5.

Delaney and Stribling met in a no-decision bout recently with Stribling winning the newspaper decision.

Tremaine Beats Martin

WILLIMANTIC

There was an attendance of over 300 at the old fashioned dance given Tuesday evening in the town hall by Natchaug lodge, No. 22, Knights of Pythias. The general director of the affair was O. P. Smith; aides, Fred K. Manley, Louis B. Wilson, Wayne L. Storrs, Harold James, Samuel S. Anthony, George Rouillard and William Mann. The committee of arrangements was O. D. Leach, chairman; W. A. King, treasurer; Edmund Peckham, secretary, M. M. King and Ralph Gates. The dance opened with a grand march at 9 led by Director Mr. and Mrs. O. P. Smith. The decorations were American flags, Japanese lanterns and parasols.

A group of three one-act plays was given by members of the dramatic club in the Little theatre at the Normal school Tuesday evening under the direction of Miss Helen Dempsey, '25. The first of the plays was The Maker of Dreams by Oliphant Down, with Roselle LaFrance, as the manufacturer; Rita Kelley as Pierrot and Esther Coma as the lovable Pierrette. The second was Rocking Chair, a comedy of three gossips, by Alfred Khremberg. Florence Peckham was excellently cast as Mrs. Alms, Rachel Grant as Mrs. Boyle and Mildred Johnson as Mrs. Berry. Christopher Morley's Rehearsals was the last and perhaps the most skilfully handled. The parts were well taken as follows: Freda, the director, Jaska Manning; Christine, Geraldynn Walsh; Barbara, Mae Bothom; Gertrude, Sally Robinson; Sonia, Florence Fenton and Marjorie, the property manager, Dorothy Sullivan. The audience received the plays with a great deal of enthusiasm.

Over 150 attended the benefit dance given Tuesday evening by Willimantic Women's club arranged by the committee on ways and means, under the chairmanship of Mrs. Lottie Clarke.

A very successful whist party was held Tuesday evening in Labor Union hall by the Ancient Order of United Workmen, No. 11. The committee in charge comprised James Lynch, Jr., chairman; Mrs. Loretta Costello, Miss Gladys Hanson, Ethel Simonds and Miss Alice Hanson. First prizes went to Mrs. D. J. Clarke and Mamie Telage, second, Mrs. Andrew Carey and Andrew Carey and third to Mrs. Mary Sullivan and Merton Waterman. Lunch was served by Mrs. Costello assisted by Mrs. Jennie Randall, Miss Gladys Hanson, Miss Ethel Simonds.

Mrs. K. Leffingwell entertained the Grenfell society at her home in Windham Tuesday afternoon.

ALLOWANCE ORDERED TO WIDOW OF CAPT. LENNEN

A payment of $1,000 to Mrs. Helen F. Lennen, 75, widow of Capt. James Lennen who left an estate of nearly $600,000, is to be made, according to an order passed by Judge Nelson J. Ayling of the probate court, and she is to be further paid $400 monthly by the executors of the Lennen will. The payment of $1,000 is to cover an allowance from Dec. 14, the date of Capt. Lennen's death, to Feb. 23, the date of the hearing before Judge Ayling. The monthly payments will be made until further order from the court. Mrs. Lennen petitioned for an allowance of $1,000 per month during the settlement of the estate.

New Christ Church Rector.

Rev. C. Montgomery Budlong, the new rector of Christ Episcopal church, will conduct the Ash Wednesday services, beginning his rectorship with the church as Lent opens.

MORE RECORDS ARE BROKEN BY MERMAIDS

Miami, Fla., Feb. 24—World's records for women for the 400, 500 and 600 relay swims and the 130 yard free-style swim were broken here today in the first water program in a seven day series.

Gertrude Ederle, Aileen Riggin, Adelaide Lambert, Helen Wainwright, Doris O'Mara, and Ethel McGary smashed the old records set last year at New Haven, Conn., for the 400, the 500 and the 600 yard relay swim.

The new record for 400 yards was 4:28 4-5, against the old time of 4.32 4-5. The new 500 yard record set was 5.30 against 5.40 4-5. The 600 yards were made in 6.37 4-5 compared with 6.49 2-5.

Ethel Lackie won the greatest individual honors of the first day's swim, making the distance in 1.18 1-5. Two weeks ago at St. Augustine, Adelaide Lambert set a mark of 1.25.

NEW LONDON SHIP & ENGINE CO. TO LAUNCH TWO SUBMARINES

At 12 o'clock tomorrow the New London Ship and Engine Company is to launch a couple of submarines that have been in course of construction for the Peruvian government several months. They are of the R type and are numbered 1 and 2. The ship and Engine company management has invited guests to be present to witness the baptism of the boats that are to go far and serve the Peruvian government. Miss Isabel Legua, daughter of the Peruvian president, will be the sponsor for No. 1 and Mrs. Clark H. Woodward for the second boat. In the official launching party will be Miss Legua, Mrs. Carmen Rosa Lebula, a married daughter of the Peruvian president, Mrs. Clark H. Woodward, the wife of Admiral Woodward, chief of the naval mission to Peru and the acting chief of staff, Dr. Santiago F. Debeye, first secretary of the Peruvian legation at Washington, and Commander and Mrs. Louis Ambry. The launching party will leave the pier of the New London Ship and Engine company at 11:45 tomorrow forenoon to arrive at the yard at 12 o'clock and take part in the ceremony.

John Davidson had a number of associates, Monday evening, and today they were in the police court to answer. some of them for fighting and others for over-indulgence in the sort of stuff that goes for whiskey. There were a dozen men under charges when the court convened, but four of them sailors, were turned over to an officer from the submarine base that they might be disciplined there instead of in the court. A quartette of Poles and French Canadians were at the restaurant of Andrew Mikel at 137 North Bank street and there they made such a disturbance that the police were called. The officers found the gang slinging in pairs and committing a breach of the peace. They were all arrested as was Mikel for having liquor in his possession. There were two quarts of liquor known as white mule, because it has the "kick" in it. Mikel was fined $100 and sentenced to jail for 30 days, but Judge Prince later relented and suspended the sentence to serve a month in prison. The brawlers were fined $5. All of them paid, reducing their bank accounts to a considerable degree. Joe Wilson, a fellow who is building up a reputation as a law violator, was fined $10 for intoxication. He went to a pool room where he got into an altercation with the proprietor, and being drunk he was most abusive and hurled language at the pool room man that led him to call the police. Wilson denied that he had drunk any liquor in a week, but the police officers were positive that he was good and drunk. He said he was at work at New Haven now, but that he was formerly in the railroad service here. He begged for another chance, but was told that he had experienced that treatment quite as frequently as he was entitled to it and then he was fined $10 with costs attached. Robert Munn came up from New Haven with a load he could not carry even on a train. The conductor called for his arrest when the train arrived and he was taken into custody. He was taxed $10 for his fun. He called it fun. D. Denbroski and James Wawchuk became involved in a row and were arrested. They couldn't tell much about it and the facts did not seem to warrant severe punishment so the court allowed the complaint to be nolled on the payment of costs. A couple of other brawlers were accused, but they appeared with attorney and he secured a continuance for a month.

Edwin B. Wheeler has moved from 218 Montauk avenue to Pequot avenue. Mr. Wheeler is employed by the Electric Boat Co., Groton.

Another insurance agent is missing from this vicinity for this forenoon Mrs. David Crotty of Montville, made it known that her husband was missing from home and requested that she be given assistance in locating him, when she reported to the New London police that Crotty disappeared mysteriously last Friday. Crotty is employed by the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co., and had been located at Hope Valley, R. I. Mrs. Crotty declared that last Friday afternoon her husband operated his automobile to Montville, delivering Mrs. Crotty there and since that time she has not seen nor heard from him. Mrs. Crotty could not account for her husband's sudden disappearance.

Mrs. Crotty communicated with the police by telephone at 8:30 o'clock today from Montville, stating that her husband returned home this evening, but she did not explain the cause of his absence.

Mrs. Ouere Wyant, 26, wife of Daniel Wyant, and residing on a houseboat in Shaw's Cove, died early this morning at Home Memorial hospital, in which institution she had been a patient but a day. Besides her husband, Mrs. Wyant is survived by two children, Doris, 4, and Daniel 1.

Mrs. Wyant had been to her former residence, Plainfield, visiting relatives. Several days ago she was taken ill and when her condition did not improve it was decided to cause the patient to be transferred to the New London hospital. This was done yesterday afternoon and at 1:30 o'clock this morning Mrs. Wyant expired.

An automobile owned and driven by Joseph A. Gorton, 24 Denison avenue and a machine owned and operated by Louis Siagara, 31 Cutler street, were in collision this forenoon in the driveway at the entrance to Guest & Co. Bank street, both machines, which were of the commercial type, were damaged.

William Ashland of U. S. Coast Guard cutter Dawnes, Mrs. Edward Glensky, Sixth street; Willis Tucker, Nelsco hotel, Groton, and Frank Abecelli, Groton, patients at Lawrence hospital, were dismissed today.

Miss Harriet Emmerich, Connecticut avenue, clerk in the probate court, who departed for the south several days ago, is now sojourning at Clearwater, Fla.

Patrolman George Perkins, who has been confined to his home, Fitch avenue, a fortnight by illness, resumed his patrol duty at Ocean Beach today.

Samuel Frank, about 30, of Montville, was taken charge of by the police this afternoon following Frank having had a fit on a New London bound trolley car of the Connecticut Company. Frank, who is subject to fits, was a passenger on the trolley car that reached New London at 12:15 o'clock. While enroute to this city, Frank fell from the car seat to the floor sustaining a severe bruise on the right side of the face. When the car reached State street Traffic Officers John Courtney and Clarence Wells took charge of the man escorting him to the police station where he received treatment by City Physician George P. Cheney, after which the man returned to his home.

The funeral of Alfred E. Wheeler, formerly a bellman at the Hotel Mohican, was held this afternoon at 3 o'clock at 48 Shapley street, the services being conducted by Rev. L. J. Witters, pastor of Zion Methodist Episcopal church. The bearers were bellmen employed at the Hotel Mohican. Burial was in Jordan cemetery.

Andrew Mikel, proprietor of a so-called "restaurant" at 137 North Bank Street, who was arrested and fined in the police court this morning on a charge of violation of the liquor law, evidently is of the opinion that he can continue to violate the law, for within an hour after he paid his fine of $200 he was taken into custody at his place of business by Sergeants Nelson Smith and John Cavanaugh, charged with keeping liquor with intent to sell. He was released following his providing a surety on his bond of $500 for his appearance in the police court tomorrow morning.

Hardly had Mikel returned to his place of business than there appeared at the place Sergeants Smith and Cavanaugh and armed with a search warrant issued by Judge Victor Prince. The officers, who have long suspected the place as being an "speak easy", made a systematic search of the building and were rewarded by finding a half pint bottle of whiskey and of the "hooch" type. This was seized as evidence against the accused.

Mikel was taken into custody Nov. 9, 1924, and two days later he was convicted of violation of the liquor law, for evidence was introduced showing that Mikel not only sold liquor at the place, but had a girl of 14 serve the drinks to table customers and in China cups. For this offense Mikel was fined $200 and sentenced to a jail term of ten days.

An ordinance concerning the removal of snow and ice from sidewalks was to have had its final reading this evening, but on motion of Councilor Fox it was not considered. He said the councilor who proposed it was absent and perhaps he might care to talk upon the matter, so it was postponed for a week.

Thomas Hose company invited the members of the council to the company's annual banquet Monday evening, and the council accepted the invitation. The council also accepted an invitation to attend the launching of two submarines for the Peruvian government tomorrow at 12 o'clock noon.

There were some fifteen applications to build and alter buildings before the council this evening and all were granted. Garages made up the bulk of the buildings to be erected.

Mortimer Murphy of Connecticut avenue, a mason, complained to the police late this afternoon that his garage on that avenue, and opposite Rogers street, had been broken into within a week or ten days and considerable plunder stolen from his automobile. Murphy stated that he had not visited his garage for more than a week, but today when he went to the place he found that a Bosch magneto battery, spotlight, auto clock, tail light and Buick switch had been stolen.

Peter Reilly, proprietor of the Groton house, a restaurant on Thames street, Groton, sustained a severely bruised leg this forenoon when a long apron he wore caught in a nail at the rear entrance to the place in such a manner as to cause Reilly to trip and fall through the rear door, dropping a distance of 15 feet to the ground. Reilly was taken to Lawrence hospital, where an X-ray picture did not reveal any broken bones. He later returned home.

The condition of Attorney John J. McGarry of Williams street, who recently underwent an operation for appendicitis at a local private hospital, is reported as being vastly improved and his dismissal is anticipated within a few days.

The police of the eastern part of the state have been requested to be on the lookout for Stanley Faulkner, formerly of Waterford, who is wanted by the authorities of Cheshire reformatory for violation of parole. Faulkner was committed to the reformatory by the superior court of New London county about a year ago for theft.

Faulkner was placed on parole recently and was given employment in Hartford. A few days ago Faulkner stole some apparel from his employer, including a suit of clothes, and disappeared. He is described as being tall, wearing a gray suit, cap and black fur overcoat. When arrested he was residing at Quaker Hill.

Pioneer Hose company of Groton was called out this afternoon, but on a needless run, for an alarm was rung in from Box 13, Broad street, by a mischievous person. No fire existed, as was determined when the firemen reached the location of the supposed blaze.

A resident of Tilley street late this afternoon complained to the police that a woman was inhumanely beating two of her children. Sergeant John Cavanaugh was assigned to the complaint and visited the house where the alleged beating occurred, warned the mother of the children that she would be haled into court if the children were abused, an act which she denied had occurred.

NEW EASY WAY TO END Nasal Catarrh

Quick and sure; safe and no trouble—the new way to get rid of loathsome Catarrh in nose and throat.

It may be acute or it may be chronic of years standing—you may have tried salves and ointments and other treatments.

You're probably disgusted and think you haven't a chance in the world of overcoming it.

Try once more—try this. Get a six ounce bottle of Kojene for 60 cents at Lee & Osgood Co. or any progressive druggist. Spray the nostrils, with it twice a day for three or four days or until every Catarrh germ is destroyed and the nose is clean and clear.

Try once more and get rid of this obnoxious disease. Kojene will do it. If by any mishap it fails your money will be gladly refunded.

Kojene is the world's most powerful, non-poisonous antiseptic—seventy-five times as strong as highly favored antiseptics—yet you can drink it with no ill effects.

If it won't conquer nasal catarrh and clean out every trace of mucous and common nothing will.

SCHOOL BOARD'S POWERS NOT TO BE INCREASED

(Special to the Bulletin)

New London, Feb. 24—At the city council meeting this evening Councilor Murray presided, because Councilor Clarke was absent. F. H. Gavitt offered the city land of which he is the owner on Bank street and as it has to do with the street line the council referred the offer to the planning board.

There are four matters before the legislature concerning New London, but the council does not mean that two of them shall be adopted. The council is opposed to allowing the board of school visitors to have control of the construction, repair and maintenance of the school buildings of the city. That was most apparent by the action taken this evening; for the city manager was instructed to appear before a committee of the legislature and "strenuously" oppose the bill. It was argued that the experience of the city had not been such as would warrant the transfer of authority now vested in the council, to the school board. Indeed it was said that the proponent of the bill was unknown, but that it was unusual for such a bill to be presented and the fact that it was to be offered kept from the council. It was stated that the loudest supporters of the charter now in existence were members of the school board and now they appear to secure changes in that charter. The bill asking the state park commission to secure $200,000 for acquiring land in New London and Waterford adjoining Ocean Beach for park purposes should not be seriously considered. It was not believed that it was to be regarded. It was pointed out that if the city allowed and encouraged the acquiring of such land, the land obtained might be in a place that would be altogether objectionable to the citizens. It was also shown that the acquisition of such land might be to the detriment of adjoining land and property and that it should not be encouraged till the council had more information as to the purpose to which the land acquired was to be put. A park there might be and it might not be for the advantage of the city. The city manager was instructed to oppose that bill, if it came before committee of the legislature. The bill giving the council authority to make use of bonds, issued for the junior high school erection to use in other directions as to school erection was favored by the council and the city manager said there was no doubt that the permission would be granted. The amendment to the city charter providing for the making of voters annually rather than semi-annually was also approved by the council.

Recommendations made by Auditor Washburne as to the tax collector charging off accounts on the city's tax books which accounts were uncollectable, were approved and the tax collector and assessor were authorized to act in accordance with the vote.

The city council voted to relocate Green's Harbor beach at an estimated cost of $6,326.37. There is to be filling, curb laying and street changes that will add to the value of the beach, the city manager said, and in explaining the plan he said the beach would be made more useable.

The council killed the scheme to make a children's playground at Main and Douglass streets. The city manager opposed the proposition of James Graves, a real estate agent, to lease the city the land in question at $50 a month for an indeterminate period, the city being given the privilege of abandoning the project when it so desired. The city manager said the cost to the city would be $100, month for over sight, and $200 for apparatus. He did not see that the plan was one that the city should enter upon. He said that children of the neighborhood now used the ground as it is an open lot and that they would continue to use it, probably, while it was in the condition it is in at present. He suggested that perhaps the city could make better use of money to provide a beach at east New London for bathers, a section that is quite generally made use of now. That section was more desirable than is the Douglass street lot. He said the Graves proposition is not what the city should accept and he preferred the east New London scheme very much as compared with that at Main and Douglass streets. Nearly all the women societies in New London have, from some influence brought to bear on them, endorsed the Graves plan. The Graves communication proposing a lease was tabled.

NORTH STONINGTON

The children and grandchildren and a few near neighbors of Judge and Mrs. C. C. Gray paid them a visit Sunday evening, the date, Feb. 23, being the 42nd anniversary of their marriage. The social hour and a half which included a sing was enjoyed by all present. Light refreshments were served.

The Women's union of the Congregational church held a sale and tea in the church vestry Friday afternoon. The sale included food, aprons and parcel post packages. The attendance was good and the proceeds were reported as $28.

Miss Dora T. Maine, who is passing the winter in Orange, N. J., was in town for a couple of days last week, a guest of her cousin, Miss Lila G. Thompson.

Mr. and Mrs. E. E. May visited H. E. Bannister and family in Webster Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Halsey Allen and three sons of Sterling, Mass., were guests of L. H. Lindeman and family last Saturday.

Miss Ruth Murray, teacher in this district, spent the week end at her home in Deep River.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry of Southbridge and Mr. and Mrs. James Saunders of Saundersdale, Mass., called on Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Potter Sunday.

A meeting of the Camp Fire Girls was held with Pearle and Marino Cady Saturday afternoon. Friday evening they were guests of the Hill Camp Fire club at a banquet at Academy hall, Miss Grigg, councillor. The young men came for the evening, when games, marching and dancing were enjoyed.

Mrs. J. E. Aldrich received an air letter from her son, James Aldrich, in Los Angeles, Cal., Saturday morning. It was dated Wednesday, 12 p. m., and as she has rural delivery doubtless arrived in Putnam some time Friday. The postage was 19 cents.

Mrs. Christine Anderson is ill at the home of George Simonson in Mt. Vernon, N. Y., where she is housekeeper. She has rheumatism badly.

James Roscoe Alton, 72, a resident of the town for over 30 years, died last Friday evening at the home of his daughter, Mrs. A. G. Morse, after a few days' illness. He had not been in good health for nearly a year, having a severe attack of pleurisy last spring. Mr. and Mrs. Alton were spending a few days with their daughter and her family. Taken ill Tuesday evening, no hopes for his improvement were given from the first and he was only conscious part of the time. He had a heart trouble also.

Mr. Alton was born in New Boston Feb. 24, 1853. He married Feb., 1880, Miss Flora Cunningham of Kansas, who was east visiting her sister, Mrs. Frank Steele. For several years they remained at the Alton home. Five daughters were born to them, one dying in infancy. The widow and four daughters survive—Mrs. John E. Child of Putnam, Mrs. A. G. Morse of East Woodstock, Mrs. Paul Gifford of Quinebaug, Mrs. Carl Danielson of this place. The funeral service was held at the home of A. G. Morse Monday at 1 p. m., Rev. H. D. Baker conducting the service. A quartet—Mrs. Ezra May, Mr. and Mrs. N. T. White and John E. Child—sang Lead, Kindly Light, and Beautiful Isle of Somewhere. The bearers were the son-in-law, J. E. Child, A. G. Morse, Paul Gifford and Carl Danielson. Burial was in the family lot in New Boston cemetery. Mr. Alton's only sister, Mrs. Nellie Riebe, died last spring in Webster, Mass.

LEONARD BRIDGE

Mr. and Mrs. Charles M. Geer, Mrs. George Chappell, and Mr. and Mrs. Everett Chappell motored to Rockville Sunday and were dinner guests of Levi Chappell. From there they motored to Hartford to see George Chappell a patient at the Hartford hospital. They found him very weak and not as well as expected.

Mr. and Mrs. Royce McCall of Saybrook Manor spent the week end and holiday with Mr. and Mrs. E. H. McCall.

Mrs. Elmer N. Geer entertained the Get Together club at her home Thursday afternoon. There was a good attendance. The members tied a quilt for Mrs. Geer. A nice supper was served by the hostess.

Charles M. Geer was in Hartford Friday. He called to see George Chappell who is a patient at Hartford hospital.

Otto A. Nettleton spent Saturday in Hartford with his niece, Mrs. Elizabeth. Bronson.

Mr. and Mrs. David Walsh spent Saturday with their cousins, Mrs. E. H. Bodworth and Mrs. F. S. Middleton in West Hartford.

A woodchuck was noticed feeding in the warm sunshine, Washington's birthday.

George L. Thomas is home for a week from Norwich sanatorium.

E. H. McCall, Jr., spent the week end and holiday with his sister, Miss Dorothy McCall at Cambridge, Mass.

Harold the youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Hinckley fell, striking his knee on a machine with which he was playing recently. At first it was not considered serious, but a few days later he was taken to a physician at Willimantic who found that the cartilege over the knee-pan had been cracked. It will be four weeks before he will be able to be about.

Mr. and Mrs. David Walsh, Mrs. L. C. Schrodter, Otto A. Nettleton, Chas. M. Geer and Leroy Geer were in New London Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Leon Choquette and son Vinson of Southington spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. James Choquette.

John Evan has moved the household goods of Mr. and Mrs. Leon Choquette to Southington where they are to reside.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

MARKET WAS IRREGULAR.

New York, Feb. 24.—Rising stock prices characterized resumption of trading after the double holiday on the New York stock exchange, but the rally failed to hold when heavy selling developed as a result of a sharp stiffening of call money rates. Closing prices displayed considerable irregularity with many popular shares showing variations of 1 to 4 points compared with Saturday's final quotations.

Call money renewed at 3 1-2 per cent and then advanced, successively to 4, 4 1-3 and 5, closing at the top figure, which was the highest rate reached since Jan. 2. The advance in call money, coincident with the heavy selling of loans, was due to the sharp decrease in reserve shown in the weekly clearing house statement last Saturday, and preparations for heavy month end requirements for funds. Time money and commercial paper markets were quiet with no important change in rates.

The early demand for stocks was based on favorable week-end trade advices and rumors of special dividend distributions in several well known issues. Announcement of several large railroad orders brought about a renewed demand for the equipment shares. American Locomotive was run up to a record high at 131 1-2 and then eased to 130 1-4 for a net gain of 3 1-2 points on the day, and American Car and Foundry jumped 4 1-2 points to a new maximum at 209 1-3 and then cancelled its gain. Baldwin was run up to 145 but fell back to 140 3-4 for a net loss of 1 3-4. Pullman closed unchanged at 141 1-2 after having sold as high as 143. Lima Locomotive dropped from 71 1-2 to 70, off 1-2 on the day.

The enormous demand for New Haven, which was taken in large blocks and run up over two points to 36, the highest price since 1920, was one of the outstanding features of the railroad list. A brisk demand also developed for the so-called Van Sweringen stocks on publication of an unusually favorable January earnings statement by the Nickel Plate road that stock jumping over five points to a record high at 137 1-4. Net gains of one to two and one-half points also were recorded by Erie common and first preferred, Pere Marquette common and prior preferred and Chesapeake and Ohio common.

St. Paul issues, which were heavy in the early trading, met good buying support later, the common closing at 13 and the preferred at 22, up one and two points, respectively. Rock Island was heavy, closing a point lower at 15 3-4.

Some of the outstanding strong spots included Associated Dry Goods, Brown Shoe, Kresge Stores, Loose Wiles Biscuit, Radio corporation, St. Joseph Lead, Savage Arms and Wright Aeroplane, all of which closed about 2 1-2 to 3 points higher. American Can, Beechnut Packing, the Commercial Solvents issues, Famous Players, International Business Machine, Mack Truck, Railway Steel Spring and Sears-Roebuck were heavy, the net losses running from two to nearly five points.

A break of five points in Italian lire which sold around 4.04 cents, was the feature of the quiet foreign exchange market. Demand sterling held fairly steady around $4.76 and French francs were quoted slightly lower at 6.35c. Other changes were largely nominal with practically no business in South American rates on the observance of a holiday in some of the Latin countries.

THE WEATHER.

Conditions.

The disturbance that was central over Maine Monday night has moved northeastward beyond the field of observation. This disturbance has been attended by rains within the last 24 hours in the Atlantic states. An area of high pressure of considerable magnitude attended by much colder weather is moving rapidly southeastward over the Canadian northwest. High pressure prevailed also Tuesday night over the St. Lawrence valley, Nova Scotia, and northern New England. The temperature was lower Tuesday in the northeastern states.

The Wisconsin disturbance will move eastward and it will be attended by rains almost generally over the states east of the Mississippi river within the next 24 to 36 hours. Following the passage of this disturbance, an area of high pressure and much lower temperature will overspread the Atlantic states Thursday and Thursday night.

Except for snow flurries in northern border states, fair weather will prevail generally east of the Mississippi river on Thursday.

North of Sandy Hook and Sandy Hook to Hatteras: Moderate to fresh east and southeast, and weather generally fair Wednesday.

The married men were Vivian Perkins, Henry Banker, John Hargreaves and Irvin Gregory and the single men were William Wohlleben, John Krumbholts, Joseph Meditz and Frank Hargreaves.

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

Get Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 17 years and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do not contain calomel, but a healing, soothing vegetable laxative.

No griping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

If you have a "dark brown mouth"—bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—sick headache—torpid liver—constipation, you'll find quick, sure and pleasant results from one or two of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets at bedtime.

Thousands take them every night just to keep right. Try them. 15c and 30c.

TO SUE CITY ON CLAIM THAT TORCH OF G. & E. EMPLOYES SET HOUSE ON FIRE

On the claim that employes of the Norwich Gas and Electric department used a gasoline torch and set fire to the house she owned on Salem turnpike, East Great Plain, Sarah E. Willard has brought suit against the city of Norwich for $10,000 damages for the destruction of the house by fire. Alfred H. Beebe, who was occupying the house as a residence sues the city for $2,000 for the loss of his household furniture in the fire, which took place on Dec. 23, 1924.

The claim is made in the suit that the owner of the house had it wired for electricity a short time before the date of the fire and that this work was done in a proper manner and without defects. On the day of the fire employes of the city gas and electric department made the connection with the wires, using a gasoline torch in the work and it is alleged they thereby set fire to the dwelling at or near the place where they were doing the work. The two suits are returnable before the superior court clerk's office by Deputy Sheriff Oscar H. Main who served notice of the suit on the city clerk, Weston C. Pullen.

Lennen Probate Appeal

Papers were also filed Tuesday in the appeal from probate taken by Mrs. Helen F. Lennen, who was left a legacy of $30,000 from the $569,000 estate of her husband, the late Capt. James Lennen, who left the bulk of his estate to charitable, educational and religious institutions. Notice of the widow's attempt to break the will has been served upon the executors, Judge George E. Parsons of this city and Jesse Henry Wilcox of Stonington.

REGULATIONS FOR LENT ISSUED BY BISHOP NILAN

The rules for Lent, which begins today (Wednesday) do not differ materially from those of previous years. The circular letter from Rt. Rev. Bishop Nilan follows:

EPISCOPAL RESIDENCE
Hartford, Conn.
February 13, 1925

Dear Father:

The diocesan regulations for the observance of the holy season of Lent are as follows:

1. The sick or delicate are not bound either to fast or to abstain.

2. Children under seven years of age are not subject to the law of fast or abstinence.

3. Persons who have completed their fifty-ninth year or who have not completed their twenty-first year are not obliged to fast, but must abstain from meat on abstinence days.

4. The abstinence days for the laboring class and all members of the household of laborers are Fridays, Ash Wednesday and Holy Saturday till noon.

5. The abstinence days for all other persons are Wednesdays, Fridays, Saturday of Ember Week and Holy Saturday till noon.

6. Any person engaged in a laborious occupation, while bound to abstain from using meat on abstinence days, is nevertheless excused from the laws of fast.

7. The law of fast for all who are not excused is binding every day of Lent except Sundays. On fast days those who are subject to the law are allowed to take only one full meal. In the morning, however, they may take a cup of tea, coffee, or chocolate with a piece of bread. In the evening they may take a collation. At the collation it is lawful to use fish, eggs, cheese, butter and milk, but the quantity of solid food should not exceed ten ounces. Meat is permissible only at the principal meal. This meal may be taken in the evening and the collation at noon.

The use of meat and fish at the same meal is now permissible, and the Lenten fast and abstinence cease at noon on Holy Saturday.

Yours sincerely,
JOHN J. NILAN
Bishop of Hartford

CIVIL SUIT SETTLED IN SUPERIOR COURT

The civil suit instituted by William A. Skaling of New London in behalf of his minor daughter, Ruth, against Mrs. Bridget Sheedy of New London, and members of Mrs. Sheedy's family, which was scheduled for trial in the superior court at New London Tuesday morning, was settled out of court. No information as to the terms of settlement was made public.

The suit resulted from personal injuries received by little Miss Skaling several years ago when, in sliding on property owned by the defendant she steered her sled into a barbed wire obstruction. A jury in the superior court a year ago awarded a verdict for the plaintiff, but appeal was taken by the defendants to the supreme court of errors, which ordered the case back to the superior court for retrial. When the case came up for trial in the superior court Tuesday, Judge Allyn L. Brown asked the attorneys if they had made any attempt at settlement. When they replied that they had not, he suggested that they make an attempt and the settlement was the result.

The suit of Northrup against the Westerly Light and Power Co., was also settled out of court Tuesday.

CONNECTICUT'S INCOME TAX PAYMENTS LESS

Connecticut's income tax collected in December 1924, was about $108,000 less than during that month in 1923, according to figures just issued by the treasury department.

Last December the total income tax collected in Connecticut was $4,448,236.94, as compared with $4,556,282.80, collected in December, 1923, a decrease of $108,046.86.

Payments of the fourth installment of the tax due on incomes in the calendar years 1922 and 1923, together with additional collections on assessments made for prior years, are shown in the above figures, the department points out.

CHRIST CHURCH JUNIORS SURPRISE THEIR PRESIDENT

The young people of the Junior Auxiliary of Christ Episcopal church held a surprise party Monday evening in the church parlors in honor of Miss Mary Osgood, their president. The young people met at 5 o'clock and enjoyed a supper. Miss Ruth Robinson, secretary of the auxiliary, in behalf of the gathering, presented Miss Osgood a handsome red tulip plant. The new rector, Rev. C. Montgomery Budlong and Mrs. Budlong, were present. Miss Ruth Robinson, the secretary, and Miss May Vallin, the treasurer, had charge of the plans for the surprise gathering. The auxiliary will hold its next meeting March 4th.

CHOIR BOYS' SUPPER WELCOMES NEW RESTOR

The choir boys of Christ Episcopal church enjoyed a supper in the church parlors Tuesday evening at 6.30 and welcomed the new rector, Rev. C. Montgomery Budlong and Mrs. Budlong to the parish. The supper was served at 6.30 o'clock at a very attractively decorated table. There were American flags and red, white and blue decorations, lighted candles and at each cover a miniature cherry tree, in honor of Washington's birthday. The Roamers orchestra provided a delightful concert during the supper and singing was also enjoyed.

Rev. Mr. Budlong gave the choir boys a brief talk in which he spoke of the great interest he takes in boys. The rector immediately won his way to the hearts of the boys who showed deep interest in his remarks.

Miss Martha Osgood, Mrs. J. Frank Corey and Mrs. Charles Robinson were in general charge of the arrangements for gathering and Miss Louise Robinson had charge of the supper arrangements. Those in charge of the decorations were Miss Mary Richards, Miss Mary Osgood, Mrs. J. Frank Corey and Miss Stetson. The supper committee comprised Miss Martha Osgood, Mrs. Griffith, Mrs. Charles Robinson, Mrs. Fred G. Prothero and Mrs. Henry F. Ulmer. The waitresses were Miss Lucille Stetson, Miss Victoria Malmer, Miss Lillian Boynton, Miss Grace Corey, Miss Lillian Brewster and Miss Dorothy Lord. Wives of the choir men were present as guests.

NORWICH REPRESENTATIVES AT S. A. R. MEETING

Chief Howard L. Stanton represented Norwich at the annual banquet of Israel Putnam branch, Sons of the American Revolution, held in Hartford, Monday, in the absence of President Charles E. Chandler of the Norwich branch.

Chief Stanton gave a report of the activities of the branch, stating that the activities of the past year included action towards securing a better place for the museum than Faith Trumbull chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, now has at Norwich Town. In behalf of Faith Trumbull chapter, Chief Stanton said that Norwich really has a fine collection of relics in the museum and he extended an invitation for all to visit the museum any time they happened to be passing through Norwich. In closing Chief Stanton said that the Daughters and Sons of the American Revolution were determined to have a better home for the museum, and that this would be accomplished.

Henry F. Parker of Norwich rendered the report from the local branch. The banquet was attended by many of the national officers and there were several prominent speakers. The banquet closed after the motion pictures taken at the field day last year in New London, were shown on the screen.

METHODIST PASTORS ASKING APPOINTMENT OF REV. GENTER

A request to have Rev. Myron E. Genter of New London appointed superintendent for the Norwich district of the Methodist church will be presented to Bishop W. F. Anderson at the New England Southern conference annual meeting which is held this year in Fall River, Mass., beginning Wednesday, March 25.

Rev. W. H. Bath of this city, has been superintendent in the district for six years, his term expiring this year, and according to the established practice in the Methodist church it is expected there will be a change in the superintendent this year. In view of that fact the ministers of the Norwich district who met in this city on Feb. 10 voted unanimously to request the appointment of Rev. Mr. Genter as superintendent.

AVERY SMITH SELLS HIS MIAMI BUSINESS

Capt. Avery C. Smith, who went from this city to Miami, Fla., in 1909, has sold out his business interests there to his partner, Mr. Briggs, who was in the corporation with Mr. Smith conducting a casino, bathing pools and bath houses on the Miami beach. Mr. Smith established the amusement resort which has grown to be one of the most profitable shore resorts in Florida. Last year Mr. Smith built a large apartment house in Florida which he still owns.

He expects to come north with his wife and young son in May and will spend some time with his sister, Mrs. W. S. Ailing of 124 Washington street. Later they will do considerable traveling and it is their plan to spend their winters in the south and summers in the north.

NORWICH SPORTSMEN INVITED TO HEARING

President Arthur E. Story of the Norwich Fish and Game association has received a letter from A. Joseph Williamson, secretary of the Connecticut Association of Fish and Game Clubs, informing him that there will be a hearing in Hartford, Thursday, Feb. 26, at 2 p. m., on some very important bills in reference to increasing the license fee for hunting and fishing. President Story was urged to send a large delegation from the Norwich association. The increase has been endorsed by the Connecticut Association of Fish and Game Clubs and similar action has been taken by sportsmen.

President Story is urging members of the Norwich Fish and Game association to attend the hearing.

NEED $9,604,200 TO COMPLETE TRUNK LINES

An outlay of approximately $9,604,200 is required to complete trunk line highways ordered by former sessions of the general assembly, a statement just issued by the state highway department shows. In addition, the present session has before it 67 bills which call for construction of 286.9 miles, the aggregate cost of which would be about $10,184,000.

That this work would require about 30 years for completion is the estimate made by the highway commissioner at the present rate of appropriations. The statement is issued by the department in response to requests from members of the legislature for an analysis of the trunk line situation in Connecticut. It shows that whereas each succeeding session of the general assembly has been quick to declare mile after mile of highway to be in the state's trunk line system, no provision for building the same has been forthcoming. The result is that 300 miles of the state's roads now exist on paper, with no prospect of their completion within the next 15 years. The estimated cost of building the uncompleted sections would be $9,604,200 it is shown. At the same time the 286 miles called for in bills now before the legislature would cost $10,184,400 more to construct.

Mac'onald Opposes Hurry

Commissioner John A. Macdonald expressed the opinion that it would be an unsound policy for the state to obligate itself at this time for contracts that would not be fulfilled until 15 years hence. He doubted the wisdom of continuing the policy of declaring roads to be on the trunk line system faster than the state can possibly build them and ventured the assertion that even if it were possible for the state to complete all these roads at once it might be a short-sighted policy in view of the undetermined future of traffic requirements, etc.

It is pointed out that since 1895 the general assembly has appropriated a total of $10,950,000 for trunk line construction. An average of $1,000,000 for this work has been appropriated during the last several sessions. Since 1921 the highway department has constructed about 38 miles of new trunk line roads during each two year period. Analysis of the figures shows, therefore, that the average cost of the work has been $26,000 a mile.

Statutes require that trunk line construction be carried on only by direct appropriation by the legislature. The law directs that receipts from motor vehicle fees be used only for reconstruction and maintenance work.

Sixty-Seven Bills Introduced

The proposals advanced to the present session are contained in 67 bills, some of which call for additions as high as 10 miles, while others ask for fractions of a mile. They aggregate, however, 286.9 miles.

It is also shown that, while apparently it costs nothing to add roads to the state's trunk line system on paper, under the statutes the state is required to maintain all bridges on trunk lines whether improved or uncompleted, and in the 286 miles proposed at this time, there are many bridges. Inclusion of these highways in the system would therefore obligate the state to an extent of about $100,000 a year to maintain the bridges. The law requires all bridges maintained by the state to carry at least eight tons.

It is felt by the department that it is its duty at this time to point out the facts of the situation, because, within a relatively few years, if additions to the trunk line system continue, a large bond issue might be the only solution of the problem. This is in direct conflict with the established economic policy of the state.

BRITISH SCHOONER ANDERSON IN PORT UNDER SUSPICION

(Special to the Bulletin)

New London, Feb. 24—British schooner C. A. Anderson, Capt. Charles Knickle, bound from Lunenberg, N. S., to St. Pierre, Miquelon, is moored at the state pier with her crew and 1070 cases of liquor in her hold, the craft having been convoyed into the harbor during last night by the United States Coast Guard Destroyer Jouett. The crew is not under arrest, but are still aboard the schooner, pending advices by the revenue authorities as to the disposition of the case against the schooner, which, it is contended, is that of a rum runner.

The coast guard officials assert that at least a dozen times within a comparatively short time, the Anderson has been sighted in waters adjacent to Long Island sound and on more than one occasion close to the rum-supply ships at Rum Row. It is believed by the coast guard officials that the Anderson has replenished the cargoes of the rum fleet at anchor off Rum Row and which supply bootleg craft.

Last night, about 9 o'clock the crew of the Jouett observed the Anderson only about eight miles from shores, or illegal territroy for rum laden craft. The crew of the Jouett immediately took control of the schooner and brought her into port early this morning.

Capt. Knickle denies that his craft is engaged in the illegal transportation of liquor and explained that if his craft was found within eight miles of shore, he miscalculated the distance, as he believed he was within his rights when his craft and crew were seized.

The matter of trying the crew and keeping the liquor and schooner will be determined at Washington.

Two Suits Withdrawn

Two suits in the superior court against Fred La Freniere of Norwich, one brought by Mrs. Corinne E. J. Mosher and the other by her husband Harold C. Mosher, both of Norwich have been withdrawn without costs. Both were brought as a result of an automobile accident on Broad street, near Broadway, about 6 p. m., on Dec. 26, 1923, when it was claimed an automobile driven by Lafreniere knocked Mrs. Mosher down, dragged her a considerable distance and then knocked her down again when she was being helped up as LaFreniere was backing the car. Mrs. Mosher had several ribs broken and was otherwise injured. She brought suit for $7,000 for her injuries and damage to her clothing, including a new seal coat, worth $500. Mr. Mosher sued for $3,000 damages for medical expenses incurred and the loss of his wife's services as housekeeper.

COMMON HOUSEHOLD MEDICINES

otherwise known as "simples," have for centuries been derived from medicinal roots and herbs. They are still used and recognised by many of our best physicians as unequalled for certain ailments. In many countries roots and herbs are cultivated purely for commercial purposes. It is said that the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. of Lynn, Mass., is the greatest user of crude herbs in this country. The success of their Vegetable Compound for ailments of women is now world-wide, and it will certainly pay any woman who suffers from any ailment peculiar to her sex to try it.

POETRY

A STAR IN THE WEST.

There's a star in the west that shall never go down
Till the record of valor decay;
We must worship its light, though it is not our own,
For liberty burst in its ray.
Shall the name of Washington ever be heard
By a freeman, and thrill not his breast?
Is there one out of bondage that hails not the word
As the Bethelehem Star of the West?

"War! war to the knife! Be enthralled, or ye die!"
Was the echo that woke in his land;
But it was not his voice that prompted the cry,
Nor his madness that kindled the brand.
He raised not his arm, he defied not his foes,
While a leaf of the olive remained;
Till, goaded with insult, his spirit arose,
Like a long-baited lion unchained.

He struck with firm courage the blow of the brave,
But sighed o'er the carnage that spread;
He indignantly trampled the yoke of the slave,
But wept for the thousands that bled.
Though he threw back the fetters and headed the strife,
Till man's charter was fairly restored,
Yet he prayed for the moment when Freedom and Life
Would no longer be pressed by the sword.

Oh, his laurels were pure! and his patriot name
In the page of the future shall dwell,
And be seen in all annals, the foremost in fame,
By the side of a Hofer and Tell.
The truthful and honest, the wise and the good,
Among the Britons have nobly contested
That his was the glory, and ours was the blood,
Of the deeply stained fields of the West.

—Eliza Cook.

THE HERON.

O melancholy bird, a winter's day
Thou standest by the margin of the pool,
And, taught by God, dost thy whole school
To patience, which all evil can allay.
God has appointed thee the fish thy prey
And given thyself a lesson to the fool
Unthrifty, to submit to moral rule.
And his unthinking course by thee to weigh.
There need not schools, nor the professor's chair,
Though these be good, true wisdom to impart;
He who has not enough for these to learn
Of time, or gold, may yet amend his heart,
And teach his soul, by brooks and rivers fair;
Nature is always wise in every part.

—Edward Hovell-Thurlow.

15 DEMOCRATES HAVE BOLTED FROM THE INDIANA SENATE

They Have Fled From Indiana to Secure Refuge in Dayton, Ohio—Action was Taken as a Protest Against a Gerrymander Bill—Republican Members of the Senate Assert That Indictments Will be Sought Against the Fugitives in the Marion County Criminal Court.

Indianapolis, Ind., Feb. 25.—Fifteen democratic state senators who throughout the day blocked proceeding in the Indiana senate by absenting themselves in protest against a gerrymander bill, were reported late today to have started in bus for the Ohio line when the senate threatened their arrest. The door keeper has been instructed to bring them back.

The action of the democrats, who are in a minority, according to their leaders, prevents action on a Gerrymander bill which will place the democratic party at a disadvantage in the second congressional district.

Absence of the democrats prevented transaction of business through lack of a quorum.

Emulating the Rhode Island republicans who performed a similar coup several months ago, the Indiana democrats left the city secretly and for several hours were the object of an intensive search by senate officials. Three of the democrats were reported to have been in Indianapolis tonight but Mr. Brown and his deputies had not succeeded in locating them.

Republican members of the senate declared tonight that indictments against the fugitives would be sought in the Marion county criminal court tomorrow under a law which provides a fine of $1,000 for legislators who willfully refuse to vote or attend sessions of the general accembly.

Indictment of the absent democrats, Senator Hodges, republican, of Gary, pointed out, would make them fugitives from justice and their extradition could be asked. Whether extradition would be granted was uncertain, Senator Hodges admitted.

The democrats were absent from the senate chamber throughout the day and thereby broke the quorum necessary for transaction of business. They apparently left Indianapolis early in the afternoon in a motor bus headed for the Ohio line.

The disaffection of the democrats was first manifest at yesterday afternoon's session when they failed to appear at the hour for convening but later they assembled upon assurance that the bill to which they objected would not be called up for passage.

They again failed to appear this morning but no action was taken by the republicans until afternoon when the minority members were still absent. At the afternoon session a mandate was issued to the chief doorkeeper to arrest the absentees and compel their attendance.

Service of the mandate was delayed, according to James J. Nejdl, president pro tem of the senate who told the republican members this afternoon that Mr. Brown, the doorkeeper, had refused to obey the senate's instructions. Mr. Brown declared that he was not familiar with the procedure in such cases, and that this had delayed his action.

While Mr. Brown was conferring with other state officials, the democrats apparently made their escape. Late this evening the doorkeeper accepted the offer of member of the Marion County Horse Theft Detective association to assist in the search for the runaway senators. Members of the association scoured local hotels and reported to their chief, Charles L. Riddle, that some of the democrats were in the city but were unable to say how many.

The gerrmander bill to which the democrats objected would remove Lawrence county from the third congressional district, which is normally democratic, and place it in the second district, which has been classed by politicians as doubtful. Senator W. K. Penrod, republican, author of the measure, conceded that Lawrence county with its strong republican vote would be materially helpful in swinging the second district into the republican column.

In search today for the missing members, Mr. Brown sought to enlist the aid of the Indianapolis police department and the Marion county sheriff, but was informed by both that they were without authority to act.

The bolt left the republicans nonplussed, such action being without precedent in recent years. In 1869 a democratic minority by resigning sought to block ratification of the fifteenth amendment but that incident was so distant that it afforded little guidance in the present affairs.

SENATORS DETERMINED TO REMAIN IN EXILE

Dayton, Ohio, Feb. 25.—(By The A. P.)—Thirteen democrat state senators of Indiana, who crossed the Ohio line into voluntary exile late this afternoon in protest against a gerrymander bill in the senate, announced on their arrival here at 7 p. m., tonight they plan to remain in exile until the bill is quashed.

The 13 senators made reservations at a local hotel and arranged to spend the night in this city.

Joseph Cravens, democratic floor leader, acting as spokesman for the delegation said the senators probably would go to Columbus tomorrow to visit Governor Donahey, of Ohio.

SENATOR McCORMICK WAS FOUND DEAD IN BED

Washington, Feb. 25—Medill McCormick, senior senator from Illinois and member of a celebrated family, was found dead here in his apartment at the Hamilton Hotel.

While agreeing that death was due to natural causes, doctors disagreed as to their nature. The physician summoned hurriedly by the hotel management held that a gastric hemorrhage had brought about death, but the city coroner gave a verdict of death from dilation of the heart.

The senator was alone in his apartment when the end came, two hours or more before noon. Mrs. McCormick, a daughter of Mark Hanna, was in Chicago, where she had gone to be near Mrs. Nicholas Longworth upon the arrival of the Longworth baby. She will arrive here early tomorrow to take the body to Chicago for burial Friday or Saturday.

Senator McCormick was not well when he retired early last night, but hotel attaches heard him moving about in his rooms at the breakfast hour. When he failed later to respond to callers at his apartment, an inquiry was started and finally the entrance door was removed from its hinges.

The senator was found in bed, clothed in pajamas, lying on his right side, with his head on his chest and one hand across his chin where there was reopening of a wound he received in a deep gash caused by the apparent Chicago last week while playing polo with his children.

Dr. Noble P. Barnes, who was summoned, said Mr. McCormick had been dead for an hour or more, and that there was evidence of a gastric hemorrhage to which he attributed death. He communicated his diagnosis to Dr. J. Ramsay Nevitt, the coroner.

Upon a later examination, Dr. Nevitt held that weakened muscles of the heart had given way to a dilation of that organ due to a disturbance of the stomach. He said the apparent hemorrhage could be attributed to the cut on the chin.

The physicians were of the opinion that Senator McCormick had been seized with vertigo upon arising and had fallen against a door or piece of furniture, re-opening and enlarging the wound on the chin, which had been treated here Sunday by Dr. James P. Mitchell.

JAPANESE NAVAL SCHOOL TRAINING VESSEL WRECKED

Tokio, Feb. 25 (By the A. P.)—The Oshima, a nautical school training vessel, was wrecked off the Izi peninsula, southeast of here, on Tuesday and it is reported ten of her crew, including the captain, were lost. The Oshima was a small vessel carrying a 150 students.

U. S. S. HURON WAS AGROUND 300 MILES S. E. OF MANILA

Manila, Feb. 26 (By the A. P.)—The U. S. S. Huron, flagship of the American fleet in Asiatic waters, which went agorund yesterday off Malampaya sound, Island of Palawan, 300 miles southeast of Manila, was floated at midnight.

It is not believed that the ship suffered serious damage. Until the exact damage is ascertained, it will not be decided whether she will continue on her voyage to Java or return to Manila.

PROPOSE MEMORIAL FOR ALBERT F. ROCKWELL

Bristol, Conn., Feb. 25—One hundred prominent citizens met here tonight to organize the Albert F. Rockwell memorial committee, the aim of which will be to secure funds and provide a memorial to the late Albert F. Rockwell, who died recently. The committee will consist of nine men, four of whom were chosen to represent the city, at the meeting tonight as follows: Mayor John F. Wade, Arthur S. Barnes, Elmer E. Stockton and Eugene Giannatteo. The remaining members will be chosen later, one to represent the Catholic churches of the city, one for the Protestant churches, one for the merchants, one for the manufacturers and one to represent the board of park commissioners, of which Mr. Rockwell was a prominent member.

Principle Henry E. Cottle, of the high school was elected permanent secretary and the Bristol Press treasurer. It is planned to raise a fund of $5,000 by popular subscription, no single contribution to be more than $10. The memorial probably will be placed on the memorial boulevard, built under the direction of Mr. Rockwell, or in Rockwell park, the land for which was given to the city by Mr. Rockwell.

RESPONSE TO NEW HAVEN ROAD AN OUTSTANDING ENTERPRISE

Providence, R. I., Feb. 25—The action of the commercial, industrial and banking interests of New England in helping to re-finance their transportation machine—the New Haven railroad, has given the country the most outstanding example of public cooperation with the carriers, R. H. Aishton, president of the American Railway association, told the Rhode Island Bankers association tonight.

"It is a record of which New England may well be proud" Mr. Aishton said, "and further indicates a recognition of what is so plainly apparent, that the whole economic life, not only of New England but also of the nation is inextricably intertwined in the adequacy of the transportation afforded, and that this adequacy, in turn, depends in a large measure on the prosperity and support given by the people to the railroads."

In the matter of adequate service, efficiently and economically performed, the railroads of the country, Mr. Aishton asserted, probably were leading all other industries.

PLAN FOR BEAUTIFYING THE NATIONAL CAPITAL

Washington, Feb. 25—A plan for beautifying Washington by broadening the mall between the capitol and the treasury and devoting the area south of Pennsylvania avenue exclusively to park purposes and sites for public buildings, is outlined in a report from the house District of Columbia committee on a bill to appropriate $15,000,000 for purchase of land needed to carry out the project.

Dotted as it now is with many old buildings which were erected several generations ago, the strip, in the opinion of Representative Underhill, republican, Massachusetts, author of the bill approved by the committee, is "an eyesore and disgrace to the nation's capital." The report also points out that it was the plan of George Washington and of executive and legislative departments since his time to acquire the land for park and public building purposes.

CABLED PARAGRAPHS

Prince Henry Feveriah

London, Feb. 25—(By the A. P.) Prince Henry, third son of King George, is suffering from a feverish cold and will be unable, as had been arranged, to represent the king at the London horse show.

LIQUOR HELD AS EVIDENCE AGAINST NAVAL OFFICERS

Norfolk, Va., Feb. 25.—Forty cases of liquor were held under strict guard at the naval base here tonight as evidence to be used against officers of the navy transport Beaufort, aboard which it was seized on arrival here yesterday from the West Indies.

A woman believed to be the wife of an enlisted man in the tropics, is said to have tipped off the government that the transport, heading for Hampton Roads, was carrying liquor, which at bootleg quotations here, was worth more than $5,000.

The information was received by the assistant collector of customs at Norfolk. He hurried to the naval base and laid his information before Rear Admiral Roger Welles, commander of the Fifth Naval district. Upon orders of Admiral Welles, Captain Wilbert Smith, assistant commandant, led a raiding squad of marines and searched the vessel, and practically every person aboard the transport was placed under detention.

A mad, wild scramble to get cases and jugs overboard followed, but practically everything tossed from the portholes was salvaged.

Admiral Wells ordered a board of inquiry to convene Friday to investigate the case. Every officer aboard the Beaufort was summoned to appear. The board, whose sessions will be private, is composed of Captain H. C. Cooke, commanding officer of the naval air station here; Commander G. E. Baker, of the general court martial staff; Captain H. Pefley, U. S. Marine Corps; and Lieutenant Colonel G. M. Kincaid, commanding officer of the marine barracks at the base.

Commander Fuller of the Beaufort was among those summoned to the court, although no liquor was found in his quarters, it was said.

DISABLED SOLDIERS' LEAGUE WAS DEFENDED BY COUNSEL

Washington, Feb. 25.—The National Disabled Soldiers' league was defended today before the house committee investigating its activities by Abner Siegal, its counsel, who asserted that $24,000 in cash had been expended by the league to aid service men.

Chairman Fish observed that it had been discovered that the league had $276.00 in banks "we know of, to say nothing of cash, which amounts to about $75,000." Replying, Mr. Siegal said that it was expensive to maintain such an organization; that the league had given close to $200,000 to pencil companies for its campaigns, and that he could prove by vouchers that it had spent $7,000 in aiding veterans to present their cases before the veterans' bureau, by paying their board and lodging bills.

Haze E. Conners, Frank Brinzo and John Kotz, disabled sodiers, testified today they had received person aid from the league, while Mrs. Mary Todd a Washington boarding house keeper, said it had sent more than 100 disabled men to her establishment.

Randolph Shaw, committee counsel, introduced a statement quoting Robert E. Bondy, of the veterans relief section of the Red Cross, to the effect that the league was regarded unfavorably by that organization.

Mr. Siegal estimated the league had given money to about 2,500 men and assisted in pressing claims totalling $40,000. No disabled man who applied to the league for relelf he said, had failed to receive it.

INDIANS KILL PANAMANS ON THE SAN BLAS COAST

Panama, Feb. 25.—Passengers arriving here today from El Porvenir, on the San Blas coast of Panama, report that Indians rose February 21 in several settlements and killed four Panamans, including a nephew of the governor of the San Blas territory.

The passengers said it was possible the number of dead might be increased, as more than forty Panamans resided in the areas attacked, with which at present there is no communication. The settlement of El Porvenir was deserted by the Panaman authorities and civilians after warning had been given them by the friendly Indians.

Reports, which are lacking in confirmation connect the disturbances with the presence of R. O. Marsh, the American explorer, at Carti. Marsh is said to have raised the American flag at Carti and to have announced that the San Blas territory belonged to Colombia.

Richard O. Marsh, whose home is Blockport, New York, last year headed an expedition which made a research in the Darien jungles of Panama for "white" Indians. Last July, Marsh returned to New York, bringing with him what were described as three "blond" Indians. After a series of critical examinations by scientists some of them were of the opinion that the Indians were white, while others contended they were of the Albino type.

CHANGE OF MATRON AT NEW HAVEN COUNTY JAIL

New Haven, Feb. 25.—County Sheriff James Geddes announced today the resignation of Mrs. William Cushman, of Meriden as matron at the county jail and the appointment of Mrs. Catherine McGirr, of Waterbury to the position. It was explained that Mrs. Cushman will leave when Mrs. McGirr arrives here, which will be in a few days.

Mrs. Cushman was appointed nearly five years ago by the late Sheriff Thomas L. Reilly. Mrs. McGirr was employed at Ward's Island for two years, and for the following seven years filled a position of trust in the Stamford sanatorium. During the past seven years she has been connected with a sanatorium at Watertown.

INCREASE IN EARNINGS OF NEW HAVEN ROAD

New York, Feb. 25.—Net income of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad in January totalled $368,235, an increase of $721,348 over the corresponding month last year. Net railway operating income was $1,412,078, compared with $1,090,109 in January 1924.

Warrant Issued For Sculptor Borglum

In Connection With Distruction of Plan for Confederate Memorial.

Atlanta, Ga., Feb. 25.—Warrants charging Gutzon Borglum, sculptor, and J. G. Tucker, his superintendent of construction, with malicious mischief in connection with the destruction of the working plans and models for carving the confederate memorial on Stone mountain, near Atlanta, were sworn out tonight by the Stone Mountain Memorial association.

Mr. Borglum refused to affirm or deny that the models and plans had been destroyed, but newspapermen said that they could see through the windows of the locked studio what appeared to be fragments of the models scattered over the floor. This was ascertained shortly before attorneys reached the mountain with copies of a court order prohibiting Borglum or any of his agents from entering the studio, disturbing the carving operations now in progress or trespassing upon the association's property.

The temporary injunction is returnable March 14.

Hollins N. Randolph, president of the Stone Mountain association, declared that if the models and plans had been destroyed, the new sculptor would make new models from the plans and records and proceed with the work.

The warrant was served on Tucker and Sheriff J. A. McCurdy was looking for Borglum to serve him with the warrant. The association asked that bonds of $125,000 be fixed in each case.

Columbia, S. C., Feb. 25.—Governors of all southern states were called upon tonight by Governor Thomas G. McLeod, of South Carolina, to take action to insure the continuance of work on the Stone Mountain Confederate Memorial.

VALUE OF THE MARK FOR SETTLING PRE-WAR CLAIMS

Washington, Feb. 25.—A basis for computing the value of the mark in settling claims of American nations involving pre-war bank balances in Germany and debts owed in marks by German nationals before the war, has been agreed on by representatives of the two governments.

The claims, which are now before the mixed claims commission, United States and Germany, will bring American citizens more than $20,000,000, the commission estimated.

The debts, the commission announced in making public the agreement, will be settled on the basis, 16 cents as the value of the mark, and awards on this basis will bear 5 per cent interest from January 1, 1920, until paid.

The agreement will come about 2,000 claims for mark bank balances or debts coming before the commission. In a few cases where the money involved was paid by the German debtor directly to the German alien property custodian, the commission said, the awards will be on a basis of a 17.4 cent mark value, with interest at 5 per cent from date of payment to the German official, to the date of settlement of the award.

The commission said the agreement, which is the result of negotiations in Berlin last summer between Robert W. Boynge, American agent, and Dr. Karl Von Lowinski, the German agent, will greatly expedite its work.

NO WARRANT HAS YET BEEN ISSUED FOR OSBORNE G. WOOD

Biarritz, France, Feb. 25—No warrant has yet been issued for the arrest of Osborne C. Wood, former American Army lieutenant and son of Governor General Wood of the Philippines, following a complaint filed by the director of the Biarritz Casino that Wood had cashed an alleged worthless check for 35,000 francs with him. The police said they did not know Wood's exact whereabouts, but they understood he was in San Sebastian, Spain.

It was stated that the Bayonne magistrate, to whom the complaint was transmitted, had decided to wait a little longer before issuing a warrant in order to give the young American a final opportunity to make good the amount which the Casino director claims. The director is not inclined to press his charge providing he recovers his alleged loss. He said Wood had enjoyed a large credit with him and has cashed checks, at various times, for more than 200,000 francs and that these checks had all been good.

COOPERATIVE MARKETING BILL REJECTED BY HOUSE

Washington, Feb. 25.—The house today rejected the cooperative marketing bill which its agriculture committee had reported as a measure to carry out recommendations of the president's agricultural conference.

As a substitute, it accepted a proposal for federal assistance to cooperatives without federal control by Representative Dickinson, republican, Iowa, who contended it also was in line with the cooperative marketing suggestions of the president's conference.

The committee's bill, known as the Haugen measure, went into the discard by a standing vote of 138 to 78. A roll call vote on adoption of the Dickinson substitute will be the first order of business tomorrow.

Chairman Haugen, of the agriculture committee predicted that the Dickinson proposal would prevail. It was put over today, he said, by a coalition of democrats and "insurgents," who undoubtedly, he added, would support it in a record vote.

KING GEORGE STEADILY PROGRESSING TO RECOVERY

London, Feb. 25 (By the A. P.)—The progress in the recovery of King George, who has been ill for several days, was maintained this afternoon and only two physicians are now attending him, Lord Bertrand Dawson, the king's physician, has ceased his visits.

It has been settled that their majesties will travel overland to the Mediterranean, where the king is going to recuperate, in order to avoid the roughness of the Bay of Biscay. It is not believed that they will return to England before the latter part of April.

French Military Planes Collided 2,500 Feet up

Two Army Aviators Killed—Two Others Escaped With Slight Bruises.

Paris, Feb. 26.—Two military airplanes, performing evolutions over Pontlose, collided in the clouds 2,500 feet up, this afternoon. Both planes crashed to the ground and two of the army aviators lost their lives. The other two escaped with only a few bruises.

Corporal Piquenalle and Sergeant Larrue survived the crash. Adjutant Lebegue and Sergeant Bauchet, in the other plant, both died within a few minutes after the wreckage of their machine struck the earth.

Corporal Piquenalle said that they were in the clouds when they nosedived a thousand feet to get into the clear. He felt the impact when his plane struck the other one, but never saw it until he was extracted himself from the wreckage of his own machine and saw the other plane burst into flames on the ground.

He and Sergeant Larrue were the first to render assistance to the other fliers.

ARRANGEMENTS FOR FUNERAL SERVICES FOR JOB E. HEDGES

New York, Feb. 25.—Many persons well known in politics, law and finance attended the simple funeral services held in Brick Presbyterian church this afternoon for Job E. Hedges, who died last Sunday morning at Atlantic City. Hundreds of limousines formed the funeral train down Fifth avenue.

Following the services the casket was left in the church with a guard of honor, to await removal tonight to Dansville, N. Y., for burial tomorrow.

Services of utmost simplicity were conducted at the church. Escorted by the honorary pall-bearers, headed by Elihu Root, the casket, covered with white carnations, was borne down the aisle to an altar banked with blossoms and evergreen.

Honorary pall-bearers, in addition to Mr. Root included: Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, Charles D. Hilles, Benjamin B. Odell, Charles H. Sabin, Irvin S. Cobb, Augustus Thomas, Martin Saxe, Henry W. Taft, James A. O'Gorman, Richard E. Enright, Newcomb Carlton, William H. Edwards, Herman A. Metz, Luther B. Little, Judge Frederick Crane and John W. Dwight.

Among those attending the services were: Frank Munsey, Don C. Seitz, former Governor Charles Whitman, George E. Spinney, Mrs. Robert Bacon Mrs. Frank B. Owens, Pauline O. Field and Mrs. George F. Baker, Andrew Parker Nevin, Col. Arthur Little, Ambrose G. Todd, Col. Benjamin B. McAlpin, Theodore A. Swan, Major J. Frederick Hahn, Gordon MacKay, George W. Wickersham and Alton B. Parker.

Messages were sent by President Coolidge, Secretary of State Hughes and other members of the cabinet.

ADEQUATE NATIONAL DEFENSE THE BEST PEACE INSURANCE

Washington, Feb. 25. — Delegates representing 16 national women's organizations claiming membership aggregating 1,000,000 pledged themselves to promote the cause of peace and at the same time support a policy of adequate national defense "as the best peace insurance" at the concluding session today of the women's conference on national defense as peace insurance.

"In the present unsettled status of the world, living in the midst of national ambitions, jealousies and suspicions, and hatreds," the resolution stated, "it would be perile and foolish to cast off the instruments of defense."

The conference also recognized the "necessity for vigilance in counteracting the undermining of the loyalty and patriotic principle of the youth of the nation," and as further steps to strengthen national defense, it recommended enlargement of the reserve officers' training corps, now numbering 84,000 youths, to 100,000, and the launching of a nationwide educational campaign with respect to the national defense act.

WOULD BAR PAT. MEDICINE ADS FROM THE NEWSPAPERS

Provision in Bill is Included in the Proposed Medical Practices Act—Everett G. Hill, Secretary of the Connecticut Editorial Association, Maintained That the Bill Would Infringe on the Rights of Publishers and Rights of Subscribers as citizens—Ralph O. Wells, Counsel for the Connecticut Manufacturers' Association, Declared There was no Necessity for the Bill.

Hartford, Feb. 25.—"To limit what may be truthfully said is to limit the right of free speech, a thing which should be jealously guarded in a democracy," Ralph O. Wells, counsel for the Connecticut Manufacturers' association told the legislative judiciary committee today at a hearing at the state capitol on a bill to prohibit any company manufacturing proprietary or patent medicines from advertising in the papers of Connecticut.

The bill reads as follows:

"That for the protection of public health, no company manufacturing proprietary or patent medicines shall advertise in the papers of Connecticut."

Lawyer W. F. D. Kilpatrick of Bridgeport said that the provisions of the bill were included in the proposed medical practice act and could be decided at that hearing. Chairman Cronin of the committee said that inasmuch as there were a number of people present interested in the bill, the committee would hold a hearing. Mr. Kilpatrick said that the proposed medical practice act provided a $500 fine or six months in jail or both for violating it and it was obvious that the patent medicine companies were trying to practice medicine in the newspapers, eli submitted a number of clippings of patent medicine advertisements. Mr. Kilpatrick said that this bill would probably make the newspapers wake up to the fact that the proposed the bill before the committee, he said that he did not wish to go on record at this time.

"Why don't you front ?" asked Representative Bell, of the committee, to which Mr. Kilpatrick replied that from his experience as a worker in a drug store for five years he knew that 40 per cent. of the doctors prescribed patent medicines.

Representative Dipersio of Meriden opposed the bill and introduced Mr. Smith of the "Meriden Record," who also represented the "Meriden Journal" who said the bill would serve no good purpose and would work a hardship on people of small means. It was contrary to the interests of a great many people, he said, and also contrary to the interests of the newspapers.

Everett G. Hill, secretary of the Connecticut Editorial association said that body was opposed to the bill on principle. It was loosely drawn, he said and was aimed at the newspapers through the patent medicine advertiser. As the bill was drawn, it might prohibit a patent medicine manufacturer advertising a used car in a newspaper. He declared that the newspapers are the best judges of what should enter their columns and can be trusted to follow the welfare of their constituents. He maintained that the bill would infringe on the rights of the publishers and the rights of the subscribers as citizens. In respone to a questino, he said he could not say what proportion of a newspaper's revenue came from patent medicine advertising, but it was much less than it was ten years ago and the proportion of such revenue was higher for the country newspaper which did not command big city markets.

W. W. Ives, representing the "Norwich Bulletin" spoke against the measure as one which would interfere with the income of a newspaper and said the managers of that paper felt that the bill should go to the waste basket along with the tax on cats.

Mr. Wells, representing the Manufacturers' association, said he brought a different angle to the committee as he did not represent the newspapers but the manufacturers of well known and standard products. There was no necessity for the bill from the standpoint of public health as there was now a drastic law against fraudulent advertising and if the promised cure was not obtained that was false advertising. Insofar as advertising is truthful it is legitimate business. As drawn, he said the bill would prohibit advertising many well known and recognized remedies and named cough drops and mineral water as coming within this category. Furthermore, he said, the bill did not specify newspapers and would prohibit advertising in medical papers.

C. J. Baxter, of the Naugatuck "Daily News" opposed the bill and said that he believed that newspapers were always careful of the kind of advertising they took.

No one appeared in favor of the bill and more than half of those present rose when the chairman, of the committee asked for a show of those opposed.

MRS. BUDLONG IS GOING TO RETURN TO NEWPORT

Newport, R. I., Feb. 25.—Mrs. Jessie M. Budlong, of New York, and Newport, who recently withstood a week's siege in the Fifth avenue apartment of her husband, Milton J. Budlong, sent word to friends here today that she was coming to Newport but set no time for her arrival. Mrs. Budlong has been in New York since she left the apartment after her husband's agents had stripped it of furniture her messenger, Malcolm MacDonald, former tutor to one of her sons, reported.

MacDonald yesterday assisted in removing 10 trunks from the cottage here which Mrs. Budlong occupied for the last two years and then went to New York for a conference with his principal. Where the baggage was taken was not divulged. On returning to Newport today he made public the following statement which he said should be given him by Mrs Budlong:

"Mrs. Budlong appreciated very much the kind interest shown in her by the press and wishes to assure them of her safety and that she will be glad to give them a statement at the proper time.

"(Signed.)

"MRS. M. J. BUDLONG."

SENATORS TO CALL UP NOMINATION OF WARREN

Washington, Feb. 25.—Administration leaders, after a conference today with Senator Robinson of Arkansas, the democratic leader, decided tentatively to call up the nomination of Charles B. Warren, of Michigan, to be attorney general, at this session of the senate and to press for confirmation unless it develops that discussion will be of such duration as to interfere seriously with the legislative programme.

If Senators Reed of Missouri; Walsh, of Montana, democrats, and others in opposition insist on extended debate, the republican leaders said the nomination would be laid aside and President Coolidge would resubmit it to the special session of the senate called for noon, March 4.

HEAVY EARTH SHOCKS AT ANCHORAGE, ALASKA

Anchorage, Alaska, Feb. 25 (By the A. P.)—A heavy earth shock began here at 8.51 o'clock this morning and continued ten seconds. Little or no damage was done. A lighter shock had occurred at 8.26.

Earthquakes, which occurred Monday from one end of the Alaska railroad at Seward to the other, at Fairbanks, and which rocked buildings here for 19 1-2 seconds, were continued by three lighter shocks that evening. Two more minor tremors were felt at 2 o'clock and at 3.15 yesterday morning.

Tides have been abnormally high recently.

DEMAND SUPPRESSION OF PLAY "THE ARCHANGEL"

Paris, Feb. 25—The family of Georges Guynemer, France's foremost war ace, has protested against the play, "The Archangel," by Maurice Rostand, which it was planned to produce shortly. The relatives of the late flyer claim that the play depicts episodes which were inspired by Guynemer's war record. They have informed M. Rostand that they have "reserved all their rights in law," and demand the suppression of the production.

ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED OF MISS ABBY ROCKEFELLER

New York, Feb. 25.—Mr. and Mrs. John D. Rockefeller, Jr., tonight announced the engagement of their only daughter Abby, to David Merriwether Milton, Jr., a young New York attorney who has known Miss Rockefeller since childhood.

The wedding, it was said, will take place in May, although the date has not yet been set. The couple plan to take a small apartment in keeping with Mr. Milton's salary.

The Milton family have been neighbors of the Rockefellers at Pocantico Hill for years and they also occupied adjacent summer home at Seal Harbor, on the Maine coast.

Mr. Milton, who is 26 years old, is a graduate of Williams college and of the Columbia University Law school. During the World war, he served in the naval reserve unit at Yale. He was admitted to the bar a few months ago and now is associated with the New York law firm of Satterlee & Canfield.

Miss Rockefeller is 21 years old. She was born in New York city and was educated at a private school here. Her name was prominent in the newspaper last summer after she had received a suspended sentence in traffic court on a charge of speeding. An investigation ordered by Mayor Hylan disclosed that it was her second offense but that the record had been charged so as to list her as a first offender.

The police officers adjudged responsible for suspending the second sentence were disciplined.

Mr. Milton, friends said tonight, was with Miss Rockefeller when she was arrested, and represented her in court. The car she was driving was his. Mr. Milton's father, an attorney, was a native of Louisville, Ky. He died in 1913.

SEVEN LIFE SAVERS DROWNED OFF FRANCE

La Rochelle, France, Feb. 25 (By the A. P.)—Seven men of the life-saving station today lost their lives when the lifeboat in which they put out from here to try and rescue sailors aboard the stranded Spanish steamer Christinarueda, capsized in the breakers. Three men, of the crew of ten, reached shore.

Eighteen Spanish sailors aboard the steamer, which is loaded with sulphates and was driven aground on the western shore of the Isle of Re yesterday during a storm, apparently are doomed. What appear to be lifeless bodies are to be seen swaying in the wind in the rigging to which they evidently lashed themselves. Others of the crew are believed to have been washed overboard by the heavy seas. The wind today remained unabated in violence.

NEW HAVEN TO HAVE 250 ROOM HOTEL WITH THEATRE

New Haven, Feb. 25.—Plans for erection of an eleven-story building to contain a theatre and 250 hotel rooms at an estimated cost of $1,000,000 fronting on George street, and extending through to Commerce street by A. William Sperry, engineer and other local and New York interests are well underway, according to an announcement here today. The project would be the initial attempt to develop a section of the business center where few changes have been made for many years.

WILLIMANTIC

County Detective William E. Jackson and the two representatives, A. Linn Weatherhead and Charles B. Pomeroy, were the only residents of Willimantic to celebrate what was to have been Thread City day at the state capitol Wednesday. It had been predicted by some that several from this city and the town of Windham would appear before the committee on cities and boroughs, who held a hearing on five bills of local interest. There was but one objection to one of the bills. A well known citizen of democratic faith went to Hartford with the alleged purpose of appearance against the bill providing for the payment of $750 to Acting Mayor George W. Hickey for services to be rendered. The nature of the bill was thoroughly explained in the corridor to the local man by Representative Weatherhead and the former then announced that he would confine his objections to the common council, when that body attempts to authorize the payment of the salary. The bills taken were, in substance, a substitute bill which requires the president of the Willimantic common council to become mayor when the office of mayor becomes permanently vacant; providing for the payment of $750 to George W. Hickey for his services as acting mayor; an act establishing a firemen's pension fund for Willimantic firemen. This bill would place the fire department on a par with the police pension fund. An act repealing an act in the general statutes which now requires that any appropriation of $1,000 or more made at a town meeting in the town of Windham be ratified by ballot. Representative Weatherhead informed the committee that he understood that there were objections to that bill and a postponement of the hearing on that bill was granted.

The fifth bill to be taken up concerned an act amending the charter of the city of Willimantic allowing the common council to appropriate $2,000 for the use of the library committee. This is an increase of $1,000 over the present amount.

Willimantic police court officials were among those of six Connecticut cities to definitely receive grants for salary increases at the session of the state senate held under the gilded dome at Hartford Wednesday.

Nothing special developed Wednesday relative to the threatened strike situation at the American Thread company plant here. Thomas F. McMahon of Providence, R. I., president of the United Textile Workers of America, who presided at a meeting of the workers Tuesday evening, was in conference with Agent Don H. Curtis of the local mills Wednesday forenoon. Also present at the private hearing were Miss Amy Hooker, chairman of the local textile workers' council, and members of the workers' committee. President McMahon had nothing to say after the conference, merely stating that the company could offer any information that might be available. Agent Curtis said that all the grievances of the workers had been heard, inclusive of the outstanding petition to have the 10 per cent reduction effective Jan. 12 last, restored. President McMahon and other representatives of the employes present at the conference were informed that it was impossible for the company to restore the wage cut at this time. This was a repetition of what Agent Curtis told the workers at a conference they held with him some ten days ago. Miss Amy Hooker, local president, stated later in the day that she would not give out a statement, but she gave practical assurance that there would not be a strike at present. President McMahon will go to New York to take the matter up with the head officials of the American Thread company. About 2,500 operatives would be affected by a vote for a strike, and every endeavor is being made to avoid such a disastrous move.

Nearly $10,000 was added to the new hotel campaign fund here from Tuesday evening to Wednesday noon, it was declared at a salesmen's dinner held the first day of the intensive drive. This excellent report, representing but a few hours of working time, swelled the fund from $117,400, as it stood Tuesday evening, to $127,200, a total of $9,800 in additional subscriptions. Division C, under Roland B. Jordan, maintained the lead, with Team 8 of that division, under Raymond A. Parker, leading the group aggregations. The supplementary report made Wednesday by divisions was: Division A, manager, James P. Bath—Team 1, P. D. Donahue, $200; Team 2, Harry S. Gaucher, $1,000; Team 5, J. E. Sullivan, $400. Division B, F. J. Hinds and G. W. Hickey, managers; Team 4, O. B. Robinson, $1,200; Team 5, J. P. Mustard, $600; Team 6, W. A. Dawson, $200. Division C, R. B. Jordan, manager—Team 7, L. H. Arnold, $200; Team 8, R. A. Parker, $1,800; Team 9, J. B. Riordan, $600. Division D, A. J. Martineau, manager—Team 10, R. C. Com—Team 11,ins, $200; Team 11, Albert J. Piche, $400; Team 12, D. VanZandt, not reported, due to absence of team manager.

At the session of the police court Wednesday Everett Perkins, charged with non-support of his minor child, pleaded guilty, but stated that he had met with a series of discouraging circumstances. He had broken his [illegible] This was now better and he was ready to work but could not find a job. The court gave him until March 7 to find a job and provide support for his child. In the event that Perkins fails to do this, he will be sentenced to jail. The child is being cared for by the Children's Aid society, and First Selectman Russell A. Andrews stated that about a year ago Perkins had agreed to reimburse the town for the care of the child, but up to the present time had only paid $10, and that was last July.

The women members of the troop committee of the Girl Scouts of St. Joseph's parish were entertained Wednesday evening at St. Joseph's hall at a George Washington party. The regular troop formation exercises were followed by an entertainment. Miss Mary Klososki announced the numbers, the first being several popular songs sun by Miss Rose Welch to the ukelele. The next number was a tableau, The Birth of Old Glory, with colonial characters taken by Claire and Ethel Matthieu, Jennie Kirby, Juanita Bocash, Mildred Hughes, Esther Portelance and Margaret Colgan. Louise Sullivan appeared as Betsy Ross. A recitation, The Spirit of Patriotism, was given by Miss Louise Sullivan, and Valley Forge by Miss Alice Carey. Miss Helen Dillon read Washington's Farewell to His Soldiers, and Miss Mildred Hughes Washington's Recreations. The old-fashioned minuet was danced by Louise Sullivan, Claire Matthieu, Juanita Bocash, Margaret Colgan, Alice Carey, Mildred Hughes, Agnes Regan, Ethel Matthieu, Jennie Kirby Esther Portelance, Claire Lombardo and Helen Dillon. A musical selection was given by Misses Claire and Ethel Matthieu with saxophone and violin, accompanied by Miss Helen Dillon. "During 60 years of Married Life"...

Three Generations Kept Healthy and Happy

"Beecham's Pills were always considered indispensable by my parents during sixty years of married life and I am never without them in my home, as they are used when required by myself (aged sixty-one), and wife and children. This covers a period of over eighty years.

My wife and sons also believe there is no remedy for constipation and biliousness equal to Beecham's Pills.

So many so-called "cures" for biliousness and kindred troubles leave after effects that are certainly injurious, but Beecham's Pills give prompt relief and leave one in a healthy and happy condition." N. J. M. Ramsay, N. J.

You don't have to stand over this new kind of soap while it washes. Unaided, it gently loosens and floats out the dirt . . . .

Then you just rinse the clothes snowy white

Now you just RINSE

This new kind of soap does the washing for you —

This New Kind of soap, unaided, loosens dirt—leaves you just the rinsing

HELPING imperfect soap—that's what women have been doing on washday.

Rubbing and rubbing to dissolve the soap—rubbing still more to loosen dirt. Hard, dreary work.

Now from the makers of Lux comes a new kind of soap for the family wash—a soap in tiny granules that dissolve quickly, completely. Rinso really does by itself without any hard rubbing all the hard work of loosening dirt. Then you are left with only the lighter work of rinsing the clothes clean. That's why it is called Rinso. Gently, safely, while you rest or do other things, Rinso does the washing.

Washday is SHORTER—because you no longer have to rub soap on clothes and then rub clothes on the washboard. All this time is saved.

Washday is CHEERIER—because you no longer work alone for hours rubbing and rubbing.

Washday is EASIER for you—easier on the clothes. Rinso really does the wonders for your weekly wash that Lux does for fine things.

Does this seem hard to believe? Rinso is now doing all the hardest part of washing in more than a million homes every week. Read what these women say:

"No more standing over the tubs rubbing — now the dirt floats out and I just rinse" . . .

"One day I read about Rinso and decided to give it a trial. I found that I had practically no rubbing to do after I had soaked the clothes over night as I followed directions. The spots that were quite dirty came out with one rub and good thorough rinsing. I can now finish my wash in about two hours, feeling just as fresh as though I had not done the washing."

Mrs. J. C. W., Yonkers, New York

"The thorough rinsing brings out everything snowy white" . . .

"I am delighted with the way Rinso gets my clothes clean. I put my clothes to soak at night and in the morning I find them so clean. The thorough rinsing brings everything out white as snow. I am saved so much time and labor—actually it gives me an extra two hours. There is almost never any rubbing except on places that always have to be rubbed a bit because they are so grimy. But even this is loosened by Rinso."

Mrs. E. W., Arlington, Mass.

DIRECTIONS:

Save all that time you used to spend rubbing bar soap on clothes. Put some Rinso in a saucepan. Pour boiling water over it to get all its good cleansing power free. Quickly, completely the tiny granules dissolve into a clear solution. Pour this into the wash water. Use enough to get creamy, lasting suds. Then drop in the clothes. Soak—boil—or use a washing machine as you prefer. Rinso works perfectly any way you like best to wash. Only very soiled places, like cuff edges and romper knees, may need just light rubbing between your hands after sprinkling them with dry Rinso. Get Rinso today in the big new package or the regular size. Lever Bros. Co., Cambridge, Mass.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

Secretary John H. Corbett of the Windham County Y. M. C. A. has sent out the following of interest to many residents hereabouts:

Dr. Fletcher S. Brockman of New York associate general secretary of the National Council of the Y. M. C. A. is to speak at a banquet to be held at the Wauregan hotel, Norwich, Saturday evening, February 28 at 6:15 o'clock. The committees and boards of directors of all the Y. M. C. A.'s in New London and Windham counties are expected to be in attendance at the banquet. Several Windham county committee men are planning to go.

Dr. Brockman is to be in Connecticut throughout the whole week for the purpose of making a speaking tour of the state to inform the people of some of the plans and problems of the new national council, its relationship to the local associations; also, of the world-wide stretch and influence of the Y. M. C. A.

Dr. Brockman is eminently fitted as a speaker on this subject, having been a Y. M. C. A. secretary for over 20 years and having traveled throughout the world in the interests of Y. M. C. A. work.

His itinerary in Connecticut includes Stamford, New Haven, Torrington, Hartford, and Norwich.

Miss Andiana Bernier, teacher in St. James' parochial school, is confined to her home on Reynolds street by illness. Miss Jeannette Gareau is substitute teacher.

Now that the months of short water supply appear to be at an end, though the dry northeaster of Wednesday contributed nothing to relieving the drought, it is of interest to note that some manufacturing concerns have been so badly handicapped for power at times during the winter that they would have had to close, throwing hundreds out of work, were it not for the electric power made available to them by the local lighting and power company. Some mills hereabouts depend in considerable degree on water for power, but with this unavailable they turned to the power company for relief and were not disappointed. The power company saved the situation and enabled the plants to keep going and hundreds of people to remain at work.

It's an early season in more ways than one! Earle C. Harper, hailing out of Providence, arrived here Wednesday afternoon, the first of the cross-continent hikers seen here this season, though they have become familiar enough figures during the summer season for several years. Harper is bound for Washington state. He expects to arrive there some time during the spring and is not particular as the the exact date. Out of his experience on other long distance hikes Harper has learned that he likely will have to walk only a small fraction of all the mileage that lies between here and the Pacific coast. He depends on friendly motorists to give him lifts and is not likely to be disappointed. He tells of having "hiked" as many as two hundred miles in a day. This was when he happened to meet with someone going his way and was invited for a long motor haul. Harper says he enjoys going about the county. He is a carpenter by trade, a sturdy man, and never finds it difficult to obtain employment and opportunity to earn sufficient funds for his limited needs. He expects to stay on the Pacific coast until early fall and then hike it back again east for the winter season. He is not at all worried about encountering bad weather during March, figuring that 1925 is going to produce a very early spring.

James C. Moran, recently operated upon at Day Kimball hospital, in Putnam, is making steady progress toward recovery. It is expected that he will be able to return to his home in about two weeks.

Grangers representatives of all the subordinate granges in Windham county will come here Saturday for the February meeting of Quinebaug Pomona grange. A program of more than average interest has been arranged for this meeting.

Charles A. Tillinghas of North Main street is at Salisbury, N. C., visiting with his father, T. A. Tillinghast, for many years a resident of the town of Brooklyn. Mr. Tillinghas will remain in the south until early in March.

There is interest here in hearings scheduled for today (Thursday) at Hartford on bills pertaining to the fish and game laws, especially in the bill that provides an increased charge for hunting and fishing licenses.

Irritated by Shaving. Caused Disfigurement. Healed by Cuticura.

"I was troubled with a breaking out of pimples around my neck and chin. The pimples were hard and red and after a day or two festered. When I shaved I irritated them and they itched and burned something awful. The breaking out caused disfigurement so that I hated to go out.

"I read an advertisement for Cuticura Soap and Ointment and sent for a free sample. After using it I could see an improvement so purchased more and now I am healed." (Signed) Edward Dietrich, 18 N. Cherry St., Poughkeepsie, N. Y., June 14, 1924.

Beer seized in a recent raid in Dyer street has been destroyed by Chief John McFarland.

A monster turtle that seized an oar of a boat that Norman Ross was rowing along one of the coves of the Quinebaug river was taken aboard by Mr. Ross and brought to town. The turtle weighed about 40 pounds.

Services in observance of the opening of the Lenten season were held at St. Alban's church Wednesday.

The Goodyear mills powerhouse at Goodyear is retained now merely as an auxiliary, the big plant buying such electric power as it requires, in addition to the water power, from the Danielson and Plainfield Gas and Electric company.

Free tuition at Camp Woodstock, the tri-county Y. M. C. A. summer camp at Black Pond in the town of Woodstock, has, through the obtaining of subscriptions for a magazine, been won by Lyman Lyon and Gordon Cunneen of Danielson, Walter R. Weeks and Merwin A. Chase of Dayville, Robert Bolger and Arthur Ross of Putnam and Frank C. Lynch of Thompson.

Killingly High school basketball team is scheduled to play the Woodstock Academy team at Woodstock Friday evening.

BOOTLEGGER APRIL FOOLED, BUT WAS LUCKY AT THAT

(Special to The Bulletin)

Danielson, Feb. 25.—A story is going the rounds about a bootegger who was the victim of some real naughty men. This man came out of Rhode Island to sell some alcohol in eastern Connecticut towns and it is related that he had ten cans of the liquid when he arrived in this state.

At Willimantic, it is said, he expected to dispose of the load, but found a buyer for only three cans of his illicit cargo. He remained in Willimantic and on his way back to Providence, the following day stopped here. Casually remarking during his stopover here to a man he met under circumstances that appeared to warrant taking a chance, that he had some alcohol for sale and did the man happen to know of a buyer, he was told that this was a ready market for his goods and was directed to a certain place to make a sale.

While he was engaged in an effort to interview the prospective customer, the story goes, the man he had been conversing with telephoned a tip to an officer to come around and seize the alcohol in the bootlegger's car. The seizure was made within a few minutes and then came a surprise for all involved. The cans contained water!

If one can believe the most interesting version of the case, the bootlegger does not know whether his cans were emptied of alcohol and refilled with water while his machine was in a garage in Willimantic for the night, or whether he never did have anything but water in those cans and was trimmed out of his money, when he made the original purchase.

In any event, it all goes to establish once more what a high code of ethics prevails in the purveying of intoxicants in this day and age. In this particular case, however, the bootlegger was very fortunate that he was carrying water instead of alcohol. His loss on the alcohol likely was very much less than would have been the penalty imposed if he had been brought into court for transporting it.

"draws" four games with Mr. Watts who was the winner of the second prize. Because of the number lots had to be drawn as to who should play in the finals and Mr. Warren was eliminated this way.

The Boston Checker club holds several tournaments on Washington's birthday every year. Judge M. H. Geissler accompanied Mr. Warren and played in the contests but did not make as good a record. His mind may have been disturbed by the fact that on Washington's birthday two years ago he was in Boston as a participant in the checker tournament and arrived in Putnam the next morning to find that his law office in the Donahue block had been wiped out by fire.

A youthful appendicitis patient is Phyllis Babcock, the three year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Babcock of Dayville. She was operated on Tuesday and gives every indication of complete recovery.

Mr. Knott of New York city, president of the Knott Hotels house of the Putnam Inn is here today (Thursday).

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Van Brunt Cushmen and Dr. Allerton Cushman are in Bermuda.

The Pomfret Mah Jongg Club met last with Mrs. Herbert W. Bowen at Woodstock.

The Webster Times, which suffered a $15,000 fire loss Tuesday night, is owned and edited by Raymond W. Sheldon, formerly of Putnam. The building, which was damaged to the extent of $10,000 is the property of another former Putnam citizen, William C. Klebart. The building was flooded with water and all the power and light wires cut off but Mr. Sheldon and the members of the Times force worked all Tuesday night and were able to get out their edition on Wednesday afternoon, using their own linotype machines and their own press.

Fire Chief Otto K. Gatzke fell from one of the walls of the burning building and had to be taken home. The foreman of the composing room of the Times, Frances L. Love, was overcome by smoke and had to be carried out of the building. The fire is believed to have started in the basement of the Kuhlin clothing store.

STRICKEN WHILE IN CAR JOHN ASH DIES AT POMFRET

(Special to the Bulletin)

Putnam, Feb. 25—John Ash, 63, died at his home in Pomfret shortly after 1 o'clock Wednesday morning from cerebral hemorrhage. Apparently in good health, he drove his car into Putnam during Tuesday morning and started back to Pomfret about noon. He was able to get the car into the yard of his home but had to be assisted from it and into the house. A physician was summoned and he applied restoratives, but Mr. Ash soon sank into unconsciousness and died about twelve hours later.

Mrs. Ash and eight children survive him, four boys and four girls. All of the children are here except a married daughter who lives in California.

For many years Mr. Ash had been one of the leading citizens of Pomfret and active in all civic affairs, an activity which extended to Putnam, as he was almost as well known here as at his home. He was vice president of the Putnam Rotary Club which, at its meeting today, adopted resolutions on his death and several of the members spoke briefly extolling his good qualities.

Mr. Ash was born in Waterhouse, England, in 1863. He grew to manhood and married there. In 1890 he came to America and made his home in Pomfret. He held many offices in the town and in 1922 was elected to the state senate from the 29th district. His son, J. Frederick Ash, was elected a representative from Pomfret at the same.

Mr. Ash was a 32nd degree mason, a member of Putnam lodge, A. F. and A. M. of Woodstock.

Come in—see what Studebaker offers in this Sedan at $1545

NEW beauty—new lines—new performance, and now—new value; these are some of the things the new Studebaker Standard Six Sedan offers at its new reduced price.

It is a fact that this Sedan will out-perform any car selling within hundreds of dollars of its price.

No car possesses greater beauty or is more luxuriously comfortable. No car is more enjoyable to drive or is easier to steer.

Comparison with other cars selling for more — or less—will provide convincing proof of its greater dollar-for-dollar value, its better performance, surplus power, unusual roadability, and many other desirable features.

No matter how much money you expect to invest in a car, by all means see the Standard Six Sedan, ride in it—drive it yourself. It is then that you will realize the difference.

The price of this Sedan is low, simply because of Studebaker's large production, vast physical and financial resources, and because it is manufactured complete—body and chassis—in Studebaker plants.

Its new reduced price—$1545—has entirely revised all standards of closed car values.

STUDEBAKER

THIS IS A STUDEBAKER YEAR

OLD MYSTIC

Rev. Lowney McClennen exchanged pulpits with Rev. George B. Jones Sunday morning.

While the interior of the Baptist church is being decorated, services are held in the conference room and the evening service is omitted.

Mr. and Mrs. Allen Stevenson of Boston has been spending a few days with the former's sister, Mrs. H. O. Williams.

Mrs. William Holmes and two children are visiting Mr. Holmes' mother, Mrs. G. R. Swain.

The Ladies' Aid society met Tuesday with Mrs. Albert Burrows. Washington's birthday features were a part of the social time.

Miss Susan Babcock was taken suddenly ill Sunday with an attack of indigestion. Her sister is staying with her.

Miss Emma Williams has returned to her duties as teacher in New London after a vacation spent at her home.

The meeting of Mystic Grange members living here was held at the home of Joseph Disley Monday evening. Twenty-one local members and eight from Mystic were present. Master Pollard and Brother Congdon gave talks on the work of the Grange. A social hour followed. Cake and coffee was served. It was decided to hold another meeting next Monday night at the same place.

WOODSTOCK

The Ladies' Benevolent society met with Mrs. George M. Sampson Tuesday afternoon for a sewing meeting.

Mrs. Julius Rutishauser has been the guest of Mrs. F. B. Harrison in East Bridgewater, Mass.

F. C. Lawton was the leader at the meeting at the Hill church Sunday evening, the topic being Lessons from the Lives of Paul and George Washington.

Merrill L. Healey, from Hartford, Beatrice Healy and a friend from Conn. Agricultural college were at L. H. Healey's over Sunday.

The Flynn-McClellan Memorial bronze has arrived and is to be placed in the Bracken Memorial Library.

PAWCATUCK BD. OF TRADE IS FORMALLY ORGANIZED

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Westerly, Feb. 25.—The Pawcatuck Board of Trade organized Wednesday evening at Vets hall, Walton block, on West Broad street, Pawcatuck, when there were present 50 representatives of business firms, corporations and partnerships. The organization follows a series of meetings which were begun January 20, 1925. The Wednesday night meeting adopted a constitution and by-laws which put the management of the board in the hands of three committees, nominating committee, executive committee and committee on committees. Annual dues of $3 were adopted and monthly meetings decided upon, for which fifteen members will constitute a quorum. The meeting was called to order by Acting President Frank L. Furness with Paul F. Reitzel secretary. Secretary Reitzel reviewed the work of the various committee meetings and said that this evening's meeting would complete the organization with the adoption of the constitution and by-laws. President Furness appointed the following nominating committee: A. R. Stillman, Stuart Fisher and Simon Kinney. Reporting for the committee, Simon Kinney named the following members of the executive committee: Karl Stillman, F. M. Robinson, Henry A. Stable, E. W. Clark, George O. Murphy, George R. McKenna, D. Everett Hoxie, William A. Wilcox Frank L. Furness, A. F. Babcock, David Novogkrod, Paul F. Reitzel, Edwin K. Parker, Samuel Girven and Samuel Bailey. The executive committee retired and when they returned Earl Stanton announced the following list of officers who were voted in for the coming year: President, Frank L. Furness; vice president, George O. Murphey; treasurer, F. M. Robinson; secretary, Paul F. Reitzel.

When President Furness called for resolutions for the good of Pawcatuck George R. McKenna stated that there was no money in the treasury and forthwith some forty members proceeded to pay their next year's dues. President Furness said that the board of trade of the borough of Stonington had held no meeting for 17 years, but hearing of the Pawcatuck trade body project had called a meeting for next month. "Anything we can do for them or they can do for us will work to the best advantage of all," he declared.

The Bugong Moth

The Bugong or butterfly is a delicacy which epicures among certain aboriginal peoples of Australia will travel long distances to obtain. The butterflies gather every year on the slopes of the Bugong Mountains, in New South Wales, where they are caught by being suffocated by the smoke of wood fires lighted under the trees.

Life may be one grand, sweet song, but the majority of us can't sing. It is a man's longing for better things that gives birth to his love for woman.

AUTO DRIVERS' INSURANCE.

From the tenor of the bills which have been presented and the suggested changes that were made by the motor vehicles commissioner before the legislative committee on roads, rivers and bridges, the goal aimed at is to make the "bad" driver responsible for the damage he may do and to bring about the prevention of so many accidents.

From such progress as has been made in this direction in the past this is admittedly no easy task. The need of new methods and better results is being disclosed more and more each year as the effects of automobile driving are brought to attention. There is the too long list of fatalities, there is the even longer list of persons injured and there is the large bill of expense that is piled up by the drivers of machines. Some have protected themselves and others against the greatly increased uncertainty of the highway. Some are able to meet whatever damage they might cause, but there are many others who have nothing with which to make good such damage, who in fact have little or nothing invested in the machine they use, and yet who are in a position to do just as much harm and cause just as much trouble, through recklessness or otherwise, as anyone else.

Compulsory insurance for all doesn't make a good impression. It is not improbable that it will be required, but the commissioner's plan of forcing the "bad" drivers, those who are found guilty of driving a car while under the influence of liquor, reckless driving or evading responsibility, to take out insurance or furnish a bond, indicates the desire to delay that as long as possible by first endeavoring to reach those who have indicated that they should have it as a proper protection for others.

If recklessness could be eliminated much of the cause for the demand for compulsory insurance would be overcome, and yet all accidents are not caused by recklessness or carelessness on the part of drivers. The importance of the insurance feature under such conditions is not to be hastily disregarded.

Whatever may be said against compulsory insurance for all there can be no question but what the "bad" drivers ought to be required to provide that much consideration for others.

MINE EXPLOSIONS.

Appalling was the loss of life in the coal mine at Sullivan, Ind., where half a hundred were killed by an explosion. Whether anything definite can be established as to the cause will be disclosed by the investigation. With all killed who were in a position to know just what happened much difficulty is thrown in the way of the investigators.

It is possible to ascertain the condition under which mining is done at that point and it can be determined whether it is surrounded with the proper degree of care and whether the mining laws are sufficient to insure the necessary degree of safety.

The fact that there was an explosion shows that there existed causes for it, and it will be unfortunate if it is impossible to reach a definite conclusion as to just what those causes were.

Reports have indicated that the mining at that point is carried on without safety lights, one explanation being that this is regarded as a protection to the men inasmuch as the flames touch off and dispose of small pockets of gas which the miners would not otherwise detect. When however there are larger pockets of gas than should be fired in such a manner it would indicate that it constitutes a serious menace. The indications are that such was the case in this instance. Such being the case there appears to have been furnished one good reason why the use of the open mining lights should be restricted, if in fact they should not be abandoned.

Possibly this disaster will show to Indiana that its mining laws are not what they should be, that safety is given too little consideration. There is no indication that the mining laws of the state have been violated, but when such a toll is exacted in a mine explosion there is sufficient reason for seriously considering the situation and establishing such safeguards for the future as are shown to be needed.

THE GUGGENHEIM ENDOWMENT

Since the Cecil Rhodes scholarships were established more than a score of years ago, the service they have rendered and the appreciation that has been manifested by those eligible to receive them has been the subject of study by Simon Guggenheim of Colorado, a man of great wealth and a former United States senator.

Having recognized the excellence of the idea and the good accomplished, he has been inspired to similar action as a means of establishing a memorial to his son whose college career was cut short by death, and has provided in the name of himself and his wife the sum of $3,000,000 as a preliminary endowment for 50 scholarships for international study. He has not restricted these scholarships along just the same lines as in the case of the Rhodes funds, for he has fixed the age limits from 25 to 35 and made eligible thereby instructors as well as students, it being possible for the former during sabbatical years to get a year's study in other countries.

By the provisions it is figured that each scholarship will mean about $2,500 but the flexibility of the rules is such that this may be increased or the period extended when conditions warrant. Likewise when the fund is referred to as a preliminary endowment the impression is gained that it has been fixed at the present figure for the purpose of a test with the possibility, if everything goes well and desired results are obtained, it may at some later time be increased that more may receive the benefits.

In the promotion of this additional educational opportunity Mr. Guggenheim is doing a most generous act. It is in keeping with other efforts for the bettering of conditions and for providing increases opportunities. It is not improbable that it will result, as intended, in an improved international understanding, and the test is certain to be watched by many others than the two in whose name the endowment has been given.

REWARDING THE FLYERS.

Just why the bill, which gave recognition to the accomplishment of the American flyers who circled the globe, has been delayed so long is hard to understand when there appears to be no opposition to fitting recognition and reward, but there is satisfaction that that has been found time in the rush of business during the closing days of congress to take action.

The house acted some time ago and now that the senate has approved that action there is no doubt but what the president will affix his signature. This will mean that the aviators, airmen in the service of the government, will not only get due credit for their remarkable performance but that they will by act of congress be advanced in rank, will be presented with distinguished service medals and will be given the necessary authority to accept any medals or decorations which foreign countries may desire to confer upon them.

There was courage, bravery and ability displayed in the flight around the world. Honor goes with the accomplishment and it will never be possible to wrest it from them. Others have attempted it and failed but American preparations, skill and pluck were such as to bring success, and now, that there may be a distinction between what they have done and ordinary service, they are to receive the benefits of congressional action in keeping with what has been done for others who have rendered signal service. No precedents have been broken in the course followed by congress but it is none the less sincere and certainly in keeping with the admiration and applause that have come from the country.

REDUCING RAILROAD WRECKS.

Cases like the railroad accident on the Pennsylvania road in New Jersey where two were killed and many hurt are bound to be held up as instances which show the need for the much talked of automatic train control as a means of augmenting signals and protecting the lives of the traveling public.

Here was an instance where something went wrong, though it may not have been established as yet just what it was. It was on a system where elaborate safeguards are established, but as in cases which are of recent occurrence on other lines there is disclosed time and again the frightful havoc that can be wrought from the disregard for signals, the failure to remember orders or the existence of conditions which make the observance of signals exceedingly difficult.

In such cases it is inevitable that there should be brought to attention the protection which an efficient train control would furnish. The objection that has been raised to a thorough compliance with the order of the interstate commerce commission for the equipping of a certain amount of mileage on railroad lines with such a device is that such control has not been perfected to the point where the large expense involved is advisable. Tests which have been made on certain stretches of railroads have inevitably been accompanied by reports of satisfactory accomplishments, and there are reasons for believing that when the day comes that main lines are provided with such additional safety devices the number of railroad accidents will decrease and the number of killed and injured will grow less. It is a much desired attainment.

HELPFUL ADVICE

At last Alice, rummaging through a stack of women's magazines, found the page she wanted. It was one of those Helpful Advice pages and the different titles were How I Cured My Husband of—" and , oh, the numerous things these husbands had been cured of.

One whose husband was constantly leaving his things here and there, had, when he departed for work, put a little nail in each sock, tie and shoe, thus bringing to him contrition for his carelessness; one had cured her husband of profanity; one—and it was this one that Alice read carefully—had cured her husband of staying out late at night.

Not that her Bill was a rounder! No, but he just—well, when he was out playing cards with the fellows he always had an idea he was getting home about 12—but instead milkmen were clinking on porches, roosters were twittering in the rear.

It was only last night and Alice had been so sure that he had been held up—but then she was always so sure; or that he was in an automobile crash—she could always see it in every detail. Oh, those awful hours of lying aching helpless, in bed, waiting!

"Believe me!" she said with grim lips, "tonight I'm going out." That was the tried and true recipe. Simple. The wife should go out the next night and stay as late—even later.

The idea was not exactly enticing. The nights were so cold now, and the last few days Alice had felt so shivery she just couldn't get warm But after supper she struck out. Where could she go? Maybelle always had company, and she knew that Anne was going to the P. T. A. meeting. Finally she went to see Bee Matthews. But Bee's baby had been croupy the night before and it was not hard to see the poorly suppressed yawns of the whole family. She stayed as long as she decently could in the face of them.

On her way from Bee's she examined every article in the Three Rules store windows — slowly, minutely. She studied every magazine displayed in the drugstore window. Even then it was only 10:30!

She was nearing home and again she shivered and drew her coat up to a lumpy-feeling throat. It was nice and warm at home.

She thought once of slipping down into their own basement, close to the furnace, but the dog would bark or whine. She wouldn't give in! She could see Bill sitting there yawning —waiting. Well, let him wait—let him think!

Finally she crept in through the back entrance of their garage.

She climbed into the front seat of the car, pulled the thin laprobe over her. It was 11 by the clock in the dashboard. Let's see—four hours to stay. She half curled up on the seat. It was cramped and uncomfortable. Her eyes felt very heavy. She was so tired, so tired and achy, and though her feet were cold her head was hot.

The next thing she knew a light flashed in her face and man's voice exclaimed: "Heavens, Allie! What are you doing here?"

"I'm staying here," she tried to say with dignity. Her tongue seemed thick.

"Come on in," and he took her by the arm. "Why, you'll catch your death—"

But Alice shook off his arm petulantly. "I wont go in," she muttered and she tried to see what the dancing hands of the clock said. "I won't go in till 4 o'clock. Every night that you stay out late I'm going to stay out later—but don't you let on. Besides, my head doesn't belong to the rest of me—you know—and I think I'm going to die tomorrow, but I won't go in tonight."

And then, though she didn't remember, Bill reached out and picked her up and carried her in; and he saw the tears that had been in her eyes and the deep red in her cheeks.

She didn't die the next day, though the doctor came, and with Bill standing white and worried at the foot of the bed, put a thermometer in her mouth and thumped her chest and tried to take her respiration.

"Pretty noisy, isn't she?" said the doctor.

For Alice was living over those nights when Bill had been out so late. And all the things she had been too hurt and too bitter to say she was saying now. She moaned that he was lying in the alley, knocked in the head by holdups, and she couldn't get to him. She screamed out that he was in an automobile wreck.

"Gee," said Bill, with sheepishly trembling lips, "I never supposed she worried—like that!"

That was on Thursday. On Sunday, Alice was able to sit up, pillows patted in place by a tender, ministering Bill.

And, do you know, Bill doesn't go out so much—never stays out so late. Usually about 12—uh-huh!—Chicago News.

Morse Won Success, Then Faced Poverty

After achieving success in his chosen field, Samuel F. B. Morse conceived an idea that caused him to start over again and brought him suffering and privation.

Bright, aspiring and precocious as a pupil in the school at Charlestown, Mass., his desire to draw pictures was frowned on by his father, who was a distinguished clergyman. Entering Yale at 12, Samuel continued his splendid record as a student, and was admonished by the president of the college to abandon his drawing and painting.

But the boy painted and sold miniatures, and finally won his father's consent to go to London to study at 20. His rise as an artist was rapid, his painting, Dying Hercules, winning high praise at the Royal academy.

Returning to Boston at 24, he planned historical paintings, but had to seek other fields to make a living. In Charleston, S. C., success came and at one time he had 150 orders for portraits in advance. Going to New York at 32, he continued his success and was first president of an art club that became the National Academy of Design, and also lectured at the University of the City of New York.

While on his way from Europe, where he successfully pursued his art studies, he discussed electricity with a fellow passenger, conceived the idea of sending messages by telegraph, and perfected the Morse code of dots and dashes before he left the ship.

Enthusiastically he worked for five years until he invented the telegraph and obtained a patent. Then he asked congress for an appropriation to build an experimental line from Washington to Baltimore, which was refused. A visit to England and France to interest those governments was also unsuccessful.

Now penniless, he borrowed money to buy meals and at times went 24 hours without food. After four years of want, toil and wearing anxiety, he was granted an appropriation by congress just as he, with 3 cents in his pocket, decided to give up the fight.

A year later the Washington-Baltimore line was opened and its success won acclaim for Morse, then 51, from all parts of the world.

Reddy Fox Has a Dream

May all your dreams be fair and sweet,
Concerning mostly things to eat.
—Reddy Fox.

Reddy Fox, curled up at the back of Buster Bear's bedroom in a cave in the Green Forest, was dreaming. Behind Reddy Peter Rabbit was a prisoner in a little hole, which wasn't much more than a crack in the wall of that cave. Reddy's dream was a very pleasant one. He was dreaming that he had found a cave which was full of rabbits. He was sitting in front of that cave, smacking his lips and trying to make up his mind which of those Rabbits was the fattest and tenderest.

He was dreaming that he had found a cave which was full of rabbits

None of those Rabbits could get out of that cave. All he had to do was to help himself to as many as he pleased. He was about to have the finest Rabbit dinner that ever a Fox had. He actually sighed with enjoyment. Just as he had decided that a certain fat young Rabbit was sure to be tender and would be just the one to start with when he heard a noise behind him. It was a queer noise. It was part whine and part grunt and part growl.

Reddy turned his head. There, standing right behind him, was the biggest Bear he had ever seen. This Bear was twice as big as Buster Bear. He was grinning at Reddy in a most unpleasant way. He was looking at Reddy very much as Reddy had been looking at all those Rabbits.

"Such a nice Fox for my dinner," said the great big bear. "My, my such a nice Fox! And I am so hungry!"

Reddy forgot those Rabbits. He thought of nothing but getting away from that great big Bear. He gave a mighty jump and then—Reddy Fox awoke. It had all been a dream, you know.

For a moment Reddy couldn't think where he was. Then he remembered that he was at the back of Buster Bear's bedroom, keeping Peter Rabbit a prisoner in a little hole. He turned to put his nose to that little hole to make sure that Peter was still in there. Just as he did it he heard the strangest noise behind him. It was part whine and part grunt and part growl. It was very much like the noise he had heard the great big Bear make in his dream.

This time Reddy Fox really did jump.

Yes, sir, he really did jump. He jumped right over Buster Bear and the way he went out of Buster Bear's bedroom proved there was nothing the matter with Reddy's legs. He knew that strange noise had been made by Buster Bear. He guessed that Buster was waking from his long sleep, and he had no desire to have Buster know that he, Reddy, had dared to even put so much as a foot inside Buster's bedroom. He didn't even look behind him as he raced away through the Green Forest.

Reddy's guess was right. Buster was waking up. It was getting near spring now, and Buster's long sleep was about over. You know, once in a while Buster wakens extra early. Sometimes he will go out for a little walk around and then return to sleep a little longer. This was one of those times.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Today is the fiftieth birthday anniversary of L. Warrington Baldwin, president of the Missouri Pacific Railroad and recently named executive head of the Gulf Coast lines. Previous to becoming president of the Missouri Pacific in 1923 he had served 27 years with the Illinois Central Railroad, rising from chairman to vice-president. Mr. Baldwin is a native of Maryland. He took his bachelor of science degree at St. John's College, Annapolis, in 1893, and the degree of civil engineer at Lehigh University three years later. Immediately after his graduation he joined the forces of the Illinois Central. During Federal control of the railroads he was assistant to President Markham of the Illinois Central, who was regional director at Atlanta, and later he assumed charge of the Allegheny region at Philadelphia, succeeding to the latter position when Mr. Markham resigned in 1919.

Stories That Recall Others

Try to Solve This One

Susan who had just been promoted to the third grade, and who had no conception of the fundamentals of arithmetic, was playing school at home one afternoon. Her dolls were her pupils and she wrote their problems on her blackboard. Susan's mother happened into the playroom about the time the first "problem" was written and this is what she read: "If I walk six blocks, lose my ring and go back two, how long will it take me to get to my aunt house?"

Not even mother could solve this one.

Fishing

A forlorn young man was sittin' on a window sash with his feet on the sidewalk. He was dressed as a fisherman and sitting in front of him was a metal bucket full of water. In his hand he held a yardstick to which was attached a chalkline and on the end of the line was a small monkey wrench. In the bottom of the bucket was an iron nut. The young man sat there regardless of those who passed and took a peep into the bucket. He said not a word in response to the questions asked him. Sometimes a dozen persons would gather, grin and disappear. Then he would be alone for a brief time. Once when the crowd was larger than usual a young woman rushed up drawn by the crowd and looked aghast. Placing her arms akimbo she exclaimed "Well, what's the big idea anyway."

No response but an exceedingly red face from the young man. "O. I see," she said as she moved on. "You are being shoved into a fraternity." She was right. The young man was fishing for nuts. It was that period.

BEWARE THE COUGH OR COLD THAT HANGS ON

Chronic coughs and persistent colds lead to serious lung trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with twofold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and kills the germ.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by the medical fraternity as the greatest healing agency for the treatment of chronic coughs and colds and other forms of throat and lung troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and destroys the germ that lead to consumption.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of chronic coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, catarrhal bronchitis and other forms of throat and lung diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or the flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Co., Atlanta, Ga. (Adv.)

Solution of Yesterday's Puzzle

No Worry.
No danger, this new safe way

NOW there is a new way in woman's personal hygiene which has abolished old-fashioned methods—dangerous and embarrassing. Today 5 million women have adopted it. Won't you, in fairness to yourself, at least find out about it?

This new way is Kotex. It is a super-absorbent sanitary pad made of Cellucotton—a substance 5 times as absorbent as cotton.

Each Kotex pad is an active deodorant, impregnated with a new secret disinfectant.

Kotex is easily disposed of—just like a piece of tissue.

Packed in sanitary sealed packages of twelve—Kotex comes in two sizes: Regular, and Kotex-Super (extra large).

Connecticut College

"Music and Collegiane" was the theme of the interesting lecture given by Daniel Gregory Mason of Columbia University, the speaker at the Convocation of Connecticut College Tuesday afternoon in the gymnasium.

He said in part: "The usefulness of music to college students is self-evident, but what college can do for music is not so evident. The majority of people are careless in their taste. The minority are careful to educate their taste and, luckily the others follow the minority. The rank and file feel that the others are more intelligent. The college student has more chance to educate his taste. Professor Mason went on to say that the popular music of today is no more advanced than the ragtime tum-tum of long ago. He illustrated by the Pollywog's Cake Walk by Debussy. He stated that regularity of rhythm was pleasing to childish, elementary taste whereas irregularity was vital and pleasing to the educated taste.

He then played some pieces from Mozart, showing that even at the age of five Mozart had already caught the love irregularity to rhythm that so distinguished him. He then illustrated from Beethoven, Wagner, Brahms, Stravinsky, and Cesar Franck. In closing he went back to Mozart for his best example of beautiful, flexible lines in the Minuet from the G. Minor Symphony, stating that the lasting beauty of this piece could not be surpassed.

NO OPPOSITION APPEARS AT HEARING ON FORT SHANTOK PARK

(Special to the Bulletin)

Hartford, Feb. 25—No opposition appeared before the committee on state parks and reservations today when a hearing was held on the bill of Representative Ambrose Sullivan of Montville to make an appropriation of $15,000 for the acquirement and development of Fort Shantok park on the banks of the Thames river in the town of Montville. Arthur L. Peale, Henry G. Peck and others from Norwich spoke in favor of the bill.

Through a fluke the bill annexing a part of the town of Salem to the town of Montville was presented to the house and rejected. It has now been discovered that the bill had never been considered by the cities and boroughs committee so that reconsideration was voted and the bill was sent back to the committee. The withdrawal has been asked and probably will be granted but it must be done in regular form.

A bill amending the charter of the city of Willimantic and a bill establishing a firemen's pension fund in that city were explained to the committee on cities and boroughs by Representative Weatherhead and endorsed by Representative Pomeroy of Windham. No one appeared in opposition.

NORWICH ROTARY PLANS FOR "ON TO PITTSFIELD"

The meeting of the Norwich Rotary club on Wednesday noon which was scheduled as a business meeting was given over to the educational committee for a Rotary educational program. In the absence of Lucius Briggs, chairman of the committee, William G. Park had charge of the programme.

At the business session President Hugh B. Campbell presided and Grosvenor Ely was the song leader. In the absence of Henry J. LaFontaine, Lionel H. Ethier presided at the piano. The attendance at the meeting was not as large as usual as several of the members of the club were absent in the interest of Norwich, some being in Washington at the Thames River channel hearings and others at the legislative hearings in Hartford.

The arrangements for the spring conference at Pittsfield were placed in the hands of Alfred G. Lillibridge, as chairman of the "On to Pittsfield" committee. A challenge from the Lions club bowling team was received and accepted with the greatest of pleasure and arrangements for a series will be made within a short time.

The speaker on Current Topics was Alfred G. Lillibridge who spoke on the need of a deep and wide channel for the Thames River and also spoke on the matter of the State Park at Fort Shantok at Montville.

Mrs. E. W. Higgins addressed the meeting in behalf of the Connecticut College stating that two sacred concerts on Sunday afternoons were to be given in Norwich next month for the benefit of a new dormitory.

President Campbell after urging support of the concerts turned the meeting over to William G. Park who called upon James J. Madden who spoke upon Fellowship, Acquaintance and Understanding. Jimmy made a very impressive talk on the subject as he has found it in business. Charles A. Saxton also spoke on the same subject as it applied to the community. Herbert B. Cary read a message from International President Everett W. Hill on the 20th anniversary of Rotary. Joseph C. Worth gave a very comprehensive review of the history of the Norwich Rotary Club.

Program Chairman Cary then outlined plans for the March meetings of the club as follows:

March 4—Current topics, Nelson J. Ayling talk by Miss Constance Leigh, superintendent of the Newington Home for Crippled Children; song leader, Lewis M. Young.

March 11—Current topics, Charles W. Taggart; talk by Rev. J. Beveridge Lee of New London; song leader, Alex McNicol.

March 18—Current topics, Fred S. Crowell; meeting in charge of Mayor Milo R. Waters, "our printer," William H. Oat, Frank H. Pullen and Myles E. Standish, "our newspaper men," song leader, Clinton E. Lane.

March 25—Current topics, Herbert J. Ferguson; business meeting; special orchestra; song leader, Joseph C. Worth.

BILL TO RESTRICT TROLLEY BUS OPERATION

Hartford, Feb. 25.—Before the committee on railroads of the general assembly today, Major John Buckley of Hartford, favored a bill which would restrict the trolley company in the operation of buses without asking approval of the public utilities commission. He said that an act passed in 1921, giving trolley companies authority to operate buses, had been construed to mean that they could operate them on any highway without a certificate of public convenience and necessity from the public utilities commission. Major Buckley's bill would construe this act to mean that the company under its charter could only operate buses to replace existing trolley lines. If the company desired to operate buses over any other route, he said, they should be governed by the jitney law, which required that they go before the public utilities commission.

The Connecticut company officials opposed this bill, indicating that they did not want a statutory construction of the 1921 act, although the company favors a bill which would give them the right to operate buses over new routes with approval of the public utilities commission.

ONE-MAN CAR BILL HEARD BY COMMITTEE

Hartford, Feb. 25.—The one-man car bill which has been before other general assemblies in this and other states was heard by the committee on railroads today. It was favored by the trolley men and by John J. Eagan, secretary of the Connecticut Federation of Labor, and opposed by officials of the trolley companies. The trolley men said they did not object to the one man cars but wanted them restricted to the thirty passenger size and certain regulations regarding the responsibility of the motorman written into the law. The company officials maintained that the matter was one which should be left to the public utilities.

STATE HOSPITAL PATIENTS GIVEN FEBRUARY TREAT

Each month, the Connecticut Council of Catholic Women, Norwich branch, provides pleasure for shut-ins, among others at Norwich state hospital. This month the visit was made Tuesday by the secretary, Miss Mary Hartle, who was accompanied by Mrs. M. H. Donahue and Mrs. Bernard M. Coyle. Two wards of the women's building were visited, cake, ice cream and fancy cookies being provided for the patients, this work being non-sectarian. Mrs. Coyle put her car at the disposal of Miss Hartle for the trip.

Took Ashes to Institutions

Consoling to the Catholic patients in the Norwich state hospital, state sanatorium and Backus hospital was the visit made Ash Wednesday afternoon by Rev. John J. Reilly of St. Patrick's church, who took the blessed ashes to each patient. Father Reilly was accompanied by John P. Corcoran. They were driven to the institutions by William Dougherty, who gave the use of his car for the visits.

STODDARD GIVES MESSAGES BY PSYCHO-TELEPATHY

Stoddard, who was introduced as the world's greatest demonstrator of psycho-telepathic science, by Dr. Clarence Capron, who presided at the meeting, held the close attention of an audience of 150 that filled Odd Fellows' hall Wednesday evening, when Stoddard lectured and gave ballot messages. For over an hour and a half after his short lecture, Stoddard kept up a continuous stream of messages from the ballots that had been collected from the audience, giving over 40 messages in that time. He worked blindfolded, rapidly and at high tension, rapping impatiently on the table and snapping his fingers when persons in the audience were slow about acknowledging initials or numbers or descriptions that would serve to identify what his psychic vision showed him. "Let me hear your voice," he frequently insisted, "if you do not speak, I cannot give you message."

Once when no one was present to recognize the message that came into his atmosphere, he wept as he closed the communication with the murmured word "useless."

Soprano solos were rendered in excellent voice by Miss Charlotte Fowler, who sang In the Garden and Absent. Preceding his messages, Stoddard read a poem, The Law, by Ella Wheeler Wilcox, and then spoke briefly upon The Purpose of Evolution of the Human Soul. The various allied occult sciences, he declared, each have something in common, but various cults have flourished and faded away because they give nothing to the human soul to prove that there is no death. From time to time great souls have arisen and dared to claim their conviction in life eternal but the reason spiritualism has not made the appeal to the philosophic or intelligent minds which it should have made is, in his opinion, because the platforms have been occupied by so many undeveloped psychics. From this class, however, he excluded Mrs. Isabel C. Bradley, who he said was one of the finest and truest on the platform and should be heard at every occasion. But the undeveloped psychic is inclined to give out this glorious truth, which alone will emancipate the human race. He urged his audience to send out the best, the highest sort of sympathy to their loved ones so that the thoughts sent out through etheric energy might be communicated.

BLINDNESS IS STUDY IN Y. M. C. A. BIBLE CLASS

The topic of Bible study at the weekly session of the Men's class on Wednesday evening at the Y. M. C. A. was "Two Blind Men". The scripture used was in Luke the story of blind Bartemius, and the story of Zacheus. The following points were brought out in the discussion. One man was physically blind, and the other was spiritually blind, until Jesus gave them both the sight they needed. Zacheus needed Jesus help the most, because spiritual blindness concerns eternity, while physical blindness concerns this life only. It was brought out that many persons who are physically blind have been blessings to the world, Fanny Crosby, Helen Keller, George Matheson, are examples of this. When the blind beggar cried to Jesus for help, the people tried to hush him; they would hinder him from securing the help he needed so much. There are too many hindered today. Jesus was impressed with the great earnestness of the blind beggar, and also with his faith.

Zacheus had three handicaps; he was a tax collector, a rich man and small of stature. The people hated tax collectors in those days and they do not love them any too much today. Most people are jealous of rich men. Zacheus personality was probably not very attractive. The blind beggar and rich Zacheus were alike in that they both had much determination; one demonstrated his earnestness by his yell, and the other by his climb; both overcame handicaps. The people tried to be hinderers in Zacheus case by criticising Jesus for going home with him, Zacheus became a changed man and gave evidence of the change by giving half of his money to the poor and by restoring four fold anything he had taken wrongly in his collection of taxes. The latter was doubtless the most difficult; it is always hard to admit we have done wrong though it is manly to do so. The fact that Jesus was so interested to help the poor beggar and the rich publican indicates that he is a cosmopolitan Christ; he came to save the lost; he is no respecter of persons.

BASKET SOCIAL HELD BY MOOSEHEART LEGION

A very successful basket social was held at Moose Home on Laurel Hill avenue, Tuesday evening, by the women of Mooseheart Legion, with Mrs. Teresa Watters in charge. Many pretty baskets were auctioned off by Paul Watters, who officiated with ability. Coffee was served by Mrs. Norah Willet and dancing was enjoyed until late into the evening, the social proving to be most enjoyable for the members and friends.

COMFORT CIRCLE MARKS ITS 27TH BIRTHDAY

Wednesday afternoon Comfort circle of the King's Daughters celebrated its 27th birthday by a meeting with a former leader, Mrs. Albert T. Utley, of McKinley avenue. There were 22 members and five children present. This circle was started by Mrs. Utley's daughter, Mrs. Arthur B. Faulkner (Ella May Utley), now of Williamsport, Pa.

At the business meeting the leader, Mrs. Stanton W. Brown, presided. The circle voted its annual birthday gifts—$10 to the Margaret Bottome home, New York, $5 each to the Boy Scouts and the Travelers' Aid society, and $10 to the Fanny Crosby Home for the Aged in Bridgeport. The meeting then resolved itself in a Fanny Crosby afternoon, papers and articles on the blind poetess being read by Mrs. Frank Cate, Mrs. Almon Carroll, Mrs. Frank I. Dodge and Mrs. Frank Lathrop, and Fanny Crosby hymns were sung, Mrs. J. H. Allen playing the piano accompaniments.

From a grab bag and from birthday bags brought by each member a total of about $23 was realized for the circle's treasury. Toward this the treasurer, Mrs. William H. Baker, who is spending the winter at Hialeah, near Miami, Fla., sent her birthday bag, filled, also contributing to the contents of the grab bag.

Each member had contributed some article toward the lunch, which was served on a table decorated with pink sweet peas. The decorations in the hall were daffodils and pussy willows, and in the parlor were violets, in the King's Daughters' colors.

For the lunch Mrs. Henry Cole had made the birthday cake as usual, decorating it handsomely. Salad-cold meats, pickles, olives, rolls, ice cream, cake and coffee formed the luncheon.

DRAKE TAKES FIRST IN COLONIAL PINOCHLE

CARDS AND RADIO IN PLEASANT EVENING PROGRAM

Tuesday evening at their home in Yantic, Miss Catherine Curry and John and Lawrence Curry entertained several of their friends at a combined radio and card party.

Three tables of whist were played with Miss Marjory Kingsley and John Weller receiving high honors while Miss Adeline Coughlin and Norman Thomas were awarded consolation prizes. Frederick Kingsley, Sr., captured high score at pinochle.

Dainty refreshments consisting of coffee, fancy cakes, waters and assorted candies were served by Miss Curry, assisted by Mrs. Frederick K. Kingsley.

Piano solos were well rendered by the Misses Beaulah Whitely and Mary Weller while Miss Catherine Curry and Frederick Kingsley, pleasingly entertained with ukelele selections.

Dancing by radio, which proved to be the feature of the evening was enjoyed until a late hour.

The following were present: Mr. and Mrs. Frederick K. Kingsley, Mr. and Mrs. Jason Kingsley, the Misses Adeline Coughlin, Marjory Kingsley, Beulah Whitely, Mary Weller and Catherine Curry and Norman Thomas, John Weller, Frederick W. Kingsley, John and Lawrence Curry.

WEDDINGS.

Whitehead—Zahn.

At 4 o'clock Wednesday afternoon at the rectory of the Greeneville Congregational church Earl B. Whitehead of No. 143 Boswell avenue and Miss Winifred A. Zahn, of No. 109 Fourth street were united in marriage by Rev. Charles H. Ricketts. Following the wedding ceremony dinner was served to the immediate families at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Paul A. Zahn. The floral decorations were potted plants, ferns, cut flowers of pink and white.

The bride received many beautiful gifts including money, cut glass, silver, linen and china. The bridal couple was attended by the bride's cousin, Frank Zahn and Miss Florence Whitehead, a sister of the groom. During the evening the bride and groom left on a wedding tour to New York and Boston. On their return they will reside at No. 122 Fourth street. The bride was a local school teacher and the groom is employed in the office of the Edward Chappell Co.

The bride's gift to the bridesmaid was a green gold link bracelet and the gift of the groom to the best man was green gold cuff links.

Price-Starratt

Major Irvine F. Price and Miss Doris Gwendolin Starratt, both of Moncton, New Brunswick, were united in marriage at 5.30 Tuesday afternoon at the home of the bride's uncle, W. S. The bride was given in marriage by her uncle and little Betty Spencer, her cousin, was the ring bearer, while the bridal chorus from Lohengrin was played by Miss Dorothy Spencer, the bride's cousin. The bride was charmingly gowned in an ensemble suit in natural color kasha, trimmed with blonde fur, and she wore an orchid hat and carried a bouquet of orchids.

Following the ceremony a buffet lunch was served for the guests who were relatives and a few intimate friends. The house was attractively decorated in a color scheme of purple and yellow by Scott the Florist.

Major Price and his bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Brenton D. Starratt, left during the evening for a honeymoon trip which will include New York, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Buffalo, Toronto and Montreal. They will reside in Moncton, where Major Price is a member of the firm of Price Bros., wholesale lumber dealers. He served overseas in the Canadian expeditionary forces with the second machine gun battalion, having thirteen months service in France.

Ninth Birthday Party.

A birthday party was given Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. John F. Lichwell in honor of her daughter, Helen's, ninth birthday. Games were enjoyed and the prizes were won by Mildred Ryan, first, and Lilly Rogers, second, for pinning the tail on the donkey. Lillian Kyle won in the peanut hunt. Anna Morell carried off the prize in the button hunt. The decorations and favors were in yellow and white. A buffet lunch was served. Those present were Lilly Rogers, May Waters, Mildred Ryan, Ruth and Mildred Emmonds, Lillian Kyle, Anna Morell, Julia and Helen Lichwell, Miss Mary McGill and Miss Aldea Chanceral assisted in serving. Many pretty and useful gifts were received.

OBITUARY.

Harry Brooks.

Meriden, Feb. 25.—Harry Brooks, aged 98, one of Meriden's oldest residents, died at his home today. He would have been 99 years of age next Wednesday.

Mr. Brooks was born in Russell, N. Y., and was a descendant of early settlers. He came to Meriden 60 years ago, and for more than half a century lived in the same house at 137 Colony street.

TWO MEN KILLED BY THE SHORT CIRCUITING OF WIRES

Pittsburgh, Feb. 26.—Two men are dead, another is in a critical condition and four are suffering from less serious injuries as the result of the short circuiting of a high tension wire at the Colfax power plant of the Duquesne Light company at Colfax, near here, this morning.

Betting on horse races with parimutuel machines would be legalized in Pennsylvania under a bill introduced in the legislature.

BILL DERBY TO GIVE NORWICH CHANCE TO SEE BIG LEAGUE STARS PERFORM

Further developments following the announcement that Norwich is the city which will be favored with a fast ball team to play on Sundays, with William L. Derby, manager of a number of semi-professional ball clubs, to be at the helm, disclose the policy which Manager Derby will urs in connection with his promise to give Norwich the best in baseball. Manager Derby was interviewed at the Hotel Mohican in New London, where he spent a forthight, and gave an accurate detail of his aims and a partial account of his personal history with the Providence Grays.

Manager Derby first outlined his proposed schedule, which will give Norwich fans and those in the immediate vicinity a chance to see some of the big league stars in action, among those being Gordon "Kid" Cochrane, recent sensation, who will be with the Philadelphia Athletics this year, together with Lefty Groves, for whom Connie Mack paid over $100,000. The Boston clubs will be special attractions, with Roger Hornsby being the main attraction with the St. Louis Nationals. No doubt the above stars will be worth seeing, but when the Busting Bambino comes to Norwich, as Manager Derby said that he would appear with the New York Yankees, then the coveted chance of a lifetime to see this star in action right in their own home town will be realized. The assurance that Babe Ruth will appear with the Yankees was received from Ed Barrow, caretaker of the coffers for the runners-up in the American league. Practically the same lineup will appear with all the major league attractions as in the league games. And it will be stipulated in the contract that the teams will play their best if they are to receive the guarantees which will be paid them for their services.

Another notable attraction will be the New York Giants with Frankie Frisch, the wary old pilot, John J. McGraw, and company, which, of course, includes such performers as Long George Kelly and Arthur Neff. The Giants will travel with the regular National league umpires, who will officiate at the game with Bill Derby's All-Star Norwich outfit. McGraw's team is in demand all over the country and the fact that Manager Derby has had definite assurance that the Giants will appear in the Rose City is a sample of his efforts to secure the best possible.

But as manager of the Providence Grays in 1922, experience has taught Bill Derby that a big league club is not always available, and when situations such as these present themselves attractions of some other nature will substitute. One of the teams to oppose Manager Derby's nine in Providence was the House of David. Teams of this caliber will prove to be good performers as well as showmen in a novelty for baseball fans.

Discussing other events which would pertain directly to this undertaking, Manager Derby has no definite lineup as yet. The only player to sign up at present is Harold Janvrin, but it will be an easy matter to sign good ball players when the opening game of the season is approached. Sensations in the college field, as well as to former big league stars will be included in the lineup with the best men being retained and the others who do not give their best being discarded for better performers. It was intimated that possibly Gwenie Carroll, Holy Cross sensation, could be induced to perform for Derby at least once, if not through the season. He is the property of the Detroit Tigers, Manager Derby stated, and that may hinder the attempt to secure him for mound duty.

Although Manager Derby's success as a manager of ball teams is generally considered good, his Providence Grays of 1923 capped a successful climax to a busy and interesting season of campaigning against major league clubs. The New York Giants, Chicago White Sox and numerous other major league teams battled hard but in vain to defeat the aggregation of baseball talent which Manager Derby sent against them. The Providence papers lauded the efforts of the Grays in all their contests.

Manager Derby is attempting to give Norwich baseball which it never before had a chance to see, and with the proper co-operation there is no doubt that the project will go over the top. This will be a trial year, and it will be strictly up to Norwich fans to support this new endeavor to give them baseball on big league style.

INDIVIDUAL COACHES' SALARIES ARE NOT TO BE LIMITED

Cambridge, Mass., Feb. 25—Henry Pennypacker, chairman of the committee on athletics at Harvard, in a statement late today said that the agreement reached between Harvard, Yale and Princeton as to restriction of football coaching expenses applied to the total varsity football coaching budget and that individual coaches' salaries had not been limited by agreement to $8,000.

Mr. Pennypacker's statement follows:

"I very much regret the erroneous statement published in Boston and New York papers that the agreement between Harvard, Yale and Princeton restricted the individual football coaches' salary at all three colleges to a maximum of $8,000. This is not the fact. The restriction was made on total football coaching budget.

"The same definite limit was set on this budget for each of the three institutions. The mistaken report arose from the fact that for some time the feeling has been expressed in many quarters that the salary of the football coach ought not to exceed the maximum salary of a professor which at present is $8,000 at Harvard College. It should be distinctly understood, however, that no such limit was set on individual coaches' salaries by agreement of all three colleges."

Earlier in the day Fred W. Moore, graduate treasurer of athletics at Harvard, had confirmed the story regarding the restricting of coaches' salaries as published yesterday in the Boston Transcript.

BULKELEY PREPARING FOR CLASH WITH LEOMINSTER

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, Feb. 25.—Bulkeley is hard at work preparing for the highly touted Leominster High school quintet, which makes an invasion of this city in an attempt to upset the serenity of the city. The game is planned for Saturday night at the state armory and will be the only contest of the year. Negotiations which were in progress for a game to be played at the Y. M. C. A. on Thursday afternoon with Plainfield High had to be dropped, for an agreement could not be reached between the two managers to have the teams meet. This will mean that Plainfield will not meet the Orange and Black on Bulkeley's own court and settle that dispute which ended in a 7 to 6 victory for Bulkeley at Plainfield earlier in the year.

Leominster, Mass., High comes to the Whaling City to participate in the biggest home game for the locals. With opposition such as Worcester Tech and St. John's college, two big college games which were both lost by the Bay State five, an indication as to the prowess of the quintet may be learned. Lawrence High is the only team to take the measure of the Leominster aggregation, and the clip at which the team from the north has been traveling of late shows that Bulkeley will have no child's play of it.

HOREMANS EASILY BEATS SUZUKI IN BILLIARDS

Chicago, Feb. 25—(By the A. P.)—Edouard Horemans, Belgians billiard star, today defeated Kamakichi Suzuki, Japanese player, 400 to 12 in five innings in the fourth match of the international 18.2 balkline billiard championship tournament here. Horemans had a high run of 249 in the fourth inning, a new record for the tournament.

The Japanese player did not have a chance. Horemans in the fourth inning had a session of close nursing and massé work for which he has become famous in exhibition matches, but which he had never before been able to display in his big matches.

After his high run of 249, he stepped back to the table and went out in 128. His high run was made with great speed, it taking him only 40 1-2 minutes to complete the count. His record today with his demonstrated ability to carry big close play into tournament competition has made him a much more formidable opponent than he appeared last night after his defeat by Jake Schaefer, former champion. The score by innings:

Horemans—15, 0, 8, 249, 128, total 400, average 80; innings 5.

Suzuki—0, 0, 1, 11, total 12, average 3, innings 4.

BASKETBALL TOURNEY HAS BEEN ARRANGED

At a meeting held at the Army and Navy club rooms in Taftville Monday evening final arrangements were made for a three cornered series, between the Baltic Wanderers, Plainfield and the Army and Navy of Taftville for the basketball championship of eastern Connecticut.

It was decided that each of the three teams would play a home and home series and in the event of a tie the toss of a coin would decide where the third game if necessary is to be played.

The series will open at the Parish Hall, Taftville on next Tuesday evening with Plainfield playing the local five.

The following is the schedule of games to be played:

March 3rd, Plainfield at Taftville; March 6th, Taftville at Plainfield; March 11th, Plainfield at Baltic; March 13th, Baltic at Plainfield, March 17, Baltic at Taftville; March 20, Taftville at Baltic.

ALEXANDER HOPES TO WIN 20 GAMES THIS YEAR

Chicago, Feb. 25.—Grover Cleveland Alexander, veteran pitching ace with the Chicago Nationals, who will begin his 15th year in the major league, has his heart set on winning 20 games for the Cubs this season.

Alexander, already on the coast awaiting the arrival of the Cubs, advised President William Veeck tonight that he had completely recovered from the injury that handicapped him last season. His wrist, shattered in a game last fall, is as strong as ever, he says. To strengthen it, he did a good deal of bowling with beneficial results.

Twenty members of the Cubs leave here tomorrow for the spring training camp at Catalina Island, Cal.

Pitcher Toney Kaufmann signed today.

NURMI ESTABLISHED RECORD AT GEORGETOWN MEET

Washington, Feb. 25—Paavo Nurmi was credited with his first retroactive track record in America here today, although he and his flashing feet were elsewhere.

Officials of the Georgetown University track meet last Saturday announced today that the mighty runner, although he seemed to observers at the games to be taking it easy, apparently had established a world record in the special 3,000 metre race by making the distance in seven minutes, 46 2-5 seconds.

Modern record books, it was explained, gave no figures for the distance with which to compare Nurmi's time, so nobody got excited over the Finn's feat. Further research in older books, however, brought to light the former world's record for 3,000 meets, which was 7 minutes, 58 1-5 seconds.

Georgetown officials now are preparing affidavits which will be presented to the A. A. U. in an endeavor to have the runner officially credited with establishing another world's record at the meet here.

RITOLA IS SUSPENDED BY N. E. ASSOCIATION

Cambridge, Mass., Feb. 25—Willie Ritola, Finnish-American A. C. distance runner, was suspended by the registration committee of the New England Association of the Amateur Athletic Union at a meeting here tonight, for his failure to appear for competition in the legion mile, feature event of the American Legion track games in Boston February 23.

Appleby Beats Renner

New York, Feb. 25—Francis S. Appleby of New York defeated E. A. Renner of Youngstown, O., 300 to 124 in 28 innings in the national amateur class A 18.2 balkline billiard tournament today.

John A. Clinton, Jr., of Pittsburgh, defeated Percy N. Collins of Chicago, 300 to 160.

CHAPMAN LOSES TO PRATT HIGH AT ESSEX

(Special to the Bulletin)

Essex, Feb. 25—Chapman Tech dropped deeper into the mire by losing a hard fought game to Pratt High here this evening, by a 20 to 11 score.

The home players making a sudden spurt in the third quarter over shadowed the small lead which Tech had managed to pile up at half time. Winn of Pratt was the chief offender against Tech, his four field goals in the last half putting the home players forever out of the reach of the visitors.

Chapman Tech led at half time by an 8 to 4 score. The score:

NATIONAL MILE CHAMPION PREPARING FOR NURMI

Boston, Feb. 29—Ray Buker, national mile champion, now a student of theology at Boston University, is planning to take on an active training schedule in preparation for a vigorous outdoor campaign during which he hopes to match strides with Paavo Nurmi, Finnish distance marvel, over a mile route, he said today.

With the close of the indoor season close at hand, Buker said he would devote his time to brushes with Harold Cutbill, "flying parson" of Boston on the cinder track at the Massachusetts Institute of technology and would make no effort to condition himself for the few remaining indoor attractions. Should he again show the form that brought him the mile championship at the A. A. U. meet last season, and New England and national intercollegiate championships while he was a student at Bates College in Maine, Buker will welcome the chance to meet Finland's best in the mile contest, he added.

MORE WORLD'S SWIMMING MARKS BROKEN AT MIAMI

Miami, Fla., Feb. 25—Three world's records were broken by girl swimmers at Miami Beach today.

Martha Norelius established a new record of 3:56 3-5 for the 300 yard free style. The old record was 3:58 2-5.

Gertrude Ederle set a new mark of 1:42 2-5 in the 150 yard free style, against the old time of 1:45.

In the sixty yard free style, Ethel Lackie shattered the old record with :34 2-5. The record held by Adelaide Lambert was :36 4-5.

BERNSTEIN IS DEFINITELY OUT OF TOURNAMENT

New York, Feb. 25—Jack Bernstein, Yonkers lightweight and former world junior lightweight champion, is definitely out of the lightweight elimination tournament, Victor Hirsch, manager of Bernstein announced today.

Bernstein has been ill for some time, but showed a decided improvement yesterday when Hirsch notified the commission that Bernstein would compete. Today, the boxer's condition was such that his permanent withdrawal followed.

APPLICATION OF MUNN IS DISMISSED BY JUDGE

Independence, Mo., Feb. 25—An application for an injunction to prevent Ed (strangler) Lewis, former world's heavyweight wrestling champion, from interfering with Wayne (Big) Munn, signing contracts as present champion, was dismissed today by Judge W. P. Hall.

The application was filed by Munn January 23. In a match January 8, Lewis was defeated by Munn, but claimed the championship because of a foul by Munn.

Judge Hall explained that it would be rather difficult for him to grant the application unless grounds for a damage suit were presented.

Back about 1870, James N. Wellman developed a secret tobacco process which won instant and widespread favor. It yielded a fuller-bodied richness, mildness and fragrance which just seemed to "go" with a pipe. AGGIE FRESHMEN LOSE CLOSE GAME TO BROWN YEARLING QUINTET

(Special to the Bulletin)

Storrs, Feb. 25—A weakened Connecticut Aggies Freshmen team lost a hard fought basketball game to the Brown Freshmen here tonight by a 21 to 14 score. The loss today of Capt. Hadley, star forward, because of scholastic difficulties necessitated some last minute shifts in the Connecticut lineup and the team work of the Aggie combination fell out as a result.

The Storrs team showed great form in the opening minutes of play, however, and pretty field baskets by Bitgood and Eddy sent the Aggies into the lead. Brown was unable to penetrate the Aggie defense and in the early part of the game their long shots failed to connect. Connecticut did not follow up its advantage as the game got underway and Brown rallied taking the lead. Clever work by Heller, Jacobs and Tyson netted the Brown cubs six baskets in the first session and at half time Brown was leading 13 to 8.

In the second half the Providence team drew up a strong defense and the Aggies were able to tally but once from the floor. In this half the play grew rough and many personal fouls were called on the Brown team for holding and backing. Heller and Tyson showed up well for Brown, while Bitgood and Watson turned in some pretty work for Connecticut.

An interesting side light on this contest was the fact that Hymie and Sammy Heller, Willimantic boys and brothers, were playing tonight as opponents. Hymie as left guard for the Aggies was covering his brother, who was at right forward for Brown. Hymie put up a great game but his brother eluded him long enough to get three baskets from the floor. The score:

SEVERAL NORWICH BILLS ARE PASSED BY HOUSE AT YESTERDAY'S SESSION

(Special to The Bulletin)

Hartford, Feb. 25.—The largest calender of the session was on the desks of the members this morning, 41 items being starred for action. Those which are of special interest in this section is the one amending the charter concerning the city court.

Section 1. Section sixty-six of an act to revise and amend the charter of the city of Norwich, approved July 5, 1871, as amended by section thirteen of an act in alteration of an act to revise and amend the charter of the city of Norwich approved June 24, 1874, is amended to read as follows: Before entering upon or concluding the trial of any criminal cause, the city court of the city of Norwich may adjourn the hearing or trial thereof from time to time. Said court, if the offense charged is bailable, shall take good and sufficient bail, if offered for the appearance of the person charged at the day to which the trial or hearing shall be adjourned. If the case shall be within the final jurisdiction of said court and no other provision is made by law, the bond or recognizance shall be payable to the city treasurer of the city of Norwich, otherwise to the county, town or state or such person or corporate body as the nature of the offense and the law may require.

The admission tax having been refunded the amounts of which had been transferred for county purposes the following has been enacted. It is estimated that it will produce about the same amount of revenue. It provides: One-half of the tax received by the treasurer of the state under the provisions of chapter 398 of the public acts of 1921 as amended, shall be apportioned among, and paid by the treasurer to, the several counties according to the proportion which the population of each county bears to the total population of the state according to the 1920 federal census.

The use of set lines in ponds or brooks is amended in this bill passed today:

Section 71 of chapter 259 of the public acts of 1923 is amended to read as follows. No person shall use in any stream suitable for the propagation of trout, or in any pond or lake, except in any private pond or lake or any tide water pond any set line or any float, other than a float attached to a line held in the hand or to a line attached to a rod held in the hand.

THE SENATE

Bills on calendar passed: Authorizing Cheney Brothers to increase its capital from $1,00,000 to $20,000,000; fixing the salaries of the officials of town court of Killingly as follows: Judge $700 and as clerk $300, deputy judge $100, prosecuting attorney $700, and assistant prosecuting attorney $100, increasing the salaries of the officials of the city court of Norwich as follows: Judge $1,900, city attorney, $2,-800; Clerk, $1,700; deputy judge $700; assistant city attorney and assistant clerk $800; increasing the salaries of the judge and prosecuting attorney of the town court of Stonington to $750; creating a commission on forests and wild life to consist of the state park and forest commission and the state park and forest commission and the state board of fisheries.

Passed: Fixing the minimum number of trustees of church corporations at three and the maximum at fifteen; exempting registrars of voters, town school committee, school visitors and to file returns of expenses with the library directors from the obligation secretary of state, extending the close season for Hungarian partridge and quail.

New Forestry Commission

Senator Pierson speaking in support of the bill creating a commission on forests and wild life, said it had his hearty approval, and he commended its purpose.

Senator George E. Hall said the bill ought to be amended so as to provide that land, taken by lease for the purpose of the bill, by the commission should not be exempted from taxation. He hoped the finance committee would report a bill covering the question of taxation.

Senator Walcott said that New York and other states had conservation commissions. The super-commission would be appointed to supervise the work of conservation and to secure co-operation. But the two commissions making up the new commission would preserve their identity.

The bill was passed.

THE HOUSE.

The house was called to order at 11.30 by the speaker and prayer was offered by Rev. Dr. Phillips of New Haven, a former member of the house. A tender reference was made to the death of Representative Ferris, who died suddenly in his room at the Bond hotel last evening. On motion of Chairman Lynch of the cities and boroughs committee, H. B. 158, annexing a part of the town of Salem to the town of Montville, and which was rejected last week, was reconsidered and recommitted to the committee.

Two bills were passed from the calendar today which change and in a way balance the apportionment of tax monies between counties and state. Bill No. 190 provides for apportionment among the counties of one-half of the tax on mercantile and manufacturing business conducted by others than corporations. Bill No. 191 repeals section 12, chapter 328, of the public acts of 1921, which provided that one-half of the tax on tickets of admission should go to the counties. It was explained that repeal of certain sections of the amusement tax law had depleted the tax revenues somewhat, although now there will be about $115,000 to come to the state. The unincorporated tax will, however, bring more return to the counties.

Senate bills taken from the calendar and passed were: Amending the charter of the trustees of donations and bequests for church purposes, authorizing them to take, hold, manage and use such funds as they may acquire for support of institutions, etc., of the Protestant Episcopal church of the diocese of Connecticut; changing name of Connecticut Sunday School association to Connecticut Council of Religious Education; amending charter of city of Norwich in relation to time of adjournments of city court; increasing salary of judge and prosecutor of town court of Groton from $600 a year each to $1,000 a year.

House bills passed were: Exempting the property of Bacon academy in Colchester from taxation; validating the agreement between the town of Vernon and the trustees under the will of George Sykes relating to the maintenance of a high and manual training school and authorizing issue of $55,000 of bonds; providing that the forester of the Connecticut Agricultural experiment station shall be ex-officio a member of the state park and forest commission.

House Leader Alling announced the death of Judge William J. Ferris of Greenwich, a member of the house, last evening and offered a resolution which was adopted appointing a committee to draft resolutions upon his death and to attend the funeral. Out of respect for Judge Ferris the house at 12.40 adjourned till Thursday at 11.30.

STORRS HENS CONTINUE TO MAKE LAYING GAIN

In the 16th week of the storrs laying contest the hens laid 4,196 eggs or a yield of over 41 per cent. This is relatively a gain of 741 eggs over last year's production for the same week and 419 eggs more than the eight-year average when no lights were used. It is also a gain of 196 eggs over last week's production. The total production for the year to date is 53,547 eggs. A pen of Rhode Island Reds owned by F. H. Chaffin of Long Meadow, Mass., took first honors for the week with 50 eggs. Merritt M. Clark's pen of Barred Rocks from Brookfield Center, Conn., were in second place with 44 eggs. A pen of Leghorns owned by Hanson's Leghorn Farm from Corvallis, Ore., were in third place with 44 eggs, while E. C. Foreman's Barred Rock pen from Lansing, Michigan, placed fourth for the week with 41 eggs.

Other points of interest this week are that Merritt M. Clark's pen of Barred Rocks are now leading all the other pens of Barred Rocks, having this week passed the pen owned by Mrs. H. C. Kleinsmith, Beavercreek, Ore., by one egg. Mr. Clark's pen is also at present the only Connecticut pen on the honor roll. The Barred Rocks for the first time in the present contest exceeded the other breeds in per cent of production and seem likely to continue for this next week at least. Weather conditions at storrs for the past two weeks have been very favorable for the birds compared with the earlier weeks in the contest which has been the main reason for their increase in production.

The leading pens in each of the principal varieties are as follows:

so they united to make a different loaf . . . as Rich and Substantial as the best Home-made SIX bakers, each famous in his own New England town. Each eager to produce an ideal bread—to meet housewives' most critical demands.

One eventful day they resolved to work together—decided to unite their separate skill in one supreme loaf

They created White Rose

They examined recipes, tested ingredients, anticipated every requirement. Then they created their master-loaf—White Rose.

Flavor—full, rich, delicious flavor! And freshness—moist, firm, substantial freshness! These make White Rose the satisfying bread women have always wanted.

Made with the pure ingredients fine housewives would choose, baked with all the care and cleanliness they would use in their own kitchens.

In this unusual loaf the Six Bakers made the bread that women really want to serve. More than a quarter million fine housewives every day now buy White Rose.

If you want to give your family a new pleasure—if the spontaneous compliments of your guests make you happy—serve White Rose.

Rushed fresh to your grocery. Only a few hours after its baking you slice it, serve it. Telephone for a loaf now!

NEW LONDON SHOE STORE FIRE WELL MANAGED, WEDNESDAY EVENING

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, Feb. 25.—At 6.35 o'clock this evening a blaze was discovered in the building, 395 Bank street, occupied by the New London Cash Shoe Store and owned by Iman Bilonsky. Some of the stock was damaged. The blaze, it is believed, originated from crossed wires attached to an electric heater. The fire was discovered by an employe of the store, who investigated the odor of burning leather and a lively blaze was found to be in progress on the second floor of the two story wooden structure in that part of the building used for a stock room. The blaze appeared too serious to depend on a still alarm so an alarm was rung in from box 42, corner of Howard and Bank streets. The firemen made a quick run and lines of chemicals and a line of water were directed to the floor where the fire was located. The water was not turned upon the blaze, it is said, should the blaze make progress but a liberal quantity of chemicals was showered upon the burning shavings, shoes and rubbers, smothering the flames and resulting in the firemen leaving the building a half hour after the blaze was discovered.

Just as the alarm was sounded, a still alarm was received at fire headquarters for a grass fire on Fitch avenue. Thomas Hose company was dispatched to the place and quickly extinguished the fire, which had been started by boys.

George Benson, formerly of New London, now located in Hackensack, N. J., is spending a few days with relatives in this city.

It is stated that there will not be more than one or two more hearings of the special committee of the city council to determine the efficiency of the police department; and after those meetings City Manager William A. Holt will make his report of the findings of the committee and offer his recommendation. A hearing will probably take place next Tuesday night at which time Councilor Edward L. Streeter, Jr., chairman of the committee, who is in Massachusetts, will have returned. With the hearing concluded there is a possibility that another will take place when the report of the city manager and his recommendation is presented.

Rapid progress is now being made on the Bulkeley building in course of construction on Green and Golden streets. There are to be two stores on the building, it is believed, but who will occupy them is by no means certain. On Bank street there is a new store almost ready for occupancy and these are as yet without tenants. A short further down the street are two more stores, which are also not yet rented.

Andrew Mikel was in the police court this morning, charged with attempting to bribe Police Sergeants Smith and Cavanaugh to let up on the latter's visit to his place and the former's police billet whiskey seizure. Both men had been in the store Monday when Mikel is alleged to have passed liquor and $1,000 to sell the store was the location where the alleged bribery participated. Mikel was fined for intoxication and fined yesterday at the same time Mikel was fined. After the session of the court the party all went to the Mikel restaurant when it was a certainty they would again indulge in drinking. The police followed and in the pocket of Mikel the bottle of liquor was found. He, in his broken English, made all sorts of excuses, among them the claim that one of the fellows who was in court had the liquor then and that he brought it back to the restaurant. Mikel is said to have offered the police officers $50 each to get away and let him alone, but they arrested him. He was represented in court today by an attorney who asked for a continuance as he had little information about the case. He pointed out that if the facts were as alleged by Mikel as to the liquor, he was not guilty of an offense under the law. As to the bribery charge, the attorney said he knew nothing and that, too, was to be the subject of investigation. The court granted the motion for adjournment and fixed the time for the hearing at 9.30 Thursday morning. Mikel has something more than $1,000 on deposit in a savings bank and that he gave as collateral to the man who became the surety on his bond. It has been an expensive week for Mikel as his experience cost him more than $300 yesterday.

Dr. M. Elizabeth Lawrence, 55 Huntington street, complained to the police this evening that youths had caused considerable annoyance and damage earlier in the night by their stone throwing and that three of the missiles had smashed windows in the rear of her residence.

Patrolman Walter Rehn tomorrow will make one of numerous donations to the police department that officers have made within the last two or three years. The officer today acquired the accurate thermometer that has long been suspended outside the store of Lyon & Ewald, State street, which concern has gone out of business. He will place it outside the squad room where a correct reading of temperature can be made as the thermometer is recognized as especially accurate.

Ash Wednesday services in the churches throughout the city were largely attended.

Members of Mohegan lodge of Odd Fellows had a feast of chowder at the lodge room this evening. It was declared to be immense by all partook of it.

Walter T. Murphy, manager of the Lyceum, Capitol and Crown theatres left this afternoon for Lakehurst, N. J., where he will remain for a week or ten days, recovering after a recent attack of grip.

Master William Beebe, of Bank street, and Miss Florence Goen, of Tilley street, patients at Lawrence hospital, were able to return to their respective homes today.

The funeral of Benjamin C. Coe, of 67 School street, Groton, was held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at Groton Heights Baptist church, and was attended by a large number of mourners, including delegations of Pioneer Hose company and Fairview lodge, I. O. O. F., of which organizations Mr. Coe was a member. The services were conducted by Rev. George R. Atha. The bearers were three members of Pioneer Hose company and a like number of members of Fairview lodge. Burial was in Groton cemetery.

A girl of about 24, who declares herself to be Betty Lewis, but who refuses absolutely to furnish the authorities with any additional information as regards her parents, relatives or home, is locked up at the police station charged with lascivious conduct. Eddie Kennedy, of Boston, an exhibition dancer, is being detained as a witness against the girl.

Kennedy and the girl have been in New London but a few days, Kennedy coming here to give an exhibition at a local dance hall. During his stay here he became acquainted with the Lewis girl, and according to Kennedy, they occupied a room at a Golden street lodging house. This, however, the girl denies. This forenoon the couple was watched by Sergeants John Cavanaugh and Nelson Smith. When the pair went to a restaurant on State street, and Kennedy absented himself to go to the union station a short time, Sergeant Smith took the dancer into custody and Sergeant Cavanaugh placed the girl under arrest. When the couple were quizzed at the police station, Kennedy answered all questions propounded by the officers, but the girl steadfastly refused to reveal any information regarding herself, her relatives or her mode of living. The girl was attired in expensive clothes; while she admitted being on friendly terms with Kennedy she denied any wrong doing.

The funeral of Frank A. Smith was held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at the residence of his brother-in-law, Ezra J. Hempstead, at Quaker Hill, the services being conducted by Rev. Geo. W. Borden, pastor of the Quaker Hill Baptist church. The bearers were Benjamin Cottrell, E. Augustus Harrison, Judson A. Hempstead, Waterford, and Ray C. Smith, of New York. Burial was in Union cemetery, Waterford.

A drive is being made by Dog Warden John Sweeney on dogs ailing with distemper, the action being taken as a result of a number of dogs suffering from the disease and threatening to spread the contagion to other animals.

Patrick O'Mara, of Mitchell street, Groton, and Miss Julia Driscoll, 26 West Colt street, this city, were married yesterday at St. Mary's Star of the Sea church by Rev. Raymond O'Callahan. They were attended by Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Quill. Mr. and Mrs. O'Mara are on a wedding trip and upon its conclusion will reside at 26 West Colt street. Mr. O'Mara is employed by the Robert Gair company, Montville.

Mrs. Franklin N. Terry has returned to her home in New Haven after spending a few days with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Goss, of 538 Bank street.

Miss L. Alice Ramsay, of Borodell place, is entertaining her sister, Miss Jean Ramsay, a teacher at Northampton, Mass., high school.

Joseph McDonald, Centre street, underwent an operation recently at a local hospital for appendicitis. His condition is reported as improving rapidly.

Mrs. Wallace R. Johnson, Brainard street, is in New York for a week visiting her daughter, Miss Louise B. Johnson, registered nurse, formerly of this city.

WAS NOT FIT TO DO HER WORK

Dreadful Condition of Mrs. Fullerton's Health Remedied by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Clearfield, Pa.—"I cannot begin to tell you how much Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has helped me in every way. Before taking it I couldn't stand on my feet without pains running all through my whole body from my waist down, just like threads pulling. I was not fit to do any work. My mother got me to try the Vegetable Compound and I have found great benefit, and I not only recommend it for such troubles, but to build up the whole system. I have used it for most everything that gets wrong with me. When I begin to feel nervous and irritable I don't stop long in getting a bottle of the Vegetable Compound if I haven't got one in the house. It gives a fine appetite and makes a new woman of me. You may use this testimonial in my own town or anywhere else, and I will answer any letters I receive."—Mrs. RUSH FULLERTON, 525 S. 2nd Street, Clearfield, Pa.

If you are suffering from nervous troubles, irritability, give the Vegetable Compound a fair trial.

A CLEAR COMPLEXION

Ruddy Cheeks—Sparkling Eyes—Most Women Can Have

Says Dr. Edwards, a Well-Known Ohio Physician

Dr. F. M. Edwards for 17 years treated scores of women for liver and bowel ailments. During these years he gave to his patients a prescription made of a few well-known vegetable ingredients mixed with olive oil, naming them Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. You will know them by their olive color.

These tablets are wonder-workers on the liver and bowels, which cause a normal action, carrying off the waste and poisonous matter in one's system.

If you have a pale face, sallow look, dull eyes, pimples, coated tongue, headaches, a listless, no-good feeling, all out of sorts, inactive bowels, you take one of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets nightly for a time and note the pleasing results.

Thousands of women and men take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—the successful substitute for calomel—now and then just to keep them fit. 15c and 30c.

LAYING OF SUBMARINE KEELS FOR GOVERNMENT OF PERU

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, Feb. 25.—It is expected that the laying of the keels for two submarines for the Peruvian government at the New London Ship & Engine company plant in Groton will bring some additional employment to this city. The keels were laid this noon in the presence of a considerable number of interested spectators. Rev. William J. Fox, the rector of the Sacred Heart church in Groton blessed the keels as they were put into place. Miss Isabel Laguis, daughter of the president of Peru, sponsored the laying of the keel of one of the boats, while Mrs. Clark H. Woodward, wife of Admiral Woodward, chief of the naval mission to Peru, had the honor of sponsoring the keel of submarine No. 2. Miss Laguis drove a silver rivet into the keel that she laid and was presented the solid silver hammer used. There was music by the Eighth Regiment band. Guests from New London were conveyed to and from the ceremonies by the steamer of the Ship and Engine company.

Deaths from typhoid fever established a new low record for the disease last year. The death rate of 1.8 per cent. per 100,000 population has never before been established in the entire country with the exception of one or two instances, Dr. Kelley said. Other contagious diseases showed a similar reduction.

Peculiar Ice Block

A steam shovel, working on a new highway, near Reno, Nev., uncovered a huge block of ice under the ground, measuring 60 feet in length, 20 feet in width and 10 feet in thickness. It is believed that originally the ice, which is estimated to be about forty years old, was a field of snow on the mountain side above, and was compressed into its present form by an avalanche of earth, rocks and trees.

Horsehairs and Snakes

The statement that if you place a horsehair in a puddle of water it will turn into a snake is ridiculous on the face of it, though apparently many people still believe it. It should be easy to demonstrate with a horsehair. The fact that a hair or similar object placed in water has a tendency to wriggle and twist like a live object has given rise to this superstition.

Lute and Guitar

The lute is a stringed musical instrument of the guitar family. The formal difference between a lute and a guitar is to be found in the back, which in the lute is pear-shaped and in the guitar is flat. The lute is without ribs, which are essential to the framing of the guitar.

Old Religious Houses

Double monasteries were religious houses comprising communities of both men and women, dwelling in contiguous establishments, united under the rule of one superior and using one church in common for their liturgical offices. Ireland presents only one known example—Kildare.

Food Depends on Monsoons

In India, the greater part of the Bombay presidency, including Sinds, depends for its food supply upon the southwest monsoons that happily invade that part of the country at regular intervals. In years of defective or irregular monsoons these areas are liable to the dreaded recurrence of the "Jadia famine," when the shortage of food supply is felt by animals as well as human beings.

Bird Hunts Snakes

The fanciful resemblance of the long feathers of his crest to a quill pen thrust behind his ear suggested the name "secretary" bird. This bird's habits, says Nature Magazine, are far from literary, as its business in life is hunting snakes and similar animals. It is an African and is one of the largest birds of prey.

The Thinking Reed

Man is but a reed, the weakest in nature; but he is a reed which thinks. The universe need not rise in arms to crush him; a vapor, a drop of water, suffices to kill him. But were the universe to crush him, man would still be greater than the power which killed him; for he knows that he dies, and of the advantage which the universe has over him, the universe knows nothing. —Pascal.

His Name Unhonored

Herman Blennerhasset was born in England the 8th of October, 1764. He married his own niece and was socially ostracized. He came to America and settled near the Ohio river, where he developed a princely estate. He was involved in the scheme of Aaron Burr to form a Southwestern empire and was arrested and tried on the charge of conspiracy.

World's Wettest Spot

At Cherrapunji, champion rainy spot of the earth, in the Himalayas, the average yearly rainfall is 466 inches. In 1861 it is recorded that 918 inches, or 76½ feet, actually descended at Cherrapunji. More than a third of this, or 372 inches, fell in July alone, and 42½ inches—or more than most Americans experience in a year—came down in a single day.

Nation's Telephone Wires

There is enough telephone wire in the United States to make a net that would hold the earth like an egg in an egg-cup. Besides putting one span around the equator, this net would consist of 6,584 strands joined to the south pole and spreading gradually until they were slightly less than four miles apart at the equator.

King Arthur's Capital

The place in England where King Arthur had his palace and held his court, and where his knights gathered about the "Round Table" was called Camelot. Some say Camelot was Winchester, others locate it in Wales.

Insulate Handles of Pliers

In working about electrical connections it is frequently desirable to insulate the handle of the pliers to prevent the possibility of receiving a shock. This may be readily accomplished by placing a piece of heavy wall rubber tubing over each handle.—Automobile Digest.

Good News

About the year 2000, says an authority on biometry and vital statistics, the population of the United States will reach its greatest height at 197,274,000. Thereafter it will decline, which is good news if the number of automobiles is going to increase in proportion to the population.—Youth's Companion.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

MARKET WAS STEADY.

New York, Feb. 25.—Relatively stiff money rates held speculative enthusiasm in check in today's stock market, but there was a steady investment demand for high grade issues, particularly in the railroad and equipment groups. Closing prices were irregularly higher with numerous gains of two to nearly five points scattered throughout the list.

American Locomotive continued its remarkable advance by establishing a new record top at 134 3-4, and then easing to 133 5-8 where it was up 2 3-8 on the day. Unconfirmed rumors persist that the stock is to be placed on an $8 dividend basis and that an additional extra dividend will be declared before the close of the year. Baldwin closed 2 3-4 higher at 143 1-2 with some buying attracted by the Diesel Engine possibilities.

American Car and Foundry also showed a substantial gain, despite President Woodin's letter to stockholders that no change in the dividend was contemplated on the new no-par stock. Air Reduction soared 4 3-8 points to 109 1-2. United States Steel closed 1-2 higher at 124 1-2 and American Can and Studebaker each showed net gains of about one point at 172 3-4 and 44 1-2 respectively.

Reports that the mild weather of the last week had resulted in larger automobile sales was the basis of increased activity in the motor group with special strength developing in Maxwell Motors A and B. Gains of 1 1-2 to 2 1-4 points included these issues as well as Chandler and Moon Motors.

The continued heavy accumulation of Atchison which advanced 2 3-8 to 124 3-8, a price which has only been exceeded in one year—in 1909—when it sold at 125 3-8, was the outstanding feature of the railroad list. Reports that the company's more liberal dividend policy would eventually lead to a stock distribution was a contributing factor in the advance. Norfolk and Western responded to a favorable January earnings report by crossing 130, and closing more than two points higher at 129 5-8. Demand for other investment railroad issues included Lehigh Valley, New Orleans, Texas and Mexico and Atlantic Coast Line, which rose 1 to 2 1-2 points.

An upward revision of sugar priced gave an undercurrent of strength to trading in these stocks. American Sugar, Great Western, Cuba Cane preferred and Cuban-Dominican preferred scored gains of a point or so. Sears-Roebuck and Associated Dry Goods figured in a rise of the merchandise issues, the latter spurting 3 1-2 points to a new high at 180.

After renewing at 4 1-4 per cent call money held firm at that rate for the rest of the day. Time funds were in demand at 3 3-4 to 4 per cent with few offerings below the top figure. Commercial Paper rates ranged from 3 1-2 to 4 per cent.

Foreign exchanges continued sluggish. French francs, reflecting uneasiness over the French financial situation, fell back 5 points to around 5.14 1-2 cents and sterling receded fractionally to $4.75 3-4. Italian lire, for which market support recently has been considered, eased off several points to around 4.03 cents.

BOND MARKET.

New York, Feb. 25.—Bond prices wavered in today's dull trading in reflection of the firmer trend of money rates. The scarcity of time fund offerings restricted buying operations except in a few instances where special developments figured. Strength of Norfolk and Western convertible sixes was in line with a rise in the stock, which followed publication of a favorable January earnings statement. Other rail liens moved within narrow limits, most of them

LEGAL NOTICES

NOTICE

ADJOURNED TOWN MEETING

The legal voters in Town Meeting of the Town of Bozrah are hereby warned to meet in an Adjourned Town Meeting to be held in the Town Hall in said Town of Bozrah on Monday, March 2d, 1925, at 2 o'clock p. m., to take action upon the following matters:

To decide whether the Town would authorize the completion of the improved highway on Bozrah street from the termination of the present macadam on said street for one mile or more, and to authorize the Selectmen to borrow such sums of money as may be needed for said work and to deliver the notes or other evidences of indebtedness of the Town therefor; and to decide whether said Town shall expend all State aid on said road from this date until said road is completed to the Montville Town line.

To decide whether the Town would authorize the Selectmen to repair the wooden bridge in Gate Hollow, so-called, with wooden stringers, or to replace said bridge with galvanized pipes.

Also to do any other business which may properly come before said meeting.

Dated at Bozrah, Conn., this 21st day of February, A. D. 1925.

FRANK L. LATHROP,
EDWARD A. BISHOP,
IRA C. WHEELER,
feb24d Selectmen.

AT A COURT OF PROBATE HOLDEN at Colchester, within and for the District of Colchester, on the 24th day of February, A. D. 1925.

Present—JOHN CONDREN, Judge.

On motion of Mary Piechota of Colchester, Conn., Administratrix on the estate of Albert Piechota, late of Colchester, within said District, deceased.

This Court doth decree that six months from Feb. 24, 1925, be allowed and limited for the creditors of said estate to exhibit their claims against the same to the Administratrix and directs that public notice be given of this order by advertising in a newspaper having a circulation in said District, and by posting a copy thereof on the public signpost in said Town of Colchester nearest the place where the deceased last dwelt.

Certified from record:
JOHN CONDREN, feb26d Judge.

NOTICE TO CREDITORS.

AT A COURT OF PROBATE HELD at Norwich, within and for the District of Norwich, on the 24th day of February, A. D. 1925.

Present—NELSON J. AYLING, Judge.

Estate of Michael Swabby, late of Norwich, in said District, absent from home for more than seven years and presumed in law to be dead.

Ordered, That the Administrator cite the creditors of said absentee to bring in their claims against said estate within six months from this date, by posting a notice to that effect, together with a copy of this order, on the signpost nearest to the place where said absentee last dwelt, and in the same town, and by publishing the same once in a newspaper having a circulation in said District, and make return to this Court.

NELSON J. AYLING, Judge.

The above and foregoing is a true copy of record.
Attest: HELEN M. DRESCHER,
Clerk.

NOTICE.—All creditors of said deceased are hereby notified to present their claims against said estate to the undersigned at 32 Dime St., Jewett City, Conn., within the time limited in the above and foregoing order.
PAUL F. FABIAN, feb26d Administrator.

AT A COURT OF PROBATE HELD at North Stonington, within and for the District of North Stonington, on the 25th day of February, A. D. 1925.

Present—CHARLES C. GRAY, Judge.

Estate of Lucie M. Jerome, late of North Stonington, in said District, deceased.

Mary Maine of 80 Elm street, Westerly, R. I., filed in Court a petition praying, for reasons therein set forth, that letters of administration may be granted on said estate of said deceased, said estate being intestate.

Whereupon, It Is Ordered, That said petition be heard and determined at the Probate Court Room in North Stonington, in said District, on the 4th day of March, A. D. 1925, at 2 o'clock in the afternoon, and that notice of the pendency of said petition, and of said hearing thereon, be given by the publication of this order once in The Norwich Bulletin, a newspaper having a circulation in said District, at least five days prior to the date of said hearing, and that return be made to this Court.

CHARLES C. GRAY, Judge.
The above is a true copy of record.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Wauregan Well Child Conference.

What "spring tonic" are you giving your children? In days of old, sulphur and molasses used to be the cure-all given by watchful mothers to ailing children. Nowadays, the careful mother takes her children each month to a well child conference. She watches their weight and their color; she keeps them well through the right kind of food, enough fresh air, and plenty of sleep. These are

TANNER PAYS BIG JUDGMENT IN VOLUNTOWN WOOD CUTTING CASE

The first phase of the Corcoran vs. Tanner controversy concerning the cutting of wood and timber by Walter C. Tanner, a Voluntown farmer, on land of Thomas W. Corcoran, once a member of the Brooklyn National baseball team, later an umpire in various leagues, and now retired to a small farm on the Ekonk Hill road just outside of Voluntown village, came to an end last week Wednesday, when Mr. Tanner paid the judgment rendered by Judge G. E. Hinman in favor of Corcoran for $635 damages and $254.12 costs.

The case was an interesting one in many ways. Mr. Tanner did not deny that he cut on the land in question, the northeast corner of the Corcoran farm, but made the claim that the land was not Corcoran's, although he did not attempt to show who the corner did belong to, and claimed he cut there because he was told by the late William H. Dawley of Voluntown that he, Dawley, owned the corner and that Tanner could cut and have what wood he wanted. Tanner offered no other proof of William H. Dawley's ownership than the statement of Dawley and admitted that at no time, either when the statement was made by Dawley or after the Corcoran suit was brought, had he made any attempt to ascertain from the records or elsewhere whether William H. Dawley did actually own the land, or who was the true owner of the same.

The case was also unusual as the cutting in question was not done in connection with cutting operations on other land, as was recognized by Judge Hinman in his memorandum of decision. The judge states "This case presents one feature uncommon to stumpage cases, which usually relate to cutting operations conducted in part on land owned or controlled by the operator, but extended, either wilfully or by mistake, onto land of an adjoining proprietor. Here there is present no right or color of right of ownership in either the defendant or Dawley. (William H. Dawley) The Briggs Manufacturing company owned the land adjoining that on which the cutting was done, and so far as appears, neither the defendant nor Dawley owned any land in the vicinity upon which ownership any claim of mistaken belief that the timber was growing on his own land could possibly rest."

In the trial of the case it was incumbent on Corcoran to prove ownership in himself of the corner in question, and it proved a difficult task and was only established by the exceptionally efficient work of George E. Pitcher of Norwich, a civil engineer and surveyor of the highest skill and long experience. Mr. Pitcher spent days upon the Voluntown land records and several days on the premises locating visible bounds and unearthing buried ones; to establish the bounds he was required to go back on the records over 100 years and to substantiate his plan and bounds, produced certified copies of over 30 deeds; even then it was impossible to establish definitely the north line of the premises, but Mr. Pitcher was able to show that in any event it must fall north of the cutting in question, leaving the cutting entirely on the Corcoran land.

The second phase of the controversy is still pending in court. After the death of William H. Dawley and after Mr. Corcoran brought suit against Mr. Tanner, Mr. Tanner filed a claim with Albert R. Dawley, administrator of the estate of William H. Dawley, claiming re-imbursement for any judgment Mr. Corcoran might recover against him. This claim was promptly disallowed by the administrator, and some months afterwards Mr. Tanner brought suit against the administrator. Mr. Tanner claims he is entitled to recover the money he paid Corcoran, in judgment and costs $889.12 in all, from the estate of William H. Dawley as he avers that he cut the corner in question at William H. Dawley's request and because Dawley told him that he, Dawley, owned the corner where the cutting was done. In the Corcoran-Tanner case Mason Gray and Albert R. Dawley testified that while the cutting was going on, in reply to an inquiry from them addressed to William H. Dawley, then living, as to what Tanner was doing cutting that corner, that he, William H. Dawley, told them Tanner owned it.

In the Corcoran vs. Tanner case, Thomas M. Shields of Norwich was lawyer for Corcoran and Jeremiah J. Desmond of Norwich lawyer for Tanner. In the case of Tanner against the William H. Dawley estate, Mr. Desmond again represents Mr. Tanner and Mr. Shields the estate, which second case will soon reach trial in the superior court.

ASH WEDNESDAY SERVICES IN ST. PATRICK'S CHURCH

Very large congregations assembled in St. Patrick's church for the services of Ash Wednesday. Before the 8 o'clock low mass, ashes obtained by burning the palms left from Palm Sunday was blessed by Rev. Myles P. Galvin, who later read the mass. The vestments and altar hangings were in violet, the hue of penitence. In blessing the ashes the prayers began with Psalm 68; later Esther 13 was read, beginning: "Let us amend for the better in those things in which we have sinned through ignorance" The versicle was Psalm 78, and the introit Wisdom 11. The epistle read in all the masses throughout the world was Joel 2, 12-19, and the gospel was Matthew 6, 16-21, "When you fast, be not as the hypocrites, sad" etc. The prayers were for the living and the dead and the Communion was Psalm 1. "He who will meditate upon the law of the Lord day and night, shall bring forth his fruit in due season."

The great congregation then moved up the center aisle to the altar, to kneel in turn and to have signed upon the forehead of each in the form of the cross the blessed ashes, as the priest repeated the solemn warning: "Remember, O man, that thou art dust—and into dust thou shalt return." The adults went first to the altar, the children following. In the imposition of the ashes, Father Galvin was assisted by Rev. John J. Reilly.

At the evening service there was the same distribution of the penitential ashes. The ushers were unable to find seats for many attending, scores standing through the service. The recitation of the Rosary was led by Father Galvin, Father Reilly giving benediction of the blessed sacrament.

MAY HAVE GOVERNOR GUEST AT COUNTY FAIR

It is possible that the New London County fair next September will be honored by a visit by Governor John H. Trumbull and staff. Wednesday morning Secretary E. V. Ross of the New London County Agricultural association received a letter from Governor Trumbull in which the governor states that if possible he will arrange to visit the fair. The governor's letter, which is a response to an invitation sent him by the agricultural society, is as follows:

State of Connecticut,
Executive Chambers
Hartford, Conn.

Dear Mr. Ross:

This will acknowledge your very cordial invitation to visit Norwich on Sept. 17. I agree with what you have to say that it might be a good thing for your vicinity if the governor and staff can arrange to be with you.

September 17 is quite a ways ahead and of course I could only make a tentative date at this time but will keep it in mind on my program and if possible I will try to arrange to come.

Sincerely yours,
JOHN H. TRUMBULL

B'Nai Brith Gift to Holy Cross

The recent issue of "The Tomahawk" the students' weekly at Holy Cross college, announces that the college library has recently received from the Worcester lodge of the Independent Order of B'Nai Brith a gift of 50 books dealing with Jewish life and literature.

A new library is now under construction at Holy Cross. When completed, it will be one of the largest and best appointed college libraries in the east. During the past few months many generous gifts of books for the library have been donated by alumni and friends of the college.

DAMAGES FOR WIFE IN SUIT AGAINST HUSBAND

A jury in the superior court Wednesday at Hartford awarded damages to a wife suiting her husband as the result of an automobile accident in which she was injured near Willimantic.

The jury brought in a verdict of $2,000 damages for Mrs. Inez A. Bushnell of Thompsonville against her husband, Mark W. Bushnell.

Mrs. Bushnell brought suit for $5,000 damages as a result of injuries she received when her husband fell asleep while driving his car, in which she was riding with him on their return from taking their son to Brown university, Providence, R. I., April 9 1924, following the Easter recess.

They were half way home, just north of Willimantic, when the automobile struck a tree, throwing Mrs. Bushnell through the windshield and seriously injuring her. She too, had fallen asleep, and she knew nothing of the mishap until she recovered consciousness shortly afterwards.

In his charge to the jury, Judge Dickenson said the court had already established the right of a wife to sue her husband for damages as though he was a stranger, and that the journey was not a "joint adventure," in which both were liable, equally engaged in any transaction. The husband was insured.

JUDGE SAYS BICYCLE HAS HIGHWAY RIGHTS

The bicycle, sans balloon tires, four-wheel brakes and other things, though not a traffic aristocrat, has its rights and now and then they are upheld, as was the decision by Judge Hinman of the superiod court at Hartford.

"The auto operator," says Judge Hinman in his decision of the case of others all of Manchester, "who assumes that he may merely blow his horn and proceed at will, leaving the disregarded rider of the bicycle to make the best of it, assumes the consequences legally accruing from such a course.

"The bicycle is entitled to rights and privileges as a vehicle, but lacks the capabilities of offense and defense inherent in the automobile. A bicycle operated according to the standards prevailing since bicycling ceased to be an accomplishment and became a matter of utility only is an object which should give the prudent motorist pause."

The court awarded the plaintiff $400 damages and costs for injuries received when he was knocked from a bicycle at the corner of Main and Henry street in Manchester, by an automobile operated by Kief.

MRS. RANGER INJURED IN FALL FROM PORCH

Mrs. Gerard L. Ranger of 87 Division street was painfully injured Wednesday morning when she fell from the upper porch at her home, a distance of about 15 feet, to the sidewalk below. The accident happened when the railing of the porch suddenly gave way as Mrs. Ranger put her weight against it.

Word was immediately sent for a physician and Mrs. Ranger was carried into her home, where her injuries were found to consist of severe strains about the back and legs and numerous cuts about the arms. As far as could be learned Wednesday, there were no broken bones, but there may be internal injuries.

New Mystic Incorporation

The Textile Rubber Co. Inc., of Groton has filed papers of incorporation. Authorized at $40,000 the company will begin a rubber goods business. The incorporators are Joseph S. Sanford, Samuel M. Sanford, Chas. E. Wheeler, Norton E. Wheeler, John R. Wheeler and the Standard Machinery Co. all of Mystic.

BOY WAS CRUSHED BY ROCK WHILE PLAYING

New York, Feb. 26.—It was recess time at the school of Our Lady of Mercy in the Bronx today. Three lively jumped on a rock protruding from the face of a rugged cliff—which to adults was only a vacant lot.

"I'm a bad man—chase me!" 7-year-old Tommy cried and darted down the hill. Two "cops" pursued him, flourishing "guns" which popped "Bang! Bang!"

But before them ran a swifter thing. The 800-pound rock upon which Tommy stood was jarred loose by his leap and followed the unsuspecting bad man down the hill, gaining at every turn.

A young priest from the school heard the two "cops" cry out and saw them stop rigidly. He found Tommy, the bad man, dead beneath the rock.

A thing of comfort is seldom a joy to the woman of fashion.

MRS. JACKSON'S LETTER

Mr. H. J. Allen:—

Dear Sir: Your Lung Healer has restored my 14 year old niece to perfect health from the verge of consumption. She had a severe cough all last winter, which, in spite of all we could do for her, seemed to take a stronger hold. She began to fade and lose her appetite and strength and to grow thin and pale. Every breath of cold air caused severe coughing. Her lungs became sore and pained her a great deal, and she coughed up great lumps of phlegm. We sent her to the country for the summer, but she seemed no better this fall. As her father died of consumption, we believed she was in the grip of the dread disease. Hearing of the wonderful work of Allen's Lung Healer, we decided to give it a trial. The results were almost miraculous, as the cough was almost gone after using one bottle, and after the second bottle she was entirely cured. She is now perfectly well and strong, has regained her lost flesh, eats heartily, and can go out in the coldest weather without feeling any bad effects of catching cold. All this is due to your grand remedy, which should be called "The Great Life Saver."

MRS. CLARA JACKSON.

107 Wyman St., West Lynn.

This letter was written fourteen years ago, and this girl is now the strong, healthy mother of several beautiful children.

We do not recommend Allen's Lung Healer as a cure for consumption, but we have proven that it has prevented this disease in many, many cases. 60c and $1 a bottle.

POETRY

HYMN TO THE NIGHT.

I heard the trailing garments of the night
Sweep through her marble halls!
I saw her sable skirts all fringed with light
From the celestial walls!

I felt her presence, by its spell of might Stoop o'er me from above;
The calm, majestic presence of the Night
As of the one I love.

I heard the sounds of sorrow and delight
The manifold, soft chimes,
That fill the haunted chambers of the Night,
Like some old poet's rhymes.

From the cool cisterns of the midnight air
My spirit drank repose;
The fountain of perpetual peace flows there,—
From those deep cisterns flows.

O holy Night! from thee I learn to bear
What man has borne before!
Thou layest thy finger on the lips of Care,
And they complain no more.

Peace! Peace! Orestes-like I breathe this prayer!
Descend with broad-winged flight,
The welcome, the thrice-prayed for, the most fair,
The best-beloved Night!
—Henry Wadsworth Longfellow.

THE GOLDEN SILENCE.

What though I sing no other song?
What though I speak no other word!
Is silence shame? Is patience wrong?—
At least one song of mine was heard.

One echo from the mountain air,
One ocean murmur, glad and free,
One sign that nothing grand or fair
In all this world was lost to me.

I will not wake the sleeping lyre;
I will not strain the chords of thought
The sweetest fruit of all desire
Comes its own way, and comes unsought!

Though all the bards of earth were dead,
And all their music passed away,
What Nature wishes should be said
She'll find the rightful voice

WELL KNOWN SINGER SHOT IN NEW HAVEN BY A GIRL

John Bagnano, the Victim, Died a few Minutes After Arrival at the New Haven Hospital—Shooting Occurred in Front of a Theatre in the Center of the City—Girl Made no Attempt to Escape—Claims Her Act Was Due to Victim's Relations With Her and His Refusal to Support Her and Her Child.

New Haven, Feb. 26.—John Bagnano, 26 years old, a well known singer of this city, was shot and almost instantly killed in front of a theatre in the center of the city late today, and Olympia Macri, 18 years old, also well known in local musical circles, is being held by the police, charged with the shooting. According to the girl's story to the police, the shooting was the result of Bagnano's relations with her and his refusal to support her and her child. Bagnano was married.

The girl confronted Bagnano in front of the theatre just as the matinee crowd was leaving the building and there was a panic among the pedestrians as she fire five shots at the man. Three of the bullets struck Bagnano, one entering the neck, and two in the right side. He fell to the sidewalk but later was taken to the New Haven hospital in a police ambulance. He died a few minutes after reaching that institution.

Bagnano had just left booking office in the Poli building in company with John "Sheik" Leonard, of Wallingford, a boxer, when the girl faced the former. Without saying a word, she pulled a revolver from underneath her coat and began shooting. The crowd fled panic stricken. One of the bullets from the girl's gun passed through Leonard's coat and another passed through the trousers of a newsboy nearby. Neither was injured.

The Macri girl, following the shooting, made no attempt to escape. She seemed dazed as she stood in the middle of the walk with the smoking revolver in her hand. Police Sergeant John Schmidt was standing but a few feet away at the time of the shooting, but he was unable to reach the girl's side before she had fired the five shots. Detective Thomas Reynolds, who was on his way home on a passing trolley car, saw the crowd and joined Sergeant Schmidt.

The police officers led the girl, now in a hysterical condition, to police headquarters where she was questioned by Coroner Eli Mix, the city attorney and a number of police officials.

The girl, according to the coroner, admitted that she did the shooting. She told the police, they reported, that she was glad she did it and that Bagnano got what he deserved. She is being held for the coroner's investigation which will be continued tomorrow morning.

According to the police, she said that she had been following Bagnano for six months. She had threatened him several times, the police said, and a short time ago forced him to cancel a singing engagement.

Bagnano, who was also known as John Bunyon, was the brother of Georgie Day and "Kid" Bunyon, local boxer.

The Macri girl was born in Meriden but had passed most of her life in this city. She was one of eleven children in the Macri family. Coming here at the age of six, she attended the local schools and was graduated from the high school. It was then that she expressed a desire to take up singing. She made considerable progress and arrangements had been made by her mother and father to send her abroad to study when her relations with Bagnano became known.

HOUSE FARM RELIEF BILL NOT ACCEPTABLE TO SENATE

Washington, Feb. 26.—The scene of controversy over farm relief legislation shifted today to the senate with the passing by the house of the Dickinson co-operative marketing bill as a substitute for the Haugen proposal reported by the agriculture committee.

Representative Dickinson, republican, Iowa, author of the measure, declared after conferences with several senate leaders that he believed it would be accepted by that chamber.

The word went around the senate, however, that the members of the president's agricultural conference were not satisfied with the Dickinson bill and would prefer to have nothing done by congress rather than have it enacted into law. Mr. Dickinson took the position that it would be futile for the senate to approve a bill similar to the Haugen measure and attempt to have the house accept it after its rejection of the proposal today.

The Dickinson bill proposed to extend federal aid to farmers without the regulatory provisions contained in the Haugen proposal. It eliminates the requirements for government auditing, licensing and regulation, but provides, like the Haugen bill, for creation of a federal co-operative marketing board, and would appropriate $500,000 for setting up federal aid machinery.

The Dickinson bill was accepted as a substitute for the Haugen measure by a roll call vote of 208 to 175, and then was passed by a roll call vote of 254 to 95.

FEDERAL RESERVE BANK RAISES REDISCOUNT RATE

New York, Feb. 26.—Directors of the Federal Reserve bank of New York today formally reorganized the rising tendency of money rates, resulting from recent business expansion and the greater demand for funds in expanded securities trading, by raising the rediscount rate from 3 to 3 1-2 per cent. The 3 per cent. rate, which was the lowest in the history of the federal reserve system, as well as the lowest bank rate in the world, has been in effect since Aug. 8, 1924. The new rate becomes effective tomorrow.

The first effects of the advance were felt in the foreign exchange market, where a break of more than a cent took place in sterling. The reaction in the British currency apparently was based on the theory that with the New York rate only 1-2 per cent. below the London bank rate the attraction of capital to Great Britain for higher interest returns would be lessened. Maintenance of low rediscount rates in the United States also had been expected to aid in the possible return of sterling to par.

INDIANA SENATORS HAVE REACHED AN AGREEMENT

Dayton, Ohio, Feb. 26—(By the A. P.)—Indiana's striking senators have reached an agreement with the republican majority in the upper chamber of the state general assembly and will return to Indianapolis tonight, it was learned from a semi-official source.

The democratic members have been assured that the bill to redistrict two congressional districts to the advantage of the republicans will not be permitted to pass, it was understood. Information was obtained following a conference of the men who yesterday fled from Indiana to Day ton as a protest against the bill.

150,000 CASES OF WHISKEY IN ST. JOHN'S, N. F., FOR EXPORT

St. John's, N. F., Feb. 26.—A hundred and fifty thousand cases of whiskey, valued at $1,500,000, and destined for export, have lain here since December 16. Movement of the huge stock has been held up, it was said, partly as a result of the activity of the United States coast guard and partly as a result of the stormy weather which has prevailed. Two ships which arrived here today began loading cargoes and it was estimated that the entire stock would be cleared before the end of April.

GREAT BRITAIN PLANNING SYSTEM OF AIR DEFENSE

London, Feb. 26 (By the A. P.)—Sir Samuel Hoare, the air secretary, introducing the air estimates in the house of commons this afternoon, said that the government hoped in the coming five years to construct such a system of air defense as to make the risk of attacking Great Britain so great that any enemy would think long before attempting it.

He remarked, however, that, despite recent increases, the British air strength was still one to three as compared with that of France, and it would take several years to equal France.

The estimates provide for an expenditure of £21,319,300 for the maintenance and expansion of the air force in the financial year 1925-26. This amount represents a net increase of 1,927,300 over last year's estimates, and it is planned to increase the enlisted personnel from 35,000 to 36,000, as well as to add seven more completely equipped home defense squadrons to those in service, making a total of 35.

PONZI CONVICTED OF HAVING STOLEN $9,500

Boston, Feb. 26.—Charles Ponzi was today convicted of having stolen $9,500 from persons who had entrusted their money to him for investment purposes. He was found guilty by a jury before Judge Sisk in the Suffolk Superior Criminal court after a trial of nearly a week and after the jury had deliberated nearly thirteen hours. He was tried on four indictments charging fourteen counts of larceny.

When the verdict was announced, Assistant District Attorney Frank Deland asked that the $2,000 bail on which Ponzi had his liberty be increased to $10,000. Judge Sisk agreed.

Ponzi in custody of Inspector Mitchell, left the Court House, but soon returned with Mrs. Benilde Malagutl to furnish sufficient sureties for his release. He was accompanied by Attorney William H. Lewis, who will argue the motion for a stay of sentence and the setting aside of the verdict.

WESTPORT POLICE CAPTAIN HAS BEEN SUSPENDED

Westport, Conn., Feb. 26.—Captain Walter T. Duffy, of the local police, was suspended from duty this afternoon by the board of selectmen. Duffy's suspension came after he was bitterly arraigned in town court for arresting Willis S. Jones, publisher, and George Smith, automobile sales man of Bridgeport "without cause." The cases were dismissed in court. They were charged with resisting an officer. Duffy was accused of abusing the privilege and authority of his office and conducting himself in a manner unbecoming a policeman. He will have a hearing next Tuesday.

9-YEAR OLD GIRL STRUCK BY AUTO IN BRISTOL

Bristol, Conn., Feb. 26.—Mary Cattucci, 9 years old, of Fenn street, was seriously injured today when she was struck by an automobile driven by James M. Halmon of Unionville. She was taken to the Bristol hospital where it is not expected she will recover.

The girl is said to have darted from the sidewalk in Main street into the road directly in the path of the automobile. She was knocked down by the fender and the wheels of the machine passed over him, crushing her chest.

Halmon was ordered to appear at police headquarters tomorrow morning

TEN-MILE ICE JAM IN THAMES RIVER, ONTARIO

Chatham, Ont., Feb. 26.—Unless the wind changes and the weather moderates in the next few hours, flood waters dammed by a ten-mile ice jam in the Thames river threaten Dover and Raleigh townships with inundation.

Hundreds of acres are already under water, twenty families are reported marooned and many others are escaping in boats.

The water rose rapidly today.

CABLED PARAGRAPHS

Sir Everard A. Hambro Dead.

London, Feb. 26.—Sir Everard A. Hambro, director of the Bank of England, died today. He was a knight commander of the Victorian order and was born in 1843.

Received Gen. Pershing.

Caracas, Feb. 26.—President Gomez today received General John J. Pershing and his United States mission at Miraflores palace. The president later took the party in automobiles to Maracay and Ocumare.

Tower of Pisa in Danger.

Rome, Feb. 26.—The Tribuna publishes a despatch from Pisa asserting that fear is expressed that the famous leaning tower is in danger of falling. The tower was built between the twelfth and thirteenth centuries, and from the top leans 14 feet off the perpendicular.

SERVICES IN WASHINGTON FOR SENATOR M'CORMICK

Washington, Feb. 26.—Official Washington, led by the president and Mrs. Coolidge, members of congress and the diplomatic corps bowed in tribute today to the memory of Medill McCormick, senior senator from Illinois, at simple and brief services held at the home of Countess Eleanor Gizycka, a cousin of the late senator.

The body of Senator McCormick, who died suddenly here yesterday, left at 3 o'clock for Chicago, where funeral services will be held tomorrow morning. Burial will be in the family vault at Graceland cemetery. Accompanying the body were the widow, Mrs. Tiffany Blake, George F. Porter, an intimate friend of the late senator, and Harold F. McCormick, a cousin, all of whom arrived from Chicago today and attended the services here.

Besides the president and his wife, those attending the brief rites today included members of the senate, justices of the supreme court, members of the cabinet, the Illinois delegation in the house, and representatives of the diplomatic corps, headed by Ambassador Riano of Spain. Senator Reed, democrat, Missouri, and Pepper, republican, Pennsylvania, delivered eulogies of the late senator, and prayers of the Rev. J. J. Muir, chaplain of the senate, opened and closed the services.

Other members of the McCormick family present were Robert R. McCormick, a brother, and Mrs. McCormick, who recently returned from Europe, Mrs. Stanley McCormick, of New York, a cousin; Mark A. Hanna of Cleveland, a nephew of the senator's widow, and Mrs. Richard Porter Davidson of this city, a niece. Mrs. Richard Derby, sister of Mrs. Nicholas Longworth, a close friend of the family, also came from New York.

ROBERT C. CLOWRY DIED ON A PENNSYLVANIA TRAIN

New York, Feb. 26.—Robert C. Clowry, 56, former president and general manager of the Western Union Telegraph company, died on a Pennsylvania train en route to New York this afternoon, his secretary, Franklin J. Scherrer, announced tonight.

Mr. Clowry was returning in a private car from Palm Beach, where he had recently contracted a heavy cold. He became seriously ill on the journey and arrangements were made to meet the train here with an ambulance to take him to his home in Tarrytown. He died while the train was running between Washington and New York, Mr. Scherrer said. Mr. Clowry had been at Palm Beach since late in January.

Mr. Clowry was known to his many friends by the title "Colonel," which he acquired in active service in the Civil war.

One of his proudest boasts during the last few years was that, although more than 80, he still knew his Morse and could send code messages as clearly as in the days when he dispatched telegrams for Abraham Lincoln at Springfield, Ill., before the war.

One July day in 1921 Colonel Clowdy demonstrated his prowess to the satisfaction of the old time Telegraphers' association, sending a message over a special wire to E. C. Newton at Little Rock, Ark. Mr. Newton, then 73, had been an operator with the Confederate armies.

SMITH COLLEGE TO HAVE A BRANCH IN PARIS

Northampton, Mass., Feb. 26.—A branch of Smith college will be established in Paris next fall, when 20 or 25 members of the junior class will go to France to study for one year at the Sorbonne and similar institutions. The plan which was recently approved by the trustees of the college was made public today.

Only those students who have completed all the college requirements and are majoring in French will be eligible for this study abroad, and these must be approved by the department of French and by a committee consisting of the dean of the college, the class dean and the committee on foreign students. A member of the department of French will accompany the group to act as their dean.

The students will be quartered in French families selected by the dean. The fees for the year, payable to Smith college, will be the same as for students living on the campus and only traveling expenses will be extra. Before leaving Smith the students will choose their courses for the following year and examinations covering each semester's work will be given by the professors conducting the courses or by the Smith professor accompanying the party, or by both.

The group will reach France by September 1 and courses will begin in November.

$300,000 FIRE LOSS IN PLANT AT BROOKLYN DAILY TIMES

New York, Feb. 26—Fire late today destroyed the editorial and composing rooms of the Brooklyn Daily Times with an estimate damage of $300,000.

The fire started in the composing room at 5.40 o'clock, after the last edition had been printed. Fanned by a high wind, the flames had made great headway on the upper two floors of the 4-story newspaper plant before the firemen arrived. Three alarms were turned in.

The other Brooklyn newspapers offered the Times all assistance they could give, for publishing the paper, but Fremont Peck, owner of the Times said he would decide later as to means of publication in the immediate future.

Postal Bill Now up Before The President

Senate by Vote of 69 to 12 Practically Accepted the House Bill.

Washington, Feb. 26.—The postal pay and rate increase bill received final congressional approval today and now goes to the president.

The conference report, practically substituting the house bill for that passed by the senate, was accepted by the senate after a short debate.

The vote was 69 to 12, eight democrats and four republicans voting against the conference report.

The republicans were: Borah, Idaho; Brookhart, Iowa; Howell, Nebraska; and Norbeck, South Dakota. The democrats were: Bruce, Maryland; Dial, South Carolina; George, Georgia; Glass, Virginia; Harrison, Mississippi; Pittman, Nevada; Swanson, Virginia; and Underwood, Alabama.

The measure provided for an average increase of about $300 annually in postal employes' salaries, effective as of January 1, this year, and increases postal rates, effective April 15, next, to raise about $60,000,000 of the $68,000,000 required for the pay advances.

The bill also carried as a "rider" a corrupt practice act strictly limiting campaign expenditures of congressional candidates, as recommended by the senate campaign funds committee.

The salary increases are the same as carried in the measure passed at the last session and vetoed by President Coolidge. With the rate advances added, however, administration leaders are hopeful the bill will receive presidential approval.

Opposition to the conference report today was based entirely on the rate provisions. Senator Harrison, democrat, Mississippi, declared the senate conferees had yielded to the higher rates in the house bill after a conference with President Coolidge.

Senator McKellar, democrat, Tennessee, one of the conferees, also told th esenate the president had "asserted his prerogative" in insisting on some of the rate increases, mentioning particularly the two cents service charge on parcel post packages.

The bill is one of the first pieces of general legislation outside of the appropriation measures to be sent to the White House this session. It was advanced at the time the senate, by a close margin, voted to sustain the veto of the pay increase measure.

While no time limit is placed on the rate increases, the bill provides for a joint congressional committee to conduct hearings this summer with a view to recommending further revision of these schedules at the next session.

Controversy over the rate increases centered on the second and fourth classes. In the former the rate is made uniform on all reading matter at one and one-half cents a pound, while for advertising sections the rates are two cents a pound in the first and second zones; three cents a pound in the third zone; six cents a pound in the fourth, fifth and sixth zones, and nine cents a pound in the seventh and eighth zones.

In the fourth class, a service charge of two cents a pound on all parcel post packages is established, with the present basic rates unchanged. A special handling service also is created with a charge of 25 cents a package.

In the first class, the rate on private mailing cards and souvenir cards is advanced from one to two cents. In the third class, the rate is increased from one to one and one-half cents for each two ounces. All matter under eight ounces must be sent in this class, and all over that amount in the fourth class.

Increases recommended by the post-office department for money orders registered mail, insurance, collect-on-delivery and special delivery services were retained in the bill without change.

The corrupt practices act limits the expenses of candidates for the senate to $10,000 and of candidates for the house to $2,500, unless state laws provide a lower maximum. As an alternative, an amount equal to that obtained by multiplying the total number of votes cast at the last general election for all candidates for an office by three cents may be spent up to $25,000 for a senate candidate and $5,000 for a candidate to the house. The act also provides for maintenance of record of all gifts and expenditures and for fines of $10,000 and imprisonment for two years for violations.

Representative Madden, republican, Illinois, today obtained house approval for an amendment to the deficiency appropriation bill which would authorize payment of the retroactive salary raises of postal employes provided the pay and rate measure becomes a law. This, Mr. Madden explained, would take $34,000,000 out of the 1926 postoffice department appropriation, and the resulting deficiency would be made up in the next congress.

CANADIAN PACIFIC TRAIN WENT THROUGH SWITCH

Perth, Ont., Feb. 26.—Two men were injured today, one perhaps fatally, when a Canadian Pacific railway passenger train crashed head-on into a waiting freight train at Glen Tay, three miles from here. The injured men, both Canadians, were taken to a local hospital.

The passenger train went through an open switch and struck the freight on a siding. First reports did not indicate whether there were additional casualties. The engineer and fireman of the passenger escaped by leaping from their locomotive.

Members of the Ottawa professional hockey team were aboard the train. So far as is known none of the players were injured.

DIVORCED A FORTNIGHT, MAN COMMITS SUICIDE

Greenwich, Feb. 26.—George Briggs, who was divorced by his wife a fortnight ago, was found in the highway near his home this afternoon and died at the Greenwich hospital later from a bullet wound in the head. Beside Briggs were a revolver and a mirror.

It was said by friends of Briggs that he had been despondent since the court action which lost him his wife. He was 31 years of age, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Briggs, and leaves also two sisters and three brothers.

Steamers Ashore on The Coast of France

Terrific Gales Have Been Raging Along the Bay of Biscay.

Paris, Feb. 26.—(By the A. P.)—Several steamers are aground from Dunkirk on the Strait of Dover to Biarritz on the Bay of Biscay, and many others today were sending out wireless calls for assistance in the terrific westerly gales which have been raging from the English channel, along the Atlantic to the Bay of Biscay for the past four days. Tonight these gales were showing no signs of abating.

An unidentified freight steamer is breaking up near Cap Gris Nez, across the English channel from Dover, and there seems to be little hope of saving the crew.

Only four men out of a crew of 18 were rescued from the stranded Spanish steamer Cristina-Rueda near La Rochelle. This loss, together with the drowning of seven members of the life-saving station whose boat capsized Wednesday as it was putting out to the Cristina-Rueda, brings the loss of life at La Rochelle to 21.

The Brest and Cherbourg roads are filled with craft of all kinds which are taking refuge from the storm.

The Lorient wireless station picked up this afternoon distress signals from the Italian steamer Citta. Di Elena, the Pelagia, a vessel of Greek registry, and another ship the name of which could not be deciphered by the wireless operator. All three vessels were floundering in the heavy sea between the Ushant light and the Bay of Biscay.

The storm is general throughout France. All telegraph and telephone communication between Paris and Brest is interrupted.

A tidal wave today struck Seln island, 28 miles off Brest. Teh breakwater was demolished and all the houses in the lower part of the island were ruined. Hundreds of persons are homeless. No relief can be sent to the island as no boat would be able to live in the high seas that are running.

SAYS SALACIOUS PLAYS ARE HARMFUL TO ARTISTRY

New York, Feb. 26.—Kenneth McGowan, theatrical director, today took a hand in the controversy growing out of charges that certain Broadway plays were salacious, when he told members of the American Institute in an address that the allegations were made by William A. Brady's press agent, who sought to save one production, "A Good Bad Woman," from failing financially.

The producer said charges of District Attorney Banton that "Desire Under the Elms" would corrup the public mind, were without foundation and served notice that the play would be continued.

This latter play he termed "a great moral tragedy" whose motives would not arouse passion or license in the mind of anyone.

Plans for a jury of playgoers to judge questioned productions "might not be a bad thing," providing its opinion was not warped by cranks, said Mr. McGowan.

The plot to further "A Good Bad Woman" was planned by Brady's press agent, and the producers profited handsomely through the publicity, he asserted.

Discussing District Attorney Banton's charges, Mr. McGowan said that "messy politics" had entered into the controversy.

"I don't expect any cleanup of the American stage," he continued. "Most of its producers are business men with no feeling of art. They will continue to take advantage of the situation by producing from time to time deliberately suggestive bad plays. The sincere producer and playwright, with the ambition to present sheer, artistic truth, will continue to suffer for the greed of the majority."

HOUSE AIRCRAFT COMMITTEE EXAMINED ADMIRAL JONES

Washington, Feb. 26—The house aircraft committee, resuming its investigation today as though it had not been abruptly halted Saturday, examined Rear Admiral Hilary P. Jones, head of the navy general board and Clifford A. Tinker, author of a recent magazine article charging congress with selling 34 American lives for $412 each in pursuit of economy, and requesting Secretary Weeks to re-appear for examination.

After hearing Mr. Tinker, who among other statements criticized testimony by Brigadier General Mitchell, assistant army air chief, the committee expunged from its records all of his assertions not bearing on the magazine article, and went on record denouncing it as "inaccurate, unfounded and untrue."

Mr. Weeks probably will be asked to appear Saturday instead of tomorrow, as first planned, because of the large number of witnesses summoned for tomorrow, including Rear Admiral Sims, retired.

In an executive session, the committee voted to accept the war secretary's invitation to visit Fortress Monroe, Va., for a demonstration of anti-aircraft fire against targets towed by airplanes, but asked that the date be arranged about the middle of March.

SENATOR-ELECT DENEEN TO SUCCEED M'CORMICK

Washington, Feb. 26.—Information reached administration leaders in the senate today that Governor Small of Illinois will appoint Charles S. Deneen, senator-elect from that state, to fill out the unexpired term of Senator Medill McCormick, who died here Sunday.

Former Governor Deneen, who was elected last November to succeed Mr. McCormick on March 4, is expected to arrive here Saturday or Sunday from Chicago, and so would have three days' service in the present senate. He is a former member of the house of representatives.

STONEHAM JURY WAS LOCKED UP FOR NIGHT

New York, Feb. 26.—The federal court jury which since 12.20 o'clock this afternoon had been endeavoring to reach a verdict in the case of Charles A. Stoneham, baseball magnate, Ross F. Robertson and Elmore D. Dier, charged with using the mails to defraud, was ordered locked up for the night by Federal Judge Winslow at 10.40 p. m.

INAUGURAL PARADE PLANS HAVE BEEN MADE PUBLIC

Every Branch of the Armed Forces of the Nation Will be Represented—President Coolidge Will be Escorted to and From the White House by the Superintendent of Washington Police, a Platoon of Mounted Officers and Squadron of the Third Cavalry—Each Governor Will be Accompanied by Two Aides, a Color Guard With National and State Flags, a Staff, and a Military or Other Escort.

Washington, Feb. 26.—Plans for the inaugural parade next Wednesday, made public today, show that every branch of the armed forces of the nation will be represented, even including a battalion of tanks which will rumble down Pennsylvania avenue.

Major General Hines, chief of staff of the army, will head the parade as grand marshal, and many other high ranking officers of the army and navy will have places, as will governors of states and others high in official life.

The procession will be divided into two grand divisions. The first, headed by Major General Malin Craig, will consist of regular army battalions of infantry, engineers, air service troops, field artillery, tanks, marines and seamen and the army, engineer, Third cavalry, tank school, Quantico, marine and navy bands.

The second division will be headed by Major General Anton Stephan of the District of Columbia National guard. The marine band will march near the head of the division, and state governors will follow in the order in which the states were admitted to the union.

Each governor will be accompanied by two aides, a color guard with national and state flags, a staff and a military or other escort. The governors who have announced they would be present or represented are those from Delaware, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Connecticut, Massachusetts, Maryland, New Hampshire, Virginia, New York, North Carolina, Rhode Island, Vermont, Ohio, Maine, Iowa, Nebraska, Colorado and Wyoming.

Foot and mounted troops will march in column of platoons, 12 abreast. Artillery and tanks will proceed two guns or two tanks abreast.

As the army and marine bands pass the president's reviewing stand they will play "Hail to the Chief." No other bands will be permitted to play this selection.

President Coolidge will be escorted to and from the White House by the superintendent of Washington police, a platoon of mounted officers and a squadron of the Third cavalry. Another squadron of the Third cavalry will escort Charles G. Dawes, the vice president-elect.

On arrival at the capitol, the grand marshal and his staff, dismounted, will meet President Coolidge at the senate wing. General Hines, with one aide, will accompany the president into the building.

COURT DECISION AGAINST THE VETERANS' BUREAU

New Haven, Feb. 26.—Judgment to the amount of $13,783.20 in favor of Carl Sudock, of this city, World war veteran, against the veterans' bureau, was given by Federal Judge E. S. Thomas today in an action arising from the refusal of the bureau to pay Sudock his war risk insurance after disability.

The decree orders payment of the sum in 24 installments (or 20 years) of $57.43 each.

Sudock enlisted in the United States army on July 1, 1917, and obtained war risk insurance, upon application, January 26, 1918. He was discharged from the service suffering from shell shock, on June 17, 1919. He paid no premiums subsequent to March, 1921, according to the brief filed in the case, but applied after that date for monthly installments on his insurance alleging total and permanent disability. The claim was disallowed by the veterans' bureau on the ground that the policy had lapsed.

The case was carried to the board of appeals, of the veterans' bureau and found that Sudock was mentally incompetent since his discharge from the service. For this reason, the man was pronounced entitled to a waiver of premium.

Judge Thomas heard the appeal and ordered that payments be turned over to the conservator for Sudock's use and in case of his death, the balance to go to the conservator for the estate of the war veteran.

FRENCH DEPUTIES VOTE EXTRA TAX ON FOREIGNERS

Paris, Feb. 26—(By the A. P.)—The voting by the chamber of deputies, in the wee small hours of the morning, when only about fifty deputies were present, of a clause of the finance law raising the price of identity cards for foreigners residing in France to 200 francs, today created considerable stir in the foreign colonies of Paris and among firms depending on tourist trade for their existence.

The amendment to the revenue law, which would place a tax on foreigners in addition to their regular income tax, was proposed by Deputy Henry Pate and jammed through the house without sufficient discussion to attract the attention of the tired deputies.

The amendment as adopted specifically provides that all foreign visitors intending to remain in France more than a fortnight must obtain within forty-eight hours of their arrival an identity card for which a tax of 72 francs, in all, is charged. These cards are valid for three years, when they must be renewed, and the fee for renewal is fixed at 200 francs.

The French national tourist office is greatly disturbed over the action of the chamber and it was announced today it would use its influence against the ratification of the measure by the senate.

TO CODIFY RECOMMENDATIONS FOR ABOLISHMENT OF WAR

New York, Feb. 26.—The Women's Peace union today invited delegates of various American peace societies to an executive conference here on March 5 to codify recommendations to abolish war, which will be presented at the coming world meeting to be held in London by the war resister's international.

The Fellowship of Reconciliation, The Women's Peace society, the War Resisters' league, The Fellowship of Youth and Peace and the Boston Society for Abolition of War have accepted, it was announced.

FAMOUS WAR ACE KILLED IN EXHIBITION FLIGHT

Bayonne, Feb. 26.—Roger Ronserail, a famous war ace himself, was killed during an exhibition flight at Mont-de-Marsan, near here today. Since the armistice Ronserail had been employed by a traveling circus to make flights over towns and cities, performing stunts and dropping hand bills to herald the advent of the show.

In spite of a violent storm he insisted on taking off today as usual. When he was 1,500 feet from the ground one wing of the plane was torn off while he was looping-the-loop. He crashed to the earth with his machine and was killed instantly

HARLEM POLITICIAN HELD IN CONNECTION WITH MURDER

New York, Feb. 26.—George Callan, Harlem politician, and Frank Hennessey, saloonkeeper, were arrested today, charged with acting together in the killing of an unidentified young man who was shot this morning as he fled from Hennessey's cafe on East 123rd street.

A third man, William Damcio, a brother-in-law of Hennessey, was questioned with them for eleven hours but was later released.

Mrs. Julia Hennessey, the cafe man's wife, was released after questioning concerning a bank book issued in her name and showing a recent deposit of $1.50, which police said they found in the murdered mans pocket. Mrs. Hennessey is Italian-born, as apparently was the victim.

A few hours after the murder, police received an anonymous letter which described the dead man as "George Payne, a sear-faring man, and said he had arrived on a ship February 25, that he had attended a party in Hennessey's cafe, and that he had considerable money on his person. This identification was not confirmed by the police.

It was learned, however, that a group of politicians with several women friends were being entertained in the safe prior to the shooting. Alderman Charles M. McGillick voluntarily told the police he had been present but declared he left before the fracas.

The victim, police learned, was seen about 4 a. m. running from Hennessey's cafe, pursued by three men. One fired several shots, and as the fugitive fell the three disappeared.

The body was found a short distance from the cafe, a police dog bristling over it. Callan, Hennessey and Damico were found later within the safe, where police said they also found a quantity of liquor.

George Callan is head of the George Callan association, an organization active in district politics. He is the son-in-law of former Alderman James McNulty, who is now confidential secretary to Sheriff H. Warren Hubbard.

CONFLICTING CLAIMS IN SPEAKERSHIP CONTEST

Washington, Feb. 26.—With the speakership contest definitely narrowed down to Nicholas Longworth of Ohio and Martin B. Madden of Illinois, conflicting claims were made today as to the strength each would develop on the showdown tomorrow night at the caucus of republican members-elect of the house.

Representative Begg of Ohio, directing the Longworth campaign predicted his candidate would poll close to 140 votes and Madden less than 100.

On the other hand, Representative Britten of Illinois, the Madden manager, declared his candidate would receive 121 votes, or a majority, on the first ballot.

Last minute efforts were made by supporters of both candidates today to line up new members arriving in Washington for the caucus.

The number eligible to attend the caucus is 224, but it is not likely all will be on hand

PROPOSED ELKS' HOME, WILLIM ANTIC

WILLIMANTIC

Contracts for the building the proposed Elks' home in Willimantic have been awarded to two local firms, the Doyle & Murphy Co., on the general contract and Moriarty and Rafferty, on the contract for the plumbing. The home is to be the property of Willimantic lodge, No. 311. Work on the building will be started as soon as weather permits. The site for the new home is ideal in every respect. According to the perspective drawings the building will be on the Old English style giving the appearance of a beautiful country estate. It will be situated on a knoll fronting what is known as Elks' park, Pleasant street. Pleasant street is one of the choice residential sections of the city and is quickly reached by pedestrians by way of the footbridge which leads from the central part of Main street to a point on Pleasant street just opposite the park. The new building will be of stucco with tapestry brick corners and a large veranda will front the north, east and west. Three floors are planned. In the basement will be bowling alleys, billiard parlors and shower baths. The main floor will be a reception hall and on the upper floor will be located the lodge headquarters. The heating plant will be placed in the basement of the present dance hall with a piping [illegible] to the home. The present hall will eventually be remodeled for a [illegible] auditorium. Bids were received from Peck-McWilliams, of Norwich; Tracy Brothers and the Clark Construction Company of Waterbury, Oliver L. Willard and Doyle & Murphy of this city, for the general contract; Moriarty & Rafferty, Berger on and Grimley and Welch and McCarthy of this city; J. A. Fitzgerald of Norwich and J. Funeral services for Mrs. Annie Syzdek were held from her home, 620 Jackson street. Requiem mass at St. Joseph's church at nine o'clock Thursday morning was sung by Rev. Paul Bartlewski. Mrs. Henry Mathieu sang the customary Gregorian mass with Mrs. E. R. Portelance, the organ. There was a large attendance at the services. Burial was in the family plot at St. Joseph's cemetery, where a committal service was read by Rev. Father Bartlewski. The bearers were Gus Sagal, Joseph Slowik, W. Wojcik, John Syzdek, Tyzdor Relszel and Joseph Piontek. Killourey Brothers had charge of the arrangements.

The February meeting of the Windham Teachers' club was held Thursday evening in the normal school, with a very good attendance. The session was in charge of Mrs. Herbert D. Pollard, who represents all the outlying schools, the ex-teachers and outside members of the club. A practical talk was given by Prof. C. B. Gentry, of Connecticut Agricultural college, on the Improvement of Teachers in Service. Mr. Gentry said that a teacher has to improve himself that no one else can do it for him. As effective means to this end he suggested good daily preparation of work, the pursuit of a side-line or hobby, the assistance of the supervisor, and named a number of books worth reading on the subject. He also stressed the importance of attending summer school, and the types of such school, the attendance at teachers' meeting and associations, and travel. A social hour was enjoyed and refreshments were served. The other members of the committee in the teachers' club are R. L. Hahn, of the high school faculty, Mrs. Pollard, Miss M. E. Lindeman, of the Oaks, Miss Annie J. Oats of the Model school., Miss Lucy Reddish of the Normal school, Miss Catherine Wheeler, Windham High school, and Miss E. F. Willett of the Natchaug school.

Wednesday night prayer meeting at Mansfield Center church was followed by the usual community night social gathering. The program was given over to a lecture on Japan, by the pastor, Rev. T. Hawthorne Jones, after which there was a social hour, games and refreshments.

Morgan St. John, instructor in music, spoke at assembly at the normal school, Wednesday morning, on the processes of smelting and refining copper ore, as he saw the process recently in a big plant in New York city. He commented especially on the quickness and efficiency with which the raw Chilean ore passes through various cooking and electrical treatments and comes out finished copper ready for use, and the lack of friction in the management, where the employes come from all over the world.

The annual reunion and roll call of the Methodist church was held in the vestry Thursday evening with a committee from the Sorority and the Ladies' Aid society in charge. A program of moving and stereopticon pictures and musical selections was given, and the report of the church treasurer, Dwight E. Ide was read. A number of short speeches were made and lunch was served.

Credit for coaching two of the oneact plays given Tuesday evening by the Normal School Dramatic club belongs to Miss Hannah Fitzgerald, who directed "Rocking Chairs," and to Miss Esther Hall whose treatment of "The Maker of Dreams," was excellent. The club is under the general direction of Miss Lucy Stone, head of the English department. Miss Helen Dempsey assisted in the coaching of "Rehearsals."

Judge and Mrs. Frank H. Foss and Halsey Foss were among those who attended the automobile show in Hartford this week.

An unusual injury to a white collie owned by Arthur P. Ellsworth of the South Windham road, and considered valuable by him, presented itself in the light of a mystery to Mr. Ellsworth and to Dr. B. K. Dow, who both supposed that the dog had been shot. Although an examination failed to disclose any sign of a bullet, the owner felt confident that it was a case of shooting, and Thursday he offered a reward of $25 for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the guilty party. About noon Thursday Milton Burnham of 180 Elm street, local manager of the Providence Dairy company, reported at police headquarters that he had struck a white dog while on his way to Norwich Wednesday night. The dog ran into his car near the Ellsworth home and an oil cup spout projecting from the running board penetrated the dog's body to a depth of several inches. The dog pulled away and ran off. Mr. Burnham did not know in which direction the animal had disappeared and after a few minutes of waiting he resumed his trip.

The backfire of the engine in one of the Dexter's Bond bread five-ton trucks operated through this city to Norwich led residents of the business section of the city to believe that a gun battle was taking place here about 3 o'clock Thursday morning. Reports of a gun battle between police officers and rum-runners and of the shooting of a burglar were denied later in the day and the real cause of the noise explained. The same backfire of the bread trucks caused excitement in the vicinity of South Windham several months ago.

In a fall down a 20-foot runway at the Providence Dairy milk station on Chapman street, John Kogut of 8 Lafayette street, this city, an employee of the company, sustained a fractured right shoulder and dislocated portion of his right arm about 8 o'clock Thursday morning. Kogut was moving milk cans about the place when he lost his balance and fell down the chute. He is being cared for at his home.

NEW LAMP BURNS 94% AIR

BEATS ELECTRIC OR GAS

A new oil lamp that gives an amazingly brilliant, soft, white light, even better than gas or electricity, has been tested by the U. S. Government and 35 leading universities and found to be superior to 10 ordinary oil lamps. It burns without odor, smoke or noise—no pumping up; is simple, clean, safe. Burns 94 per cent. air and 6 per cent. common kerosene (coal oil).

The inventor, O. N. Johnson, 642 N. Broad St., Philadelphia, is offering to send a lamp on 10 days' FREE trial, or even to give one FREE to the first user in each locality who will help him introduce it. Write him today for full particulars. Also ask him to explain how you can get the agency, and without experience or money make $250 to $500 per month.

OLD MYSTIC

Miss Susan H. Babcock, 79, died at her home here Wednesday at 1.30 p. m. from an attack of indigestion and heart failure. While she had been in failing health for some time, she had been around attending to her household duties, when she was taken ill Sunday afternoon. She was born Oct. 21, 1845, the daughter of John D. Babcock and Harriet Bentley. Her early life was spent in North Stonington. Fifty-two years ago next April she came to White Hall farm, Mystic road, with her brother, John R. Babcock, with whom she lived until his marriage. Soon after she built her present home, where she has since lived. In early life she united with the Third Baptist church in North Stonington and after her removal here she united with Old Mystic Baptist church, where she was a Sunday school teacher over forty years, a member of the Ladies' Aid society and active in the church. She was present at church a week ago Sunday. She possessed a kind disposition and was called to minister to the sick for many years, giving her services. She will be greatly missed. She leaves a brother, William P. Babcock, of North Stonington, a sister, Mrs. Wallace A. Phillips, of Mystic, and five nieces, Mrs. Clifford E. Holmes, who lived with her until her marriage three years ago, Mrs. Ida B. Main, Mrs. Anna B. Caswell, Mrs. Bessie B. MacGowan and Mrs. Frances B. Dupont. There are several grand-nephews and grand-nieces.

LETTERS BETWEEN LOYAL AND INSURGENT REPUBLICANS

Washington, Feb. 26.—The republican majority was asked today by Senator Ladd of North Dakota, one of the insurgents read out of the party, to bear in mind when effort is made to deprive the insurgents of their committee ranks. That they were duly elected republicans and held certificates as such.

Chairman Watson of the committee on committees, in a letter to the insurgents, asked if they desired to be assigned by the republicans or democrats, pointing out that a similar request was made two years ago of the two farmer-labor senators from Minnesota.

"My first vote was cast for the republican ticket," Senator Ladd replied "and since then I have always affiliated with the republican party."

After detailing the vote by which he was chosen on the republican ticket, Senator Ladd said:

"If your committee requires additional evidence as to my republicanism, I will refer you to my certificate of election that was filed with the vice president at the time of making my oath of office."

Similar letters were sent to Mr. Watson by Senators Brokehart, Iowa, and Frazier, North Dakota.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

R. D. Banigan, secretary of the Danielson Rod and Gun club, has sent notices to members relative to the action of the directors in voting to spend all the dues collected this year, there being a substantial balance in the treasury, in purchasing fish, game and wild rice throughout this territory. The directors are endeavoring to locate some cock pheasants to be put out for breeding purposes this spring and pheasants eggs for hatching.

The wild rice is intended for placing in some of the rivers and ponds which are frequented by ducks. Small-mouthed bass are also to be obtained for stocking purposes. With this program in mind, an intensive effort is under way to obtain payment of all dues.

Boxing fans here and in surrounding towns are keenly interested in a measure before the legislature that provides for the establishment of a one-man boxing commission instead of the commission of three that now directs officially the boxing activities of Connecticut. Conversations with followers of boxing who are residents in this section of the state would tend to indicate that the majority of them favor a commission of three rather than a commission of one.

Promoter Frank Barber of the Casino arena here is opposed to a change from the present plan of having three commissioners. He says: "I see no reason why the responsibility should be left to one man. There are many reasons why there should be more than one opinion on many subjects in fairness to all concerned and for the betterment of the game. Many questions arise that demand the opinion of more than one man before a decision can be reached that would satisfy the public and those involved."

Charles Back, a resident of the Whitestone village section of East Killingly, died Thursday morning at the Day Kimball hospital in Putnam, where he had been a patient several days after having suffered a shock the past week end. Mr. Back was a native of Holland, Mass., born October 12, 1845, a son of Lucius and Sophia Mooers Back. He had been a resident of this town for a number of years. He leaves a son, resident at Windsor, Vt., and Attorney Harry E. Back of Danielson is a nephew. The body was brought to Danielson in charge of Undertaker A. F. Wood.

Mrs. Mary Pierce of East Killingly died Thursday morning at the Day Kimball hospital in Putnam. Mrs. Pierce had been making her home with her grand-daughter, Mrs. Charles Holbrook. Mrs. Pierce was the widow of Samuel Pierce. The family came to this town a number of years ago. Mrs. Pierce leaves a son, Benjamin, of Washington, R. I., a daughter, Mrs. C. E. Greene of Dyerville, R. I., and two grand-daughters, Mrs. Charles Holbrook of East Killingly and Mrs. Victor Bottigri of Providence. The body was brought to Danielson in charge of Undertaker A. F. Wood.

County Agent F. L. Davis will be at the Community building in Plainfield from 11 to 1.00 today (Friday) and can be reached there by those interested in interviewing him relative to farm matters.

In its old age February started to be a bit rough, Thursday, a change in the wind from the south bringing snow out of the north in the afternoon as a direct contrast to the thunderstorm of the morning.

Before the weather turned cold on Thursday the ice was reported as breaking up in the ponds at East Killingly, the earliest date for such an occurrence. Last year these bodies of water were not clear of ice until early April.

Both branchs of the legislature have now approved the bill providing for salary increases for the judge and prosecuting attorney of the town court of Killingly. The judge is to receive $700 and an additional $300 for acting as clerk. The prosecuting attorney will receive $700 and the deputy judge and assistant prosecuting attorney $100 each.

Miss Mildred Nystrum, injured a few weeks ago when struck by a light motor truck as she dashed across Main street, is nearing full recovery at the home of her parents on Mechanic St.

Management of the remarkable Battling Thomas, a Boston boxer, who has been seen at the Casino arena here, is now in the hands of Robert Pellerin of Norwich, formerly a resident of Danielson.

Wellington Bitgood shot a foxon Thursday morning, the second he has brought down within a few weeks.

New members were received at a meeting of the American Legion auxiliary at a meeting held Wednesday evening.

HAVING 50 BEER BARRELS EMBARRASSES A DRIVER

(Special to the Bulletin)

Danielson, Feb. 26—It would appear that men driving motor vehicles with cargoes that may be of a suspicious nature are going around these days merely in search of adventure—not for profit, or anything like that.

First one hears of a bootlegger who thinks he has several cans of alcohol and wants to find a buyer, but discovers, after the police get him, that he has seven cans of water aboard his car.

Then along comes a man with a monster motor truck, all enclosed as to body, and a state officer, suspicious of the rig, asks the driver what he has aboard. "Empty barrels," says the driver. "Let's have a look," says the officer.

Down climbs the driver, goes around and opens the doors at the rear end of the great truck. Barrels! Sure enough. There they were—50 of them, fully developed beer barrels of the 32-gallon variety.

Well, wrestling heavy beer barrels around isn't any frivolous daily dozen stunt as a before-breakfast appetizer; but it had to be done. It could not be thoroughly done at the junction of Water and Cottage streets, where the first astounding look into the big truck was available, so the driver was ordered to run the truck to the barracks on North Main street, where some of the barrels were rolled out of the truck and the interior of the machine thoroughly inspected.

Undoubtedly the driver was an honest man. He said the barrels were empty and they were. He got the barrels over in Providence, he said, and added that he paid $3 each for them. Where did he get them? Being honest, he had to say he did not know. He had paid a man for them and the man had arranged to have the truck loaded, while he the driver, was having dinner. He did not know the man, nor was he familiar with the fellow's business enterprises in Providence. He was sorry he did not have more information about the transaction.

"What are you going to do with the barrels?" Now there's an odd question. In this day and age beer barrels are used for a multiplicity of odd purposes. This load was destined for New Haven. There is salt water near that city and bathing beaches and everything, and a little later people will be building floats to dive from next summer and beer barrels make excellent bases for holding up a float. Beer barrels are also in popular ornamental use at the corner of lawns to keep the traffic from cutting into the greensward. They are also very useful to stand on in a crowd, so that you can see what is going on in the midst of things. Jugglers also use them in a chin-balancing stunt. And there are a lot of other such uses for beer barrels in this dry age. Of course, they are never used as containers for beer any more. Notwithstanding, there is a splendid market for them in New Haven, or was it to Bridgeport they were being taken, and are said to bring $5 or $6 apiece if they are not musty. A musty barrels would never do as a lawn ornament, you know!

The great problem facing the driver of the Connecticut truck that was inspected here appears to be getting more barrels in case this load finds a ready sale. Not knowing the seller or where the barrels come from, he will be at great inconvenience in doing further business in Providence.

RED STAR LINE

PUTNAM

Oliver Lussier, 60, died Thursday morning after a short illness. Mr. Lussier was born in Baltic, but had lived in Putnam for many years. His wife died two and a half years ago and since then has made his home with Mr. and Mrs. James Barnes. He leaves no children.

Putnam High basketball team won an exciting game Wednesday night from Storrs varsity second, 25 to 24. When time was called, the score was 24 to 24. In the extra five minutes of play Putnam made its winning point.

John F. Slattery, bookkeeper at the National Rhea Mfg. Co., caught his right hand between an elevator and the floor Thursday morning, crushing the end of one finger. It is not thought that amputation will be necessary but the hand will be disabled for a few days.

At the state convention of postoffice clerks held at Bridgeport last week Alfred B. Shippee, of Bridgeport, a son of G. H. Shippee of Putnam, was elected second vice president. At the banquet at the Stratfield hotel, Mr. Shippee was toastmaster. He was also a chairman of the committee on program and printing, and on invitations and guests. Mr. Shippee was a member of the committee on entertainment.

It is rumored that the Rev. Mr. Mc. MacKay, formerly pastor of the Baptist church of this city, now of Chester, Vt., has suffered a nervous breakdown due to evangelistic work and is in a sanatorium in Boston.

Mrs. John Ballard, formerly of Thompson, died Sunday afternoon at her home in Davenport, Iowa. Mrs. Ballard is well known in this vicinity and visited here last summer. Besides her husband she leaves four children and a sister, Mrs. Mary Blackmar of Thompson. She was aunt of Newton Ballard, of this city.

Carl T. Kent and family of Meriden spent the week end with Mr. Kent's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest B. Kent of Grove street.

Mr. and Mrs. George L. Booth of Hartford spent the week end and holiday with Mrs. Booth's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Morse.

Mrs. John Spencer of Woodstock avenue slipped on a piece of ice a few days ago and broke her hip. She is being taken care of at her home.

Mrs. Charles E. Miron and daughter, Shirley Mae, have returned, after a ten days' visit to Mrs. Miron's sister, Mrs. C. Scott, at Holyoke, Mass.

Miss Ada Maynard plans to be in Boston all next week on business and will attend a banquet to be given at the Copley-Plaza Hotel.

Eugene Shay has entered the employ of the Putnam Electric Light and Power company.

The meeting of the Arcanum club is to be held at the clubhouse this (Friday) evening. James H. Rafferty has been president for the past year and Lucius H. Merriam is the secretary and has been for twenty years.

Walter Yates, 9, who fractured his skull when he fell on a rock on his way from school, will probably recover. He was taken to the Day Kimball hospital after the accident and a trepannig operation was performed to relieve pressure on the brain. Since then the young patient has steadily improved and although still in a serious condition his symptoms are favorable.

The boy must have struck his head with terrific force when he fell as the bony covering is hardened by nature apparently to withstand just such shocks. Dr. Phillips was called and had the boy taken to the hospital. His mother is Mrs. Thomas Yates of Railroad street, who has had her share in the way of sickness. Her mother, Mrs. Kelly, died a few weeks ago, after being ill for more than a year.

Isaac Champeau, manager of a department at Bugbee & Wulf's, is recovering from a surgical operation at St. Francis' hospital, in Hartford.

At Church Home Night, an annual affair at the Methodist church, held in the church, an enjoyable evening was passed. The women's society served a supper of fruit cocktail, meat loaf, mashed potato, rolls, coffee and pudding. The male quartette gave two selections and the treasurer read his report, showing that nearly $200 had been received in cash and pledges during the evening. The address was given by Rev. J. Homer Sluts, of Providence. Mr. Slutz is a forceful speaker and held his audience in close attention for over an hour. The pastor, Mr. Burton, spoke briefly of the Church Home Night and the importance of a church family, so-called.

The first organ recital at St. Philip's Episcopal church is to be given on March 8, by Mrs. Pierre Myers, organist of the church, assisted by soloists.

Miss Judith Sabin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Sabin, has scarlet fever. Miss Sarah Tackaberry, the French teacher at the high school, who lives with Mr. and Mrs. Sabin, is in quarantine for ten days. One of the senior class French students is expected to act as French teacher during her absence.

Miss Irene Robinson, a student at Simmons college, has been at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Robinson of Grove street. Miss Clark of Hartford accompanied Miss Robinson.

Noel Dupre was in Boston Tuesday on business.

Samuel Diamond and daughter, Miss Elsie, were in Boston Wednesday on a business trip.

A house at School and Providence streets was carded yesterday for scarlet fever. One of the children has the malady in a mild form. There is another case of scarlet fever on the same street.

Victor C. Townsend, checker expert and former champion of Greater Boston, played 31 men in simultaneous contest at an exhibition at the American Legion rooms at North Grosvenordale. With one of the players he played two games, with all the others, one. Draws were secured by Michael O'Hern and John O'Caire of North Grosvenordale and Henry J. Dubois and Isadore Dubois of Putnam. The other 28 games were victories for Mr. Townsend. In simultaneous blindfold competition he engaged William P. Warren and F. B. Stanton of Putnam and Messrs. O'Clare and O'Hern of North Grosvenordale. Mr. Warren scored a draw and the other two were beaten.

Albert Lavelle, of Moosup, severed the artery in his wrist, when a penknife he was using slipped. He was brought to the Day Kimball hospital for surgical care.

Mrs. C. E. Pierce was the guest of Mrs. Burleson at South Woodstock last week.

H. Jerome Mann of New York, was the visitor for a few days with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Harry Mann.

Miss Mary Jasmine of Providence has been visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Jasmine of School street.

MISS WHEATON ENGAGED TO J. H. SMITH, OF NORWICH

(Special to The Bulletin)

Putnam, Feb. 26.—Mrs. Mary M. Wheaton of Phoenixville has announced the engagement of her daughter, Edith Hattie, to John Henry Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert E. Smith of Putnam. Miss Wheaton is a teacher, having taught in Manchester, a model school at Eastford and later in Pomfret. Mr. Smith has been connected with the Connecticut highway department for the past twelve years and at present is division engineer for the eastern part of the state, with headquarters at Norwich.

STANTON D. WICKS IS NOW A PULLMAN CAR CONDUCTOR

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Putnam, Feb. 26.—Stanton D. Wicks, formerly of Putnam and Pomfret, is now a Pullman car conductor on one of the New Haven trains out of New York that passes through Putnam at night. Mr. Wicks was quite active here for several years preceding America's entrance into the war. He had a farm at Pomfret with every modern equipment for intensive cultivation of the soil. He also started hog raising on a large scale and buying and breeding horses.

When the war came his knowledge of horses led him into a remount camp where he remained for several months after the armistice. Then he was a mounted policeman in New York for a while and gave up for his present position. He is widely known in this vicinity and the knowledge of his present vocation comes as a surprise to his friends. Mr. Wicks passes through Putnam every other night.

EAST HADDAM

John E. Bell, 57, formerly of Moodus, died at his home in Jamestown, N. Y., Sunday, Feb. 15, following four months' illness with bronchial asthma and heart trouble. He was the oldest son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Albro Bell of Moodus. About thirty years ago he went to Jamestown, taking a position in a cotton factory, where, with the exception of a few years, he had since been employed. Mr. Bell was a member of Columbia lodge, No. 26, F. and A. M., of East Haddam. He is survived by his wife, two sisters, Mrs. A. S. Hitchcock and Mrs. Henry C. Royce, also a brother, Albro Bell, all of East Hampton. Burial was in Jamestown.

Fred Mitchell is moving his goods out of Mrs. Duro's house in with his mother.

In Fight For Speaker Of The House

KEYSTONE VIEW CO., NEW YORK.

John Q. Tilson, of Connecticut, who is recognized as one of the ablest men in the House, and the man to be the future Speaker of the House. A strong supporter of the President, he is looked on with favor to beat out Madden and Longworth, who in their fight against each other, leave open a space for Tilson to drive through a flying wedge to the post.

ACIDS IN STOMACH CAUSE INDIGESTION

Create Gas, Sourness and Pain How to Treat

Medical authorities state that nearly nine-tenths of the cases of stomach trouble, indigestion, sourness, burning, gas, bloating, nausea, etc., are due to an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach and not as some believe to a lack of digestive juices. The delicate stomach lining is irritated, digestion is delayed and food sours, causing the disagreeable symptoms which every stomach sufferer knows so well.

Artificial digestents are not needed in such cases and may do real harm. Try laying aside all digestive aids and instead get from any druggist a few ounces of Bisurated Magnesia and take a teaspoonful in a quarter glass of water right after eating. This sweetens the stomach, prevents the formation of excess acid and there is no sourness, gas or pain. Bisurated Magnesia (in powder or tablet form—never liquid or milk) is harmless to the stomach, inexpensive to take and is the most efficient form of magnesia for stomach purposes. It is used by thousands of people who enjoy their meals with no more fear of indigestion.

Tuesday evening the Ladies' Aid Society supper was in charge of Mrs. A. H. Beebe and Mrs. Henry Durr. The menu was cold sliced ham, escalloped potato, chop suey, rolls, pickles, cake and home made ice cream. A good crowd was present and a goodly sum was realized.

Recent visitors with Mr. and Mrs. Harry E. Bedut were Mrs. Justice Bedat and Miss Eleanor Harrington of Norwich.

Wednesday, an all-day missionary meeting was held at the home of Mrs John I. Ross. Fifteen were present. White cross work was done. A devotional meeting was held in the afternoon with Mrs. O. B. Leffingwell presiding. Reports were given by Mrs. C. E. Ellis, Mrs. N. E. Whiting and Rev. William B. Oakley on the conference recently at the Central Baptist church, Norwich. A bountiful dinner was served at noontime.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Leffingwell and son, of Groton, were guests recently of Mr. and Mrs. Forest C. Leffingwell.

Retaliation

Although there were only about thirty persons in the house during the performance of a revue in a small Warwickshire village, the two principal performers were continually hissed. It is reported, however, that the manager, with great presence of mind, brought his whole company on the stage and out-hissed the audience.—Passing Show, London.

If a man never does any thing wrong he never does anything.

GALES FERRY

TO DO OR NOT TO DO.

As the life of the present session of congress is fast ebbing away there is increasing uncertainty at the fate of a number of the bills on which much thought and attention has been concentrated. Just what will be pushed through and what will be crowded out cannot be definitely told at present. Strenuous efforts will be made to do both. While there are enthusiastic advocates of certain measures there are equally determined opponents, and even though the opposition might not be sufficient to bring about defeat if the matter was permitted to come to a vote it is enough to keep it from getting to the point. How it is killed, so long as passage is prevented, matters little to them.

One of these matters is the Muscle Shoals bill. This has been occupying the attention of congress for a long time. During the long session of this congress it was a bone of contention, and during this short session it has occupied the center of the stage for a considerable time. The situation has changed between sessions, however, so that where the Ford proposition was occupying a position of prominence in the previous session there is now a plan to lease the plant on decidedly different terms to the highest bidder with restrictions which are regarded as protective to the big outlay made there and to the government.

While favorable reports have come from committee on this plan enactment is by no means assured. There is no prospect of government operation of the plant and the desire appears to be to get the plant into operation as soon as possible instead of encouraging further delays, or inviting further investigations.

Congress moves to satisfy its own whims. It can expedite matters or it can delay them. Failure to dispose of Muscle Shoals at this time will mean that there will be no chance for action for a year or more, but those who oppose the indicated desire at this time would of course not be displeased by that.

JARDINE'S VIEWS.

Matter relating to the agricultural situation in this country has been to the front for a considerable time. Changes for the better have been noted in the past half year or more. The law of supply and demand has gotten in its work for the farmer, and there have been plenty of instances where he has been shown the value of doing something for himself without trying to have put into operation a lot of unwise and uncertain legislation, looking to favoritism and bad precedents.

Along with these things and a pronounced opposition to bloc activities there has been necessitated a change in the head of the department of agriculture. This month there has been confirmed the nomination of W. M. Jardine, president of the Kansas Agricultural college, for that post. He has been named because the president has confidence in him and believes that his policies are sound and the correct ones for meeting the situation and carrying out the views of the administration.

As time goes on it will be learned more definitely as to where Dr. Jardine stands, but some idea is to be gained from what he had to say to the members of the Kansas legislature at a banquet at Topeka. This was his first public utterance since his appointment which becomes effective March fourth.

To the Kansas legislators, who it must be admitted will have to be credited with knowing something about agriculture, he spoke of the undesirability of setting up one class against another and gave assurance that as secretary of agriculture it would be his aim to bring together the business men of the farm and the business men of the city. In other words he doesn't intend to give his support to any radical undertakings, he holds out no encouragement for the idea of expecting him to do the impossible, but he is interested in and intends to follow the application of common sense to the agricultural situation, and in that solution there is opportunity for the farmer to do his part.

More will be heard from Secretary Jardine as time goes on but the impression he made in speaking to the people of a farming state was decidedly favorable.

WHERE EXPERIENCE COUNTS.

Some people insist upon an actual demonstration of the need of laws and restrictions before they can be brought to support them. They are unwilling in many instances to accept the experiences of others and insist that only by seeing can they be made to believe.

An interesting illustration of this is disclosed in the case of Senator Stanley of Kentucky who is now in a Washington hospital suffering from injuries received when he was struck by an automobile, which didn't stop, while he was waiting for a trolley car. That is what has happened to many others, and the practice of "hitting and running" has become so general in Washington that legislation was proposed and adopted for dealing with just such cases. It is a measure that was and is regarded as drastic, and the point of special interest at the present time is that Senator Stanley was a determined opponent of the measure. He even sought to modify it by amendment and wanted to know if his colleagues "were going to attempt to put all motorists in jail in order to obtain the safety of pedestrians." The senate did make some modifications but the house removed them and now the senator from Kentucky has expressed himself as glad that the house acted as it did

The change of mind has been brought about because the senator from Kentucky has, as the expression goes, gone through the mill He has had a chance to experience with telling effect the reasons why there must be a curb placed on the motorists. He has found out that there is a class of bad actors for whom it is necessary to impose greater restrictions upon all drivers of motor vehicles. He has been made to see the plight of the pedestrian and his need for relief by standing in his shoes for just a brief time. Experience has broadened his vision, and it seems not improbable that he will be better able to discharge his duties as a law maker in the future than he has been in the past. Some people live and learn but it is necessary for others to get injured

THE PULLMAN SURCHARGE.

In connection with the surcharge placed on Pullman rates for the benefit of the railroads, it is to be understood that this enriches the Pullman company none whatever. It is one of the rate changes in the interest of the railroads for relief from war conditions which has not been removed, and from the manner in which the two houses of congress have differed in regard to it it doesn't look as if it was to be changed now. At least not by congress.

Congress created the interstate commerce commission for the purpose of dealing with railroad rates. It was established to give its time to railroad problems which congress hasn't the time to deal with and ought not to. The contention that inasmuch as the commission was the creation of congress, the latter has a right to tell it what to do may be entirely right but such means an interference with a commission's duties in a way that cripples the commission. Having created a commission and established the rules for its guidance it is conceivable that such rules may be extended or modified from time to time as congress sees fit to do but when it comes to interfering with the work of such a body, unless intolerable conditions prevail, it means going over the heads of those of those who are in touch with the many details of conditions on which rates are established.

It may be that there are railroads receiving this surcharge which do not need it. There are many which actually require it, and to wipe it out would make the day far more distant when there could be any other change in the rates affecting that much larger class of railroad patrons than those who use the Pullman cars. The interstate commerce commission understands the situation thoroughly and when changes are made it should issue the orders.

SENATOR M'CORMICK.

Death has been making most serious inroads into the upper house of congress in the past year. Following Senator Brandegee and Senator Lodge there has now been removed Senator Medill McCormick, who though a member of the senate for but one term had come to occupy a position of prominence and to have held a high place in republican circles.

Senator McCormick stood shoulder to shoulder with Lodge and Brandegee in the list of irreconcilables relative to the league of nations. His opposition was persistent and pronounced and it is impossible to overlook the fact that death has removed so many of those who were involved in that memorable fight and in such a comparatively short time.

Though a man not yet 50, Senator McCormick had come into prominence thrpugh his years of activity with the Chicago Tribune before his congressional service which began with election as a member of the house. He was conspicuous in his activity as a bull mooser and was a close student of oreign affairs, having even gone abroad to perfect himself thereon. He was anticipating appointment in the diplomatic corps following his senatorship, not having been renominated for that post, but no action of the kind had been taken.

Death has removed a talented man in the prime of life, an influence in politics in his own state and one whose opportunities for public service promised to be many.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The man on the corner says: More steam!

About two weeks from now there will be a scurrying to file the income tax report.

The price of coal has dropped in Belgium. What do we hear from Pennsylvania?

King George has been ordered to the Riviera. Not all sufferers from bronchitis are able to take that remedy.

Senator LaFollette still favors a third party, but he knows that "if wishes were horses, beggars might ride."

One of the things in favor of the present congress is its failure to make its pay increase retroactive for the past two years.

What would your answer be if anyone should ask you about the respect you have been showing your New Year's resolutions?

Is there any reason for supposing that increased pay would have any influence in eliminating obstructive tactics in congressional sessions?

The report of a gun battle in Kentucky where two were killed and six wounded says the cause of the shooting is unknown. Down in Kentucky they don't have to look around for a cause to have a gun fight.

FROM LUCILLE'S DIARY

"Let's give a silver-collection tea at your house," I said to Adella Boyde, "for the benefit of the charity fund of the Dix Amies. We always need such a lot of money for our winter service. I'll ask Maryanne Cook to sing, and I'm sure we can have a very chic affair."

"Do you really think the girls would come way out to Highland Park just for a simple tea?" she asked, and I assured her that they all would and they would bring friends.

I went out to Adella's the evening before the tea, so that I would be on hand in the morning to help her in every way possible. I telephoned to Maj. Latewood, who is now at Fort Sheridan, and he came over, bringing a friend, Capt. Ellcross. We had a delightful time playing bridge, and I was glad of the opportunity to introduce Adella to such charming officers, for I had suspected that she had a rather limited number of man friends

I knew that she was not the type of girl that Maj. Latewood admires, for he has a penchant for the extremely feminine woman like myself, and her boyish prettiness would not appeal to him especially. Capt. Ellcross is married and his wife is visiting her people. However, I thought she would be pleased to know them both, and I was surprised at her sigh of relief when the door closed after them at 12:30.

"Your friends are rather late stayers," she remarked as she went upstairs. "I don't wish to appear inhospitable, but I think 11 o'clock is late enough for callers." She yawned.

"Dear me, what a little mouse you are, Adella!" I laughed. "I think it is flattering to have friends remain till midnight. You shouldn't be so fascinating."

"It wasn't I who lured them," she returned laughingly. "Men in general dont attract me much any more."

"Oh, my dear girl, you mustn't settle down into an old maid at your age." I admonished her with a good night kiss.

When we were planning the table decorations the next day I remarked that I thought we should have yellow candles to match the lovely Claude Parnet roses. The blue ones she had were a false note.

"If you'll let me take the car, which I see is at the door, I'll get some," I offered generously. "I'll be delighted to contribute them. Now don't say no, because I really wish to be helpful." Without waiting for an answer I slipped into a cloak that was hanging in the hall and ran and jumped into the car. It is a great convenience to be able to drive almost any machine.

I had difficulty in finding a place to park near the shop where I wished to shop, but at last I turned into a side street and left the car there. When I came out after buying just the kind of candles I wished I was astonished not to find the car. I asked several people if they had seen it and no one had.

I telephoned to Adella that I feared it was stolen and she simply shrieked that it was her brother's machine.

"Oh, dear, I should have stopped you!" she said. "I'll report it to the police, but, Lucille, how could you—"

I hung up the receiver and started to walk to her house.

I must confess that when I turned the corner and saw the car just where I had left it my relief was inexpressible. I had simply forgotten in which street I had parked it. I drove it home as fast as I dared and Adella, instead of congratulating me upon finding it, was dreadfully upset because she had notified the police and her brother and, as she said, "worried dear mother about it."

The tea went off very well, though Maryanne Cook did not come and we had no set entertainment. Adella was greatly annoyed at her defection, but I begged her to say nothing about it, for it began to dawn upon me that after our first tentative talk I had not let her know the date of the tea. Maryanne should have called me up about it, but some people are so careless.

I certainly was astonished to see in the evening paper tonight the announcement of Adella's engagement to a naval officer now at sea. I think it was rather small of her not to tell me about it the night I stayed at her house. I suppose she is one of those persons who think it clever to be secretive.—Chicago News.

Butler, The Country School Teacher

Tall, raw-boned and awkward, Pierce Butler, the typical country lad with frank eyes and sandy, wiry hair, arrived in St Paul, Minn., to become a lawyer.

Training for that important event had been almost hopeless at times. Born in a log cabin in Dakota county, Minn., he had worked on his father's farm and attended the little country school. At 16 he became teacher in a small school nearby. The boys had driven away his predecessor and when the neighborhood bully tried to start trouble, Butler yanked the boy, four years older than he, from his desk and made him stand in front of the school, then defied the trouble-seeking step-father. The step-father was a trustee and tried to have Butler dismissed, but the board voted to let "Pat" Butler's boy continue.

With his meager savings, Butler entered Carlton college, at Northfield, at 17, and was graduated at 21. Then he went to St. Paul, obtained a position with a law firm and read law. At 23 he was admitted to the bar. His affability won many friends and at 24 he was made assistant county attorney and was married. Two years later he was elected county attorney, serving four years.

After two years of general practice he was made attorney for the Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis & Omaha railroad. Next the head of a law firm, he was special attorney for the government in the bleached flour and the Chicago meat packers' trust cases. He was made regent of the University of Minnesota, was appointed counsel for the conference committee of the railroads in connection with their physical valuation, and was happy with his family of eight children.

Then came the World war, and four sons and one daughter responded to the call of duty, the daughter dying while acting as a member of the army nursing corps.

Later retained by the Canadian government to determine the price to be paid the Grand Trunk railroad when its properties were taken over, his practice rapidly grew, he became known as a reconteur, and at 57 was appointed to the United States Supreme court, the youngest associate justice in the history of this country.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Walter Hampden, who today will be presented with the gold medal of the American Academy of Arts and Letters for good diction on the stage, is an actor well known to playgoers both in America and England for his fine delineation of classic roles. Although an American—a Harvard man—Mr. Hampden had his early training on the English stage. He went abroad for the purpose of studying music in Paris, but switched to drama in England and played more than 70 roles in the company of Sir Frank Benson, who was famous for his Shakesperian productions. Mr. Hampden remained in London for some seasons, playing in modern pieces, and then returned to America, where he continued playing in modern plays before he went into the classic drama. In 1919 he first appeared in Hamlet in New York. His success established a new record for consecutive performances of the Prince of Denmark that has not been equalled by anyone save Edwin Booth.

IN THE DAY'S NEWS

SIBERIA'S ARCTIC ISLANDS

Is the recent warning of the Russian government against aliens landing on the islands north of Siberia spoiling a summer trip for you, by any chance? If so it may add to your discontent to know that you are missing a possible gastronimic adventure that couldn't be duplicated anywhere else in the world—the chances of eating mammoth meat placed in cold storage 50,000 or more years ago.

A bulletin from the headquarters of the National Geographic diplomacy here tells something of these little known islands that Soviet diplomacy is thrusting into the world's consciousness.

"It is necessary to throw overboard numerous opinions and definitions in dealing with the islands north of Siberia," says the bulletin. "'A body of land entirely surrounded by water' does not quite fit these islands. They are bodies of land almost continually surrounded by ice. The only practical means of transportation for hunters and trappers between them and the mainland, in fact, is sleds drawn by dog teams. The New Siberia Islands, largest group north of Siberia, lying 50 miles off shore, were discovered in 1770 because a hunter saw a huge herd of deer walking on the ice out of the northern sea, and had curiosity enough to trace their tracks backward.

"One must also put aside the idea that only minerals are mined. Ivory from the tusks of thousands of mammoths that perished in former geologic times is dug by the ton from the ground of the New Siberia group. With the ivory are other mammoth bones together with those of musk oxen, other species of ox, deer and primitive horses. So numerous are these deposits that one writer has said that the whole soil seems to consist of bones. Fossilized trees also exist on the New Siberia islands, showing that in the age of the mammoths trees grew as far north as the 74th parallel of latitude. The northernmost trees in this part of the world now grow some 400 miles farther south.

"Rarely carcasses of mammoths have been found in the ice cliffs of these islands and the neighboring mainland, and native hunters eat the ancient meat—probably 50,000 years old—without any apparent ill effects. The dogs devour this 'pre-historic food' with the same avidity that they gulp down fresh killed reindeer meat.

"Disregarding bits of land close to the Siberian shore, which may be considered practically a part of the mainland the 'Arctic Island north of Siberia' may be taken to mean the New Siberia group, Nikolas Second Land, north of the northernmost point of Siberia, Wrangel Island near Bering Strait, and a few scattered unimportant islets northeast of New Siberia and east of Wrangel. One can not be too dogmatic about Siberian Islands, however, for the dramatic discovery of Nikolas Second Land, ten times the size of Long Island and only 60 miles off shore, occurred as recently as October, 1913. The Northeast Passage had been navigated through this 60 mile strait and several other ships had sailed through without the explorers gaining any idea of the existence of the land. It is a rugged, icy region with evidence of volcanic origin.

"Because of the tragic deaths and dramatic rescues that have taken place on it in recent years, Wrangel Island is doubtless best known of the Arctic Islands north of Siberia. It is about 70 miles long by 28 wide and lies a little more than 100 miles off shore. It is also the nearest of the larger islands to Alaska and has therefore been visited many times by American explorers and whalers. It is believed to have been first sighted by an American whaler, Long, in 1867. A United states naval officer, De Long, explored it in 1881, proving it to be an island and not a continental land mass, as had been suggested.

"The Arctic Islands north of Siberia have no permanent inhabitants. Foxes and other fur-bearing animals live on them, and almost every season hunters and trappers from the mainland visit them. They cross by sledges in late spring, spend the short summer collecting furs, and return south as soon as the ice is thick enough. No minerals of value are known to exist on the islands, and, except as sources of fur and ivory, they have no present value. If regular long-distance aerial navigation should become practicable, however, the short routes over the North Polar regions between Europe, America and Asia would have a strong appeal, and these Arctic Islands would doubtless become valuable as possible air bases."

BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

Fright and Hope

Always hope. To it cling fast.
Be sure you'll somehow win at last.
—Peter Rabbit.

Of course Peter Rabbit, squeezed into the little hole at the back of Buster Bear's bedroom, heard the strange noise—part whine, part grunt, and part growl—that had wakened and frightened Reddy Fox. Peter was no less frightened than was Reddy. He knew by the hurry Reddy was in that Reddy was badly frightened. But, being back in that hole, he couldn't see who had made that dreadful noise.

"Oh!" cried Peter under his breath. "It is Buster Bear! He is waking up!"

"My goodness!" cried Peter under his breath. "What can that be? Never have I heard such a noise. It sounds as if it were right in Buster Bear's bedroom. Perhaps it is just outside, I hope so. Anyway, Reddy Fox has gone and I have got to get out of here. I can't stand it being squeezed in here another minute."

So Peter wriggled and twisted and squirmed until at last he had his head out of the narrow entrance to that hole in the back of Buster Bear's bedroom. Then he knew where that strange noise was coming from. He knew that Buster Bear was making it!

"Oh!" cried Peter under his breath. "It's Buster Bear! He is waking up! Whatever shall I do now?"

Peter tried to wriggle back into that little hole, but he couldn't. His heart was going thumpity-thumpity-thump so that it seemed to him that Buster certainly must hear it. He was so frightened that it seemed to him he couldn't breathe. Not for the world would he have gone into Buster Bear's bedroom had it entered his head that it was anywhere near time for Buster to wake up.

"What a dreadful position to be in!" thought Peter. "If Buster finds me here I'll never, never see the dear Old Briar Patch again. I do hope he won't look around. I don't dare try to run past him because then he would be sure to see me. I hope he will be so anxious to see what it is like outside that he won't look around inside at all. If he goes right out I'll be right at his heels. Reddy Fox won't be around. He won't want Buster Bear to know that he has been around here. Oh, I do hope Buster will go right out! Ouch! I can't stay in here any longer. I'm so squeezed in this tight hole that I can hardly breathe."

Peter began to wriggle and squirm again, but he took great care that he made no noise in doing it. At last he was out of that little hole. For the first time since he had gone in there he was able to take a long breath and to get on his feet. He was stiff all over. He squatted down close to the little hole and waited for what would happen next. If Buster Bear should discover him he could squeeze back into that little hole. If Buster didn't discover him he might have a chance to get out of Buster's bedroom. He was as badly frightened as ever, but with that fright there was now some hope. Always he is hoping for the best. That is where he is wise. No matter how badly off you may be, never give up hope.

It's Quick Quaker that cooks in 3 to 5 minutes
Quicker than coffee!
Quicker than plain toast!

BUSY wives and mothers wanted rich, hot breakfasts—but cooked quickly.

So we gave them Quick Quaker, a new Quaker Oats.

All that rare Quaker flavor, all the lusciousness and smoothness of this famous brand are there—plus 3 to 5 minute cooking!

That means less kitchen work in the morning. More time to sleep; more time to dress the children.

It provides the "hot cots and milk" breakfasts doctors now are urging with as little mess and fuss as plain toast!

Won't you try this new Quaker creation? You will be delighted.

Look for the Quaker on the label
That means Quaker flavor.
That means 3 to 5 minute cooking.
That means the superfine oats you want—the finest grown, the most delicious in all the world.

Standard full size and weight packages—
Medium: 1¼ pounds;
Large: 3 pounds, 7 oz.

Your grocer now has two kinds of Quaker Oats—the kind you have always known and Quick Quaker.

Stories That Recall Others

Alternating Currents.

There's no hope that dogs will ever get over chasing cats. Recently several members of the dog family gave chase to a kitten, which climbed a pole in an effort to escape. When it reached the top and came in contact with the electric wires it was killed.

A school teacher saw the tragedy and remarked that the cat must have died eight times before. But one of the boys said: "Perhaps it was an alternating current that took one life right after another."

What the Butcher Said.

The proprietor of a butcher shop, who might as well be called Mike as his real name, is famous among his intimates for using strong language when occasion demands. Perhaps this demanded it:

Mike answered the telephone, and the question he heard from a feminine voice was "What meats have you?"

"Well, lady, we have beef, pork liver, hearts, sausage, mutton, lamb" he replied.

"No, that isn't what I want—not yet," she said.

"Well, now, let's see," and Mike thought a minute. "Oh, yes, we have veal."

"That's it. That's it!"

"How much do you wish, lady?"

"Oh, I didnt wish any. That was the word I was trying to think of in a cross-word puzzle."

"Blankety - blank, blink-blank-blunk!" roared Mike, speaking without restraint.

A woman customer at the counter started to run out of the place.

"Oh, please don't go, lady!" Mike called to her. "I apologise. But you would have cussed too, as you'll understand when I explain."

"Well, I've never heard such profanity."

Mike explained and offered additional apologies. The woman paused and then returned to the customer.

"Aren't women provoking?" was all she said. Then she bought some veal. It had given her a suggestion for her Sunday meal.

At birth an American may expect to live fifty-six years, in Australia, fifty-five in Germany, forty-five; in India, only twenty-two. And when a person in the United States has lived to fifty-two years, he has a further expectation of twenty-one years. This estimate is based on figures of the 1920 census.

COLDS
Break a Cold Right Up with "Pape's Cold Compound"

Take two tablets every three hours until three doses are taken. The first dose always gives relief. The second and third doses completely break up the cold. Pleasant and safe to take. Contains no quinine or opiates. Millions use "Pape's Cold Compound." Price, thirty-five cents. Druggists guarantee it.

Pure fat is wholesome and very easy to digest. It is burned fat that is responsible for most of the objections to fried food.

At the right temperature for frying many fats "break down," smoke—that is, burn—and have a tendency to upset digestion.

The wholesomeness of Snowdrift as a frying fat is due to the fact that it can be heated hot enough to fry crisply long before it burns, so that with ordinary care you can fry food in Snowdrift that is as digestible as the same food cooked any other way, and still has that rich, delectable "fried" taste.

A crispy brown crust forms so quickly that the food does not absorb too much fat and, inside this thin crust, cooks to a tempting lightness and daintiness.

waters at Miami, Florida. The accompanying picture shows him enjoying the bathing there on New Year's Day.

He reports that the winter season has been fine this year. He has joined the New England society and finds much pleasure in its weekly trips to points of interest, one of the most recent taking them through a section where 50,000 acres of tomatoes were under cultivation.

In a recent letter to Norwich friends, Mr. Lucas enclosed a newspaper picture of a big fish which he saw on the pier, a sunfish weighing 2,000 pounds. It was caught with a harpoon and is the second sunfish to be caught in Florida waters. It took seven men and a derrick to dock the creature.

HORSES, OXEN, AUTOS LOST IN $25,000 FIRE

Fire late Thursday night destroyed the barn on the farm of Ferdinando Wheeler on the Hickory Hill road between Westerly and Stonington, Ct., the loss being estimated at $25,000. Four horses and two yoke of oxen were burned to death and four automobiles, forty tons of hay and 30 ton of silage were destroyed. Forty cows were taken from the basement of the building.

The fire was fanned by a high gale and sparks were blown a distance of two miles, setting fire to other buildings. These fires were extinguished, however, before doing any damage. The origin of the fire is unknown.

The fire was discovered by Mrs. Wheeler who noticed the blaze from a window in the house. At first she thought it was in house of Harry Palmer, a neighbor, when shee looked out of a window on one side of the house, but when she peered out of another window on the other side of the house she found it was her barn and fainted.

A call was sent to the P. S. Barber Hose Company in Pawcatuck who responded to the fire but upon arriving there it was found that nothing could be done to save the building so the department returned to Pawcatuck.

ARMY ENGINEERS GAVE ATTTENTION TO CLAIMS MADE BY NORWICH MEN

The hearing on the proposed deepening of the Thames diver channel from Allyn's Point to Norwich was held in the board of army engineers headquarters in the Munitions building in Washington Wednesday at 2 p. m. On Wednesday morning a conference was held with Senators Bingham and McLean and Congressman Freeman with the delegation representing the Norwich Chamber of Commerce at the hearing. The state's national representatives are powerless to act in this project until the board of army engineers has recommended the deepening of the channel and the appropriation necessary for it to congress. It was for the purpose of presenting further facts and arguments in favor of the deepening that the hearing was requested by the Norwich chamber in an effort to have the board of army engineers favorably recommend the project to congress.

Congressman Freeman accompanied the Norwich delegation to the hearing and remained throughout with them. He addressed the members of the board as the representative of this district in congress and also as vice chairman of the rivers and harbors committee of congress. The order for the preliminary survey was first secured by Congressman Freeman in 1920 and he has retained his active interest in the project ever since. Congressman Freeman was followed by Hon. Arthur M. Brown, of this city who spoke of the needs of the deepening of the channel not only for the benefit of Norwich but of the entire eastern section of the state. He urged the board to give its fullest consideration to the needs of eastern Connecticut regarding the improved transportation facilities as proposed in the deepening of the channel to Norwich.

Mr. Brown was followed in order by Lucius Briggs, who informed the board of the difficulties of securing coastwise boats and who answered in a very capable manner a great many questions put to him by the different members of the board of army engineers. Mr. Briggs was followed by H. F. Dawley and he likewise answered a number of questions regarding the shipments of lumber and the vessels engaged in that trade. The Thames River Line was represented by H. M. Frazer. Mr. Frazer was well prepared in the presentation of the facts concerning the shipments of the Thames River Line. As in the case of Mr. Briggs the various members of the army engineers asked a great many question concerning the operation of the Thames River Line and its business. Mr. Frazer made a very creditable explanation of the problem effecting the shipments of the Thames River Line through its inability to secure proper boats.

L. M. Carpenter was next called upon by Attorney Brown who had charge of the Norwich delegation to present the attitude of the industries located in eastern Connecticut to the north of Norwich. Mr. Carpenter made it very clear to the members of the board that the deepening of the channel would be a great asset to the industries located to the north of Norwich. C. J. Twist represented the Norwich Manufacturers' association and he in like manner answered questions and presented facts showing the value of the benefit of water transportation to local industries. Secretary O'Rourke was the last man called and he addressed the members of the board along the lines of the general interest in this project of Norwich and the surrounding towns.

J. E. Smith, president of the Uncas Paperboard Company was to accompany the Norwich delegation but on account of a very important business conference elsewhere he was unable to go. He submitted his facts in writing which was presented by Attorney Brown to the board. Attorney Brown made a final plea to the army engineers and while they were non-committal they heard the arguments in favor of this project in a very courteous manner and asked many questions as to its effect upon the developments of this community and this section of the state. The United States board of army engineers is the finest body of engineers in the world. The day has gone by when pork barrel appropriations can be secured for worthless projects. The army engineers look upon every project submitted to them in a cold business manner and before a project is very far advanced they are about as familiar with the project themselves as those who propose it from the investigations that they make.

Just what the outcome of this hearing will be cannot now be stated. The board was and always is non-committal but the Chamber of Commerce representatives felt highly gratified at the manner in which they were received and the searching questions asked by the various members of the board which were answered in a very satisfactory manner by the various individuals from Norwich. Practically the entire board of engineers sat at the hearing. General Edgar Jadwin, chairman of the board, was the only one absent but the others present were Colonel Herbert Deakyne, Colonel Spencer Crosby, Colonel John C. Oakes, Colonel F. C. Boggs and Major G. R. Young.

After the hearing Congressman Freeman made an appointment with General Harry Taylor, chief engineer of the U. S. army, and he accompanied the Norwich delegation to General Taylor's office presenting each one in turn. General Taylor is the supreme authority on projects of this kind. It is within his power to overrule the board of army engineers if he so desires either for or against a proposition. General Taylor having been stationed at New London for a number of years as district engineer knows the Thames river like a book and he is personally acquainted with a number of the local prominent shippers. General Taylor also was non-committal as to his opinions of this project.

LIGHTNING BURNED OUT BULLETIN BUILDING FUSES

Staging a comeback after what many people had believed to be a knockout punch, delivered in the early rounds of February, Old Man Winter, picked himself up out of somewhere Thursday and came tearing into Norwich determined to stage a real comeback.

His activities during the day were many and of a variety not often seen at this season of the year. In the early morning things were rather drizzly and later there came a heavy fall of rain, next a real thunder and lightning storm of short duration, a little later a sharp snappy snow storm, for another bit of sunshine and for a certain act on the day's program there came a high wind, biting cold, that sent shivers into all who were out in it.

During the storm in the morning a flash of lightning was seen above the city about 10 o'clock and a loud crash of thunder followed almost instantly. The bolt of lightning evidently played about among the buildings between Franklin, Bath and Chestnut streets, especially at the Bulletin building, the Record building and city barn. Sparks were seen coming down near the city barn but no signs of where the bolt struck were visible. In the Bulletin building the lightning burned out the fuses in the main fuse box, killing several circuits running lights and machines, but at the Record building and city barn the lights were not affected. Tools were knocked off the wall at the shop of S. Jeffery Colt and people in the rear of the Bulletin building claimed the bolt traveled through the yard.

Traffic Officer Michael Carroll on duty at Broadway corner, reported the lightning playing on the wires at the corner but with no disastrous results. The flash was blinding in its brilliancy and although it evidently struck nothing to do damage, those in the vicinity of the buildings mentioned agreed that it was close enough.

The day was one filled with pleasant and unpleasant changes, the majority favoring the latter and it looked as though February was determined to steal the "lion stuff" that has been for years credited to the blustery month of March.

ENTERTAINED THE FAMILY AT SHELTERING ARMS

Loyal Circle, Kings Daughters entertained the family at the Sheltering Arms Thursday afternoon giving a very pleasing programme. Mrs. William Crowe, Jr., rendered with several solos, accompanied by Mrs. Harry Stebbins and Mrs. William Manning gave several readings.

Following the entertainment Washington baskets filled with fruit, candy and fancy cakes were given to every member of the home, thus making the affair pleasant and enjoyable for all.

Nelson Weymouth, Mrs. William Bailey, Mrs. George Carter, Mrs. Phillip Roberts, Miss Cora Christoph and Miss Mabel Hodgkinson.

CEREMONIAL TO BE BIG GROTTO EVENT

Herman Stelzner, monarch, and George N. Chappell, secretary, have notified prophets of Nemrod Grotto, of the winter ceremonial which is to be held in this city on Saturday. All indications are that the ceremonial is to be the biggest event ever staged by the Grotto, with something doing every minute, especially for the large class of candidates waiting to be introduced into the mysteries of the order.

Activities for the day begin shortly after 5 o'clock with a business meeting at Grotto hall after which the prophets are to meet at the Masonic temple where members of the Eastern Star are to serve supper. Candidates begin their work of the evening at 8 o'clock and the events of the day close with a surprise bill of feature vaudeville

GIVEN SURPRISE ON 35TH WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

A surprise was tendered Mr. and Mrs. William Weaver of Vergason avenue, Norwich Town, on their 35th wedding anniversary Wednesday evening by their neighbors on the avenue. As the party neared the Weaver home they struck up "Blest Be the Tie That Binds." Mr. and Mrs. Weaver then opened the door to about twenty neighbors and friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Weaver were the recipients of several useful articles, including an electric flat and a lamp, also sentiment pictures. The evening was spent in story telling and both vocal and instrumental music.

Dr. Gray was the speaker of the evening and presented the gifts to the couple. In a few well chosen words he wished Mr. and Mrs. Weaver the best of everything and congratulated them on their happy 35 married years. He then presented the gifts, after which he read a poem composed for the occasion by Mrs. Weaver's sister, Mrs. Henry Nye, of Willimantic. Refreshments were served, consisting of salads, rolls, cakes, doughnuts and coffee. A niece of Mrs. Weaver, Mrs. Francis Perkins, of Willimantic, made a decorated cake for the occasion.

Mrs. Wellington Miner and Ruth Melissa Nye, niece of Mrs. Weaver, had charge of the affair.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Wellington Miner, Mr. and Mrs. V. Luppert, the Misses Margaret and Louise Luppert and brother, Dr. N. G. Gray and his sister-in-law, Miss Bennett, and nephew, Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Zabriskie, Mrs. Leon Ladd, all of Vergason avenue, Mr. Hubbard of Norwich, Irene Randall, William Smith, Ruth Melissa Nye and Mrs. Henry Nye, all of Willimantic, and Mr. and Mrs. William Weaver and Mrs. Rosie Kinney.

A fine entertainment was provided, there being violin solos by David Trachtenberg, recitations by Miss Sadie Schwartz, a talk on Unity by Max Hanover, solos by Mrs. Manus and an interesting talk on Home Life, by Alex Pasnik.

At the close of the meeting a social hour was enjoyed after which adjournment was taken to the Terminal where refreshments were enjoyed.

Grotto Decides on Play

At a meeting of the play committee of Nemrod Grotto, held Thursday evening with a representative of the Harrington-Adams Company, it was decided that the third annual grotto show would be The Ritz Revue and that it would be given at the Palace Theatre in April. Louis Brown is general chairman of the committee and is being assisted in arranging for the play by Grotto members.

Connecticut College

When President Benjamin T. Marshall introduced Miss Martha Van Rensalear of Cornell university in the Connecticut College gymnasium on Wednesday evening, he stated that he introduced with pride to those present one of the 12 most prominent women in the United States who would speak on the fourth of a series of lectures that are being given at the college on the Art of Living.

Miss Van Rensalear's subject was The Home Itself. She said that homemaking was not just for the few, but for everyone who would find comfort there. The women built the comfort of the home while the men tried to increase their incomes so that the women would have more means to aid them in bettering the home. The women are said to be criticized because of their neglect of their home for the community. The community is but the enlargement of the home. Those women by going out into the world bring back with them a greater and wider influence from the knowledge they gain outside. People also have challenged the home of today because it does not hold the youth of the family. Those people say that there is something wrong. It must be granted that there is a change in the youth of today but this seems definitely attributed to the World war. The human beings of the present are more crentive than those before the war. The young people are more imaginative and more ambitious. They are seeking for something to satisfy them. Have cosmetics, cigarettes, movies and various things such as those served to really satisfy them, asked Miss Van Rensalear. We wonder. They are simply another avenue of expression.

The boys and girls of today will carry the responsibility of homemaking and parenthood in a few years from now. Will what they are doing now lead to perfect health? We cannot change what is now but we can change the future of those unborn. That is the heavy responsibility of those of today, for the boys and girls of the future science has shown what inheritance means. We have yet to learn what way is right for governing ourselves and our family lives. Most of the cases of juvenile delinquency come from homes where parents have not yet learned to govern children.

Courses are given at college which help in the betterment of the home. Psychology teaches one to to read people's thoughts and this in itself is an asset. Those who teach home-making at college have domination of the things of the home. A great deal of money is spent on the three fundamental things of the home—housing, food and clothing. Select things determine one's standing in the community. We, by every purchase, help to determine the standard of living. The selection of the proper things aids them in bringing up this standard. There is a powerful force to these three things. The knowledge of them is aided by the information found in our text books, as in the case of physics.

Another thing can be gained from college training: the knowledge of how to spend our dollars. An entire economic change has been necessary because people have not been able to live within their incomes. The average woman at the beginning of her household career does not know the proper amount of money to be spent for each thing. There is a remedy to be found in teaching the young people a sense of values and simplicity in the art of living. It is interesting to become acquainted with the prices of nutrition and clothing. There is no value to science, economics, and art, if one is not able to apply them.

There should be a trained demand for something that satisfies the artistic sense in housekeeping and clothing. People have gotten the mistaken notion that the field of home economics is open only to women. This is not true. Men are just as dependent on the right food and clothing as the women and seem to know a lot more upon the question of housing. The conservation principle of health, strength, and moral standard must be understood. Then men and women want to learn to make the home interesting. They want to express further their powers of imagination their love of beauty and their excitement. When the expression of those things are found, then only have we found the answer to what shall be the purpose of education.

DR. MAHER WEEPS AS HE PLEADS FOR APPROPRIATIONS

Hartford, Feb. 26.—A dramatic incident occurred at a hearing before the legislative committee on appropriations today when Dr. Stephen J. Maher, the veteran chairman of the state tuberculosis commission, with tears in his eyes, expressed the hope that a specific cure for tuberculosis would come in his lifetime. He had long ago concluded to spend the rest of his life in the cause, he said, had seen the situation notably improved and was optimistic that the solution would soon be found and the state sanatoria now crowded with tuberculosis patients turned over to sufferers of cancer or some other disease. He held that the discovery of a specific for tuberculosis within five years was possible and therefore that the financial program for the state's tuberculosis work was subject to change without notice.

The incident came near the end of a long hearing lasting the greater part of the afternoon on requests for construction, equipment and maintenance aggregating $2,000,000, of which $1,926,000 was intended for maintenance. The requests for additions to the sanatoria included a new infirmary for women at Norwich to cost $60,000. These additions would provide 100 extra beds for adults, while the shortage of accommodations for children will be relieved by the erection of an infirmary building at the Seaside sanatorium for children, at Niantic, for which an appropriation of $100,000 was made by the last session of the legislature.

Hundreds of children in various parts of the state awaiting relief from bone tuberculosis, which has been found to respond to the sun cure at Niantic, will be admitted to the institution there as soon as accommodations are provided. The erection of the new building has been greatly delayed by litigation to obtain a 200-foot strip of the McCook estate adjoining the present institution by condemnation proceedings.

Return to Washington.

Mrs. Carmen Rosa Leguia de Ayulo and Miss Isabel Leguia, daughters of President Augusto B. Leguia of Peru, and Mr. and Mrs. Albert de Ayulo, who have been at the Mohican hotel, New London for a few days to officiate at the laying of keels for two submarines being built at the New London Ship and Engine company for the Peruvian government have left New London for Washington.

The party was entertained at lunch Wednesday afternoon after the keel-laying ceremonies by Mr. and Mrs. L. Y. Spear at their home, at 105 Gardner avenue, New London.

Fourteenth Birthday Party.

Several friends of Anthony Gilmond enjoyed a party at his home at 37 Washington street Thursday evening in honor of his 14th birthday. Games were played and refreshments were served. Those attending the party were Elaine Shea, Francis Riley, Anthony Gilmond, Alice Dufresne, Clara Williams and James O'Brien.

Stonington Fire Reflection Seen Here.

About midnight Thursday the reflection of a fire in Stonington could be plainly seen in the sky from this city and points between here and Jewett City. Inquiry revealed the fact that Wheeler's barn in Stonington had been burned.

SCHAEFER BREAKS WORLD'S BILLIARD RECORDS IN MATCH WITH HOREMANS

Chicago, Feb. 26.—Jake Schaefer, former world's 18.2 balkline billiard champion, broke all world's billiards records tonight when he ran 400 from spot tonight in his match with Eric Hagenlacher, German cue artist, winning the seventh match of the international 18.2 balkline billiard championship tournament without giving Hagenlacher an opportunity to play.

Never before in an international tournament has a player run out from spot. The German player did not have a chance to touch the ball with his cue. Schaeffer made the run in 70 minutes, in addition to breaking the record for winning a match from spot, Schaeffer established a new world's record for a high run, breaking Welker Cochran's record of 384 made in the 1921 tournament here and also broke a record for averages with 400 for one inning.

Those who witnessed the play declared it to have been the most marvelous exhibition of billiards ever seen in an international tournament.

Schaefer doubled his own record of 200 for a high average. Every kind of one on the billiard table was used by the former champion in making his brilliant record.

His superiative from tonight makes him the favorite to take the crown from Willie Hoppe, a feat which he accomplished in 1921 with brilliant playing approaching tonight's exhibition, only to lose it a year later.

BOXING GAME TO BE REVIVED IN NEW LONDON

(Special to the Bulletin)

New London, Feb. 26—Good things come in bunches. At least this phrase may be applied to the recent happenings which will benefit Eastern Connecticut in the sporting line. The announcement that Norwich is to have a town baseball team, this summer is followed by the New London A. C. applying for a license to hold professional boxing bouts in this city. With the Lyceum theatre as the battle ground, the first boxing card is expected to be put on some time next month.

It is reported today that the ones interested in an attempt to restore boxing in this city and all of eastern Connecticut, were in New Haven this afternoon negotiating with several promoters and managers of some of the best mittsters in the state and out. Just what progress was made towards signing up of the fighters who are to figure prominently in the opening card which will be offered in March, is unknown, but a more definite announcement of the boxers who are to perform in the opening encounter will be made public soon.

The revival of the fighting which has such a strong appeal to fans, will permit them to witness some good fighting. No second rate or possibly third rate bouts will be carded. The best or nothing is the cry of the promoters and in the event that the venture is received with favor, the bouts will continue throughout the summer in an open air park. The promoters feel as the every day fan does in regards to signing up the best possible to mix it up. With proper cooperation, New London can become the mecca of the boxing game in this section of the state.

Although there is nothing definite in the works regarding the bouts, yet there is an air of certainty which is asserting itself. Those interested in bringing boxing to this city have calculated as close as possible as far as attendance is concerned. All eastern Connecticut, including Willimantic, Norwich and the other towns within close proximity of this city are expected to send their share of the fans. With the Submarine Base and other government service men stationed in this city which number nearly 2,000 and as a general rule are inclined towards viewing good bouts, they will be expected to be present. Early patronage and support are the fundamentals in bringing good bouts here to the city. There is the big question, attendance at the bouts to insure future cards being put on.

Some of the fighters who are lined up for bouts at present are Georgie Daly of New Haven, Sheik Leonard of Wallingford, Tony Travers of New Haven, Allentown Johnny Leonard, contender for the junior lightweight title, Jose Lombardo who met Kid Kaplan, featherweight champion, in the elimination tournament in New York, Bobby Garcia and others.

Promoter Frank Barber of Danielson recently has had some good bouts with local talent in the ring in some of the preliminaries. To even the card of good boxers, the local promoters feel that they can match some of these boys in the preliminary bouts. All those fighters or their managers are requested to get in touch with the sporting editor of the Day of this city with their weights and records to date. Of course only those duly registered professional boxers will be expected to take advantage of this offer to match the boxer they are managing.

COUNTY BASKETBALL LEAGUE CREATING INTEREST

(Special to the Bulletin)

New London Feb. 26—A Y. M. C. A. county basketball league has been introduced in the eastern section of the state and a complete and the rules of the league which are printed below regulating the play of the league. Six teams make up the league with Norwich being represented by the C. F. C. five, Baltic, Mystic All-Stars, Niantic, K. O. K. A. of Groton and the Y of New London. Six separate teams and cities are represented by the teams in the loop.

The success of this league will probably mean the introduction of a league of a similar nature next season, but earlier in the year. The league is being sponsored through the efforts of Charles S. Bailey, county secretary of the Y. M. C. A. The league got under way on February 16 and will end on March 15. As the definite dates are arranged by the two teams schedule below. It will allow the teams to play on nights which is convenient to them. At the termination of this league's games, an elimination contest will take place and it is outlined below. The teams as they finish in the standing being numbered in the order which they finish will enter the tourney and play as scheduled below the rules.

Week of March 1st: Mystic All-Stars vs. Niantic at Parish House—3-3-25; C. F. C. vs. K. O. K. A. at Parish House—3-3-25; Baltic vs. Rex at Norwich Y. M. C. A.

Week of March 8th: K. O. K. A. vs. Baltic at Norwich; Mystic vs. C. F. C. at Norwich; Rex vs. Niantic at Parish House—3.

Week of March 15th: Rex vs. K. O. K. A. at Parish House—3-17-25; Baltic vs. Mystic All-Stars at Parish House—3-17-25; C. F. C. vs. Niantic at Norwich.

Rules—No man who has passed his 21st birthday may be registered; each team must present a list of not more than 10 men whom they will use throughout the league; each game will be refereed by an official referee assigned by the county secretary; at the end of the league an elimination contest will be run off according to the league standing.

DUWELL CLUB PLANS FOR COMING BASEBALL SEASON

With the football season tucked safely away on the shelf and basketball and other winter sports slowly slipping, everyone is patiently waiting for the first signs of spring and the national pastime—baseball.

Although a little early, the Duwell club is already starting to make plans for the coming season, not only to produce a first class baseball team, but to encourage the national pastime among the youngsters and anyone else interested in the game.

It is to be remembered that although Norwich has tried hard to produce baseball in late years, the teams have been made up mostly of out of town players, and the question on many of the local fans' lips is "Why can't Norwich produce players of their own?"

Some seem to think that it is due to the fact that the city has no centrally located ball fields, while others claim that baseball is not encouraged among the youngsters as it is in other cities, the result being that when the boys grow to an age when they want to play ball their knowledge of the game is limited and they are behind the fellow from around the corner who has played baseball since he left the cradle.

Whether the lack of local talent is due to these facts is a question, but the Duwell club has pledged itself to try and remedy both these cases and help in any way to help Norwich fill its quota of ball players in the years to come.

Last year this club took over what one might truthfully call a swamp on the East Side and after much hard work and expense turned it into a ball field. Although it was far from a first class ball field, it answered the purpose, and many a ball game was played nights and Sundays where people could reach it without any trouble.

During the winter the city has dumped nearly all of its garbage and ashes on this field, extending it over 30 feet in every direction, so that with a lot more hard work and expense this spring the Duwell club will finally have a good centrally located ball field for the young or old baseball teams of Norwich to perform on.

In regard to a baseball team to represent the Duwell club, every effort will be made to produce a good one, and a movement is already under way to get representatives from all the neighboring towns together in regard to forming a six or eight team league. Such a league would no doubt arouse considerable interest, because in past years whenever these teams met they always furnished plenty of action for their following of fans. The Duwell club has already appointed a committee to look after their end and it is hoped that Tuffville, J. H. Martin, Mosher, Baltic, Jewett City, New London and anyone else who might be interested in such a league will call in and help make it possible.

FUTURE OF COLLEGE POLO TO BE SETTLED

New York, Feb. 26—Representatives of nine colleges will meet at the offices of the United States Polo association next Monday to settle the future of intercollegiate polo.

Formed at that time to organize an inter-collegiate polo association with membership from all colleges participating in the game, and to be associated with the national polo governing body.

The future of the intercollegiate championship tournament has been hanging in the balance since the second corps area, under whose auspices the tournament has been started in the past, recently announced that the military authorities no longer would sponsor the play, because it has not shown the facilities which the army was able to offer. Several sites are being considered for the event. The Pennsylvania Military College has urged that the championship be played in the Philadelphia district.

The meeting included Yale, Princeton Harvard, Pennsylvania Military College, West Point, Norwich, Virginia Military Institute, Cornell and the University of Pennsylvania. Louis E. Stoddard, chairman of the United States Polo association, who has just returned from a trip to Arizona, will represent the national governing body.

TWO CORNELL RUNNERS ARE REPORTED ILL

Boston, Feb. 26.—Cornell's hopes of victory in the sixth annual intercollegiate meet with Harvard and Dartmouth here Saturday night have been dimmed by the reported illness and poor form of two of her fastest performers, H. A. Russell, winner of the 40-yard dash last year, and E. B. Goodwillie, star sophomore sprinter. Russell has been confined to the college infirmary for the past week while Goodwillie in recent trials is said to have failed to show his true form.

Harvard will be handicapped by the illness of "Scamp" Watters, star miler, whose defeat of Kirby of Cornell in the mile last year was the yard run. Harvard, in bidding for the laurels won by Cornell last year, will rely on its strength in the middle distances and dashes and the speed of Willard Tibbetts in the two-mile event.

Dartmouth's well balanced team has strong performers in Captain Buchee, in the hurdles, Collady and Bates in the middle distances, and Collins, Dalrymple and Osgood in the long runs.

JUNIOR BOYS' ATHLETIC CONTEST IS CLOSE

One of the largest groups of the season turned out yesterday for the Y. M. C. A. junior boys' gym class athletic contest which has just been organized among the young "Y'ers" and there was considerable excitement as the boys vied with one another to see who was champion in the various events, and to make athletic records sufficient to earn them an emblem which the high scorers are entitled to wear on their gym shirts. The boys who qualified in yesterday's events were as follows: Roy Hiscox, Robert Burke, Percy Babbitt, Austin Covey, Herbert Harkness, Cecil Herschel, John Ryan, Nunzi Grieco and Donald Rogers. The members of the juniors' class are organized into teams, and each Tuesday and Thursday compete in various interesting games and events.

Standing of teams:

BUSINESS MEN TRIM SENIORS AT VOLLEYBALL

A volley volleyball match took place at the Y last evening when the to and representing the senior and business men's gym groups met to determine the men's Y championship and to decide as to which team should enter the tournament which is to be held under the Connecticut Association in the near future. Both teams were at top form and the entire game was fast from the start to the finish, after the smoke of the battle had cleared away, it was announced that the business men had won by two straight games, the score being 15-3; 15-12. Lost.

The seniors were represented by the following players, Al Grebe, J. W. Barwell, E. Polinski, Al Pincault, Howard Lindow and A. Charnetski. While the winners included H. E. [illegible], C. Dunnair, O. Harrington, T. Erisine and A. Finlayson.

The sectional tournaments of the state district are scheduled for Saturday, March 7th, one of them being announced on the local Y floor, after which the winner of the sectional tournaments will meet for the finals in New Haven, March 14.

THE OLD HOMESTEAD

Through prison bars of city life,
So full of ceaseless, changing strife,
I see the blossoms, white as snow,
In that old home of long ago;
Where birds are singing, free from care,
And fragrant roses scent the air,
And lilac bloom too sweet to last,
Those perfumed memories of the past.
I see the children laugh and play
On this glad resurrection day.
No more those happy voices fill
That dear old homestead on the hill.

I could not live a life so cold,
When all had left that home so old
To seek that place where dreams come true—
Those dreams, alas, that some shall rue.
And then I, too, may way will wend,
The winter of my life to spend
In the sunshine of their laughter
'Till the springtime of Hereafter.
And there I'll greet them one by one
After their work in life is done.
So fare-thee-well, old home so still—
You dear old homestead on the hill.

DELANEY AGAIN KNOCKS OUT FLOWERS IN FOURTH ROUND AT GARDEN

New York, Feb. 26—Jack Delaney, Bridgeport, Conn., light heavyweight, knocked out Tiger Flowers of Atlanta, Ga., in the fourth round at Madison Square Garden tonight. It was Delaney's second knockout victory over the negro within two months.

A right uppercut, the same blow which gave Delaney the previous victory over Flowers in two rounds on January 16, dropped the negro for the count. The knockout came after Flowers had gone to the floor without a count and danced into a neutral corner as Delaney resumed the attack.

Flowers was the aggressor, using a slashing right to the body which, however failed to bother the Bridgeport man seriously. Delaney followed his customary method of standing away and sharp shooting for the body and head of his opponent.

Few blows found their mark in the first three rounds although Delaney's left side was blistered by Flowers' attack. Early in the fourth round Delaney's famous righthand found its mark on the negro's jaw and Flowers went down, but was up immediately dancing about. Delaney lunged, but as the blow was started, Flowers sank to his knees and Delaney's glove hit his shoulder. Referee Haley ordered the men to their corner and the crowd, believing that the decision had been awarded to Flowers on a foul, clamored wildly.

The referee consulted with officials of the boxing commission at the ringside and after five minutes, ordered the fight resumed. Despite the rest, Flowers could not withstand Delaney's attack and again went to the canvas, this time to stay.

Delaney weighed 164 1-2 and Flowers 166 1-4. The fight was to have gone 12 rounds.

In the semi-final, George Godfrey, Philadelphia negro heavyweight, knocked out Tut Jackson, also a negro, of Washington Court House, Ohio, in the fifth round. Godfrey weighed 229 1-2 and Jackson 192.

TONY TRAVERS WINS ON FOUL OVER STEVENS

New Haven, Feb. 26.—Tony Travers of New Haven won on a foul from Brookie Stevens of Waterbury after one minute and forty seconds of fighting in the seventh round of an eight round bout on the Nutmeg A. C. card here tonight. Stevens had been warned several times by Referee Buckley of Waterbury for hitting Travers low. It was necessary for the police to escort Stevens to his dressing room.

Young Lombard of Wallingford was given the decision over Frankie Garano of Staten Island in a six round bout.

George Smith of Brooklyn, N. Y., was given the referee's decision over Tom Kirby of Boston in a six round bout. It was announced after the bout that Kirby's hands had been examined by a physician and were found to have been injured during the bout, especially the right hand, which was injured early in the bout.

Young Angelo of Stamford was given the decision over Don Cody of Belleville, N. J., in a six round bout.

Laurie Rich of New Haven was given the decision over Joe Morgan of Bridgeport in a six round bout.

CLABBY'S COLTS WIN EASILY FROM COMBATANTS

Although Manager Cimikoski, manager of the Combat Train indoor baseball team, imported a number of brilliant diamond stars who are not members of the Combat Train, his team was unable to win from the Clabby Colts Thursday evening at the state armory. Cimikoski's "wonder team" were forced to take the short end of a 13 to 5 score, which pleases Leo very little. To make the defeat more bitter, Cimikoski's rival, Bugsy Faber, ub, the pitching for the victors and if there is anything Leo hates it is to see Friend Joe win.

JOE FABER IS SOLD TO NEWARK CLUB

Joe Faber, for the past two seasons a member of the Baltimore Orioles, has been sold outright to the Newark club of the International league, according to an announcement made by Manager Jack Dunn on Wednesday. Faber went to the Orioles in 1923 and played part of the season, being loaned to the Jersey City club during the latter part of the season. Last year he was with the Harrisburg club of the New York-Pennsylvania league.

Tony West, another member of the Orioles, is for sale, but as no one has come forward with the price of $2,500 which is asked West has been ordered to report to Dunn next week for the spring training.

SPORT WORLD BRIEFS

Kansas City has twenty golf clubs.

In the early days of the game the golf ball was stuffed with feathers.

Sam Langford, the veteran negro pugilist, reached his 45th birthday on February 13.

Seattle is making rapid strides in golf, having now seventeen courses with a grand total of 234 holes.

The recent spell of mild weather seriously interfered with the winter sports schedules in New England.

Frankie Genaro, the New York flyweight, has been matched to battle Eddie O'Dowd of Columbus for 12 rounds at Youngstown.

Connie Mack, the veteran manager of the Philadelphia Athletics, has been engaged in professional baseball for over 40 years.

Each season the sixteen major league baseball teams travel a total of nearly 200,000 miles in order to fill out their scheduled championship dates.

The first annual Dixie lawn tennis championship tournament is to be held the week of March 3 under the auspices of the Davis Islands Tennis Club, near Tampa.

Thirty-two high and preparatory schools are entered in the fifth annual interscholastic basketball tournament to be held at the University of Pennsylvania next month.

A train traveling at a rate of a mile a minute has a speed of only about two-thirds that of a baseball pitched by a star hurler of the calibre of Walter Johnson.

The actual distance around the baseball bases is 120 yards, but there are few, if any players, who make the circuit without covering from 127 to 130 yards, on account of the wide turns which are made at the bases.

Bob Fitzsimmons, who held the middleweight championships, had a longer active career in the ring than any other fighter of prominence. He made his first appearance in New Zealand in 1880, while his last recorded ring engagement was 34 years later, a no-decision bout with K. O. Sweeney, at Williamsport, Pa.

Major league managers come and go, but the Two Macks (John McGraw and Connie Mack) lead on forever. In point of continuous service as managers of the same teams. Mack of the Athletics and McGraw of the Giants have all the other present-day pilots backed up and stopped. Connie Mack took charge of the Athletics twenty-four years ago and McGraw became manager of the Giants a year later.

NORWICH TO BE MEMBER OF NEW TRACK CIRCUIT

Springfield, Mass., Feb. 26.—Readville, Mass., and Hartford, Conn., both of which dropped out of the Grand Circuit recently, will have light harness meetings this season as the result of a meeting of horsemen here tonight who organized a five-track circuit to be known as the Great Eastern Circuit. The other three members are Norwich, Conn.; Springfield, Mass., and Brockton Mass.

Meetings with these approximate purse offerings follow: Hartford, Sept. 7 to 10, $20,000; Norwich, Sept. 17 to 19, $15,000; Springfield, Sept. 21 to 24, $20,000.

Among those present tonight were: Albert J. Bailey, Norwich; W. F. Goltra and W. F. Powell, Hartford.

A system of mathematicas was evolved by the Maya tribes of Mexico at least 2,000 years before the first system recorded in India.

Miss Lenora Hubbard, a teacher in the Anderson (S. C.) schools, celebrated her seventieth birthday by taking a day off from her work, the first time she had asked for a leave of absence since the city schools were founded, some twenty-eight years ago. Miss Hubbard has taught school continuously nearly fifty years.

Twenty chairs are placed around the table when the family meal is served in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Corila Bryant, of Columbia, Ky. They have been married thirty years and have had nineteen children, eighteen of whom are living at home. One is dead. The oldest is twenty-six and the youngest is a year old.

Platinum laboratory vessels, indispensable in certain chemical operations, have become very expensive, due partly to the increased use of platinum jewelry and partly to the virtual cutting off of the Russian supply, formerly the principal source of the metal. Dr. A. Gawalowski, an Austrian chemist, reports the successful use of vessels made of an alloy of silver and aluminum, thinly coated with "platinum black" a microscopically fine dust of platinum, and then hammered or rolled under heavy pressure. This peculiar method of plating gave the alloy sufficient protection against the strong acids and alkalis of the chemical laboratory.

The need for photographic plates and films of a quality higher even than their present high standard was emphasized at the third Pan-American scientific congress by Dr. C. D. Perrine, of the Argentine National Observatory at Cordoba. As applied to the special problems of astronomy, plates of a higher speed than those now available would make existing telescopes the equivalent of instruments of twice their size and many times their cost, because it would increase their light-gathering power. He also pointed out the need for the elimination of "graininess" in photographic negatives designed for technical work of extreme accuracy, for the purpose of producing such photographic "super-plates."

PINOCHLE CLUB MET WITH BENTLEY AVE. MEMBER

Mrs. Charles Wright of Bentley avenue, was the hostess this week, for the Thursday afternoon pinochle club, this being the second meeting in the new series of twelve. The first prize of the afternoon was won by Mrs. Roswell J. P. Brown, with a score of 8,020 and Mrs. George Brenn took second prize with a score of 7955. The consolation award went to Mrs. William Murray with a score of 5945.

The following are the scores to date Mrs. Roswell J. P. Brown, 16,615; Mrs. Louis Mitchell 16,065; Mrs. John O. Peckham 15,650; Mrs. Herman Pukallus 15,560; Mrs. George Brenn, 15,190; Mrs. Henry Geer, 14,495; Mrs. Harry Mason 14,415; Mrs. Charles Wright 14,370; Mrs. Milo R. Waters, 14,300; Mrs. William Murray 13,490; Mrs. Frederick Evarts, 13,130; Mrs. Carl Geib 12,770.

The hostess served refreshments at the close of the play.

Mrs. Herman Pukallus of West Main street, is to entertain the club next week Thursday.

Eastern Connecticut Health.

Diphtheria: New London, 1; Norwich, 1; Tolland, 1; Willimantic, 2.

Scarlet fever: Griswold, 1; Groton, 2; New London, 1 Stonington, 1; Danielson, 1 Putnam, 1; Willimantic, 4.

Measles: Danielson, 1.

Whooping cough: Groton, 5; Montville, 1; New London, 1; Waterford, 1; Willimantic, 1.

Neither "Flask-tooters" nor their opponents appeared before the legislative judiciary committee at the state capitol when a hearing was scheduled on a bill designed to prevent use of flasks at dances and in pool and billiard rooms.

COOPERATION

(Written Specially for the Bulletin.)

"I can defend myself against my enemies; but the Lord protect me from my friends," once said a prominent politician. He had suffered more from the erratic enthusiasms and injudicious succours of well-meaning but flighty friends than from attacks by open enemies. With these latter he could stand face to face and meet blow with blow; but he had to smile at his friends even when their stupidity or rashness had made defeat certain.

I couldn't help recall his plaint, the other day, on reading the somewhat self-satisfied boast of a certain dairy organization as to its success in co-operation. It noted the facts set forth by the department of agriculture as to various other crops, showing, for instance, that the Pacific coast apple-grower got 23.6 per cent of the price his apples eventually sold for, that the potato-growers of various states got from 29.6 per cent of what the consumer paid for potatoes; that the wheat farmer got 15.35 cents out of the dollar the consumer paid for wheat bread, etc. This was in 1924. This same year this dairy organization of milk producers paid the farmer 42 cents out of every dollar the milk consumer spent. This fact is made the text for an argument in defense of cooperation.

Well, you and I will doubtless agree that 42 per cent is better than 15 or even 30 per cent. It shows a movement in the right direction. It is a first short step forward. It's something like babies' first efforts at walking—a tottly waddle from chair to chair. To hear dad and mamma this is undeniably an event. But it is hardly one to excite the world at large, nor to call for a celebration of bell-ringing and cannon-firing. If the baby later turns out a super Nurmi and beats all existing records at the hundred-yard dash or the mile run or the cross country marathon, why, then people will sit up on end and take notice.

As an indication of the possibility of some future success worth boasting over the gain made by this young dairy organization is interesting to those immediately concerned. As a "triumph" in itself it isn't anything to brag too loudly about.

When years and years ago, some farm economist proclaimed that the farmer's dollar was really no better than a 35-cent dollar, because 35 cents was all he averaged for a dollar's worth of his goods, people alternately laughed and sneered at him. He was ridiculed as a man "talking through his hat," he was contented as a mere theorist, and his allegations were denied as absurd and untrue. Yet it now appears, from the statistics of the department of agriculture, that he wasn't telling half the truth. The facts show that he put things much too mildly.

What the recorded prices show that the farmer who grows the wheat, and supplies all the value which the wheat contains, gets less than 15 1-2 cents of the dollar which the ultimate user pays for that wheat; when these records show that the Pacific coast applegrower, who supplies all the value there is in the fruit, gets only 23 1-2 cents of the dollar the apple-eater pays; when these same records disclose the fact that the potato-growers of Michigan, Wisconsin, Minnesota and Maine get for their potatoes from 20 1-2 to 30 3-4 cents of potato-eater's dollar,—it becomes clear that the man who called the farmer's dollar a 35-cent coin was not only safe, but was far within the bounds of safety. He wasn't stretching the truth; he wasn't even pulling it taut. The very highest percentage got by any of the farmers involved, that secured by the Maine potato-growers, lacked more than four cents of the thirty-five he postulated.

Such proven facts as these show a deplorable and an utterly inexcusable injustice. To show how the dairy farmer can get as much as forty-two cents of his dollar from his customers is, undeniably, a pointer in the right direction. But it is hardly an accomplishment to boast of.

The dairyman takes all the risks and bears all the costs of breeding up a productive herd. These risks and costs extend over many unproductive years and only the practical dairyman knows how heavily they bear and how cruelly they oftentimes cut. If he seeks to sell milk in the big city market he has to go to the further expense of barns designed to meet urban approval, often to humor urban whims and fads. He has to draw and treat the milk under similarly conceived and equally hampering restrictions. He has to provide all the feed essential to milk-production and pay for all the work of caring for the herd. His only return is the money for which he can sell the milk which he has thus produced. Every single element of value in that milk is due to him, his work, his care, his capital. The only other charge which is properly to be levied upon it is the charge of getting it from his milk-room to the consumers table. To say that a division of the final price by which he gets forty-two cents and the distributor gets fifty-eight cents, is fair or even simulates fairness is absurd.

Suffering cats! Forty-two cents for the milk and fifty-eight cents for the waiter who passes it! That isn't a "tip," it's a gouge.

It's a case of "heads I win, tails you lose," "you" being the dairyman, every time.

Americans of 1776 burst into a roaring flame of rebellion when Great Britain tried to collect a trifling tax on tea. They threw some of the tea into Boston harbor; they burned some of it on Bowling Green; they spilled it into the sounds along the southern coast, but they wouldn't pay the tax, even if they had to go without tea.

American of 1924 and 1925 pay a simply exorbitant tax on the milk and the potatoes and the apples and the wheat which are essential elements of the national food supply,—which tea isn't and never was.

Why?

Is it because they're too lazy or too spiritless or too supine to resent and resist the imposition?

Is it because they've become so accustomed to being cheated and cozened and bilked by big business and grafting governments and inefficient courts that they have despairingly accepted the outrage as beyond remedy?

Or is it because they have lost, through the adulteration of their blood with immiscible foreign strains, their inherited sturdy and stubborn racial will to have and keep what is their own, even if they have to fight for it?—I confess I can't understand the immobility and apparent "don't-care-a-damnativeness" which marks the attitude of both consumers and producers towards this outstanding inequity.

Consider it from the farmer's standpoint. He produces food which other people need to live on. And then he sells it for from fifteen to forty-two per cent of its ultimate value and lets a lot of in-betweens bilk him of from fifty-eight to eighty-five cents on every dollar's worth.

"But how can I help it?" askes one. "I have to take what I can get, don't I? If I don't sell for next-to-nothing, some other farmer will and I'll get nothing at all. What can I do?"

Alone, you can't do a thing, except take the bitter medicine and conceal the wry face it causes as best you can.

But you don't have to face the doctor alone. By yourself you have about as much influence and are of about as much importance as a blue-bottle fly on the window-pane. What you say most emphatically does not count with anybody.

"What can you do?"

You can do what the farmers of little Denmark have done, if you must have an example to copy and can't break out your own road.

You can bunch yourselves,—your production.—your preparation of food supplies.—your selling opportunities,—your buying needs.

You can combine your wisdom and skill and thereby insure the joint production of goods of such high and even quality that they will command the top of the market. You can unite in selling, so that, when slick Mr. City Speculator offers you anywhere from fifteen to forty-two cents for a dollar's worth of your goods you can tell him "Nothin' doin." Nor will he be able to skip over to some other farmer's place and buy under you, for that other farmer will be in the same boat that you are—both out for a hundred-cent dollar or no sale.

Separately, you're at Mr. Speculator's mercy. He can rob your pocket or cut your business throat at his own whim, and whichever his own greed suggests.

Bunched, you're an impregnable square facing all ways and safe against either pillaging marauders or organized attack.

When our forefathers launched the Revolution they cast their lives into the balance and invoked the arbitrament of war. We don't need take any such risks or resort to any such desperate measures.

The only question is whether we are ready to engage in a wholly peaceful and perfectly equitable combination to demand and insist upon our fair share of the world's dollar.

Down at the bottom, half of our reluctance to co-operate lies in an unexpressed but widely existent fear that some neighbor may get more out of it than we, or may be liable to undermine us in some way.

Good Lord! Stand day after day with heads half-veiled in a swarm of buzzing, biting mosquitoes, but won't jump the little brook for fear there may be a gnat on the other side!

For one, if I've got to be cheated, I think on the whole I'd rather have it done by a neighbor than by the meat trust or the wheatpit or the milk combine. There'd be some chance of getting it back from next door, where there's no chance at all, as things are now.

THE FARMER.

Possibly a man may be better off after he is dead, but it isn't policy to tell his widow that such is the case.

New Way Eczema Goes In 48 Hours

Many people who suffer from itching skin and Eczema like to use salves and ointments and some of them are very good.

The one way, however, and the new way to get rid of Eczema in 48 hours or less, is to use Kojene, the most powerful, non-poisonous, non-alcoholic antiseptic known.

It's a liquid and a six ounce bottle costs but 60 cents at Lee & Osgood Co., or any progressive druggist and if it doesn't end your eczema in 48 hours—money gladly returned. Directions on each bottle.

It's equally good for boils, carbuncles, ulcers, skin infections, pimples and salt-rheum.

THERE is no advertising medium in Eastern Connecticut equal to The Bulletin for business results.

RHEUMATISM

Rheuma Gets to Work First Day—Drives Out the Poisonous Uric Acid and Brings Quick Relief.

Twisted, swollen, unsightly joints are rapidly freed from pain and brought back to normal with Rheuma.

Lame people walk without aid; sleep comes to those who have been unable to lie in bed; hands that were helpless because of terrible rheumatism are now able to do their share for the support of the family.

Rheuma is a wonderful remedy for rheumatism, gout, neuritis, lumbago and neuralgia.

It is a wonder-worker; it never falters, never gives up until every vestige of uric acid poison is expelled from the body.

Rheuma acts on stomach, liver, kidneys and bladder all at once and quickly brings long prayed for comforts to distressed sufferers. Lee & Osgood Co. and all good druggists sell it with guarantee of money back if it isn't satisfactory.

You just KNOW they're well
You, too, can have this vigorous, robust, healthy perfection
You just know they're NOT well
There is no reason for you to look or feel this way

CONSTIPATION means PREMATURE OLD AGE

Inflammation, abscess, gangrene, appendicitis, autointoxication, numberless deadly diseases and shortened life, all come from constipation. Fasting is injurious. Food is an aid to bowel action. Cathartic pills, "salts," mineral waters, and a long list of "drugs" are decidedly bad and an aggravation. Allowing the bowels to become clogged is worse.

Dr. Caldwell's

SYRUP PEPSIN

The Family Laxative

—promptly relieves constipation. It is different from pills or purgatives. It does not gripe, pain or purge. It acts easily and in a natural way, just as Dr. Caldwell intended when he prescribed it years ago. For 30 years it has relieved America's suffering. A liquid combination of Egyptian senna, pepsin and pleasing aromatics. One dose relieves and as Nature asserts its action the doses may be gradually decreased.

Pleasant To Take
Gently Compels Health

Last year 10,000,000 bottles were used which shows people recognize its value. As effective for babies as old people, for adults as children. Syrup Pepsin quickly brings relief to the most severe cases of constipation and the doses may be gradually reduced.

It is sold everywhere medicine is sold—and guaranteed. Try it at our risk. Your druggist will return your money if it fails to do as promised.

Half the world is half asleep

Many people are considered lazy when they are really suffering from the world's most universal disease—constipation. It is a disease which robs you of your energy, your interest, your desire to do things. Only ALL-BRAN brings sure and safe relief from this disease.

"Dead tired by 10 in the morning"

SHOULD the morning housework tire a woman out? No! But how many women are all in, ready to sag, when it is finished. Nine times out of ten, this unnatural weariness is caused by constipation.

By ridding the body of this dread disease you bring back the energy of perfect health. Thousands have already found the one safe, sure way to rid themselves permanently of constipation—have found the glorious good health which had seemed lost to them forever—found it in Kellogg's ALL-BRAN.

Here is the reason Kellogg's ALL-BRAN brings sure results even in chronic cases. Bran—ALL-BRAN—goes completely through the system without a change of fiber. It is what doctors call a bulk food—a necessary aid to regular elimination.

Retaining its fiber, it stimulates the flow of digestive juices, both in the stomach and in the intestine. It absorbs and carries through the intestinal tract a great amount of moisture. Through the length of its journey, it sweeps and cleans thoroughly. It rouses a sluggish intestine to natural, healthy action.

Contrast this natural action with the irritating effect of habit-forming drugs and pills, which lose their effectiveness unless the dose is increased constantly

Eat at least two tablespoonfuls of Kellogg's ALL-BRAN every day—in chronic cases, with every meal. If eaten regularly, it is guaranteed to bring permanent relief or your grocer returns the purchase price. It is never necessary to increase the amount you first find effective. Eat it with milk or cream; sprinkled over other cereals; cooked with hot cereals; in soups, and in the recipes given on every package. You'll like it with fruit too.

KNOW THE TRUTH ABOUT BRAN

To be effective, bran fiber must go through the various digestive processes without submitting to any of them. It must pass through the entire alimentary tract without its form being changed.

What happens when a bran food is eaten?

After the saliva has acted upon it, it passes through the stomach and into the intestines, where every part which is not fiber is absorbed.

In ALL-BRAN the quantity of fiber is so great that it furnishes bulk enough to prevent and relieve constipation.

In a part-bran food, the quantity of fiber is so small that there is only a puny amount to do a herculean task.

ALL-BRAN brings sure results. Demand it.

Only ALL-BRAN can bring sure results. Products which are only part bran are doubtful. They bring only partial results, or none at all. Doctors recommend Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. They know it brings results. So don't take chances—you can't afford to take chances with constipation.

Kellogg's is the original and only ALL-BRAN. You know what it will do. Go to your grocer and buy a package of Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. It is also served in leading hotels and restaurants. Begin eating it today.

NEW LONDON JUDGE COMMITS COLCHESTER GIRL TO STATE FARM

(Special to The Bulletin)

New London, Feb. 26.—May Gladd, a Colchester girl of 18, has had her idea of life realized, and now she is at the state farm for women. She went the pace and reached the goal that is so often reached by her sort. She was prosecuted in Norwich some months ago and then County Detective Lewis became aware who she was, in that he knew her by sight when he got a look at her in this city. He recognized her as "Babe Lewis," the girl who had received attention from the Norwich authorities. The girl went from her home in Colchester to New York and in the big city became a waitress in a Childs restaurant at Columbus Circle, the theatre section of New York. There she went astray. It is supposed, for she finally drifted back to Connecticut and to Norwich. That city became too slow for her and she came to New London. She visited dance halls and made the acquaintance of Edward Kennedy, a professional dancer, and with him was frequently seen on the floor at Plant hall. She admired him as a dancer and invited him to her room. She had a room on Golden street which finally turned to Linden street for there she was found by police detectives and her history was made the subject of inquiry. It was learned that she was without visible means of support so she was taken into custody that she might explain if that was possible. Her explanation was not satisfactory for it was learned from her consort that she had offended against the laws of society and that Kennedy was an offender with her. He told the story and finally the girl was forced to admit the truth of it. In court today Mrs. Jane Cassidy, the police matron, was appointed her guardian, and Richard W. Mansfield was designated to act for Kennedy. Both pleaded guilty. Miss Gladd was sent to the State Farm for Women and Kennedy was ordered to spend ten days in jail. Then the execution of the judgment was suspended indefinitely. Miss Gladd's parents live in Colchester Samuel Gladdowski and his wife, and they were notified of the commitment of their daughter to the state farm. Judge Prince was inclined to order Kennedy to leave the city, but he claimed this was his home and that he had no other, so he was allowed to stay.

Sidney H. Miner today sold a tract of land on the easterly side of Bayonet street to Rosa E. Enos.

Mrs. Adah Hickey of Ocean avenue; Mrs. Anna Wheeler, North Stonington; Mrs. Charles Rogers, Ocean avenue and Michael Chiapperini, Thames street, Groton, patients at Lawrence hospital, were discharged today.

The funeral of Theodore G. Beckert was held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at 48 Shapley street, the services being conducted by Rev. Philip M. Kerridge, rector of St. James' Episcopal church. Members of the Knights of Pythias to which Mr. Beckert belonged, acted as bearers and conducted the committal service in Cedar Grove cemetery.

William B. Heffernan, about 55, died this morning at his home, 107 Connecticut avenue, death ending an illness of many weeks. Mr. Heffernan is survived by three sisters and two brothers. He was a stone mason and followed that trade until ill health overtook him last summer. His latter employment was that of ticket taker at one of the local motion picture houses, but that work Mr. Heffernan was forced to abandon last November when the malady with which he had become afflicted became so serious that further active employment was deemed inadvisable. He was a member of New London lodge of Elks.

An automobile operated by R. H. Pond, 8 Taylor street, Milford, Mass., was damaged last night when in collision with a Connecticut company trolley car. The automobile was emerging from Golden street into Bank street, when a State street bound trolley car came along and crashed against the side of the automobile. The front left fender, wheel and tire were damaged.

The automobile owned and operated by Daniel Wall, of Cohanzie road, Waterford, and a machine operated by Walter Lavelle, 31, of 142th street, Rockaway Beach, N. Y., collided this afternoon at the approach to the Thames river highway bridge. Both machines were damaged.

Edward Raymond, of Waterford, recently purchased an automobile of a Providence concern and it is contended by the sellers of the auto that Raymond has not kept up his part of the agreement, as the purchase of the machine was according to a conditional bill of sale. This afternoon James E. Flynn, representing the Providence concern came to New London and went to the home of Raymond where he took charge of the automobile, removing it to a garage. Raymond has placed his case in the hand of an attorney for the purpose of regaining possesion of the automobile.

The "Black Creek" theatrical company passed through New London last Sunday en route to Stamford, and for convenience the baggage car was left standing in the Hallam street yard of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad Sunday night and Monday morning. During the car's stay in the railroad yard a thief visited it and forcing entrance stole a box of tools belonging to Samuel Gickman, stage manager of the show. When the car reached Stamford the loss of the tools was discovered and a report of the theft made to the railroad company. This afternoon Captain Richard Kelly, of the special agents of the railroad in this city, together with the local police started an investigation in an effort to recover the tools or ascertain the identity of the thief.

Revenue Cutter Acushnet which has been in Long Island, Fishers Island and Block Island sounds several days in search of rum-running craft, abandoned that task this afternoon and put into port because of the terrific gales and high seas. The cutter will remain at anchor in the harbor until such time as favorable weather conditions prevail.

Mr. and Mrs. Dudley St. C. Donnelly, of Bellevue place, have gone to Miami, Fla., where they will remain three weeks.

An automobile collision occurred late this afternoon in which one machine was overturned and badly damaged and a pedestrian was run over. The overturned car was the property of the Ideal Coat and Apron Co., 56 Truman street, a new Ford delivery type operated by Bernard L. Burnham, 312 Bank street. The pedestrian was Charles P. Fuller, aged about 72, of 56 Mountain avenue, well known as a veteran "newsboy" and for his identification with the Salvation Army and other religious organizations. Fuller was not injured beyond bruises, it is believed, for no more serious injuries were revealed when an examination of him was made by Dr. J. M. Garey immediately after the accident. Burnham and Thomas Stackhouse, the latter of 42 Crescent street, were arrested by Sergeant Samuel Hick and have been ordered to appear in the police court tomorrow morning at 8.30 o'clock. Both are charged with reckless driving.

The accident occurred when a truck of the New Haven Dairy Co., of Pequot avenue, operated by Leroy Newbury, 181 Howard street, was proceeding northerly on Howard street, near the corner of Woodbridge street young men on the sidewalk called to Newbury, who stopped his machine. At the same time Fuller, who had been on the easterly sidewalk, started to cross the street and stepped behind the truck. Newbury started to back his truck and an automobile owned and operated by Stackhouse was approaching from the south. Fuller, believing he had room to stand between the truck and Stackhouse's car, awaited the passage of the latter machine. Just as Stackhouse's car was about to pass Fuller, the car operated by Burnham which was also headed northerly tried to drive around Stackhouse's car, but was unable to do so, the coat and apron supply company's car, hitting the Stackhouse car with considerable force and causing it to carom and hit Fuller, who was knocked down and run over.

The coat and apron supply company's machine continued to the westerly side of the street, where it hit the curb and overturned. Burnham was thrown out, but escaped injury.

Pedestrians and Traffic Officer Dennis Cavanaugh, who was on duty at the corner of Bank and Howard streets and Sergeant Samuel Hick hastened to Fuller's assistance and picked him from under the Stackhouse car. Following the accident Dr. Garey happened along and examining Fuller decided that apparently Fuller had not been injured beyond bruises.

The automobile owned and operated by Frank C. Briggs, 19 Cedar St., in passing through State street late this afternoon collided with a public service car, of the "checkered" type, owned and driven by Joseph Syracusa, 113 Jefferson avenue. The public service car was damaged.

The police this evening received a telephone call from a man named Hutchinson saying he had found a stray horse, attached to a wagon, on Williams street, corner of Granite St., and that the animal had been hitched to an electric light pole. Patrolman Patrick Sheehan was sent to the location where the horse had been tied, but when he arrived there the horse and wagon was nowhere to be found, it being stated that the owner put in an appearance and took charge of the team.

News was received in Groton today of the sudden death yesterday at St. Joseph's hospital, New Haven, of Lenard N. Fairbanks, formerly of Groton, Mr. Fairbanks, who moved to New Haven a number of years ago, is survived by his wife, and a daughter, Mrs. Nellie Clark, of New Haven.

The fence that borders the street at the Railway bridge on Montauk avenue, below Thames street blew down this evening in the heavy northwest gale that prevailed from early evening till late at night. The fence fell upon the tracks of the New Haven road, but the boards were removed before they caused any damage to trains. The railroad company was notified at once and took means of safeguarding trains.

New London Lodge of Elks nominated candidates for delegates to the grand lodge convention to be held at Portland, Oregon, tonight. There were two nominations and there may be stiff others before a selection is made.

LAW-BREAKER IS JAILED— DID NOT KNOW WHEN TO QUIT

(Special to The Bulletin)

New London, Feb. 26.—Andrew Mikel has spent a good deal of money in trying to sell liquor contrary to law. He has been before the local police court and before the superior court and by both he has been penalized and has served terms in jail. Today he was sent back to the county jail because he did not appreciate leniency shown to him Tuesday, when he was fined $200 and paid and when he was allowed to go at liberty on a suspended sentence of 30 days. Mikel has his friends and they sought to jubilate Tuesday, when he escaped a term in the county jail. They and he went from the court to the restaurant maintained by Mikel on North Bank street and liquor made them rejoice. Mikel claimed that he was ignorant of the plans of his friends till they came to his place and brought a bottle of red liquor with them. This was drank by some half dozen in the place, but the testimony of four witnesses today was to the effect that Mikel did not indulge in the liquor. He said that as soon as he realized what was going on he ordered the friends to leave the place and to take their liquor with them. Before they could get out, Sergeants Smith and Cavanaugh passed the Mikel place and seeing the door open entered just in time to see Mikel take a bottle of liquor from a mantel and put it into his pocket. Smith seized the liquor and charged that Mikel had it for sale, or was furnishing it to his guests, contrary to court orders.

In court today the suspended sentence was revoked and Mikel was committed to jail. He was also accused of having tried to bribe the officers by offering them $50 each to get out and allow him to pursue his business. The statement of the officers was that he made the offer to each of them separately, while he claimed that he was endeavoring to explain to them that on Tuesday $50 in cash and a gold watch were stolen from his cash register while he was at the session of the court. The explanation did not explain and Mikel was held in a bond of $2,000 for appearance at the next term of the superior court. He could not furnish a bond today, but may be able to secure a surety on such a recognizance later—when he has served his 30 days in jail. Mikel is a Pole and does not possess the intelligence that would make a successful evader of the law, if such a thing is possible.

MICHAEL O'BRIEN MEMBER OF CREW OF KEARSAGE

(Special to The Bulletin)

New London, Feb. 26.—Michael O'Brien, 81, one of the oldest and best known residents of Groton, died this morning at his home, 23 School street. Mr. O'Brien had been in feeble health for a long time, from infirmities due to his advanced years. He is survived by his wife and by two sons, William O'Brien, formerly of Groton, now of Cambridge, Mass., and John O'Brien, Groton, and by four daughters, Mrs. Leo Noyes and Mrs. Frederick Gould of New London; Mrs. Frank Johnston, Groton, and Mrs. Gustav Lagergren, of Wilmington, Del.

Mr. O'Brien was a member of the Granite Cutters' union, Ancient Order of United Workmen, Sacred Heart church, and Holy Name society, Groton. He was a Civil war veteran, having been a member of the crew of the historic Kearsage and was a member of W. W. Perkins Post, G. A. R.

He was born in Ireland, but took up his residence in Groton when a young man and has continuously resided in the borough. He was a stone-cutter by occupation and had been employed on many large construction enterprises, for he was considered an expert workman in his particular line. One of the important jobs performed by Mr. O'Brien was the repairing of the famous Fort Griswold monument, Groton.

MOSLEMS IN JERUSALEM TO PROTEST LORD BALFOUR

Jerusalem, Feb. 26.—(Jewish Telegraphic Agency.)—The executive of the Christian Moslem association in Jerusalem is determined to make the day of Lord Balfour's arrival in Palestine a day of protest, it is indicated anew in cables sent out by the Palestine Arsem executive to Lord Balfour and other prominent persons who are expected to arrive here in connection with the opening of the Hebrew university, April 1. (Lord Balfour is the author of the famous "Balfour Declaration" that Great Britain would use her best endeavors to facilitate the establishment in Palestine of a national home for the Jewish people.)

The day of Lord Balfour's arrival the Arabs in entire Palestine will cease work and assemble in their places of worship. The authorities of the Moslem holy places and the national institutions will refuse to receive Lord Balfour and the Arab press will on that day carry black borders. It was also stated that Arab political circles in Arabia are supporting this proposed action of protest.

The Palestine government has been notified by the Palestine Arab executive that the government alone will be responsible for all consequences if a Jewish demonstration in honor of Lord Balfour takes place.

Rub Away Baby's Colds

A Boon to Mothers

Mothers everywhere who realize the danger to delicate little stomachs of too much dosing appreciate the value of Vick's in treating croup and children's colds.

With Vicks there is nothing to swallow—you just rub it on. The body heat releases the ingredients—Menthol, Camphor, Eucalyptus, Thyme, Turpentine—in the form of vapors which carry the medication directly to the nose, throat, bronchial tubes and lungs.

At the same time Vicks is absorbed through and stimulates the skin like a poultice or plaster.

Colds go overnight, croup is generally relieved within 15 minutes.

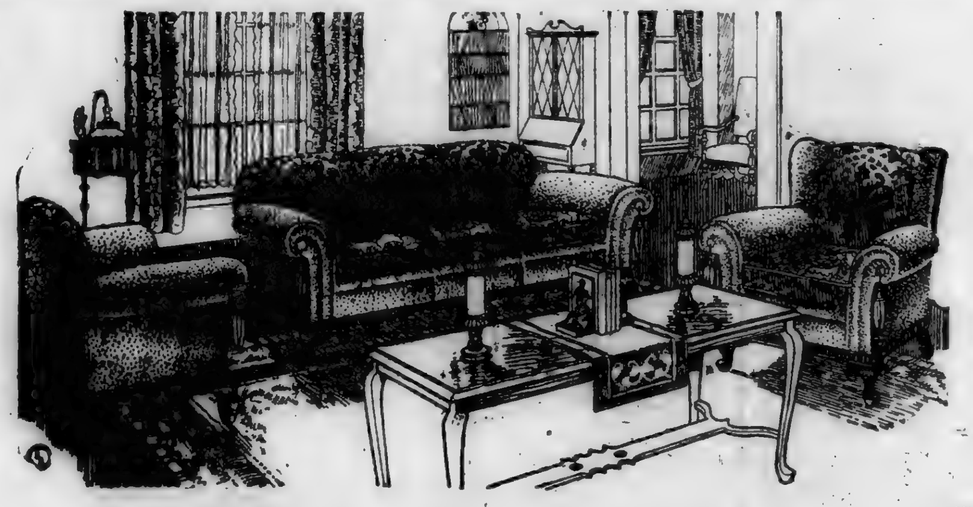
Our Greatest February Sale

Is Drawing to an End!

Only a few more days, and the greatest sales event in the history of this store will come to a close. Day after day our stock of furniture has dwindled, so that at last we are almost ready to receive the incoming shipments of new furniture purchased at the January Furniture Markets. Buying has been tremendous, but a comprehensive assortment still remains and values in every department of the store are most unusual. Reductions of 10 per cent. to 50 per cent. prevail on every floor, and the majority of them are 40 per cent. or very slightly less. Make the most of the brief time remaining—take advantage of the most remarkable furniture values in years!



This Complete Living Room Outfit

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

MARKET WAS STRONG.

New York, Feb. 26.—Stock prices gave an impressive demonstration of strength in today's active market, net gains of 1 to 3 1-3 points being quite common at the close. Some profit taking took place in the final dealings when the call money rate was advanced to 4 1-2 per cent., but the offerings were well absorbed.

Announcement that the New York Federal Reserve Bank had increased its rediscount rate from 3 to 3 1-2 per cent was not made until after the market closed. Rumors of an increase were circulated throughout the financial district during the day as they have been on every Thursday for the last two months, but apparently were disregarded. On several previous occasions such rumors have caused the heavy selling of stocks on the theory that a higher rediscount rate would curb speculative activity in the securities markets.

Buying orders in today's market were well distributed with the best exhibitions of group strength being shown by the motor, sugar, public utility, oil and merchandising shares.

The sudden outburst of activity in the automotive issues was based on reports of a sharp increase in sales during the last two weeks by the principal motor car distributors. Jordan touched a new high at 54 1-8, closing just below the top for a net gain of 3 1-2 points and new peak prices also were attained by Willys-Overland common and preferred, Gardner Motors and the Maxwell and Packard issues.

Laclede Gas was the outstanding strong spot in the public utility group, soaring 12 points to a record top at 145. Columbia Gas and Electric touched a new maximum at 51 1-2 and People's Gas and Electric and Brooklyn Union Gas closed at net gains of 1 1-2 and one point respectively. With the exception of American Can, which closed 2 1-2 points higher at 175 1-4, the so-called pivotal industrials showed little change on the day. United States Steel common fluctuated within a range of one point, closing 1-4 higher at 124 3-4. Baldwin closed unchanged at 143 1-2 and Studebaker sold off 1-8 to 44 3-8.

Heavy accumulation of the oil shares took place despite the increase shown in crude oil production for the week ended Feb. 21. The Pan-American issues led the advance, each closing more than two points higher.

Associated Dry Goods soared 12 1-2 points to a record top at 192 1-2 and then cancelled 3 points of its gain. Other outstanding strong spots included American Locomotive, Atlantic, Gulf and West Indies, Savage Arms, Sears-Roebuck, United States Industrial Alcohol, United States Cast Iron Pipe, Allis Chalmers, American Car and Foundry, The Commercial Solvents issues, Crucible Steel, Mathieson Alkali, Remington Typewriter and Tidewater Oil, all of which closed from 2 to 6 1-2 points higher.

Rails failed to participate in the advance as extensively as the industrials, but exceptionally good buying was noted in New York, Ontario and Western which closed more than two points higher at 25. St. Paul issues rallied about a point each on publication of an unusually favorable January earnings report.

Call money opened at 4 1-4 per cent and then advanced to 4 1-3. Time money rates were somewhat firmer with little money offered below 4 per cent. Foreign exchange rates held relatively steady until late in the day when the raising of the rediscount rate brought about heavy selling of sterling, which dropped more than a cent to below $4.74 1-2. French francs were quoted around 5.17 cents, and the other continental currencies showed only nominal changes.

WHAT THE PAPERS SAY

[From The Norwich Bulletin, February 23, 1925]

WILL CLOSE OUT BUSINESS OF THE F. A. WELLS CO.

When one has spent all the working days and hours of over 50 years in meeting the multitudinous requirements that go towards establishing and maintaining a successful business at the present day, he is entitled to the rest that comes with retirement among congenial surroundings, remarked Will L. Stearns, in speaking of his intention to close out the business of The F. A. Wells Co., men's and boys' clothiers, at 54 Main street.

Since 1868 this well known clothing house has occupied this same location and the Wells name has come to be a household name in every hamlet throughout New London and Windham counties. In that year the business was established by Frank A. Wells, under the name of F. A. Wells & Co., in connection with the Foster combination of clothiers, and was conducted by Mr. Wells until his death in 1894. Upon the death of Mr. Wells the business was taken over by Mr. Stearns and conducted as a partnership with Mrs. Wells until 1904, when Mr. Stearns bought out her interest and since then has conducted it as sole owner.

Mr. Stearns entered the clothing business with his father in Winchendon, Mass., in 1872 and six years later went to work for M. C. Swift & Son in New Bedford, Mass. In 1879 he came to Norwich where he conducted the Boston and Norwich Clothing Co. in the Beckwith building on Main street until 1894 when he took an interest in the F. A. Wells Co., upon the death of Mr. Wells.

The progress and growth of the business under his ownership and management have evidenced his intimate knowledge of the men's clothing trade, his wise discrimination and foresight in meeting each new development and his determination to extend every courtesy and accommodation for the needs of his patrons, foundation stones upon which he has built up an enviable success through the years. The Wells name has been a quality mark that has been a synonym for satisfaction wherever it was known.

When questioned as to his plans for the future, Mr. Stearns replied that the better part of his days have been spent in Norwich, his friends are here and he feels as if this is where he wants to stay and he believes Norwich will continue to be his home. It will be a source of great satisfaction to his many friends that Mr. Stearns will continue to be a member of the community even though he is withdrawing from the business life in which he has for so long borne an active and honored place.

F. A. WELLS CLOTHING STORE IS GOING OUT OF BUSINESS

Norwich Institution Serving Two Generations Will Be Wound Up.

Confirming the rumor published Saturday, which created widespread interest in local business circles, it is now definitely announced that the F. A. Wells Company, one of the oldest business houses in Norwich and long known as "The Good Clothes Store," will shortly go out of business. This marks a notable event in the clothing trade of Eastern Connecticut and the announcement will cause general regret.

For nearly two generations the F. A. Wells clothing store has catered faithfully and successfully to the clothing needs of this section and during that long period has built up a most enviable reputation for square dealing of which it is naturally proud. Established in 1868 by the late Frank A. Wells, the store was conducted by him for 26 years until his death in March, 1894. At that time W. L. Stearns bought an interest from Mrs. Wells and continued the business with her until 1904, when he bought her interest and has until the present time conducted the store alone under the time honored name of The F. A. Wells Company.

Mr. Stearns is today one of the oldest and most experienced clothing merchants in the New England trade, having been engaged in it continuously for over 53 years. Entering the clothing store of his father in Winchendon, Mass., in September, 1872, he was associated with the latter for several years. Then he was for a year in the employ of M. C. Swift & Son in New Bedford, Mass. From there he came to Norwich in 1879, when he took charge of the Boston and Norwich Clothing Company, continuing in that capacity until in 1894 he bought an interest in the F. A. Wells store, which he has thus conducted for the past 31 years.

Catering to a high class of trade and handling reliable quality clothes, Mr. Stearns has always had the complete confidence of his many patrons, who will miss his painstaking service and the advice they have learned to accept and act upon without question. When he closes the store for good one of the landmarks of Norwich will go out of existence.

Short Romances of Every Day Life

An Old-Fashioned Husband

By Hazel Courtney

"I THINK it's just narrow and old-fashioned and selfish; yes selfish."

Anybody who knew Aleta Upton could have told you that when she cocked her small and very pretty head in the particular way which she did at this minute, it was a danger signal.

Her husband, pretending to read his paper at the other side of the cozy breakfast table, was aware of it. But there are times when a man must assert himself; when to retract is to acknowledge a mistake, and he was in no mood to do that.

"You can call it what you like, but it doesn't alter my opinion. Waldo Hatch's wife or Sam Fiske's may do what they like, but I most particularly object to seeing my wife going about the city decked out like an Indian idol. Besides, they make you look anywhere from five to sixteen years older."

With which poisoned shaft Ralph Upton chose to consider the subject closed and with an air of superiority he was far from feeling, he bent over Aleta's chair for the customary salute before leaving for his office.

Aleta lifted a nonchalent cheek.

"Bye, Cutest," he said, airily.

"Good-bye," responded Aleta, coolly.

A telephone call from May Hatch caught her while the defiant mood still held sway, and she gave ready response to the invitation it brought. An all-day jaunt in May's luxurious limousine with three other women all in holiday mood and with bulging pocketbooks whose fastenings were never long closed. At another time Aleta might have hesitated, in remembrance of Ralph's expressed disapproval of these too up-to-date young matrons. But not today.

"Put on your million-dollar look, Aleta," May said, "and leave your check book at home. This is on Waldo. It's my natal day. The day we celebrate."

After a few moments of laughing argument, Aleta agreed to make one of the party, and in a state of excitement which borrowed something from the disagreement at breakfast, began her toilet.

Evidently from May's admonition they were to lunch where their appearance would be calculated to make an impression and Aleta's mind was soon given over to a question of hats, shoes, etc. She selected a dark blue crepe de chine gown, modish and chic.

Of course her fur coat, an excellent black muskrat, would be necessary, as the weather was still sharp, and she finally decided on a close gray feather turban, which set coquettishly on her dark, carefully marcelled hair; a pair of gray suede shoes, lately acquired and "very snappy," Lou Fiske had told her; and then she stood, hesitant and rebellious, facing the subject which had wrecked Ralph's and her peace of mind, not only that morning, but on several other occasions.

Ralph Upton had a deep-rooted hatred for the present fashion of earrings. Aleta was crazy about them, as were most of her women friends, and liked herself in them. She had squandered a reckless part of her allowance on them. To avoid friction she had been wearing them on the sly. That is, she put them on after Ralph had gone to the office, and was careful to get them into her jewel case before his return.

Her latest acquisition had been a pair of antique corals, very long and conspicuous in design, and the argument at breakfast had been caused by the remark of a man on the street to Ralph, which incensed that young man to the point of csarism.

"When it comes to my wife dressing in a way that makes a man compare her to a famous public character, I draw the line. I forbid you to wear those relics of barbarism outside the street door!" Thus had the husband spoken.

"What did he actually say, dear!" cooed Aleta.

"He said he saw my wife in a pair of red ear-rings that must have set me back a month's income, and that when he first caught sight of you he thought it was Rita Farondell, the movie star; hang him!"

"He might have said something much worse than that," murmured Aleta, secretly flattered.

"Luckily he didn't," growled Ralph. And the conversation had ended with Aleta's chilly good-bye.

Should she assert her independence and dress as she knew the others of the party would? Or should she yield wifely obedience and leave the trinkets in their velvet case?

Her indecision ended in her nipping on to her pretty ears the innocent and offending corals. Ralph would never know, and far better wear them than explain to four high spirited women the cause of her first appearance in weeks without them, she argued. And, of course, the last thing in the world that Aleta could be expected to know was that May Hatch's plan included lunch at the Bancroft, where only four tables away would be seated her Ralph, summoned there by a prospective customer.

But that was what happened.

May Hatch effusive and jolly, and Lou Fiske, studiously vampish, beckoned him to their table. Aleta wondered if she could sneak the "red earrings" into her handbag before he saw them. But Ralph's courteous bow, which overlooked her companion's gestures, told her only too surely that he had seen and silently condemned her.

She felt indignant and hurt. What right had he to constitute himself her accuser and judge? And all for a harmless fad! She'd show him what she thought about it. She'd be as reckless and daredevil as the gayest of them, and she hoped the man with Ralph would notice her and make some other annoying remark.

This was all very well until Aleta reached home, a little after 7 o'clock, and found not Ralph, but a message from him merely stating that he was entertaining someone from out of town. Her anger had burnt itself out and was succeeded by a paroxysm of self-condemnation. After all, which was the selfish one? Ralph loaded her with proofs of his affection and pride in her, and in nothing had ever before sought to curtail her liberty. If, for some queer reason, it offended him to see her wear ear-rings, couldn't she lay aside that much of her vanity? Of course she could, dear old Ralph. And do it in a way to score, too. "Cutest" was his pet name for her. Perhaps she would be able to justify it.

She wrapped up the offending gewgaws in separate boxes, then in one large package, placed it on his smoking table topped with the following verses:

O, memories that blast and burn
Of words much better left unsaid—
How is it you my wishes so can spurn?
You never did such things—before we wed.

Aleta didn't hear Ralph come in and was sleeping when he left for town in the morning. About noon he telephoned her to meet him at 5 o'clock at the office to dine and go to the theater.

His greeting was laconic. "You win!" he declared, tossing a small box into her hands. "That man I had with me yesterday asked me who you were and when he left last night he gave me that, 'for the prettiest woman he'd seen since he came East.' You might as well put them on."

Aleta opened the box and lifted to the light a pair of exquisite jade earrings.

With Light Denied

By Joella Johnson

SLOWLY the bandage was unwound. Elizabeth's heart thumped loudly. Out of the shrouding blackness objects began to unfold themselves. That loving face with dumb anxiety written in every fine wrinkle was—unmistakably—the face of the mother she had never seen. And the kindly stranger who held her hand was, of course, Dr. Harvey Whitehill, the famous young surgeon. She stared at them for a long, trembling interval, and bent her head weeping.

"I can see!" she said. "Oh, how wonderful it is to see!"

Two years later, Dr. Harvey Whitehill, after a strenuous day in the office, found a girl cuddled in a corner of his library sofa, a lovely and graceful girl, who smiled and dimpled with mischievous delight.

The doctor's tired eyes brightened. "Elizabeth! What a delightful surprise!"

"I have to come in every once in a while to tell you how happy I am," explained Elizabeth.

"If you are as happy as you look—"

"Far, far happier."

He seated himself beside her. "Some tales I hear about you! Leading lady of the newest comic opera! But who could resist such a glorious voice—and such a glorious girl!"

"I have such a lot to tell you, Dr. Harvey. My new opera opens tonight, and promises to make me rich and famous. I have procured a delightful little apartment for mother and myself, and some gowns that are perfect dreams. Last, but not least, three perfectly charming gentlemen have asked me to marry them."

"Throw them all over and marry me," suggested the doctor.

Tears came into Elizabeth's eyes. "If I found it possible to sacrifice one bit of my beautiful new existence, doctor dear, it would be for you. But I'm very, very selfish, I'm afraid. My sole desire is to live—and to forget—the darkness from which you liberated me."

"Child, I want nothing that you can not give freely—and gladly. Have your fill of light and laughter and sunshine; only give me a thought now and then, will you?"

Elizabeth drew his hand to her lips. "A thought, did you say? You and mother are the two I first opened my eyes upon. Every object—every new thing of beauty that my eyes behold reminds me of the debt I owe you."

The surgeon pondered her words long after she was gone. "Patience! Patience!" he repeated over and over to himself. "Her mind is still dazed with the light denied so many years. A little time! A little more time!"

"You certainly created a sensation, Elizabeth," said Mr. George Barrows, soberly, the following night across the restaurant table at which they sat. I'm sorry you made such a hit."

Elizabeth's eyes, brilliant with excitement, widened. "And I thought you'd be glad!"

"A famous operatic star will never marry me."

She smiled wistfully. "If I did people would say I was marrying you for your money."

"I wouldn't care—and I'd try to make you happy. Don't you think you could love me a little, Elizabeth?"

Elizabeth's hand, light as thistledown, touched his sleeve. "Dear Georgie Porgie!" she said, softly. "Most of the things we want are bad for us. I would be bad for you."

"You couldn't be. You—you are wonderful, Elizabeth. I feel very small and humble before you."

Elizabeth was touched. Barrows was gazing at her, his soul in his eyes. Perhaps—perhaps—

A buzz arose in the room, and the sound of a newsboy shrieking. The buzz grew louder. Barrows asked a passing waiter what the trouble was.

"An accident, sir. Several people killed. Doctor Whitehill, the eye-specialist—"

"Doctor Whitehill!" Elizabeth arose, white and shaking. "Killed! Oh, my dear, dear, Doctor Harvey! Take me to him, George, quick, oh, quick!"

Barrows guided her to his machine. "I didn't know—I didn't think—"

A Japanese servant admitted them to the doctor's apartment. They had barely time to look around before the doctor appeared, a look of pleased astonishment on his face as he saw Elizabeth.

"My dear girl! What is the trouble? Are you ill?"

Elizabeth jumped into his arms with a sobbing cry. "Dear doctor, —to be with you—sustain you, so that you can bring light to others—as you brought it to me. So, you stupid darling," dashing a few tears away, "don't talk so much. You can't get rid of me. You had better go out and find somebody to marry us."

"If you please," said the depressed and forgotten George Barrows, "my auto waits outside. Since I can't serve in any other capacity, will you allow me to be your chauffeur, or perchance your best man, as you may need one tonight?"

"Poor Georgie Porgie!" said Elizabeth. "Harvey, meet the dearest man in the world, next to you. If I didn't love you so much I certainly would have married him."

The two men shook hands heartily, after which the three went forth into the night in search of a marriage license and a minister.

"Am I good enough for you?" sighed the fond lover.

"No," said the girl, candidly, "you're not, but you are too good for any other girl."

Seventy Times Seven

By Monte Darrell

DONALD WAYNE, JR., specially privileged, was on the porch with mother-dear and daddy. Somehow his eyes were beginning to feel as if there was sand in them. His head nodded. He glanced around quickly. Daddy didn't notice, Mother-dear sent him a quick smile. He wondered sleepily if the sorry look was still in her eyes. Probably not. Daddy was home now.

When his eyes could no longer stay open, Barbara Wayne took her small son up to bed. She undressed him, heard his sleepy prayers and tucked him in. For a while she remained on her knees, gazing down at her son—hers and Don's. She dropped a kiss on the baby neck. Donald stirred. Throwing his arm across his mother's neck he murmured sleepily.

"Night, Lilac Eyes—daddy's and Don's."

Lilac Eyes. How like Donald to seize on that lover-term of his father's, keep it in the back of his little brain and give it out unexpectedly. A sentence from the club paper flashed across her brain. "Do lovers make good husbands?" Her smile was bitter-sweet.

It was too late to return downstairs. She snapped on the night-light in the hall and entered her own room. Preparing herself for bed, in the cooling darkness, she visualized what would take place later after Don, tired of smoking and sulking in the dark, came upstairs. He would go to his own room, wander around, aimlessly opening and shutting drawers, start for her room, think better of it, and go back. Then his voice, studiedly offhand, "Oh, Barbara—"

"Yes, dear," hers in answer. He would come in halting just on the threshold. There would glimmer a ghost of a smile and, bridging the distance between them, he would drop on his knees by her side, burying his head, boy-fashion, in her lap. Donald had that trick, too. A while and her fingers of their own volition would commence their accustomed caressing of the crisp hair and, lips smiling over the ache in her throat, she would drop a light kiss on the bent head—but not this time, not this time. She was tired, tired. Tired of being sane and balanced, of being the cool, sensible chum, of assuaging Don's hurt egotism.

Negligee-clad, she crossed to the open window. Below a match flared. Don was smoking too much. A word of caution rose to her lips. She bit it back. She was tired taking care of people. She wanted desperately to rest, to let someone take care of her. She wasn't strong. She was a woman, tired and lonely.

"Brilliant, magnetic, but unstable as water," old Judge Levy had pronounced him. "His kind never makes a woman happy, Barbara."

But Barbara, serene in the consciousness of Don's love, confident that she could hold it, had gone her way. That was six years ago, and now—

Yet Don, the impressionable, the ardent worshipper of beauty in any form, the extremist, whose moods varied from irresponsible gayety to deep despair, from days of feverish work to days of careless truancy, from reckless expenditure to cautious saving—and she always in the role of balance-wheel—Don could be tender, could be considerate.

There was the time before little Donald came, when she had been so nervous and depressed. Night after night he had held her, saying over and over bits of favorite poetry until, soothed by his voice, she had fallen asleep in his arms. She knew his infatuation for Carol Ainslee's gorgeous beauty was fast waning. Carol knew it, too. Witness her abrupt departure for the East two days previous. She knew that Don was suffering, always the first step in the reconciliation scene. She couldn't go through with it, she couldn't. He was crucifying her pride, her self-respect, her wifehood.

She rocked from side to side in her chair.

Carol Ainslee had left the stage. Now would follow a period of sackcloth and ashes, of renewed sweetness on Don's part, a second wooing. Then would come months of intensive work, gradually a slowing down, a slackness, restlessness and another Carol Ainslee. Again the gauntlet of club gossip, the discreet pity of friends tempered with a thin thread of contempt, the loser's usual portion, and her role was to go on, outwardly serene and unseeing, manage his home, entertain his friends, even his Carol Ainslees.

Why not a separation? She was still young and attractive. Surely Donald would be better off away from his father's influence and example. Even as she toyed with the idea, she rejected it. Her own words at Sally Hazard's dinner came back to her.

The crowd had been talking negligently of many things. Carol stopped in her monopoly of Donald long enough to question insolently: "What's your idea, Barbara? Has a woman the right to hold a man who no longer loves her?"

The consciousness of all eyes upon her had caused Barbara to flush as she took up the challenge.

"It isn't a question of individuals, at all. It isn't their happiness or unhappiness. It's something bigger—the home and the children. The man and woman who unite to make a home, no longer function as individuals."

She slipped to her knees, burying her face in her arms on the chair.

It was after 12. Don Wayne decided to turn in. His head ached. He felt rotten. Too many cigarettes. He went up to his own room, wandered around, aimlessly opening and shutting drawers. He started for his wifes' room; thought better of it, went back. Then his voice, studiedly off-hand. "Oh, Barbara—"

"Yes, dear," hers in answer. He halted just inside the door. There glimmered a ghost of a smile. He was on his knees at her side, his head buried in her lap. A moment while his heart seemed to stop beating, then he felt her fingers in their accustomed caress on his bent head, felt the light touch of her lips, outward signs of a love transcending all thought of pride or self.

In a Cent.

He was annoyed with the bank. They kept writing him that his balance was overdrawn and no sooner than he deposited another check and felt free to spend again would he get another notice. Well, he would change banks.

Loftily he went into the bank.

"I wish to take away my account from this bank," he said.

No one seemed to object.

"You will kindly make out a check for my balance which is now here," he added.

"Wouldn't you just as soon have it in cash?" he was asked. "You see, it amounts to exactly one cent."

"Do you collect ten cent pieces?" the gentleman inquired of the child.

"Yeth," she lisped.

"Here's one for your collection. Now how many have you?"

"One," replied the little girl.

Something For Somebody Else

By Clyde Weldon

GLORIA PHELPS was modern from the "toppest" hair of her shining red mass of bobbed curls to the soles of the two-color sport sandals on her prettily arched feet. Her father gloated in his daughter's modernness. "Shows she has a mind of her own," he always said. And, "Gloria can't ever come to any harm, for she's just like her mother."

The newly made mother had died shortly after she had given Gloria into the father's keeping. "You'll have to watch over her, dear, and she will take my place."

Mr. Phelps was at first unconsolable at losing his one pal; but, when the tiny two-weeks-old Gloria clasped his great finger in her frail little hand, and looked up at him with her mother's eyes, he found he had something very precious to live for. From that time on his daughter was his only passion. Her slightest whim was granted.

And, it is no wonder that Gloria thought the world was made just for her. At times, she was all tenderness and consideration, which showed her mother peeping out in her;" but these moods were few. There was seldom opportunity for Gloria to be other than a selfish little creature, for her father delighted in having her ways his ways, and for 19 years the daughter had full say in all matters.

Small wonder that she resented the interference of her father's new secretary. He, one Brandon Cort, had been in their employ only two weeks, when he positively forbade Gloria to intrude upon her father during the hours of 11 to 2. This was a bombshell, and when Mr. Cort started to take her father on business trips, without even consulting Gloria, the little sparks of resentment were fanned into flames of intense dislike. Some day she would put this man in his proper place!

Then one Summer Mr. Phelps' interests in London took an alarming turn, and it was necessary that he go over there at once. Gloria, her old nurse, Nanette, and Mr. Cort were to accompany him. Just the day before they were to start, Gloria rushed into the forbidden room.

"Where is my father, Mr. Cort?"

"He is out of town, Miss Phelps, and will not return until late tonight."

"Oh, bother! I did so want to see him. Well, you'll just have to cancel our passages, and get new ones for a week from tomorrow."

"And why?"

"Because my two new evening dresses will not be ready until next Thursday, and I shan't leave without them."

"Miss Phelps, I think you are the most selfish, self-centered girl I've ever known. If your father does not leave tomorrow, he will lose a great deal of money and, what is more, the respect and confidence of his men in London. That is not worth satisfying the foolish whim of a girl like you. We sail tomorrow, with or without you."

Gloria's only answer was a loud bang of the door, and the quick patter of heels up the hall. "She could be such a sweet woman with the proper training," thought Brandon to himself. "But how she does flare up!" He whistled, and smiled, then busied himself at his work.

Next morning Gloria, with Nanette, appeared all ready for the voyage, and nothing was said of the interview of the day before.

"Wonder what trump card she has up her sleeve," thought Brandon.

Mr. Phelps took to his stateroom immediately, and Gloria was left to the mercies of Mr. Cort. He proved to be an excellent sailing partner, and saw that Gloria wanted for nothing. At times he was as tender and as anxious to gratify her every wish as her father would have been.

"He really is human, after all," was Gloria's explanation of the change in his manner toward her.

"Well, I'll bury the hatchet for the time being," she confided to Nanette, "but I'll fix him yet."

But the fourth day out Gloria became dreadfully ill. Each moment she grew worse, and nothing helped her. "Oh, Nanette, I know I'm going to die, and I don't want to."

"There, dear, just lie quiet. You probably won't die. Just as many get better as die." (This was a poor way to comfort Gloria, but Mr. Cort had advised Nanette not to baby the sick girl. She would enjoy life in a better way, for thinking she might lose it.)

"Nanette," whispered Gloria that evening, "I'd like to see Mr. Cort. Ask him to come in—please."

Five minutes later Brandon was looking at the most pitiful little creature he had ever seen. Gone was the glorious Gloria, and the usual shining bright eyes were dimmed with real tears. Brandon's heart suddenly did all sorts of queer things.

"Brandon," she said softly, "I'm going to die. Perhaps you'll get some satisfaction out of seeing me do something I don't want to do. You've just got to know that I've done one big thing during this playful, all-holiday life of mine. I've fallen in love with a real man. I wouldn't ever tell you, but it can't hurt anyone now. Brandon, I love you, and I've got to die."

"You little darling," crooned Brandon. "You can't die now. You mustn't leave me. I love you, too, Gloria, and I want you to live for me."

"Oh, Brandon, I am the happiest girl. And, maybe, for once, I can do something that someone else wants me to do just as much as I want to do it myself."

Brandon left, a very happy man; for though he knew that seasickness was very alarming, it was seldom fatal.

Golden Rule Revised.

A teacher said to a little girl at school:

"If a naughty girl should hurt you, like a good girl you would forgive her, wouldn't you?"

"Yes, ma'am," she replied, "if I couldn't catch her."

The retired profiteer was selecting his library.

"Will you have these books bound in Russia or Morocco, sir?" asked the dealer.

"But why," said the patron of literature, "can't you have 'em bound right here in Chicago?"

TAFTVILLE

William H. Whitehead of Boswell avenue has been a recent visitor in New Haven.

The A-o-wa-ki-ya Camp Fire Girls held their regular weekly meeting Thursday evening in the vestry of the Taftville Congregational church with the assistant guardian, Miss Elsie Heap in charge.

The bands of maskers that usually roam the village on Shrove Tuesday were not so numerous this year. Each year this old Canadian custom appears to be fading out. A few years ago, horrible masks and weird costumes held sway on the day before Lent begins, and practically all the houses in the town were visited by the revellers. The day was known at that time as Pancake Tuesday.

Edward T. Fenley of Providence, R. I., was a business caller in the village Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Ludwig Rusicki of North Third avenue have taken a house on South C street.

$7,500 SUIT ON TRIAL FOR AUTOMOBILE ACCIDENT

Before Judge Allyn L. Brown and a jury in the superior court at New London Thursday evidence for the plaintiff was heard in the suit of Frank D. Crooker of Page street extension, this city, against the Eastern Connecticut Power Co., for $7,500 damages for injuries received by Crooker in an automobile smash in this city Sept. 3, 1924, at about noon.

Crookers claim against the power company was that one of its trucks, negligently and carelessly driven by Arthur Rheaume of Montville, an employe, struck Crooker's Studebaker touring car at the corner of North Main street and Central avenue, bowling the touring car over and demolishing it, and cracking Crooker's shoulder blade, besides inflicting cuts and bruises. Crooker was driving north at the time on North Main street and was passing the flashing beacon to go up Central avenue, when the truck bore down upon him from North Main street. In the car with him were Harry McGlone, Kirk Ricketts, Miss Elizabeth Glenning and Miss Margaret Sutthill.

A plan of the location of the accident was explained by Civil Engineer George E. Pitcher, and other witnesses for the plaintiff's side were Crooker, Mr. McGlone, Mr. Ricketts and Dr. A. C. Freeman.

Evidence for the plaintiff had not been concluded when court adjourned for the day to continue the trial next Tuesday morning. Attorney C. Hadlai Hull is counsel for the plaintiff and Brown and James for the defendant.

No Appearance on "Flask-Toter" Bill.

Neither "flask-toters" nor their opponents appeared before the legislative judiciary committee at the state capitol Wednesday afternoon when a hearing was scheduled on a bill designed to prevent use of flasks at dances and in pool and billiard rooms. This bill, Senate Bill No. 458, amends the general statutes to provide for licensing of "public places where dancing is engaged in" in the same manner as pool and billiard rooms and provides that in addition to games of chance in such places being cause for revocation of the license to operate, the proprietor loses his license for "the sale to any patron of any billiard or pool or dance room or person therein, or of spirituous and intoxicating liquor therein, or the use of such billiard or pool or dance rooms for the sale of spirituous and intoxicating liquors."

THIS WOMAN'S RECOMPENSE

"I was so weak and nervous I could hardly do my housework," says Mrs. Harry Ashcroft of Covington, Ky. "I could not stand because of the bearing-down pains in my back and abdomen. One day I read how Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had helped others and decided to try it. I want to praise this wonderful medicine for the health and strength it has given me and ask other suffering women to try it." This is the one great dependable medicine for woman's ills.

NORWICH WOMAN BRINGS SUIT FOR INJURIES IN AUTO ACCIDENTS

New suits for the superior court, which are returnable in March, have been filed with the clerk of the court as follows:

Mrs. Lila Phillips Allen of Norwich sues H. E. Marquardt of Groton for $2,500 damages because of injuries received by her in an automobile accident at Groton, March 1, 1924. The plaintiff was riding in a motorcycle, when it is claimed Marquardt turned his automobile sharply to the left in front of the motorcycle without giving any signal, thereby causing the motorcycle to run into the automobile. Mrs. Allen was thrown out onto the highway, suffering concussion of the brain, bruises and other injuries, causing her to stay in bed two weeks, lose wages of about $75 for three weeks and to spend $50 in doctor's bills and for medicines.

Claims $10,000 Damages

In a suit by Charles H. Hickey of New London against the Gager-Crawford Co., a grocery firm in that city, damages of $10,000 are sought, an accounting of the profits of the corporation, delivery of two shares of stock and payment of all dividends due thereon are asked for. Hickey claims in his first count that he has never been paid for services rendered and money loaned to the value of $3,500 on or before Feb. 9, 1925. In the second count he alleges that two shares of capital stock of the company were issued to him in January 1912, and held in escrow and that his dividends thereon were restricted to 5 per cent. although the company did a prosperous business up to 1918 and dividends were paid to stockholders, up to 1918, in excess of the rate of $5 per share upon capital stock.

Three Divorce Suits

Esther Crandall Steele of New London seeks divorce from George H. Steele of Elmhurst, L. I., on the ground of his habitual intemperance for more than a year and intolerable cruelty since Jan. 1, 1921. They were married Aug. 31, 1917. She asks to have her name changed to Esther Crandall.

Alice Marshall Hayden of Groton sues for divorce from Liman H. Hayden of that town whom she married Sept. 10, 1921. She alleges intolerable cruelty since July 1923, and she asks the custody of two minor daughters.

Annabell Fox Brand of New London seeks divorce from Harold E. Brand of Groton on the ground of his unfaithfulness since Oct. 1, 1922. They were married June 5, 1913. She asks alimony and the custody of four minor children.

Sues Party Endorser

Jeremiah Twomey brings suit against Hyman Prottas, both of New London, to collect from Prottas $2,157 which it is claimed is the contributive share of Prottas to satisfy a judgment for $4,224.46, with costs of $90.44 obtained by the National Bank of Commerce against Twomey and Prottas as endorsers of a note of the Soltz Co., Twomey claims that he paid the bank the full amount of the judgment on Jan. 19, 1925, but that Prottas has not repaid his contribute part, although demand has been made upon him.

WATERFORD BEACH PARK REJECTED BY COMMITTEE

The committee on state parks and reservations of the state legislature voted on Wednesday afternoon an unfavorable report on the Troland bill which called for appropriation of $200,000 for a state park near Ocean Beach. The action by the committee, which recommends rejection of the bill, means that the bill is doomed to defeat when it is reported to the house.

Representative Troland appeared before the committee and after explaining his position with reference to the measure, suggested that it be held over until the next legislature, so as to provide time for study of the possibilities of that section as a site for a state park.

Representative J. James Floyd of Waterford and Attorney Charles E. Whittlesey of New London opposed the bill, the latter as counsel for Edward S. Harkness.

Representative Floyd filed with the committee a certified copy of the vote passed at the recent Waterford town meeting in which unalterable opposition to the proposed park was unanimously voiced by Waterford electors. The Waterford representative informed the committee that Waterford people were opposed to having the matter drag along until another legislative session and wanted to see the bill definitely disposed of so that it would not bob up again at some future time.

Representative Floyd pointed out that neither the New London Chamber of Commerce, Rotary or Lions club, nor any other civic or semi-civic organizations in the city had endorsed the bill which had met overwhelming opposition in Waterford.

He gave statistics showing the assessed valuations of the Harkness and Hammond properties which are rated as the most valuable in Waterford, and declared that passage of the bill would mean loss by Waterford of two of its largest and best taxpayers. Representative Floyd expressed the opinion that passage of the bill would conflict with the policy of the state parks commission by tying it up with a definite appropriation for a specified purpose and interfere with the proposed five-year progressive programme of the commission which contemplates state parks elsewhere in this section.

The representative from Waterford declared that other cheaper and better adapted land could be obtained in Waterford if the state park commission wanted a site in that township and he referred to the possibilities of the Gardiner property at the mouth of the Poquonoc river, Mohegan park in Montville and other possible sites, emphasizing the fact that New London county, along with the other counties, may be entitled to a state park, but that the proposed site is objectionable.

Attorney Whittlesey informed the committee that if necessary, Edward S. Harkness would bow to the will of the majority and move elsewhere. He pointed out that the property was very valuable and in his opinion the state would get more for its money by appropriating moneys for the state park commission and leaving choice of sites to that body. He asserted that the proposed bill would merely mean the grafting upon an old city beach, a new state park, with uncertain results. "In addition," said Attorney Whittlesey, "it would deprive Waterford of its largest taxpayer."

G. A. Parker of the state park commission then informed the committee that the commission does not approve of the proposed park site adjacent to Ocean Beach.

The committee went into executive session after the meeting and voted to reject the bill.

NIANTIC CAMP DATES FOR SUMMER TRAINING

The schedule of dates for 15 days' field training this summer for the federalized national guard units of Connecticut is made known in adjutant general's orders, having been approved by the commanding general, 1st Corps Area.

The staff corps and departments will train at Niantic as ordered previously, the 118th Medical regiment will encamp at Niantic July 18-August 2 together with the 102d Infantry; the Headquarters Company, 43d Division, 118th Motorcycle Company, 85th Infantry Brigade, will go to Niantic from July 11-25 inclusive and the 169th Infantry will occupy the Niantic camp from July 5-19.

The 118th Observation Squadron will go to Mitchel Field, L. C. Wright, New York, from August 16-30 inclusive and the 1st Squadron Cavalry will engage in a practice march from August 8-22 inclusive.

Bobbed hair is shown on a wall painting in an English parish church which was built in 1380. The picture is reputed to be as old as the church.

TUBERCULOSIS WORK FORTY YEARS AGO

The weekly bulletin issued by the state department of health has an interesting article on tuberculosis work forty years ago. The article is as follows:

This year marks the fortieth anniversary of Trudeau Sanatorium and the initiation of tuberculosis care as it is known today. This "Adirondak Cottage Sanatorium" the first word in scientific treatment of tuberculosis patients developed as a result of the broad vision, deep sympathy and sound principles of the man whose name it bears.

Dr. Edward L. Trudeau, forced into a backwoods country practice through his own ill health, was destined to become one of the great leaders. In these early days little hope was offered to those with tuberculosis. Advanced cases came and were cared for at this small place established by Trudeau high up in the mountains. Here was offered treatment and care, which was in these early days, largely a life in the open and hygienic living.

Always in the mind of the leader was the hope that a cure would be found. His scientific mind searched for the evidence, and when he heard that Koch had discovered the tubercle bacillus he rushed to the medical school in New York to learn more about it. He found still much skepticism in the germ theory of tuberculosis, but one medical man with an open mind took him into his laboratory and there they studied the bacillus under staining methods. Back at his sanatorium Trudeau established a laboratory where research could be carried on to the end that treatment of tuberculosis might be put on a more scientific basis.

Meanwhile, his prescriptions for tuberculosis were few. He depended on air, food and rest for the cure. He diverted the mind from disease itself by establishing occupational therapy so while the body was being restored to health, the patient was rehabilitated.

The fame of the sanatorium spread, drawing patients from all walks of life. Thirty-five hundred patients have been cared for in these forty years, many of them professional people—doctors, nurses, teachers who, while there as convalescents, have had an opportunity to study the methods, carry on some research work, and make this their standard for tuberculosis work elsewhere.

In 1912 a training school for nurses was started. Appreciating the fact that medical schools could give little time to the training of students in modern tuberculosis work, training courses were offered to physicians, 212 of whom have taken advantage of this opportunity to train for future tuberculosis work. From this group have come many of the present leaders.

Tuberculosis work has advanced rapidly in forty years largely as a result of the impetus given to it in these early days. Prevention is now the key note and the basic principles of Trudeau, fresh air, rest and food are still the watch word, added to which is "an early diagnosis." This is in line with the present policy to "have a yearly health examination" which has been accepted the country over as a health measure.

FORECLOSURE SUIT ON PROPERTY IN COLCHESTER

A foreclosure suit in two counts against the M. C. Leather Corporation of 35 Nassau street, New York City, has been brought by The Financial Guild, Inc., of New York, to collect mortgages totalling $17,500 on land in Colchester. The papers were filed on Thursday with the clerk of the superior court, the suits being returnable in March.

On the first count the suit is brought on a mortgage given for $15,000 Sept. 15, 1921 by the Columbia Kid Leather Co., to David Melnick of New York and the second count is on a mortgage for $2,500 given originally to Morris Schuster of New York. The Columbia Kid Leather Co., subsequently went into bankruptcy and its interest in the property was transferred to the M. C. Leather Co., which with the Colchester Leather Novelty Co., is now in possession of the premises. A mechanic's lien for $3,988.09 is claimed by the Willimantic Lumber Co., and two mechanic's liens for $1,200 each by Julius Wallack and Stanley Rybitsky of Colchester.

Noon Luncheon Meetings at Y. M. C. A.

The first of a series of noon luncheon meetings during the Lenten period will be held at the local Y. M. C. A. this (Friday) noon from twelve to one o'clock. Dr. J. Romeyn Danforth the popular speaker of New London will conduct the series, the general topic of which is "Fire Lights of Faith." Lunch will be served promptly at twelve and the meeting will close promptly at one o'clock.

Workmen's Compensation.

Workmen's compensation agreements have been approved as follows by Commissioner J. J. Donohue:

Aspinook Co., Jewett City, employer, and Henry Hoyt, employe, strained right arm, at rate of $10.26.

United States Finishing Co., Norwich, employer, and Joseph Carroll, 146 Prospect street, employe, fracture left great toe, at rate of $10.35.

WARNS TUBERCULOSIS PATIENTS AGAINST ALLEGED CURE

The world has been waiting for a specific cure for tuberculosis for half a century, says the weekly bulletin issued by the state department of health. At various times announcements of alleged cures have been made only to raise false hopes as scientific investigation has failed to substantiate the proof. So with sanocrysin, recently announced as a cure by Professor Holger Mallgaard of Copenhagen, Denmark. The national tuberculosis association through its managing director, Linsley R. Williams, M. D., has now issued the statement that this drug has not proven to be the cure which is claimed for it, and tuberculosis patients should not raise false hopes.

Before making this statement, Dr. evidence on sancrysin as presented in evidence on sancorysin as presented in Professor Malgaard's book. The drug sanocrysin is a combination of gold and sulphur salts, technically known as gold-sodium-thio-sulphate. Used on animals with tuberculosis it was an extremely dangerous drug, producing fatal results in many cases. A serum was then prepared from animals previously treated with dead tubercle bacilli, and used to counteract the effect of the drug. This met with success but it should be understood that the favorable results reported were due not to the drug alone, but to the combined use of the serum with the gold salt.

In order to protect the public, the claims made for sanocrysin are being studied by the Hygienic Laboratory of the U. S. Health Service, who now require a license for the use of this drug in interstate commerce. Coincident with this study similar experiments are being conducted by several leading medical men and scientists named by the Medical Research Committee of the National Tuberculosis Association. These investigations will continue for several months, and if the results with animals seem to justify its use with human beings, further experiments will be conducted on tuberculosis patients under the supervision of the Danish physicians. Meanwhile the use of sanocrysin in the United States is practically prohibited.

A warning note is sounded to tuberculosis patients that there is serious danger in the use of sanocrysin, and, for the present at least, they should continue to pin their faith in treatment by rest, food and fresh air under competent medical direction.

LIONS CLUB ADOPTS SCHEDULE OF ENTERTAINMENT

The weekly meeting of the Norwich Lions club was held Thursday noon at the Wauregan house, President Carpenter in charge and with Tail-Twister Rinella as song leader. A number of guests were entertained, among them being J. Warren Kane, who favored with several vocal numbers.

There was considerable discussion by numerous members relative to entertainment programmes for each meeting and the following schedule for the March meetings was announced by Lion John Barry of the entertainment committee: March 5—Current topic speaker, Max Hanover; song leader, Fred Watson. March 12 — Current topic speaker, Koppie Markoff; song leader, George Madden. March 19 — Current topic speaker, Louis Fontaine; song leader, Doc Thompson. March 26 — Current topic speaker, J. B. Caron; song leader, Bill O'Neil.

Mrs. Edwin W. Higgins appeared and spoke in behalf of two Lenten sacred concerts to be given at the Palace theatre for the benefit of the new dormitory at the Connecticut college. She also stated that a third concert may be arranged if desired. In her brief talk Mrs. Higgins stressed the need of additional dormitories to accommodate students at the college and explained that the present drive, started in 1914, and held up by the war, was now being pushed vigorously ahead towards a happy termination.

"Doc" Thompson, in charge of the Lions bowling team said that a game had been arranged with New London for March 5th, a return game to be played in Norwich in April.

The meeting closed with the singing of the Star Spangled Banner and the salute to the flag.

THIEVES GET INTO GARDNER LAKE COTTAGES

The cottages of C. V. Pendleton and Perry H. Corning on the east shore of Gardner Lake were broken into within the past few days, the cottages ransacked and guns, knives, field glasses and other useful articles taken by the burglars.

Mr. Pendleton learned of the break Thursday morning and went to the lake with Mr. Corning and a state policeman to investigate.

These breaks only add to the string of breaks that have been made at the lake shore cottages this winter. Cottages on the south shore owned by Mrs. Archibald Mitchell and Dr. J. J. Donohue were entered several months ago and articles stolen, while Arthur C. Brown lost a new boat motor, stolen from the pavilion on the lake shore.

It is presumed that the breaks are by some persons living in that section but as the cottages are closed and no one is about, it has been difficult to apprehend the guilty parties.

CHIEF OCCUM SPEAKS TO NIANTIC RANGERS

Wednesday was a red letter day in the life of the Sioux tribe of the Boy Rangers of America of Niantic in that they were able to have Chief Occum, the last of the Mohegans, sit at their council fire.

Lemuel Fielding of Norwich, Chief Occum of the Mohegans, came in costume and wearing a headdress which was made over 100 years ago.

Chief Occum gave a most interesting account of how many of the places in Connecticut came by their Indian names as well as other well known places throughout the United States. The Rangers were delighted when the big chief showed them how to give a real Indian yell. At the close of his discourse Chief Occum recited some original poetry and sang a song of his own composition.

Thomas Girking, first chief of the Rangers, was highly complimented by Chief Occum for the Indian poster he painted. The meeting closed with the Ranger yell, led by William Brockett.

Cause of Piles

Dr. Leonhardt found the cause of piles to be internal. That's why salves and operations fail to give lasting relief. His prescriptions, Hemroid, a harmless tablet, removes the cause. Money back if it fails. Ask Lee & Osgood Co. or any good druggist for Dr. Leonhardt's Hemroid.

CONSIDERABLE LEGISLATIVE BUSINESS CLEARED UP AT YESTERDAY'S SESSION

(Special to The Bulletin)

Hartford, Feb. 26.—It was again made evident today that a halt has been called on the movement to place any old road in the trunk line system and thus relieve the towns of all expense of maintenance. All bills reported today were rejected on recommendation of the committee on roads, bridges and rivers.

The committee on state parks and reservations made favorable report on Representative Sullivan's bill placing Fort Shantok in the state park system and it was sent to the appropriations committee as it provides for an appropriation of $15,000.

H. B. 195 introduced by Mr. Tracy of Canaan concerning the powers and duties of the tax commissioner is slated for a rough passage in the house. On Wednesday, Bell of Salisbury denounced it as a dangerous and drastic measure and it was tabled, to retain its place on the calendar. Today it was taken up and again tabled and placed at the foot of the calendar.

The bill is calling for a good deal of discussion. The bill after providing for the appointment of a commissioner, further provides that in the performance of his duties he shall have the power to administer oaths. The tax commissioner, by himself, or by an agent whom he may appoint, shall visit the towns in this state and inquire into the manner in which the laws relating to listing and assessing taxable property there in are executed by the assessors and board of relief, and whether all persons and property taxable in such towns are in fact justly assessed and taxed; whether all taxes which are due and collectible are in fact collected and paid to the treasurer in the manner prescribed by law; whether accounts and records of collectors and treasurers are adequate and properly kept; and whether tax exemptions on property are granted in the manner and only to the extent required by the general statutes; and, for the purpose of such inquiry is being made before him to examine him under oath, and for such purpose he may compel the attendance before him of any such witness and the production of books and paper by subpoena. No such witness shall be excused from testifying or from producing books or papers on the ground that such testimony or the production of such books or papers will tend to incriminate him, but such evidence or production of books or papers shall not be used in any criminal proceedings against him. If any person shall disobey such process or, having appeared in obedience thereto, shall refuse to answer any question put to him by said commissioner, said commissioner may apply to the superior court or to a judge of said court if the same shall not be in session, setting forth such disobedience to process or refusal to answer, and said court or such judge, as the case may be, thereupon shall cite such person to appear before him and shall inquire into the facts set forth in such application and, upon finding the allegations in such application to be true shall commit such person to jail for a term of not more than 60 days or until he shall comply with the provisions of this act. If the commissioners shall ascertain that the assessors or board of relief or any official charged with any of the duties imposed on assessors or board of relief, or the tax collector, treasurer or any official authorized to fix a rate of tax in any town, city or borough, shall fail to discharge his duty, according to law, said commissioner may in writing call such failure to the attention of such board, member thereof or official failing to perform its or his duties. If such board or official shall fail to comply thereafter with the law with respect to which attention shall have been so called in writing, the commissioner may apply to the superior court in the county wherein such board or official shall have jurisdiction, or, in case the superior court shall not be in session, to a judge thereof, setting forth such failure and the judge or court, as the case may be, upon ascertaining the facts stated in such application to be true, shall issue an order in the nature of a mandamus requiring compliance with the provisions of the statute particularly mentioned in such application, and shall render judgment against any official, board or person who shall have so failed, with costs, as in mandamus proceedings. Any person who shall fail to comply with any order so issued shall be in contempt, and said court or such judge may punish therefor as in mandamus proceedings. Any person claiming to be aggrieved by any order issued by the authority of the provisions of this act shall have the same right of appeal to the supreme court of errors as in mandamus cases.

The House

The house was called to order at 11.30 by Speaker Darbie and prayer was offered by Chaplain Lewis. A favorable report was made on H. B. 773 providing that the city of New London may use the money now on hand received from the sale of the junior high school bonds for the purpose of building and equipping schools within the city.

Fish and game committee reported favorably on H. B. 570, concerning fraudulent applications for fish, fry or fingerlings; also H. B. 784, concerning use of seines in ponds and streams.

H. B. 567, reimbursing the town of East Hartford for money paid for physical examination of children and H. B. 540 providing payment to the town East Haven were recommended by the claims committee.

H. B. 115 which was tabled yesterday was considered and again tabled and placed at the foot of the calendar. Bills that would make payment to Tracy Bros., of Waterbury for loss on contracts and to the Bradley Home were on recommendation of committee on claims rejected. Judge Storrs remarked that they were "biennial bills," the Tracy bill having now been before the assembly three times.

The use of the hall of the house was voted to the fish and game committee for hearings on several bills that promises a large attendance.

To the committee on labor for hearing on March 26 and to the judiciary for hearings on the medical practice act on March 24th.

Several bills, placing certain roads in the "Trunk Line system" were rejected.

Senate Bill 822, extending the time for the organization of Lordship Railway Company was sent back to the railroad committee for further consideration. At 12.05 the house adjourned to Friday at 11.30.

Senate.

Executive Secretary Kelly presented in the senate today nominations by the governor as follows:

Edwin P. Root of New Haven, Morgan B. Brainard of Hartford and Isidore Wise of Hartford to be directors of the state prison each for four years from July 1, 1925.

Robbins B. Stoeckel of Norfolk to be commissioner of motor vehicles for four years from June 1, 1925.

Joseph W. Alsop of Avon to be a member of the public utilities commission for six years from July 1, 1925.

William H. Blodgett of Winchester to be tax commissioner for four years from July 1, 1925.

The nominations were referred to the committee on executive nominations.

The committee on incorporations reported unfavorably on the bill incorporating the Plymouth Memorial hospital in the town of Plymouth. The bill was rejected.

The bill providing for the payment of $10 to the state chemist for each analysis was referred to the committee on appropriations.

The senate reconsidered its action in accepting the unfavorable report of the committee on roads, rivers and bridges on house bill 306 relating to the reimbursement of towns for money spent on trunk roads, and tabled the bill.

The committee on the judiciary reported a bill requiring the board of pardons to hold sessions at Hartford or Wethersfield on the first Monday of May and November in each year, and that the board shall appoint a clerk. Tabled for calendar.

The committee on the judiciary reported unfavorably on the bill concerning the commitment of idiotic and demented children. The bill was rejected.

Medical Ad Bill Killed.

The committee on the judiciary reported unfavorably on senate bill 427 to prohibit the advertising of any proprietary or patent medicine in this state by the manufacturers of the medicines. Senator Cronin said that no one appeared for the bill and there was strong opposition to it. The statement was made that the substance of the bill was contained in the general medical practice act which was before the general assembly. The bill was rejected.

The finance committee reported unfavorably on the bill concerning bond issues for the purchase of state land and the construction of state buildings. The bill was rejected.

Unfavorable reports were received from the committee on the judiciary on bills concerning delegates to political conventions, to prevent public officials from holding more than one salaried office, and to prevent fraud in the promotion or sale of stocks, bonds or other securities. The bills were rejected.

The committee on finance reported favorably on a substitute bill providing that the chairman of the state board of finance and the bank commissioner shall act with the treasurer in the investment of state trust funds and the treasurer shall report each investment to the board of control.

Unfavorable reports were received from the committee on roads, bridges and rivers on the following bills: Concerning long haul certificates for motor vehicles; concerning motor vehicles; affecting the service of public motor vehicles; concerning markers on motor vehicles; licensing public motor vehicles using state highways; requiring the insuring of automobiles.

The committee on finance reported unfavorably on the bill for a five-year financial program of state institutions. The report was tabled.

On the motion of Senator Child the bill requiring the governor to appoint, biennially, four trustees of the Connecticut Agricultural college was taken from the table and passed.

The senate adjourned to Friday at 11.15.

SEVERAL BILLS BEFORE FISH AND GAME COMMITTEE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Hartford, Feb. 26.—Bills concerning hunters and anglers were considered by the committee on fish and game in the hall of the house this afternoon. H. B. 567 concerning forfeiture of hunters' license had no one to speak in its support; neither did anyone oppose it. H. B. 575 providing that a tag shall be worn on the arm of the hunter for the purpose of identification had neither support or opposition. H. B. 579 was in the same position. H. B. 583 that provides for increasing the hunter's license fee to $2.25 was favored by Joseph Williamson of Bridgeport and Dr. J. H. Conlon of Torrington and was opposed by William H. Fairchild of New Fairfield, also by Representative Bugbee of Lyme and Wilfred H. Dresser of Hartford. White of Stamford, president of the Stamford Fish and Game association, favored the increase in fee under conditions.

It was claimed by Supt. Titcomb of the fish and game commission that the extra money that would be obtained from increased fees was needed to provide a better warden service. The laws cannot be enforced as they should be with the present force. H. C. Applegate of Hartford favored the bill if it would improve conditions.

Other fish and game associations by their representatives also favored the bill. A rising vote of 33 favored the increase in the fee and 4 opposed it.

H. B. 586 that provides that the angler's license must be carried on the person of the angler when fishing and that anyone who assists by rowing a boat must have a license.

H. B. 797 which increases the angler's license fee to $2 with a recording fee of 25 cents was favored by a rising vote of 37 and none in opposition.

H. B. 783 that provides a combination hunting and angling license with a fee of $3.50 was favored by all with no opposition.

CLAIM PROPOSED BILLS WOULD ENDANGER HEALTH

Three bills which, according to the Connecticut Committee on Public Service Information of which many of the water companies in this state are members, would seriously impair the right of the water companies to prevent the pollution of the reservoirs from which the public drinking supply is drawn, have been introduced into the General Assembly and are now before the Judiciary Committee. The bills, according to the Utilities committee, are aimed at settling a dispute over one reservoir, yet the passage of any of them would endanger the purity of the water supply and the general health of the entire state.

The bills, House Bill No. 879, and Senate Bills Nos., 320 and 321, state specifically that no person may be prosecuted for polluting a reservoir or its tributaries unless the company supplying water from these sources has a vested interest in said reservoir, lake, pond, or stream and tributaries thereto, and has a vested interest in or otherwise controls the land or watershed adjacent thereto and within a reasonable distance therefrom."

The phrase "vested interest," has already been interpreted by the superior court to mean ownership. It is obviously impossible, the committee stated, for any water company to buy up all of the thousands of acres of land which border on the tributaries of its reservoirs, which in most cases extend miles and miles away from the reservoirs. The water companies declare that it would be impossible for them to own all of the land bordering on the tributaries and streams supplying the reservoirs. Under such conditions, they would be unable to prevent the dumping of sewage, bathing, boating, fishing or any other method of pollution in the tributaries and the sullied water would be permitted to flow into the reservoirs and eventually to the public for drinking purposes.

The death rate from typhoid fever in Connecticut during 1924 was three per 100,000 and this exceedingly low mortality rate has been accomplished under the present laws, which are no more drastic than those of other states. The passage of the bills, which as mentioned above, would affect the entire state, would permit the public water supply to become polluted, with the result that the health of the people of Connecticut would be jeopardized.

STATE POLICE WANT NAUGATUCK VALLEY POST

The state police department is planning to establish a sub-station in the Naugatuck valley, Superintendent Robert T. Hurley told the legislative committee on military affairs Wednesday at the capitol at Hartford, at a hearing on a bill providing for an increase in the personnel of the department from 80 to 110 men. Besides the headquarters at Hartford, the department has barracks at Centerbrook, Stafford Springs, Groton, Danielson, Canaan, Westport and Ridgefield. Plans for the new station are tentative, the superintendent said and its location has not been decided upon.

MOTHER ON WITNESS STAND AGAINST MRS. H. E. STORES

Identified a Picture of Her Daughter in Pajamas Astide a Man's Shoulders—Former Attorney For Mrs. Stokes Was Ordered From the Court Room For Interfering With the Judge's Attention by Talking and Laughing With Mrs. Stokes.

Chicagffe, Feb. 27.—Mrs. Emma Elwood Miller of Denver, mother of Mrs. Helen Elwood Stokes, came to her daughter's defense today in the trial of Mrs. Stokes, estrangled husband, W. E. D. Stokes, New York millionaire Stokes and three others are charged with conspiring to defame Mrs. Stokes.

Mrs. Stokes is barred by an Illinois law from taking the stand against her husband. Her mother, considered the state's star witness, gave testimony, it is understood, that otherwise would have been given by Mrs. Stokes.

Mrs. Miller unhesitatingly identified as her daughter, now Mrs. Stokes, a pajama clad girl in two photographs presented in evidence by the state. In one, the pajama-clad girl was astride the shoulders of a man.

"The girl is my daughter, Helen Elwood, now Helen Stokes," said Mrs. Miller. "The man is William Meyer, of St. Louis."

The state expects to offer Meyer as a witness early next week.

The state contends that Stokes used the photographs of Mrs. Stokes in pajamas in an effort to have them identified as taken in disreputable surroundings. Stokes, the state contends, sought to obtain affadavits that the man on whose shoulders Mrs. Stokes was perched was a negro, Wallace Tyler. The state contends he was in reality a white man and that the picture was taken at a house party.

Mrs. Miller identified a picture of a white woman holding a child on her lap as that of Mrs. Stokes and the grandson of the witness. The state contends that Stokes tried to obtain affidavits identifying the picture, agreed by counsel to be a picture of a Mrs. Stokes, as also a picture of a girl known by the itended depanents as a former inmate of the Evaleigh club, a notorious resort in Chicago 20 years ago.

Mrs. Miller then identified the same child, herself, Mrs. Stokes and a fourth person in another picture, described as a picture of four generations.

"The resemblance of the child to the other persons in this picture," said Mrs. Miller, "shows very distinctly that the child belings in the family line, and may I say that I discussed this picture with Mr. Stokes."

Mrs. Miller testified that in 1905, when Stokes is alleged to have charged Mrs. Stokes was in the Everleigh club, she went from the National Park Seminary at Washington, to Europe returning after six months to Denver, where she made her debut. Subsequently until the time of her marriage to Mr. Stokes, Mrs. Miller said, her daughter Helen was "entertaining and being entertained."

Mrs. Miller was produced by the state after it had suffered a rapid succession of reverses.

Shortly before Mrs. Miller appeared in court, Judge emmill preemptorily dismissed from the courtroom Isidor Shapiro, of New York, formerly of Mrs. Stokes' counsel in her contest of Stokes' divorce action.

The judge said later that Shapiro had been constantly talking and talking with Mrs. Stokes in such a way as to interfere with the attention of the court to the case in hand. It was previously testified that Shapiro had been suspected of tampering with witnesses.

Shapiro professed astonishment at his expulsion. He said he had no connection with the ecase, but was here on his way to California.

Edward W. Aitz, state's witness and former dteteive for Stokes was cross-examined to show the alleged good faith of the defendants, and to corroborate previous testimony that Joseph Brunee, cabman and state's witness, was taken in custody without formal charge because he declined to testify.

ALARMING EXPERIENCE ON LINER MONTLAURIER

Queenstown, Ireland, Feb. 27.—(By The A. P.)—The Canadian Pacific trans-Atlantic liner Montlaurier, with 434 passengers on board, is safely at anchor tonight in Ringabella Bay, outside the western entrance to Queenstown harbor, after an alarming experience at noon last Monday 330 miles west of Fastnet when bound for St. John, N. B., when her steering gear was seriously damaged in a violent storm and had to be lashed from starboard to port.

The crew of the steamer succeeded in arranging an auxiliary gear, but it was necessary to put back to Queenstown. Reaching the entrance of Cork harbor the auxiliary gear went askew and the ship took a bad sheer and grounded on her starboard side forward the bridge on Chicago's knoll, just inside Roches oint. The steamer remaned fast for two hours, with the Canadian Pacific tug Morsecock trytrying to help her off and two tenders standing by to take off the passengers, if such a step should be required.

Meanwhile the anchors were dropped and the captain had the vessel sounded throughout. It proved to be perfectly tight. The Montlaurier's position at first looked precarious as squally winds prevailed and the tide was falling. But after the winds abated and the tide came up again she was refloated and towed into the inner harbor.

The damage to the steamer through grounding is understood to have been trivial; but repairs to her steering gear and rudder probably will necessitate her return to Liverpool.

The passengers tonight remained aboard the Montlaurier but tomorrow together with 4,000 bags of mail, will be transferred to the steamer Montclare for the trip across the Atlantic.

The mails for Canada, Newfoundland, China and Japan will be considerably delayed.

ADRIFT IN OPEN BOAT FOR ALMOST A MONTH

Easthampton, N. Y., Feb. 27.—Adrift in the Atlantic Ocean for almost one month, three men in an open boat were rescued by the crew of the Texas Oil Company tanker Light Burne about 375 miles north of Miami, Florida, late this afternoon, according to a wireless dispatch picked up by the Independent Wireless Company's station here.

The trio, emanciated and facing starvation, are said to have been carried out from Miami by a storm. The steamer Light Burne was outward bound from Norfolk, Va., to Galveston, Texas, when she encountered the drifting boat. According to the wireless message, the men were weak but recovering aboard the vessel.

FORMER SENATOR DIED IN OBSCURE BOARDING HOUSE

Miami, Fla., Feb. 27.—James Edgar Martine, former United States senator of New Jersey, died here last Thursday night in an obscure boarding house. Knowledge of his death was not gained until 7 o'clock tonight.

He came to Miami Jan. 2, but few knew of his presence, for he lived quietly and was apparently careful not to let anyone know who he was or what he was doing in Miami.

When found in his room, former Senator Martine was in a sitting position, with his clothing partly removed. His collar and shoes were loosened, indicating that he had been resting when the end came.

DECISION FAVORS JAPANESE RESIDENTS IN CALIFORNIA

San Francisco, Feb. 27—The state supreme court in a decision today held that the treaty of 1911 between the United States and Japan is still in force and that under it Japanese residents in California can lease land in the state for residential and commercial purposes.

SLAYER OF CONCERT SINGER REMAINS CALM AND COMPOSED

New Haven, Feb. 27.—Eighteen year old Olympia Macri, who yesterday shot and killed John Bagnano, concert singer, here, was a prisoner at the county jail tonight, but no specific charge has been lodged against her as yet.

The girl was taken to the jail this afternoon after many hours of questioning by Coroner Eli Mix in which she told the coroner of Bagnano's alleged betrayal and his refusal to support her child and the events leading up to the shooting in front of the theatre here yesterday.

Miss Macri, who had been detained in a cell at police headquarters last night, appeared calm and composed and apparently unmoved by the tragedy when she faced her questioner today.

A dozen witnesses were questioned by the coroner today, including members of Miss Macri's family and of the family of the young man shot, and persons who were at the scene of the shooting.

Coroner Mix declined to make a statement at the conclusion of the investigation, except to say that the inquiry had not been completed and that other witnesses would be questioned.

PERJURY CHARGE HANGS AGAINST C. A. STONEHAM

New York, Feb. 27.—The troubles of Charles A. Stoneham, growing out of his activities in the stock market, did not end today when a federal jury acquitted him on charges of conspiracy to defraud investors through use of the mails. The baseball magnate stands under a second federal indictment in numerous suits brought by customers on his now defunct brokerage firm.

Another development in the case was the statement of District Attorney Banton, who called attention to the trial judge's remarks that there had been evidence of bucketting. Mr. Banton said he had requested the United States district attorney to send him the evidence that tender to justify Judge Winslow's remarks.

Freed with his co-defendants, Ross F. Robertson and Elmore D. Dier, Stoneman said the case was persecution.

The government charged that Stoneham and others transferred nearly $5-$00,000 in customers' accounts to E. D. Dier and Company when they knew the affairs of the latter concern were in bad condition.

BULLETIN ISSUED ON FOREST DEVELOPMENT

New Haven, Feb. 27.—In keeping pace with the steady development of forestry, Connecticut has maintained for more than twenty years a section of 100 acres in the towns of Windsor and East Granby for experimentation in forestry. The Rainbow forest plantations, as they are called, have been of considerable value to the state in the study of forestry, according to State Foresters.

In a recent bulletin, number 262, Henry W. Hickock, assistant forester at the Connecticut Agricultural experiment station, reports the progress that has been made in experiments at Rainbow plantations. This bulletin is said to be of considerable interest to commercial growers and those connected with forestry development. It will be mailed free to citizens of Connecticut.

Washington, Feb. 27—Chi Chun Hsiang, wanted on a forgery charge in New Haven, lost out on his writ of habeas corpus which the court here dismissed this afternoon and remanded Hsiang to the police court from which he was taken by detectives from New Haven and is now on the way to New Haven for trial.

CABLED PARAGRAPHS

Belgium Ratifies.

Brussels, Feb. 27—Parliament today definitely ratified the terms of the latest loan contracted in the United States.

WERE ON ANARCHISTS' LIST FOR ASSASSINATION

New York, Feb. 27.—Saying that J. P. Morgan, Charles M. Schwab and T. Coleman DuPont, as well as President Wilson, were listed for assassination by anarchist groups before the entrance of this country into the war, Ralph M. Easley, head of the National Civic federation, today confirmed and added to the revelations made public by the publication of the autobiography of Samuel Gompers.

Mr. Easley, who was named by Mr. Gompers as one of those activ in uncovering the anarchist plots, said that the plans for General DuPont's assassination in Wilmington, Del., had progressed almost to culmination before they were thwarted by the government. When anarchist leaders learned that their plans were known, they became frightened, recalled the men dispatched to commit the murder and abandoned the plots against Mr Morgan and Mr Schwab, Mr. Easley declared.

Anarchists plotted the death of President Wilson, Mr. Easley declared. He was unable to explain just what Mr. Gompers meaht in saying in his autobiography that "extreme pacifists concocted the plot to murder the president." All Mr. Easley would say of the fate of the plotters was that "the government was not long in getting hold of the leaders."

"The agent of our bureau named by Mr. Gompers as 'Garland,' of course that was not his real name, was so clever," Mr. Easley said, "that he worked his way into the employ of the Germans.

"What has become of him is not definitely known. When we last heard from him he was in Europe as a 'German agent.' We believe him dead."

COMPLAINT OF MEDDLING WITH FREE SPEECH

New York, Feb. 27—Characterizing Secretary Hughes, recent letter to Senator Borah as a "frank admission of government meddling with free speech," the American civil liberties union today made public a statement by Morris Ernst, counsel for Count Michael Karolyi, of Hungary, in connection with the action against the count by the state department.

The attorney advocated legislation obliging the state department to "keep a public record, open to inspection of all persons at all times, setting forth the names of all applicants for visas and passports.' If the passport or visa be refused, this record should show the reason for declination, he said.

Amplifying the attorney's remarks, the union issued a statement. "Six years after the end of the war," it said, "the state department, on its own admission, has resorted to a war measure to gag Count Karolyi. He is prevented not only from engaging in a political action but from political discussion as well. He is not interested in American politics and has no wish to discuss them. It is the politics of his own country that he is prevented from discussing. We thus have the spectacle of our state department muzzling a foreign visitor on behalf of a foreign government. The arbitrary action of the department in this case opens the dangerous precedent of an international alliance of certain kinds of governments for the support of free political discussion."

FRENCH AVIATORS WALK SIX DAYS IN THE DESERT

El Golea, Southern Algeria, Feb. 27—Suffering from blistered feet and thirst and virtually exhausted, the French aviators Captain Lemaitre and Lieutenant Arrachard reached here at seven o'clock Thursday night, after having walked for six days over the desert waste to negotiate the 100 miles separating this oasis from the spot on which they landed last Friday owing to lack of gasoline.

They had started from Tembuctoo early on Friday, flying northward in an attempt to reach Oran or Algiers, and, when nothing was heard of them, word was sent to the various military posts in northern Africa to search for the missing men.

The aviators reported that they were in the air last Friday for ten hours without a stop, crossing the entire Sahara Desert and the Tanesrouf district, or "land of thirst," they were forced to descend at Hoggar because their gasoline supply had given out.

IS SUFFERING FROM ALCOHOLIC POISONING

New Haven, Feb. 27—William Duggan, of 333 George Street, was found in an unconscious condition in a cell at police headquarters this morning and was taken to Grace hospital where it was found that he was suffering from alcoholic poisoning.

According to the police, Duggan appeared at headquarters last night in an intoxicated condition and asked to be arrested. He was held on a charge of drunkenness.

He was still in an unconscious condition at the hospital this afternoon but was reported tonight to show some improvement.

This is the fourth case treated at Grace hospital this week and the police tonight were taking steps to discover the source of the poisonous liquor. Plans have been made for a general clean-up of several restaurants and other places.

SEEKING SCULPTON FOR CONFEDERATE MEMORIAL

Atlanta, Ga., Feb. 27.—A special committee of the Stone Mountain Confederate Monumental Association decided at a meeting today to ask the Fine Arts commission of the United States government to recommend sculptors qualified to carry the confederate memorial at Stone Mountain to completion and to select a sculptor to succeed Gutzon Borglum, who was dismissed Wednesday.

In the meantime Sheriff J. A. McCurdy, of DeKalk county, in which Stone Mountain is located, continued to hunt Borglum and his superintendent of construction, J. G. Tucker, on warrants sworn out by the Stone Mountain Association charging them with having destroyed the models and designs for the memorial.

ART STUDENT AT PRATT INSTITUTE SUICIDED

New York, Feb. 27.—Harold J. Dodd, 32, of Providence, R. I., an art student at Pratt institute, Brooklyn, was found dead in his room here tonight with a bullet wound in his right temple and a revolver in his hand. Police announced his death a suicide.

Rep. Insurgents At Foot Of Committees

Lafollette and His Supporters are to be Treated as Though Elected on Independent Ticket.

Washington, Feb. 27—With but a single dissenting voice, the republican committee on committees took the first step today toward carrying out the organization program for the removal of Senator LaFollette, of Wisconsin and three of his chief supporters from their present ranks on the standing committees of the senate.

The four senators were asigned tentatively to places at the bottom of the committee lists as though they had been elected on an independent instead of the republican ticket. This action is subject, first, to consideration by a republican party conference, and later by the senate itself.

The action was taken over the written protest of three of the senators—Brookhart of Iowa and Ladd and Frazer, of North Dakota—in replies to letters it sent them asking whether they desired the democrats or republicans to make their committee assignments. It had received no reply frmo Senator LaFollette.

Senator Brookhart of Iowa, informed republican leaders of the senate that if the republican committee on committees did not care to assign him to places on the standing committees, he would leave the question to the senate.

By this action the Iowa senator went a step further than Senators Ladd and Frazier, North Dakota, in resisting the efforts of the party organization to give them special treatment with reference to committee assignments, together with Senator LaFollette.

Senator Frazier wrote the committee on committees that it never had been his principle to "let anyone tell me what my party affiliations should be or how I should vote and I do not intend to do so now."

Asserting that he always had registered as a republican, and had been elected as such he asked if it was "possible that the members of the republican committee on committees are so presumptious as to take it upon themselves to decide arbitrarily what the politics of the members of the senate are regardless of the facts."

While they anticipated some opposition in the party conference and in the senate, administration leaders expect to be able to carry out their program, decided upon, they say, because of the action of Senator La Follette in hearing a national ticket in opposition to President Coolidge, with the support of the other three senators.

Democratic leaders in the senate made it known that the minority would keep clear of the fight within the republican ranks and would not be disposed to throw any obstacle in the way of the majority in the reorganization of the senate at the special session called for next Wednesday.

The democratic party conference to be held early next month will select candidates for the several senate offices, but leaders said there would be no effort to arrange a coalition or understanding with the republican insurgents for support of that slate. By throwing their support to the democrats two years ago, the insurgents were able to bring about a deadlock on reorganization which lasted several weeks.

Senator McNary, of Oregon, was the only member of the republican committee on committees to voice disapproval of the removal of Senator Ladd as chairman of the public lands committee; of Senator La Follette from his place as the prospective chairman of the interstate commerce committee, and of those and the other two senators from the high rank they hold on other committee.

Some other senators of the republican "progressive," group, are expected to join with Mr. McNary in opposing favorable action by the party conference on the recommendations of the committee on committees, and they may continue their fight on the senate floor.

OFFICIALS WATCHING WITH ANXIETY HUGE ICE JAM

Ogdensburg, N. Y., Feb. 27—Canadian and American officials tonight were watching with auxiety the huge ice jam extending from the Canadian shore of the St. Lawrence to the American side just below this city.

Ice cakes broken loose from the massive field above the city were being hurled against the barrier with terrific force by a fifty mile gale. Officials found the ice had gained a height of 38 feet. The center of the huge pack rests on Chimney Island.

Steadily rising water already has reached several camps along the river and care takers were moving furniture and other property to higher ground.

Morrisburg, Ontario, reported water four feet above normal and rapidly rising. It was feared the river town may suffer great damage if the jam suddenly breaks, sending down stream the huge ice cakes.

GIRL INTERFERED WITH BROOKLYN TRAFFIC COP

New York, Feb. 27—A brief but snappy traffic dictorship was established at one of Brooklyn's busiest corners today by a pretty bobbed-hair young lady whose only explanation for trying to take the regular traffic cop's job awa from him was: "anything a man can do a woman can do a good deal better."

Patrolman Thomas Reidy was directing traffic as usual at South Fifth and Roebling streets, where three roadways lead to the Williamsburg bridge. He had just signalled one line of traffic to move when Miss Florence Palmer, 20, stationed herself beside him, held up a white-gloved hand to stop the traffic just released, and beckoned the other line to move.

After much confusion Reidy started delivery of an ultimatum to Miss Palmer, but it was interrupted by a blow from one of her white-gloved hands which caught him on the jaw. Summoning a fellow traffic officer as relief, Reidy escorted the volunteer to a police station. Later, Magistrate Dale reprimanded her, and dismissed her with a suspended sentence.

Miss Palmer declined to make any explanation.

TO SELECT SITES FOR NAT'L PARKS IN THE EAST

Washington, Feb. 27—A commission to report to congress on proposed national park sites in the eastern part of the country was appointed today by Secretary Work, made up of the same men who composed the Appalachian national park committee, which several weeks ago selected the Blue Ridge mountains of Virginia as the site for the Shenandoah national park.

Sites on the Smoky Mountains of Tennessee and North Carolina, the Mammoth Cave region in Kentucky and the Blue Ridge section will be examined.

ROMANCE

You often hear people refer to the "dear old days of romance"—to the time when knights errant roamed the earth to do honor to a lady's blue eyes.

These folks say we are living in the age of realism!

An age of realism! Why this is the most romantic of all ages!

The advertising columns of The Bulletin are full of romance—of the romances of men who have devoted their lives to bringing new comforts, conveniences and pleasures for mankind.

Advertisements tell these stories, not with the romantic exaggeration of the jongleur, but with the calm, sincere words of sincerity.

Romance—this age is full of it. Not just empty romance, but the true romance of achievement, of progress, of the betterment of mankind.

Bulletin advertisements tell you what the romance of business is doing for you. Read them regularly.

For Gov't Purchase Of Cape Cod Canal

Amendment in House to Rivers and Harbors Bill Calls For $11,500,000 For That Purpose.

Washington, Feb. 27—Carrying more than 50 new proposals added by the senate today the $41,000,000 rivers and harbors authorization bill tonight appeared to have entered a stormy period in the senate because of attempts to attach to it several vigorously controverted measures as riders.

Senator Fernald, republican, Maine, late today proposed an amendment to incorporate in the measure the house bill for government purchase of Cape Co dCanal for $11,500,000.

Western senators, led by Senator Gooding, republican, Idaho, attacked this amendment, and in turn proposed to add to the Cape Cod proposal the Gooding bill prohibiting lower freight rates on long than short hauls over the same railroad route.

The measure was laid aside tonight before Senator Fernald had concluded his argument in behalf of his rider, and will be taken up tomorrow with a lengthy fight in prospect unless both of the riders are disposed of.

Virtually all of the amendments to the house bill proposed by the senate commerce committee were approved, included one to eliminate a provision that all authorized projects should be completed within five years. This was done at the request of President Coolidge who was informed by Director Lord that the proposal would seriously hinder the program of the budget bureau.

This action later brought a strong denunciation from Senator Reed, democrat, Missouri, who criticized a system which permitted "one man to stand in the way of congress and its power to legislate for the public."

Remarking that the action was taken in accordance with the policy of economy, Senator Reed called attention to the recent approval by congress and the president of a bill authorizing construction of a $14,000,000 Lincoln Memorial Bridge across the Potomac river here.

"While $14,000,000 would make the Mississippi river navigable from St. Paul to New Orleans," he said, "you spend it on an ornamental bridge and hold up the development of our natural resources."

A point of order raised by Senator Walsh, democrat, Massachusetts, against the amendment of Senator Gooding to the Cape Cod amendment was overruled by President Cummins.

LONGWORTH TO BE SPEAKER WITH TILSON FLOOR LEADER

Choice Made at Caucus of Republican Representatives-Elect—Longworth Received 141 Votes on First Ballot, Madden 85—Tilson Was Named by Acclamation to Succeed Longworth at Floor Leader.

Washington, Feb. 27.—Republican members-elect of the house in caucus tonight selected Nicholas Longworth, of Ohio, as their candidate for speaker in the next congress and John Q. Tilson, of Connecticut, as their floor leader.

Mr. Longworth was named over Martin B. Madden, of Illinois. The vote on the only ballot taken was 141 to 85 before the result could be announced officially, the ngmination of the Ohio representative at Mr. Madden's suggestion, was made unanimous. Mr. Tilson was chosen by acclamation.

None of the followers of Senator LaFollette, of Wisconsin, in the recent presidential campaign, who had not been invited to the meeting, attempted to participate.

Representative Britten, of Illinois, proposed that Representative Lamper of Wisconsin be admitted to the caucus. He said the Wisconsin representative was waiting in his office for word from the meeting and had assured him that during the recent campaign he had shown no open hostility to the republican national ticket.

Representative Newton, of Minnesota, urged similar treatment for Representative Keller, but opposition quickly developed to both requests. Chairman Snell, of the rules committee introducing a resolution proposing that the roll at republican caucuses in the house be restricted during the 69th congress to members who supported the republican presidential and vice presidential nominees in the 1924 campaign.

INVESTIGATING TAXATION IN FOREIGN COUNTRIES

Paris, Feb. 27 (By the A. P.).—The sub-committee of the chamber of deputies, presided over by former Minister of Finance Klotz, which is charged with studying the report of the government on the settlement of France's foreign debts to the United States and Great Britain, is investigating taxation in foreign countries.

The committee says that considering "figures recently published abroad concerning taxes paid by Frenchmen, Germans, Englishmen and Americans do not correspond with facts," it has asked Deputy Bedouce to prepare a report of the situation, giving the relative percentage of taxes paid in each country, taking into account the cost of living and the value of the country's currency on the world's exchange market.

Speaking before the senate foreign affairs committee this evening regarding interallied debts, Premier Herriot said most cordial negotiations were being conducted with Great Britain and the United States, but that the status remained the same as last year.

Relative to the question of security from aggression, the premier said it appeared that the moment was approaching when the allies would have to get together on the procedure and conditions of negotiations which had become indispensable.

HOUSE AGAINST SENATE ON PULLMAN SURCHARGE

Washington, Feb. 27.—The house today refused to accept a senate amendment to the independent offices appropriation bill to repeal the 5 per cent. pullman surcharge.

A motion by Representative Barkley, Democrat, Kentucky, to approve the senate rider was rejected by a standing vote of 67 to 177. a roll call was then demanded.

On the record vote the house affirmed its rejection of the surcharge amendment 123 to 256.

House conferees on the bill were then instructed by a viva voce vote to insist on elimination of the provision from the measure.

Rejection of the rider came after three hours of debate in which Chairman Winslow, of the commerce committee, made the principal speech in opposition to it, and Representative Barkley directed the fight for its acceptance.

The house also declined to accept a senate amendment continuing the present restriction against members of the tariff commission participating in proceedings in which members of their families are interested.

NEW FRENCH AMBASSADOR CALLED ON SEC'Y MELLON

Washington, Feb. 27.—Emile Daeschner, the new French ambassador, made his first call on Secretary Mellon today, spending thirty minutes in conversation with the treasury head.

The ambassador declined to discuss the conference as he hastened from the treasury by a private entrance.

French embassy officials said the ambassador's visit was not to be construed as a step toward negotiation of war debt settlement and that no proposal connected with the debt question had been laid before the secretary.

It was indicated, however, that M. Daeschner may have called Mr. Mellon's attention to the present financial condition in France as a reinforcement of the position taken toward the debt by the French government.

It was declared flatly at the embassy that no further step toward a refunding settlement could be taken until the present budget discussion in the French chamber of deputies had been brought to a conclusion.

PASSENGERS THROWN ABOUT DURING VIOLENT STORMS

Cherbourg, France, Feb. 27.—The surgeon of the Cunard line steamer Acquitania, which arrived here this evening from New York, had two busy days toward the end of the voyage across the Atlantic stitching or dressing cuts and treating bruises passengers received by being thrown about during storms the steamer met on Wednesday and Thursday.

Officials who have been making trips on the Aquitania for the past ten years say they never have known her to roll as she did during the storms. The casualties aggregated thirty-two among the first class passengers and forty among the crew. No one was seriously injured, however. Much furniture was smashed as the ship rolled about in troughs in the sea.

The Acquitania made Cherbourg eight hours late.

Jaes T. Cassil was nominated for the postmastership at Narragansett, R. I.

LABOR BOOK DEALS WITH CONDITIONS IN RUSSIA

London, Feb. 27 (By the A. P.).—The British Trades union congress delegation, which recently spent six weeks on a tour of inspection in Russia, today issued a volume of 250 pages dealing minutely with all aspects of general conditions and labor conditions in the soviet country.

In presenting their conclusions, the delegates state they do not desire to be regarded as apologists for the principles and procedure of Russian communism—still less as advocates of its adoption in Great Britain. They consider, however, in respect to public health, housing, and the prison system, the soviet government is achieving most remarkable results.

The delegates expressed the opinion that the soviet regime is strong and stable, that its administration possesses the active support of a large majority of the workers and the acceptance of an equally large majority of the peasants; that its federal structure gives very fair cultural and quite fair political liberties to racial and regional minorities, together with full religious toleration.

The machinery of the government, the investigators believe, seems to work well and is in every way better than that of any other government Russia has previously had. They believe it is doing work in which other older states are still failing and that these results have reconciled all but a very small minority to renouncing the rights of opposition that are essential to political liberty elsewhere.

Finally, the delegates consider that the whole idea constitutes a new departure of greatest interest and well worth foreign study and a new development that may be greatly benefited by foreign assistance.

SUMMARY OF YESTERDAY'S EVENTS IN WASHINGTON

Ambassador Daeschner discussed the French debt with Secretary Mellon.

The house refused to accept a senate proposal to elliminate the pullman surcharge.

Rear Admiral Sims gave his views of the navy to the house aircraft committee.

Frank B. Kellogg, secretary of state-designate, made a round of calls and renewed old acquaintances in the senate.

First step toward removing republican insurgent senators from the committee assignments was taken by the committee on committees.

The state department's side was given in the case of Count Karolyi's pledge of political inactivity while in the United States.

The senate eliminated from the rivers and harbors a provision that all but authorized projects should be compared in five days.

John T. Nolan, commander of the national soldiers league, continued a defense of the league before a house committee.

FUNSTON TO BE POLICE CHIEF OF SCHENECTADY

Schenectady, N. Y., Feb. 27.—Captain William H. Funston, of New York, tomorrow officially will be appointed chief of police for Schenectady and on Sunday formally will take charge. It was announcer tonight.

The appointment will end the city's search for a chief of police, begun when the murders of Acting Police Captain Albert L. Youmans and Arthur Spring last November aroused citizens to demand reorganization of the department. Mayor Campbell sought a chief in the state troopers, the United States army and in the departments of other cities, and finally succeeded in obtaining the services of Captain Funston, a veteran of the New York city police department.

ORDERS DISMISSAL OF SEIZED LIQUOR SUIT

Boston, Feb. 27.—Holding that the use of speed boats capable of making faster time than the ordinary commercial craft used to make purchases of liquor from foreign vessels lying at anchor an hour's sale of the American coast is "mere entrapment quite outside the purpose and intent of the treaty," Federal Judge Morton today handed down an opinion that the seizure of the British rum-runner Marjorie E. Bachman, by the coast guard Tampa last October, was illegal, and ordered the dismissal of the government's libels asking forfeiture of the ship and cargo.

The voices of Florence Nightingale, Lord Tennyson, Queen Victoria and Gladstone are preserved by means of photograph records now in the British Museum.

WILLIMANTIC

The one and one-half story cottage at Columbia Lake owned by Patrick J. Gribbon of this city, was completely destroyed by fire early Friday morning. The cottage was unoccupied at the time. The fire was discovered by Mrs. Fanny Dixon Welch whose home stands across the cove from the Gribbon cottage. A volunteer fighting brigade made every effort to save the house, but only succeeded in preventing the blaze spreading to surrounding property. The building was erected about three years ago, and is valued by the owner at $7,500. This is partly covered by insurance. The fire started from an unknown cause, presumably within the cottage.

Franchise has been granted by the Connecticut Public Utilities Commission to Charles P. Cahill of Hartford, to operate the jitney line for which he made application some time ago from this city to Lebanon Center and return by way of Windham Center, South Windham and Hyde's Corner, a distance of ten miles between terminals. A trial round trip was made Friday afternoon with an eighteen passenger bus driven by Harold Connors.

Information was given out Friday that the death of Mrs. Annie Syzdek, which occurred in St. Joseph's Hospital Monday of this week resulted from her consumption of a portion of arsenic on the day preceding. Mrs. Syzdek's relations with her husband have been strained for some time past, and it was only a short time ago that she had him in the police court for non-support. After taking the dose, she is said to have been overcome with remorse, and to have advised some one of what she had done. She was taken to the hospital and an antidotal treatment given, which, however, could not prevent her death. Medical Examiner Louis I. Mason was called and pronounced the cause of her death acute arsenical gastro enteritis. Mrs. Syzdek's funeral was held Thursday.

There were eleven tables in play at the card party given by the Social Whist Club at the Woman's Club room Thursday evening. First prizes went to Miss Mary Vestard and Daniel McCarthy, seconds to Mrs. Albert J. Fornier, and Louis Peters and third to Mrs. Joseph Labby and Louis Burnore. The hostesses were Mrs. E. F. Moran, Mrs. T. J. Connelly, Mrs. Corinne Kilburn, Miss Pauline Costello, Miss Marion Burnore, Mrs. Iva LaVallee, and Mrs. Joseph Cyr.

The wind Thursday evening caused a considerable amount of damage in the city, a large part of which was occasioned by the falling branches of trees. Four lines aggregating twenty-four stations, were reported out of order at the Southern New England Telephone Company office Friday morning.

The death of Louis Velcera, ten year old son of Luigi and Grace Rauceo Velecca occurred Thursday evening at Mansfield State Training School and Hospital.

Rev. E. M. Pickop officiated at the funeral services held at noon Friday for Charles E. Dodge. Burial was in Gurleyville cemetery, where the Masonic ritual was conducted. Avery and VanZandt were in charge of the arrangements.

Following an illness of some duration at the home of her brother, George A. Taft, Miss Ruth Partinton has entered St. Joseph's Hospital where she is to undergo treatment.

A case of scarlet fever is reported at the home of Mrs. Doubleday, her niece, May Rose Sullivan, a pupil in the Natchaug Kindergarten being ill.

The Ladies' Social Club of South Coventry Congregational church served a splendid supper to thirty of its members Thursday evening. The menu consisted of beef loaf, mashed potato, lima beans, relish, mince and apple pie, cheese and coffee. After supper the club was addressed by Rev. Arthur H. Wheelock, pastor of the First Congregational church, Willimantic, who described prevailing conditions, the customs and the hospitality of the various countries of the Europe of today. The pastor, Rev. Charles Johnson, also gave a brief address on his anticipated trip to Norway, some time in July.

The announcement comes from Hebron that for the first time in its history the town hall is to be lighted with electric lights for the production of the Hebron Players' first comedy, "The Regiment of Two." About seventy-five years ago this hall was the Methodist meeting house and until comparatively recent times, the remains of the old choir stalls and pulpit stacked away in the basement were exhibited to the curious by the informed. During the remodeling of the Center school the building was temporarily turned into a schoolroom, with the stage curtains soberly pulled and moveable benches and chairs put in for teacher and pupils. Chandeliers and footlights are to be installed with the use of a battery by Carleton (Cannonball) Jones, of local and state fame on the baseball field.

TOTAL OF $156,600 REACHED IN HOTEL DRIVE

(Special to the Bulletin)

Willimantic, Feb. 27—A total of $156,600 had been reached up to Friday noon, in the new hotel campaign under way in this city, according to the announcement made at the meeting of the salesmen at the Chamber of Commerce auditorium at that time. This is an excess of $5,600 over the figure set at Thursday's meeting. As a result of the reports Thursday, the following groups are the division champions: Group 3 in "A", Group 6 in "B", Group 3 in "C" and Group 11 in "D". A challenge was issued by Roland B. Jordan on behalf of the salesmen in Division "C" to both divisions "B" and "D" which was accepted. Mr. Jordan's division still retains possession of the national colors and one of the subsidiary teams, captained by Raymond A. Parker, still retains the "goat," but a box of cigars hinges on the outcome of tomorrow's report and Mr. Jordan's challenge. The total Friday was $20,400 and announcement was made that the executive committee's subscription for Friday totaled $5,600. To date in the campaign there have been 322 subscribers. The supplementary report for Friday was as follows: Division "A", James P. Bath, manager group 1, P. D. Donohue, $1,200; group 2, Harry S. Gaucher, $1,400; group 3, J. E. Sullivan $2,000. Division B, P. J. Hinds and George W. Hickey, managers, group 4, C. E. Robinson, $600; group 5, J. F. Mustard, $300; group 6, W. A. Dawson, $1,800. Division C, R. B. Jordan, manager, group 7, L. H. Arnold; group 8, R. A. Parker, group 9, J. B. Riordan, $1,300. Division D, A. J. Martineau, manager, group 10, R. C. Comins $200, group 11, Albert J. Piche, $1,600; group 12, Dixon Van Zandt $200. Today's report, $90,000; previous reports $135,200; making a total of $156,600.

Making "Lead" Pencils

To make the wooden tube in which the lead for a pencil is incased the manufacturer cuts out a board about seven inches long, the width of six pencils and as thick as half a pencil in diameter. With a machine he then shapes it into six semi-rounded or semi-hexagonal sections and grooves one side to hold the lead. When the lead is inserted the halves are glued together. The "lead" in a pencil is composed of graphite.

WIFE OF LOUIS M. REAM BRINGS SUIT FOR DIVORCE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Putnam, Feb. 27.—Alleging intolerable cruelty since 1919, Mary Weaver Ream has filed suit for divorce from Louis Marshall Ream of Thompson, son of the late Norman B. Ream, many times a millionaire.

Stories of marital unhappiness have been in circulation for a long time. Last summer there was a supper party at Pomfret at which it was said that Mrs. Ream fired a bullet at her husband which lodged in his shoulder. This story was publicly denied by Charles E. Searls, attorney for the Ream family, on behalf of Mr. Ream. Mrs. Ream made no statement and denied herself to reporters. But since the reputed occurrence they have not lived together.

They were married at Thompson June 1, 1918, and have two children, Mary Louise, aged 6, and Louis M., Jr., 3. Mrs. Ream is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Weaver of Thompson. She is a graduate of the Howe-Marot school in Thompson and was an instructor there when her engagement to Mr. Ream was announced.

In her petition Mrs. Ream alleges that acts of cruelty on the part of the defendant began in June, 1913, and have continued at divers times up to the filing of the writ. There is also an allegation that Mr. Ream owns property to the amount of several hundred thousand dollars and that he has a large income. She asks for the custody of the children and for suitable allmony.

The petition is drawn and was filed by Day, Berry & Reynolds of Hartford. The writ was served on Mr. Ream at Stamford, in which city his brother, Robert Ream, resides, Jan. 21. It is returnable the first Tuesday in March and appearance is entered on behalf of Mr. Ream by Shipman, Hyde & Goodwin, also Hartford attorneys, indicating that the suit will be contested.

This is the second time that Mr. Ream has been married and it is the second suit for divorce that has been filed against him. In September, 1911, he married Eleanor Davison, chorus girl in a New York musical comedy, two or three weeks after their first meeting. They spent only three days togetehr after their marriage and then young Ream returned to Thompson on a conciliatory visit to his family, who were displeased at the marriage, or at least the publicity that was given it in the press. Mr. Ream never went back to his bride.

She later brought suit for divorce on the grounds of desertion. The case was heard in the Windham county superior court at Putnam before the late Judge Gardiner Greene of Norwich, who granted the decree and allowed alimony, the amount of which is said to have been $210,000.

Louis Ream's sister, Marian B. Ream Stephens, widow of a Chicago attorney, married A. Vonsiatsky, a Russian nobleman, who for a while worked in the shops of the Baldwin Locomotive company. They now live in Pomfret. Mrs. Caroline Ream, his mother, died two months ago at Carolyn Hall in Thompson, the family mansion.

Mrs. Louis Ream, her two children and her mother, Mrs. Weaver, are at Atlantic City for the winter.

LEONARD BRIDGE

The death of George Chappell, 58, occurred Tuesday night at eight o'clock, at Hartford hospital, after an illness of many months. Five weeks ago Mr. Chappell went to the hospital where he underwent a surgical operation but his health failed rapidly until the end.

Mr. Chappell was born in Lebanon, March 5th, 1866, the son of Oliver A. and Dorcas (Chappell) Chappell. On March 10, 1891, he was united in marriage with Miss Jennie Brown, of Hebron. After their marriage they resided in Ledyard and Franklin. After the death of Mr. Chappell's father several years ago they returned to Goshen and have occupied the home farm.

Mr. Chappell is survived by his wife and one son, Everett Chappell, who resides at home, also by three brothers, Levi Chappell of Rockville, Frederick Chappell of Westerly, R. I., and Arthur Chappell of Danbury, and by a sister, Mrs. Joseph Holderton of Wakefield, R. I.

NORWICH TOWN

Recent news from Chief Signalman Robert Wells Sterry, who is stationed on Submarine S-24, which with twelve other submarines left New London harbor a few days prior to Thanksgiving 1924, for southern waters, located him at the time of writing at Perlas Island, where a stop of four weeks was made.

...ren leaving New London for their winter manoeuvers, the submarines were accompanied by three submarine tenders, the U. S. S. Camden, U. S. Savannah and U. S. Bushnell. The first stop was at Annapolis, Md., from which port the naval craft proceeded to Pensacola, Fla., remaining there for a number of weeks. While enroute to Panama and the Pacific Coast, since the early part of January, the craft have been cruising back and forth in several different locations. It was expected that the cruise would again be taken up from Perlas Island to Balboa on the western side of the canal, then to Panama, where a stop of ten days would be made, before going to San Diego and San Francisco. The craft were not expected to return to port until mid-summer.

Let's Try To Explain This Amazing Success

The greatest value on the market—that's the public opinion of the Chrysler, because of the record volume of business it enjoyed in its first year; because of the enthusiasm of its owners and its wonderful records of performance.

The advantages the Chrysler Six offers — advantages hitherto unobtainable—in performance, riding qualities, style and economy have proved irresistible. They have inspired an amazing chorus of public approval the like of which has never before been known in the industry.

It is not alone dashing performance, flashing speed, delightful riding qualities of a surprising nature that have captured the public. Every man who has ever ridden in the Chrysler and any other automobile keenly appreciates what Chrysler engineers have accomplished in the production of superlative performance combined with unusual economy, of riding ease and roominess with compact design and the conservation of space, size and weight.

You will be as eager and as enthusiastic as any to contribute to Chrysler's growing success once you have driven this new type of car. Don't miss a demonstration in the amazing Chrysler.

Belated, but none the less welcome, Chesbro A. Hamilton has received a gold medal significant of twenty years of faithful service in the national guard of Connecticut. Mr. Hamilton first enlisted July 8, 1895. He went out with old F. Company of the Third Connecticut infantry during the Spanish American war, was in southern training camps for months and was on the point of departure for Cuba when the war came to an end. Mustered out of the federal service in March, 1899, he re-enlisted for the third time in 1900 and remained in the service until 1917, when, as a mess sergeant, he was mustered out because of dependents as the local command left for the World war. He enlisted subsequently in the state guard and since has maintained his connection with the Service battery as cook.

It is anticipated that speakers who will be heard at next Monday evening's meeting of Killingly grange will have a great deal of special interest to say. The grange will observe farmers night and the talks will have to do with what appears to be the best paying agricultural propositions to engage on farms hereabouts. Dancing will follow, the business of the evening.

FINDS FOR TOWN OF THOMPSON IN SUIT BY E. J. KEEGAN

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Putnam, Feb. 27.—Judge William M. Maltbie has handed down a decision in favor of the defendant in the action of E. J. Keegan against the town of Thompson et al. The suit was brought to restrain the selectmen from paying members of the school committee for services, and as the practice is general among the small towns of the state there has been far-reaching interest in its outcome.

SUITS AGAINST RECEIVER GO TO U. S. DISTRICT COURT

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Putnam, Feb. 27.—The suit of the Putnam Woolen company and that of Dr. S. B. Overlock of Pomfret against George M. Coffin, receiver of the First National bank, have been transferred to the United States district court by order of Judge Frank D. Haines. The application was made before him in superior court here this morning on behalf of Mr. Coffin by Searls, Russell & Bradford.

On behalf of the Woolen company Attorneys J. F. Carpenter of this city and W. A. King of Willimantic opposed the motion in order to preserve any rights that might possibly be sacrificed. Copies of the files must be returned not later than March 5.

WIFE OF LOUIS M. REAM BRINGS SUIT FOR DIVORCE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Putnam, Feb. 27.—Alleging intolerable cruelty since 1919, Mary Weaver Ream has filed suit for divorce from Louis Marshall Ream of Thompson, son of the late Norman B. Ream, many times a millionaire.

Stories of marital unhappiness have been in circulation for a long time. Last summer there was a supper party at Pomfret at which it was said that Mrs. Ream fired a bullet at her husband which lodged in his shoulder. This story was publicly denied by Charles E. Searls, attorney for the Ream family, on behalf of Mr. Ream. Mrs. Ream made no statement and denied herself to reporters. But since the reputed occurrence they have not lived together.

They were married at Thompson June 1, 1918, and have two children, Mary Louise, aged 5, and Louis M., Jr., 3. Mrs. Ream is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Weaver of Thompson. She is a graduate of the Howe-Marot school in Thompson and was an instructor there when her engagement to Mr. Ream was announced.

In her petition Mrs. Ream alleges that acts of cruelty on the part of the defendant began in June, 1913, and have continued at divers times up to the filing of the writ. There is also an allegation that Mr. Ream owns property to the amount of several hundred thousand dollars and that he has a large income. She asks for the custody of the children and for suitable alimony.

The petition is drawn and was filed by Day, Berry & Reynolds of Hartford. The writ was served on Mr. Ream at Stamford, in which city his brother, Robert Ream, resides, Jan. 21. It is returnable the first Tuesday in March and appearance is entered on behalf of Mr. Ream by Shipman, Hyde & Goodwin, also Hartford attorneys, indicating that the suit will be contested.

This is the second time that Mr. Ream has been married and it is the second suit for divorce that has been filed against him. In September, 1911, he married Eleanor Davison, chorus girl in a New York musical comedy, two or three weeks after their first meeting. They spent only three days togetehr after their marriage and then young Ream returned to Thompson on a conciliatory visit to his family, who were displeased at the marriage, or at least the publicity that was given it in the press. Mr. Ream never went back to his bride.

She later brought suit for divorce on the grounds of desertion. The case was heard in the Windham county superior court at Putnam before the late Judge Gardiner Greene of Norwich, who granted the decree and allowed alimony, the amount of which is said to have been $210,000.

Louis Ream's sister, Marian B. Ream Stephens, widow of a Chicago attorney, married A. Vonsiatsky, a Russian nobleman, who for a while worked in the shops of the Baldwin Locomotive company. They now live in Pomfret. Mrs. Caroline Ream, his mother, died two months ago at Carolyn Hall, in Thompson, the family mansion.

Mrs. Louis Ream, her two children and her mother, Mrs. Weaver, are at Atlantic City for the winter.

LEONARD BRIDGE

The death of George Chappell, 58, occurred Tuesday night at eight o'clock, at Hartford hospital, after an illness of many months. Five weeks ago Mr. Chappell went to the hospital where he underwent a surgical operation, but his health failed rapidly until the end.

Mr. Chappell was born in Lebanon, March 5th, 1866, the son of Oliver A. and Dorcas (Chappell) Chappell. On March 10, 1891, he was united in marriage with Miss Jennie Brown, of Hebron. After their marriage they resided in Ledyard and Franklin. After the death of Mr. Chappell's father several years ago they returned to Goshen and have occupied the home farm.

Mr. Chappell is survived by his wife and one son, Everett Chappell, who resides at home, also by three brothers, Levi Chappell of Rockville, Frederick Chappell of Westerly, R. I., and Arthur Chappell of Danbury, and by a sister, Mrs. Joseph Holderton, of Wakefield, R. I.

The body of Mr. Chappell was brought to Willimantic where funeral services were conducted at Avery and Van Zandt's funeral parlors Friday afternoon. Burial was in the family plot at Windham Center cemetery.

Miss Eleanor Thomas is ill with scarlet fever.

Theodore Bland has returned home after several weeks spent with his daughter, Mrs. Bert Stimpson, at Westfield, Mass., and his sister, Mrs. Luella Jacobs in Willimantic.

FITCHVILLE

John McMahon, an aged resident of Hampton, died Sunday morning at the home of his daughter Mary. The funeral was held in Danielson Tuesday.

This world is a dangerous place to live in; people seldom get out of it alive.

CANTERBURY GREEN

Next Sunday evening the service at the church will be the regular monthly meeting of the C. E. society.

The pastor plans to hold several cottage meetings in various parts of the parish through Lent. One at H. B. Brown's, Black Hill, will probably be some evening toward the last of the week.

Guests over the week-end at Herbert Graves' were Mr. and Mrs. Walter Pratt, of Springfield.

Mrs. Edward Lovell and two other teachers of the town were in Bozrah last Friday visiting a model school.

Mrs. Clinton Frink is entertaining a nephew and two nieces, Harold, Oliver and Barbara Walker, of Hartford, this week.

Mrs. Frank Nelson is in New York, called there by the illness and death of an aunt. Mrs. Miller is keeping house for her during her absence.

A pleasant meeting of the Ladies' Aid society was held Tuesday with Mrs. James Towne. Two ambitious members went early in the day and tied a quilt so that a second one could be done in the afternoon.

Mrs. Hiram Hawes visited in Providence and North Corner, Mass., this week, in the latter place, being the guest of Mrs. Humphrey, widow of Rev. Robert Humphrey. She found her in her usual health, living in the home they lately purchased in that village. A friend, Mrs. Bates, who had visited them in Canterbury, is staying with her.

While Mrs. Wright, Mrs. Frink and Mrs. Bushnell were in Plainfield recently a team came hurriedly out of a side street, the horse colliding with the automobile. No serious damage was done, apparently, beside the tearing of the curtains of the automobile and a few minutes' fright on both sides.

Misses Jean and Anna Peck have been confined to their home the past week, ill with grip.

Tuesday evening, under the auspices of the Ladies' guild, a large company enjoyed a fine baked bean supper and a play, The Family Album. Miss Jennie Gallup took the leading part. The play was given wholly by local people.

Miss Faith Lee is home for a week's vacation.

Mrs. Roderick MacLeod, formerly of Hanover, has recently been operated upon for appendicitis in the hospital at Norwich, New York.

NORWICH TOWN

Recent news from Chief Signalman Robert Wells Sperry, who is stationed on Submarine S-24, which with twelve other submarines left New London harbor a few days prior to Thanksgiving 1924, for southern waters, located him at the time of writing at Perlas Island, where a stop of four weeks was made.

The cruise of New London for their winter maneuvers, the submarines were accompanied by three submarine tenders, the U. S. Camden, U. S. Savannah and U. S. Bushnell. The first stop was at Annapolis, Md., from which port the naval craft proceeded to Pensacola, Fla., remaining there for a number of weeks. While enroute to Panama and the Pacific Coast, since the early part of January, the craft have been cruising back and forth in several different locations. It was expected that the cruise would again be taken up from Perlas Island to Balboa on the western side of the canal, then to Panama, where a stop of ten days would be made, before going to San Diego and San Francisco. The craft were not expected to return to port until mid-summer.

Food for Children

Child specialists inform us that between the ages of four and twelve years a very active child requires double the total calories of a very quiet child, and a moderately active child requires one-third more calories than the quiet child. Because of the demands incident to rapid growth all children require highly nourishing food.

The force of education is so great that we may mold the minds and manners of the young into what shape we please and give them the impressions of such habits as shall ever after remain.

Only Leaf Can Do Work

The heads of the teasel plant, which are cylindrical with oblong hook-pointed, rigid bracts between, are used for raising the nap of cloth. The heads are split and fixed on the circumference of a cylinder that revolves against the surface of the cloth. No mechanical device has yet been found to equal this natural contrivance.

Opals and the Hair

Beautiful blond maidens of the Middle ages valued nothing more highly than a necklace of opals. Wearing of these ornaments was supposed to keep their hair from losing its wonderful color.

Gray Eyes and Sin

Among the Arabs there is a popular superstition that gray eyes are a sign of sin. The belief is founded on a passage in the Koran which classes them as a possession of the wicked.

Let's Try To Explain This Amazing Success

The greatest value on the market—that's the public opinion of the Chrysler, because of the record volume of business it enjoyed in its first year; because of the enthusiasm of its owners and its wonderful records of performance.

The advantages the Chrysler Six offers—advantages hitherto unobtainable—in performance, riding qualities, style and economy have proved irresistible. They have inspired an amazing chorus of public approval the like of which has never before been known in the industry.

It is not alone dashing performance, flashing speed, delightful riding qualities of a surprising nature that have captured the public. Every man who has ever ridden in the Chrysler and any other automobile keenly appreciates what Chrysler engineers have accomplished in the production of superlative performance combined with unusual economy, of riding ease and roominess with compact design and the conservation of space, size and weight.

You will be as eager and as enthusiastic as any to contribute to Chrysler's growing success once you have driven this new type of car. Don't miss a demonstration in the amazing Chrysler.

In the latest bulletin of the department of motor vehicles Commissioner Stoeckel devotes one paragraph to "branch offices," in which he has the following to say:

"There is some sentiment to the effect that the public is not well enough served in distribution of licenses and registrations and it is suggested that, because the existing offices are crowded by last minute applicants, both by mail and in person, around the first of each year, there ought to be more branch offices.

"The department is in favor of more branch offices. To establish them not only means better service but easier administration. But honest doubt exists as to whether the necessary additional expenditure is warranted. If the legislature decides it is, and the necessary appropriation be granted, the office or offices so authorized, will of course be forthwith established."

Commissioner Stoeckel is known to be a live wire in connection with the administration of the highway department. He has been responsible for putting Connecticut in the lead in many respects concerning automobile regulations and it is gratifying to know that he is not opposed to more branch offices.

It is an unfortunate impression that has become established that political pull rather than the convenience of the public has been responsible for the establishment of some, at least, of the existing branch offices. It will indeed be unfortunate if there continues to be ignored the need of extending the same convenience in the matter of obtaining licenses and registrations to the automobile owners and drivers to all cities alike.

The experiences of auto owners every year, and they grow worse as the number increases, have been sufficient to show the inadequacy of the present arrangement. The auto owners are paying the bills now and they will continue to do so. The commissioner admits that more branch offices would "not only mean better service but also easier administration."

That tells the whole story and it should be remembered that this is the time to let the legislature know what the sentiment is.

If it is advisable to have branch offices for the convenience of our communities in the state, why isn't it right that auto owners in other centers of population should get the same consideration?

As it is they are being taxed to maintain branch offices elsewhere, but get nothing but inconvenience themselves. Every city should have at least, a temporary branch office for the end of the year rush

MARKING THE HIGHWAYS.

The move which has been made under the direction of Secretary Gore of the department of agriculture to bring about the uniform numbering and marking of highways of interstate character, by the appointment of a board to work out a plan and endeavor to get it adopted in the various state legislatures, giving recognition to the growing importance of highway travel and to the wisdom of providing for the guidance and convenience of the steadily increasing army of highway users.

The advantage of such a system is thoroughly understood by those who have made automobile trips of any length. It is known what a help the heading of poles and the number of routes is, how comparatively easy it is to follow certain routes all the way across New England, even through the large cities, and do so with the least bother to self or to the traffic in general. The desirability of extending such benefits to all interstate routes can be readily appreciated.

What is true regarding direction signs is equally true in regard to warnings and danger signals. Uniformity means that signs that are familiar in one state will carry the same significance in others. It will not be necessary to get acquainted with a new system of markings. The states, if left to themselves, might provide some system that would be satisfactory within its own boundaries but which would not mean anything to most of those coming from other states, while the same experience would be faced by the residents of that state when going in to others. The desirability of preventing confusion carries its own strong argument.

Adequate marking of highways is a matter which calls for attention not only where interstate roads are concerned but throughout the state's entire highway system. No city thinks of neglecting to name and mark its streets and with the thousands of people using the highways every day, and many of them strangers, it is time that the roads in the country districts as well as the streets in the cities were plainly marked. Highway conditions have changed and it is necessary for those sections through modern roads run to keep up with them.

STONE MOUNTAIN MEMORIAL.

What's going to be the outcome of the trouble between the Stone Mountain Memorial association and Gutzon Borglum? Developments in certain directions are clear enough. It is evident that they cannot get along together, and have been unable to come to any understanding when it comes to parting. The time for the break came and break they did with new and additional fireworks added by the resentment displayed by the sculptor in ordering certain models smashed. That seems to be a characteristic trait of the artist, for he has acted in a similar manner on previous occasions.

But now the promise is for further trouble in the path of the worker in stone since a warrant for his arrest on the charge of vandalism has been issued and his prosecution seems imminent.

But what effect is this all going to have upon the memorial. The claim has been made that the south has not been supporting the proposition in the manner it should. It is a huge undertaking in which the entire south should be interested. If it hasn't been in the past, there are possibilities that this undesirable development may be the means of giving that additional publicity to the undertaking that will bring forth increased support and funds. There are occasions when all that is needed to arouse interest is to have the impression given that someone is trying to prevent the completion of such a project. Borglum may thus be unintentionally helping to band the south together as a unit to insist that the Stone mountain memorial be pushed to completion and to end for all time the possibility that the funds are inadequate.

The undertaking is a big one, whether considered from the standpoint of the sculptor or the organization that is financing it. Controversies cannot be expected to help under ordinary circumstances but when they get to the point where there is such an attempt to embarrass the effort through destructive action as Borglum appears to have made sympathy and resentment can be relied upon to do a lot of valuable restraining.

INDIANA AND RHODE ISLAND.

The action of the democratic members of the Indiana senate in leaving the state to prevent the adoption of a law which was not pleasing to them is a comparison with the example set by the republicans of Rhode Island who spent several months in Massachusetts.

In the case of the former there is a penalty attached to such action while in the latter there was none. In fact the step was taken in order to prevent the passage of a bill which would have changed the limits of a certain district of the state, a change that would have had some political significance, but a change which was simply restoring what had previously been done by democratic action in Rhode Island. It was a protest against the high handed, irregular and illegal manner in which the legislature of that state was being conducted.

In each case the departure was a protest, but in the case of Indiana there appears to have been far less ground for justification. If such tactics were to be followed there would have to be daily excursions out of the state in order to prevent the enactment of laws which happened to be unfavorable to the minority.

While the cases were dissimilar there is the added fact in connection with the Rhode Island affair that when the people had a chance to express themselves at the polls they virtually endorsed the migration of the Rhode Islanders by turning the democrats, who were responsible for their action, out of office.

AMBASSADOR HOUGHTON.

Our new ambassador to Great Britain is Alanson B. Houghton. His transfer from a similar post at Berlin is to be regarded as a promotion. There has been recognition of his excellent service and ability in the confirmation by the senate of the president's selection.

Ambassador Houghton was picked for the difficult post at Berlin because of his understanding of that country and its people. His choice for that post was no mistake. He has rendered most valuable service there, a service which has been appreciated in Germany quite the same as in this country. Most flattering have been the comments in Germany concerning his service as ambassador and it is with regret there that he is to be moved to another country. He was at Berlin during that most important period while the Dawes investigation was going on and while the recommendations by that commission were being formulated.

Having demonstrated his diplomatic ability in Berlin it is only natural that he should be chosen for the even more important office of similar character at London. It is a deserved recognition and gives assurance that a similar record of accomplishment will mark his stay at the court of St. James.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Are you going to extend a welcome to the blustering month?

The man on the corner says: Charming almanac day for March!

Everyone will welcome the early spring so that the housecleaning will come the sooner.

The general response to the order issued to King George to cruise in the Mediterranean is that, "If I were king I wouldn't wait to be ordered."

Probably the real reason the objectionable plays are written and produced is that they satisfy a large public demand, whether that reflects credit on anyone or not.

If children are educated while they sleep it will cause the school teachers some anxiety over their jobs, but there are cases probably where they would offer not the least objection.

Who can remember the days when congress buckled down to the completion of a legislative programme and insisted on squeezing in as much other worthy legislation as time would permit?

THE MAN WHO TALKS

It is perfectly true that "history repeats itself," and it is done in a thousand ways. Human life like the weather has its spring, summer, autumn and winter. The only difference is that the seasons in human life are much longer than in the natural world. We have had a regular repetition of the seasons in this world ever since it began, millions of ages ago, for aught we know. In the life of mankind on this earth there have been at stated intervals the recurrence of the same or similar things to that extent to justify the saying that "history repeats itself." Take for a single illustration the matter of dress for both male and female, but most emphatically the latter. The same styles seem to come and go with the precision of the equinoxes. Old Cleopatra had gorgeous apparel, but long after old Cle had been mummified, the cut and shape of her splendid robes came to bedeck some women who otherwise did not resemble old Cle. Dolly Madison, the American princess, found a very old robe that made her look pretty.

Wild geese—not being human—may make a mistake when they follow their instinct and fly north before old Boreas is through belching forth hoar frost and icicles. The ground hog may not always seem to be so infallible as this February would indicate. Really is there any solid reason for believing that intuition is a safer guide to follow that intelligence? But while geese, ground hogs and weather prophets may be frightfully mistaken, the young boy with his top is infallible. When you see the little fellows come marching out of the school room and fumbling their pockets you know pretty well what they are after: it is the top and string. Here is the true harbinger of spring. The snow flake may come but it will look sick. Winter with all his accessories pays tribute to the boy with a top.

Because of the bluff put up by its enemies as to the failure of prohibition, it is well to turn to a form of evidence that cannot easily be discredited. Anybody can raise the cry that prohibition is a failure without any facts to prove the statement, but the pathos of it is that some are so unthinking as to believe it. Take if you please the following as a statement on the other side. The assessors of property valuation of New York city have given out the following figures, and it will be taken for granted that they are not speaking from any biased standpoint, and certainly not for any temperance society: This is their statement: "The valuation of 770 properties of New York formerly used for the liquor traffic and now used for other purposes has been increased from $146,739,000 in [illegible] to $247,294,000 in 1923. It is perfectly fair to ask what has made this increase? It is not due to genuine business prosperity, but to the fact that the buying public has more money than it did."

How one's life was radically changed by an accident that, at the time, seemed to make only a setback for the rest of his days, is the story of the career of Hon. Michael F. Conry, a member of the federal congress for several terms from New York. His biography reads more like fiction than real history. Born in 1870, he was early put to work in the coal mines of Pennsylvania where he met with an unfortunate accident in which both his ankles were crushed. He was never from that time able to do any manual labor save that of the lightest kind. His mind made up for his crushed feet. He learned with marvelous quickness. He was able to teach school, and worked his way through the University of Michigan. After that he studied law, practiced law in Scranton and later in New York. Here is rose rapidly and was sent six times to congress. His will power prevailed.

It is one of the gracious acts of Providence never to demand of us poor mortals more than we can do, but that something must be done immediately, whole-heartedly, and with as strong a faith at the beautiful gate of Solomon's temple. A lame man was carried there every day to beg. Peter and John on their way to the temple to pray saw him. He asked of them an alms. But Peter said, 'Look on us. Possibly the man did not see what good that would do, but he was wise enough to do it. It was the one and only thing he could do. In response to his faith instead of getting a small coin, he got the power to earn his own coin which was a thousand times better. As a reward for his faith, Peter took him by the hand and helped him to get up. It is hardly strange that he left his pallet of straw and "went walking, leaping and praising God."

In these days the nations are very much disturbed over the question of paying their debts, and these debts are just dues. One wonders if there has ever been set forth a basis of settlement better than that advanced by Saint Paul in the 6th chapter of Ephesians. He says, "Owe no man anything." This does not refer to loans for use of which a stipulated interest is paid that is satisfactory to both parties. Paul here means a debt for which no return is given either by interest or principle. As he uses this statement in connection with the Ten Commandments his meaning is clear. For one of the commandments is: "Thou shalt not steal." If a man gets into debt with no intention of paying it back, or even if he makes no effort to pay it back, to all intents and purposes is not that man a thief, and the money or goods thus gotten, stolen goods?

That a widespread attempt should be made to preserve the old church in Alexandria, Virginia, where Washington was wont to worship is worthy of all consideration and must commend itself to the American people. When we remember that more than a century and a quarter has elapsed since The Father of his Country died, and that the church in question was not new then; there are the best of reasons why the precious old relic should be the object of the tenderest solicitude on the part of the American public. Every year adds to its historical importance, and as long as this Union shall last it will vie with Mount Vernon itself as a place to which devout pilgrims will resort. For all time this locality will be the great American Mecca. By all means let this church receive the best of care!

Charlotte Masaryk Gave Up Wealth For Love

Reared in affluence in a free country, highly educated and with lofty ideals, Charlotte Carrigue Masaryk, the bride, in a one-room apartment in a strange land, strove and sacrificed and suffered that the cause of her husband might succeed.

As Charlotte Carrigue, daughter of a director of an insurance company in Brooklyn, she had followed in the traditions of a strong Hugenot family acquired an education in public and private schools, and at 24 went abroad to study music with Liszt.

Two years later while visiting in Leipsic, she met Dr. Thomas Masaryk, then a young and impecunious teacher, and at 28 was married to him.

In the tiny apartment at Vienna she cheerfully became an aid to her husband, acting as his secretary while typical women of that city, accustomed to lives of idleness, indolently watched here. She helped him with his scientific researches and assisted in the preparation of his books.

At the end of four years Dr. Masaryk was made professor at the Bohemian university at Prague. There she learned the Czech language, studied the Czech literature and history, helped translate Mills' Subjection of Women into Bohemian and revealed the greatness of the composer Smetana to her own people.

Then came the revolt of Czechoslovakia against Austro-Hungary. Having always placed her husband's work first she forced him to leave her behind in order to hasten his departure when he fled to organize the revolt in foreign countries.

While he was away she was subjected to indignities that at times were almost unbearable. Her home was searched from top to bottom by the Austrian authorities in search for compromising documents, she was forbidden by the police to write to her husband, her daughter, Alice, was imprisoned on a charge of treason, in defiance of law and civilized usage, to curb the father's activities, and about the same time, her son died of typhus. Through it all she gave comfort to those who came to offer consolation.

After her husband had returned to Prague in triumph as first resident of the new Czechoslovakian republic she suffered a severe nervous collapse.

And her death was mourned by the entire nation.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Mrs. Edith Wharton, the first woman to be awarded the gold medal of the National Institute of Arts and Letters, holds a high place among present-day American novelists. Born in New York City and descended from a family prominent in Colonial days, she enjoyed all the advantages that accompany wealth and the best social environment. Her school studies were supplemented with extensive travel abroad and she early became familiar with French, German and Italian. Mrs. Wharton's first collection of short stories appeared in 1899 under the title of The Greater Inclination. In 1902 her first long novel, The Valley of Decision was published. Three years later appeared what is perhaps her most widely read novel, The House of Mirth. During the World War the novelist was one of the leading spirits of the American relief work in France and as a reward was made an officer of the Legion of Honor.

ASHFORD ONLY TOWN WITHOUT RAIL OR MOTOR ROADS

Representatives Edwin A. Buck and Allen B. Lincoln of Ashford are emphasizing before the general assembly and the highway commission the peculiar isolation of their town by the lack of highway facilities. It appears that, so far as the representatives can learn, Ashford is now the only town in Connecticut which has no steam railway, no trolley line, no jitney service, no trunk-line highway, no state-aid thoroughfare; in brief, absolutely no modern method of highway travel; and all this, say the representatives, through no fault of Ashford. "But this situation is not as bad as it sounds," said Representative Lincoln in an interview, "if only our potential nearness to relief can be realized and acted upon. There is now an excellent state-aid highway from Mansfield Center to Westford,—built several years ago, but with an uncompleted interval of only three and one-third miles, from Mansfield Center to Atwoodville; and this interval is the cause of Ashford's lament, and her appeal for relief. Ashford has done her share," continued Mr. Lincoln, "as this highway is built on state-aid plan from the Ashford town line to within a mile of Westford village; the town has voted the sum necessary to complete that mile, with the state's portion in sight. Mansfield has also done her part from the town line south to Atwoodville; but Mansfield has no funds available to complete the three and one-third miles interval; and thus it comes about that Ashford is marooned by Mansfield, through no fault of either town; and Ashford has no thoroughfare to market, but must go 'bumpety-bump-bumpety-bump' over Mansfield's interval. This condition has continued for several years, and our people think they ought to have relief without delay.

"There are twenty-two towns in Connecticut of smaller population than Ashford," continued Mr. Lincoln, "and as far as we can learn everyone of them has some sort of a modern highway, while Ashford, as stated, has no thoroughfare to markets. Our farmers ship about 1,500 quarts of milk daily; also, large quantities of eggs, poultry, butter, fruit in season. We are also cutting timber and shipping lumber by almost daily truck loads. A local correspondent declares that Ashford has more motor cars to the population than any other town of its size, including many trucks, touring cars, several limousines, and Fords galore. There is scarcely a home in Ashford without a motor car of some sort and there are six gasoline stations. The town has 93 telephones, evidence of some activity.

"Travel to and from the town has in many cases been much increased by the erection of the Knowlton Memorial town house, the gift of a wealthy native son, the late Charles Clark Knowlton, at a cost of over $100,000. The dedication of this building last September called forth an attendance of over 500 persons, and they had to travel the dangerous, hilly country roads. Often in recent years our schools, churches and the grange have attracted and crowd of 200 to 400 for important gatherings; there was an audience of over 1,000 at the St. Philip's R. C. parish fair last fall.

"This remarkable building is surely destined to become a 'community center' for at least 25 miles around, because of its large assembly hall, with seating capacity of over 500, the Babcock Public library of over 5,000 volumes, the ample stage equipment for concerts and dramatics; and yet Ashford remains the only town in Connecticut which has no steam railway, no trolley line, no jitney service, no truck-line, no state-aid thoroughfare; in fact, no modern highway for travel in and out; but so far isolated, and yet so near to relief, that our people are insistent that some way out shall be found without further delay.

"It is true that there are two truck-line projects, which when completed will cross Ashford, one along the southern border, an interval of about twelve miles from near the State Agricultural college eastward, through West Ashford and Warrenville, to Phenexville, and for which federal aid is expected; the other along the northern border, from West Willington by Roaring brook and Moose meadow through Westford village to North Woodstock, a 17 miles stretch added to the trunk-line system by the legislature of 1923, and said by its advocates to be the shortest way between Hartford and Worcester, and pronounced by surveyors in 1857 'the best grade east and west between Long Island sound and the St. Lawrence river.'

"Probably these two lines will be completed some day," continued Mr. Lincoln," and Commissioner McDonald is strongly hopeful of federal aid for the southern route. But the fact remains that the completion of the three and one-third miles interval of state-aid road is needed at once; and would really be of great local benefit, for immediate access to local markets, because it would give a satisfactory highway from Willimantic through Warrenville to Westford. There is a bill offered by Representative Vinton of Mansfield to transfer this state-aid highway to trunk-line, and continue it from Westford village to the new trunk line in Union, but it is not known how soon the completion of such a trunk line could be hoped for, as the two above-mentioned have preceded it on the highway map.

"The movement for the completion of this short state-aid strip is strongly favored by the business men of Willimantic and Norwich. Every physician in Willimantic will tell you of the hardship suffered for lack of prompt medical attention in the frozen winter months, and in the muddy spring season, as now, when the country roads are often impassable; and the completion of this short strip would relieve the situation. There is now no resident physician in Ashford.

"The town of Ashford has recently come into the limelight as the birthplace of His Excellency, Hon. John H. Trumbull, governor of Connecticut, and our townspeople are looking forward to greeting the governor at a big neighborhood gathering in Knowlton Memorial hall, where without doubt a thousand people would come. We hope the town may be made accessible for such an event next fall.

"The opening up of the territory of Ashford would also afford relief for people of nearby cities, offering comfortable country homes and lower cost of living. And, by the way, several homes in Ashford now have their own electric light and power plants. The point of opening up country homes was stressed by former Commissioner Bennett in a public address at Buck's grove, three years ago, and in fact four years ago plans were completed for the construction of the

After You Pass 60.

He was nearly 70 and, arriving at the office of the doctor who was trying to save the hearing he had, said he had stopped on his way at a dentist's about his "plate" and at the oculist's about his glasses.

"That reminds me," said the doctor. "Mrs. ——, who is about your age, said to me: 'After you pass 40 it is just patching and patching.'"

Well, He Got Rid of It.

Friends of a certain young man enjoy telling in his presence how he managed to get rid of a rather timeworn automobile. It might be well to say that at the time the car was disposed of that a smile of satisfaction over the arrangements was evident on the face of the owner. However, the last laughter got the best laugh in this case.

The auto was rather wheezy, also was thought to be rheumatic, limped slightly on one rear wheel, and had a terrible cough.

"I must sell her," said Tom, "but I don't know who would want her. However, she's all right for the shape she's in."

Later a new man in the neighborhood opened a grocery. He spent some time at intervals in the place of business kept by Tom and one day said he wished he could find some old bus he could convert into a delivery car. Tom rubbed his hands.

"I've got just what you want," he said. The deal was completed with the exception of the cash involved. Tom named his price, but the grocer, new in the business, did not have enough to complete that part of the deal. It was finally decided to settle the matter in groceries. A week passed, the grocery failed, Tom lost his car, and a checkup showed that he had received $10 worth of groceries at retail prices.

"I can't 'a-Ford' to let it happen again," Tom said.

SUNDAY MORNING TALK

The Greatest Preacher

And seeing the multitude he went up into a mountain, and when he was set his disciples came unto him and he opened his mouth and taught them, saying, Matt. 5:1. The world has been rich in the possession of many great preachers, and they have preached what may rightly be called great sermons. It is true that different men may have different ideas as to what constitutes greatness, but we are sure that no one can dispute the true greatness of the Sermon on the Mount. John Livingstone who prayed all night before he began to preach and as a result of that sermon many souls were born into the kingdom of God.

But we would speak of the world's greatest preacher. Beside Him all others vanish, as the stars are lost in the presence of the sun, we know who He was. It was He who was born in the village of Bethlehem, who lived in Nazareth, who "spoke as never man spoke" who lived everything He taught, and that always constitutes greatness. It is easy to say good things, to enunciate exalted principles; but when it comes to living them yourself, that is another matter.

The place where the sermon was preached was significant. How true it is that when He was here upon earth. He seemed to sanctify everything He touched. He was baptized in the river. He called His disciples from the seaside. He traveled on the plains He walked up the mountain side.

This is also one of the mountain scenes in the life of Christ, and they are always worthy of study. There was the mountain of transfiguration where He was so marvelously changed, but we learn from Him there that we, too, may be transfigured, for when Paul uses the expression that we shall be changed," the word 'changed' is just the same as that which describes the maker Himself on the mountain. There is the Mount of Olives where He was so moved [illegible] the sadness of the people that He cried out in a per[illegible]

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Are We Getting Maximum Results

Mr. Editor: The people of Connecticut have always shown a deep interest in the army, and since so many young men have enlisted in the army from the state the following on "Are We Getting Maximum Results?" which is quoted from our publication "The Recruiting News," will, I feel be of deep interest to every citizen of Connecticut:

"If a big business concern were ever to achieve the miracle of sufficient customers—if it were ever to find the demand for its goods exceeding the supply, what would be the first advertising stunt such a concern would stage? Obviously, it would broadcast to the world the fact that it had accomplished this feat. And why? Because it would be thereby anticipating the inevitable period of lean business which must come to every organization some time, and it would want everyone to know of its high regard in the estimate of the buying public.

"We of the recruiting service are in exactly this position today. Our ranks are full, or practically so. We are selecting our customers from the great host which is knocking at our gates for admission to our shop. Someone has suggested that our slogan should be now "Try and Get In."

"But, like the business house, we must not rest content with the smug thought that at last we are attracting a sufficient number of customers. We must take advantage of this opportunity to convey to the civilian population, our buying public, the fact that the army has reached such a desirable place in the minds and hearts of our citizens that it is drawing to the colors a class of men who in other days found no attraction in the military life."

All this means that the army is accepting the very highest types of men, which in turn means that fewer of them will become a liability while in the service, which in turn means that the cost of the army, with especial reference to personnel, it is naturally reduced, which in turn means that it has a direct and material bearing on Taxes as well as a direct and material bearing on the efficiency of the army, which means in the concrete that every citizen of the United States as a result of the above is getting a high decree of production to life, liberty and prosperity, for less money.

If this isn't of interest to our citizens I know of nothing that would be.

CHRIST THE WORLD'S SAVIOR

Sermon topic, Sin: "Unto remission of sins"—Luke 3:3.

Let us not be parrots mouthing religious lingo which means nothing. Let us be genuine.

Savior and sin — do these words mean anything in the language of today? Has the automobile, the motion picture, the flying machine, the radio changed their meaning?

You swim out beyond your depth and a life saver reaches you just as you are going down for the last time; he is a savior. You are desperately sick; a practised physician prescribes exactly the right treatment; you get well; he is a savior. You are in debt; cannot pay your taxes; bankruptcy faces you.

At great risk some friend comes to your assistance with adequate loans which puts you back on your feet financially; he is a savior. In a moment of anger and passion you are about to commit some crime which would send you to prison, and perhaps death. A friend intervenes; regardless of what it costs him he prevents your rash act and brings you to your right mind. He is a savior.

Now in the world of moral and spiritual reality men get into conditions where they cannot control consequences. Jesus Christ enters their lives and saves them from those conditions, making possible the finest life, unsullied moral health, genuine relationships with the Infinite, and consequent immortal life. He is the Savior.

The conditions from which he saves men are called sin. Instantly we think of some infraction of moral standards. The criminal is a sinner; the liar is a sinner; the profligate is a sinner; the moral degenerate is a sinner. Perhaps we think of the unbeliever as a sinner, but the real question is: am I a sinner? What is sin?

Sin is anything which prevents one from the highest and best of which he is capable in time and eternity.

Am I a sinner? Are you a sinner? Perhaps not if we limit the sinner to the outcast classes, although even here many of us ought to be outcasts who are not, simply because the public doesnt know us.

There is a broader sense, however, in which sin applies to every living human being, namely, the sense, however, in which sin applies to every living human being, namely, the sense of the original meaning of the Hebrew and Greek words of the Bible which are translated, sin. The words most frequently used mean 'missing the mark.'

Every one of us misses the mark. No one of us ever reaches the fullness of perfection. The man who is ignorant where he might have been informed is a sinner. Are you as efficient, as you ought to be? as successful as you might be? as generous as is possible? as kind, congenial, helpful, faithful, conscientious and upright as it is possible for one of your nature to be? If not, then you are a sinner.

Again, sin is sickness. Just as the body may be poisoned or infected with disease germs, so the conscience may be impaired. Will power may be weakened; moral judgment may be perverted, and most serious of all, the heart's affection may be vitiated; that is, the soul is sick just as the body is sometimes sick. It needs a physician.

Christ is that physician, not for those who have no realization of need but for those who have. "They that are in health have no need of a physician, but they are sick. I am not come to call the righteous but sinners to repentance." (Luke 5:31, 32.)

Now he who absorbs the spirit of Christ by becoming his follower finds spiritual health vibrating in his being; conscience quickened, moral judgment enlightened, will energised, affections purified and centered upon the highest. To such a man Christ becomes a Savior.

Once more, sin is a personal matter. It is being on bad terms with God. In the sight of the law the lawbreaker is a sinner; in the sight of a friend the unfaithful is a sinner; in the eyes of the nation a rebel or traitor is a sinner; in the eyes of God one who turns his back on him, refuses to seek his presence, carelessly denies his existence, is a sinner. What is needed is someone who shall make friends between such a man as God. This is the position that Jesus Christ occupies. "God was in Christ reconciling the world unto himself." (II Cor. 5:19.)

We need not worry about the process so long as we find it to be true that when a man takes an interest in Jesus Christ, becomes familiar with him through the study of the Gospels, seeks sympathetically to understand his teachings and his spirit; in short, lends himself to the leadership of Jesus Christ he is instituted and inspired to successful living, working and loving.

[illegible] the call is for every one to see his shortcomings and in the desire to make good to acquaint himself with Jesus Christ thereby finding [illegible] health for sick[illegible] in place of [illegible] a Savior.

Corn or maize is the staff of life [illegible] says the bulletin, "but to the American used to his substantial and sizable loaf it is likely to appear a somewhat frail prop. Most of the Mexican corn is not milled into meal or flour. It is laboriously crushed with stone rollers by hand, in millions of kitchens and dooryards. The crushed grain is then moistened into a stiff paste and cooked on a griddle into what the average visitor from north of the Rio Grande would term a 'tough, flabby pancake.' These are tortillas, the most generally used article of food in Mexico. They are cooked in the home, in restaurants, over braziers in the market-place, or taken cold by laborers in their lunch packets. Nor are they unknown on the tables of the prosperous. Wherever food appears in Mexico the tortilla stands well to the fore.

"Not only does the tortilla look unappetizing to the outsider; it is sure to prove unappetizing if he follows his first impulse and treats it like a pancake, for it is tough and rather tasteless. But treated as bread, the tortilla will make a much better impression. The proper trick is to roll it tightly so that it will be manageable and will retain its heat. It then becomes a bread-stick whose spiraled end will melt a bit of butter and furnish a really delectable bite.

"If one casts aside outlander notions of etiquette he can enjoy his tortilla even more. If the rolled end is dipped into the fiery red sauce of chile con carne or the highly seasoned gravy of a stew, it furnishes delightful morsels. Among the millions rather than the thousands of Mexicans, however, tortillas are eaten day in and day out with boiled brown beans.

"Corn contributes to another important Mexican dish, the tamale. The raw corn paste is flattened out as though tortillas were to be made. On the paste is spread a thin layer of minced meat and pepper pods. The two layers are then folded up so that the meat and pepper forms an inner core with a sort of capsule of corn paste about it. Each piece is then wrapped in a corn shuck made pliable by soaking in water. Numbers of these are placed in a tin vessel and cooked by steam, then served piping hot with fire and pepper.

GIVES EXPECTATION OF ELIMINATING SOME COUNTY GRADE CROSSINGS

In the absence of President Valentine L. Murphy of Willimantic, Arthur L. Peale of Norwich presided over the meeting of the Eastern Connecticut Civic association, held Friday evening at the Wauregan Hotel, members being present from several towns in Eastern Connecticut, also representatives and officers of railroads running through this section of the state.

In opening the meeting attention was called to bills coming up for hearing in Hartford Wednesday March 4th mostly concerning roads. Senate Bill 532, concerning highway in town of Voluntown and North Stonington the trunk line system; senate bill 533, concerning the highway in town of Mansfield and Willington in trunk line system; bill 534 to widen certain bridges in New London and Windham counties; house bill 666 concerning including in the trunk line system highway from Taft's station to trunk line highway of Willimantic and Norwich; bill 677 concerning highway between Groton and Norwich to trunk line system.

It was voted that the association send representatives to these hearings and that other civic bodies do the same, also that people interested attend the hearing and aid in putting them through.

Commissioner Elwell Speaks

The speaker of the evening was Charles C. Elwell, member of the Public Utilities Commission, who spoke most instructively on The Railroad Grade Crossing Problem. The address by Commissioner Elwell was filled with interesting facts concerning this problem, the main facts brought out during his talk being as follows:

You have asked me to discuss with you the railroad grade crossing problem. Before beginnng my formal address, I think it proper that I should present my credentials, or rather prove to you my qualifications to discuss a question of such great importance to the people of Connecticut, as well as to the inhabitants of other states.

Steam railroading began in earnest about 86 years ago. For half that period I have been closely identified with the construction, operation and supervision of steam and electric railways.

For a number of years I was employed by the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad Company in connection with the most radical railroad grade crossing elimination work ever undertaken at one time viz: The four-track improvements and the elimination of all grade crossings between New York and New Haven.

In 1895, I was appointed Superintendent of the Norwich & Worcester Railroad and located in this good old city of Norwich, where I was welcomed by everyone.

The Norwich & Worcester was one of the first railroads to be built in New England. The old road looks about the same now as it did when I came to town with my wife and two little boys and took up my abode for a short time at this hotel which, like the railroad, keeps its same general external appearance.

During my 13 year term of office with the Norwich & Worcester, and later including the Shore Line Division of the New Haven Railroad, the old Ferry Street station was replaced by the present modern building and the road extended on the east side of the Thames to Groton.

I cannot refrain at this time from paying tribute to the many faithful employees who made my railroad career a success. If there was time I would ask you to stand while I call the roll, but there would be few to answer, nearly all have crossed to the "other side."

Please allow me to wander from my text for a few minutes, while I recite a little railroad history.

The New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad is made up of over 150 short railroad lines, most of which have lost their identity, but the Norwich & Worcester still has a President and Board of Directors who come together yearly to declare an annual 8 per cent. dividend, which is guaranteed by the New Haven Railroad, while the stockholders of the New Haven hold stock in the big corporation which many of you know to your sorrow, yields to them no return whatever.

The consolidation of these many small railroad was brought about through the progressive and tactful management of Charles P. Clark whose success was demonstrated by the regular yearly 10 per cent. dividend produced.

Mr. Clark died in 1901, when only 65 years of age. He paid his last visit to Norwich, a place very dear to him, a short time before his death, and when walking with him through Ferry Street through Franklin Square, he said, pointing to the Wauregan Hotel: "Elwell, 24 years ago, at a meeting in that hotel, I began my railroad career which resulted in bringing together and consolidating the railroads and the steamship agencies of Southern New England."

The Railroad Grade Crossing Problem.

Problems are questions that are hard to answer. This is particularly true of the railroad grade crossing problem; not difficult because of its engineering obstacles for we have engineers and are continuing to make others who can surmount any reasonable undertaking, provided the money can be furnished to finance the project.

There are upwards of 350,000 miles of steam railroads in the United States, which equal one-half the total railroad mileage of the world. This long line of railroad track intersects public highways at different places (an average of about one crossing per mile of track) creating that number of dangerous points where on an average six persons are being killed and 17 injured every day. The danger at 12 per cent. of these crossings is lessened in a measure, by manual or automatically operated devices, none of which however, offer absolute protection.

This question is frequently asked: "Why do we have so many grade crossings?"

Summer tourists returning from a few weeks trip to Europe, are inclined to criticize their own government for having been so liberal in the past by allowing railroad companies to build lines with any grade crossings at all.

As an answer to such, let me say that railroad development began in England and America at about the same time, but they were confronted with different conditions. England was an old country of limited territory and ample means, while this country was comparatively poor, with cities and towns located far apart. With England, it was necessary and easy to build permanent roads—our fathers had to build cheaply or not at all, which accounts for the many steep grades, crooked lines, and an apparent excess of grade crossings. The wisdom of our predecessors in adopting the cheaper plan of construction, resulted in our great national wealth.

Before the advent of the automobile, when highway traffic was handled in carriages drawn by horses, the same danger existed at railroad crossings as at present.

The locomotive owes no special grudge to the automobile itself nor to its driver; either vehicle, if in its path, receives the same harsh treatment; then why have grade crossing accidents increased within the past few years? The increase in the number and use of automobiles is the main reason. The noise made by the gas engine drown that of the approaching train as well as that of alarm bells, where crossings are equipped with such warning signals.

Another reason is that many careless, irresponsible and sometimes intoxicated drivers are operating motor vehicles over railroad crossings.

These classes are responsible for the major number of casualties, and unfortunately they cannot be controlled. The only possible prevention is to elevate or depress either the railroads or the highways, thus separating the grades of the two lines of travel.

As I said in the beginning, engineers can handle this problem, provided they are given sufficient money.

Let me see if we can furnish an estimate showing the amount required to complete the whole job. The factors are at hand, namely, the approximate number of grade crossings (240,000) and the average cost of a single elimination, which, according to past experience and figured at present day prices of labor and material, is about $90,000. By multiplying 240,000 by 90,000 we get as the total cost of eliminating all the grade crossings in the United States, twenty-one and one-half billion dollars. This figure exceeds the total valuation of all our railroads as recently established by the Valuation Bureau of the Interstate Commerce Commission.

In Connecticut we have 1,000 miles of steam railroad track and 700 grade crossings, 32 per cent. of which are protected by some form of warning signal. Our law prohibits the establishment of any more grade crossings and provides that railroads within this state eliminate one grade crossing yearly for every fifty miles of track operated, unless excused by the Public Utilities Commission on account of financial inability.

On account of the war and the consequent high costs of labor and material, the railroads of the state have been for the past few years excused by the Public Utilities Commission from a strict observance of the statutory requirements, and are more than 100 behind such requirements.

Eight crossings have been eliminated during the past year, and orders for the elimination of seven more have been issued by the Commission.

For the information of those present, I will quote extracts from the General Statutes governing the elimination of grade crossings:

Municipality.

Section 3710, entitled "Removal of Grade Crossing" provides that the selectmen of any town, mayor and common council of a city, or the warden and burgesses of any borough within which a highway crosses or is crossed by a railroad, may bring a petition to the Commission alleging that public safety requires an alteration in such crossing, its approaches, the method of crossing, the location of the highway or crossing, the closing of a highway crossing, and the substitution of another therefor not at grade.

Railroad.

Like petition may be brought by the railroad whose tracks cross such highway. Upon receipt of petition by the Commission, a hearing is assigned and notice given to petitioners, to the municipality and owners of land adjoining such crossings. After such hearing and presentation of plans showing proposed elimination, the Commission may determine what alterations or removals shall be made, and by whom.

Apportionment of Expense.

If petition is brought by the railroad company the entire expense is borne by the company; if brought by the municipality, one-quarter of such expense is borne by the municipality and three-quarters by the railroad.

If the highway affected has been constructed since the railroad which it crosses at grade, the Commission may order an amount not exceeding one-half of the whole expense of such alteration or removal, including the damages to be paid by the municipality in whose behalf the application is brought and the remainder of the expense to be paid by the company owning or operating the road which crosses such highway.

On July 19, 1914, the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R. Co. brought petition to the Commission for an extension of time within which to comply with orders of the Commission then in effect requiring elimination of a considerable number of grade crossings. On the date of petition, the N. Y. N. H. & H. R. R. C. was in arrears 13 crossings on the basis of legal requirements, or 31 on the basis of application for removal and approval previous to the date of bringing said petition.

The quota required to be eliminated by the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R. Co. under the provisions of the statute is 17 per year, so that as of June 30, 1924, said company is in arrears 166 crossings.

Trunk Line Highways.

Where any dangerous conditions exist at a crossing of any of the tracks of any railroad corporation, over, under or upon any trunk line highway, and the railroad and the municipality within which such dangerous condition is located, and the highway commissioner fail to agree concerning the elimination thereof, the highway commissioner may petition the Public Utilities Commission for authority to eliminate such condition. Upon receipt of petition of this character, hearing is assigned, notice being given to all parties in interest.

If, after such hearing, the Commission finds that public safety requires a change in the location of any abutments, structure, device, tracks, or change of grade of tracks of the railroad company interested, it shall issue to the highway commissioner an order concerning the removal or change in the location thereof, as may be necessary to eliminate the dangerous conditions and apportion the cost thereof equitably among the company, or companies, the municipality and the state. Connecticut is still ahead of other states, having eliminated or protected more crossings per mile of railroad track.

It is possible now to travel by motor car from New York and intermediate towns, to Waterbury and New Haven, without crossing any steam railroad tracks at grade; proceeding to Hartford and Springfield, only two grade crossings are encountered, viz: at Meriden, and the other at Beckley's. Travelling from New York to New London and Norwich, but one grade crossing intervenes and that is located at Saybrook. Plans for the elimination of all these crossings have been made and the work should start within the present year.

In the office of the Commission we have a list and description, including photogranhs, of all railroad grade crossings. These are grouped in three classes, A, B, and C, meaning: dangerous, more dangerous, and most dangerous; (please note that all are dangerous) the most dangerous being first considered when ordering elimination or the establishment of some form of protection which usually consists of two lights flashing red alternately when trains are approaching; in most cases, these lights are supplemented by an electric alarm bell.

The average cost to equip a grade crossing with such signals, including an alarm bell, is $2,000, and the yearly maintenance is about $400.

The railroads are recovering, in a measure from financial difficulties brought by the war, but they are losing millions through the competition of motor driven vehicles which carry passengers and freight formerly transported by rail.

There are 74 jitney lines in Connecticut covering 1,000 miles of highway, which equals the total steam railroad mileage of the state. The jitney pays no state tax, while the railroads and trolleys are taxed 3 per cent. of their gross income. The state tax on the average trolley car amounts to $1,000 per year, while the total taxes and fees paid for right to operate each jitney bus amounts to about $200 per year.

The state tax collected from the railroads and trolleys of Connecticut amounts to about two and one-half million dollars per year. The state highway department expands upward of four million dollars per year to build new highways upon which motor vehicles operate, carrying passengers and freight in competition with the railroads. The highway department also expends upward of two and one-half million dollars for the maintenance of these highways over which motor trucks operate.

It has been proposed by some that a portion of this money collected by the state in taxes from railroads, be applied to the abolition of grade crossings. There seems to be merit in this suggestion, and it is possible that the question will receive consideration by the present legislature.

The grade crossing problem is one of the big problems confronting not only the railroads of this country, today, but the general public as well, and there should be a systematic cooperation between companies, states and municipalities, for the elimination of these dangerous conditions as rapidly as financial conditions will permit.

Picture Show Crossing

Following his talk of the evening a forum was held during which time Commissioner Elwell illustrated his talk by stereopticon slides which showed many crossings in the state considered dangerous, step taken to rid the state of bad crossings and a number of slides showing safety signal and stop signs used by railroads, many at the suggestion of the public utilities commission.

During the general discussion Commissioner Elwell stated that Bishops crossing was to be eliminated at a cost figured at $86,000. It was brought out by several members that the town of Plainfield had more dangerous railroad crossings than any other town in the state. Facts of interest to Commissioner Elwell were brought out and reference made for future use by the department. Other crossings discussed at length were Williams crossing on the Norwich-Willimantic road, French's crossing between Plainfield and Central Village and the crossing at Sterling near the U. S. Finishing company plant. The dangerous crossing at Moosup center was also discussed at length.

Old pictures fo trains run on the Norwich & Worcester line in the 1850s were shown, engines pictured being the William P. Greene, 1848, and the Pequot, 1857. Interesting facts of the road were also told.

The meeting adjourned following a rising vote of thanks to Commissioner Elwell for his instructive talk and exhibition of the blinker type of crossing signal, constructed to give the effect of a swinging red lantern.

NORWICH GIRL ATTEMPTS SUICIDE IN WOODSTOCK

Shortly after she had been arrested in Woodstock, this state, Friday afternoon for the Worcester, Mass., police, Helen Mason, about 29 years old, of this city, took poison in her room, and is in a dying condition at the Worcester hospital. Relatives of the young woman were notified Friday evening that she is on the danger list.

It is said that Miss Mason has been living with a man named Robert L. Evans in Worcester, and that Evans' wife who has been living in this city went to Worcester to locate her husband. Evans, who is a radio operator, was arrested and the Worcester authorities learned that the young woman was in Woodstock where she had been working for the past week.

When arrested in Woodstock she went to her room presumably to get her clothing and while in the room took the poison. Her mother, Mrs. Charles Scoval, resides at No. 73 School street. Until about two months ago Miss Mason was employed as a waitress in the Mohegan restaurant.

Eagles Will Have Large Class.

Plans have been completed for the initiation of a large class of candidates for Norwich Aerie, No. 367, F. O. E., to take place at Eagles' hall Sunday and it is expected that there will be a large turnout of members for this meeting. A social and entertainment will follow the initiation work.

For Burial in New Haven.

The body of Henry Foote, 74, of New Haven, who died in this city Friday, following a lengthy illness, was taken in charge by Cummings & Ring and was sent to New Haven on the 2.58 o'clock train Friday afternoon. Burial is to be in New Haven, Monday.

Eccentric English Duke

The duke of Bedford's gold plate at Woburn abbey is among the most magnificent collections of its kind in the world. So lightly, however, was it regarded by the eighth duke, that on his death in 1872 gold plate worth tens of thousands of dollars was found strewn about the floor of his house in Belgrave square in such a deplorable condition that it narrowly escaped being consigned to the dustbin as worthless metal.

Indian Tribal Language

American Indians are divided into groups and the languages of the various groups are found to differ to such a degree that one is not intelligible to another. Often within the same linguistic family different tribes speak radically different dialects. This is true of the Pueblos in the Southwest. Inhabitants of villages only 100 miles apart cannot understand each other's native tongues.

MEETING OF SECRETARIES OF CHAMBERS OF COMMERCE

Meriden, Feb. 27—Seventeen secretaries of the chamber of commerce in various parts of the state attended a quarterly meeting of the Connecticut Commercial Secretaries' association, held here today.

Secretary George B. Chandler of the state chamber explained measures sponsored by the state body and which are now before the legislature. Robert A. Crosby of Bridgeport and C. L. Evanson of the Connecticut Manufacturers' association both gave interesting talks.

President Earl J. Arnold, of Bristol, presided. Guests included Presidents Young and Clark of the Naugatuck and Greenwich chamber of commerce.

An invitation to hold the annual meeting next June in Greenwich was accepted.

ANNOUNCE REDUCTION IN THE PRICE OF MILK

Boston, Feb. 27—A decrease of one cent a quart in the price of milk in March and the succeeding three months was announced today by the sales committee of the New England Milk Producers' association. The price to dealers, which has been 8 1-2 cents a quart since September, will be 7 1-2 cents for March, April, May and June, it was stated. The reduction is the customary seasonal decrease although it was said that it was unusual to name the price for four months in advance.

ANGOLA IS HUGE PORTUGUESE DOMAIN

A recent dispatch from Africa stating that "the island of Port Alexander" had been swallowed by the sea in an earthquake, serves to bring into news prominence Angola, Portugal's huge dominion in western Africa, says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic society.

"There is no island of Port Alexander off Angola," says the bulletin. "Port Alexander, or more properly Porto Alexandre, is an excellent haven on the southern and most remote coast of Angola, protected by a long sandy peninsula. This is a true peninsula, well above the water even at highest tide, and could not properly be referred to as an island. The name has also been given to a fishing town that has sprung up in recent years on the mainland shore inside the protecting spit.

"If an earthquake occurred in the immediate vicinity of Port Alexander it may either have destroyed the mainland town or a small supplemental settlement on the peninsula. A third possibility is that an island at some distance was destroyed and that the news of the disaster, coming through Port Alexander, caused the scene of the tragedy to be confused with the latter town.

"Angola covers a large part of southwestern Africa. It stretches along the Atlantic Ocean for a thousand miles and extends eight hundred miles or more inland. A comparable slice of territory in southeastern United States would have a coast line extending from southern Georgia to New York City and, excepting Florida, would include an area greater than all the states south of New York and the Great Lakes, and east of the Mississippi river.

"This vast region, although it was discovered by Portuguese sailors in 1442 and although it has had Portuguese settlements since 1575, has not been developed to any great extent. It was really a victim of the discovery of Brazil and the route to India, for into those more promising regions was poured all the colonizing energy of Portugal at a time when that country was the world's leader in colonization. The stream of energy and men passed Angola by, and it has been a sort of Portuguese backwater ever since.

"But there are also potent geographic and economic reasons for Angola's lack of development. With the exception of former German Southwest Africa, which adjoins it to the south, Angola has the dreariest and most forbidding coast of any section of Africa. Superficially it may be compared with the desert coast of northern Chile and Peru; and the comparison is heightened by the existence of a cool current that sweeps up the coast from the Antarctic as the Humboldt current flows northward along the west coast of South America.

"Sand dunes cover much of the land immediately along the coast, with here and there bare rocky promontories jutting out of the shifting grains. Where the sands are not in dunes a scrub grows, but it is so sparse that from the sea the coast appears utterly barren. Where water courses enter the sea there is often a luxuriant vegetation in their valleys. It is in such long, narrow oases that are grown the vegetables and fruits for the few coastal settlements.

"Behind this worst foot which Angola thrusts forward is a region of surprisingly good potentialities. The coastal desert strip extends inland from 40 to 120 miles and then the country rises by a series of huge terraces to a broad plateau which extends eastward into the heart of Africa. On each higher terrace conditions are better than on that below. The transition is from aridity and lack of vegetation through semi-aridity to a reasonably well-watered parkland of grass and scattered trees. Much of this plateau is an excellent region for Europeans, healthy, cool, reasonably productive and much of it free from the tsetse fly which makes cattle-raising impossible where that insect flourishes.

"In the southern portion of Angola's plateau is a sort of little Transvaal, Displeased with alien control from which ordinary treks did not seem to free them, a group of Boers took the wearisome journey across the great Kalahari desert and settled in this remote region. Many perished on the road, but those who won through have established solid communities in which the Portuguese officials have granted them the liberty and self government in their communities which they so much desire. In their settlements, surrounded by houses of typical Transvaal architecture, and with the great heavy wagons in use, one might imagine himself a thousand miles away in the vicinity of Johannesburg or Pretoria.

"At several points railways extend from the coast of Angola to the almost temperate zone plateau. The most important railway starts from the middle of the long coast and extends some 300 miles into the interior. It will eventually extend eastward across Angola and into the Belgian Congo to connect with existing Belgian and South African systems and with lines to the east coast of Africa. The Angolan port terminus of this railroad is Lobito with one of the best harbors in Africa. Lobito is an upstart among the ancient coastal cities, Benguela and Loanda and the middle-aged town of Mossamedes, having been born on a bare sand-spit only a few years ago.

"Loanda capital of Angola, also has lines of steel extending into the interior, and from Mossamedes a 'toy railway,' with narrow gauge track and tiny cars, runs across the desert strip and into the hills.

"All of the Angola coast is indebted to the cold current that bathes it for cool sea breezes and in general a much more pleasant climate than its latitude entitles it to. But the current is especially beneficient to the Mossamedes and Porto Alexandre districts of the south. These are the healthiest portions of the coast with relatively low mean temperatures, dry cool air, and freedom from malarial mosquitoes. The cool current also brings to the southern coast vast schools of fish like the cod and the chief industry is fishing. The climate is excellent for drying fish, and a few miles inland are inexhaustible supplies of salt. The region ships thousands of pounds of dried fish and much 'cod liver' oil."

WILLIE RITOLA IS RESTORED TO GOOD STANDING AFTER 2 DAY SUSPENSION

New York, Feb. 27.—Willie Ritola, co-star with Paavo Nurmi in the distance running spotlight, was back in good amateur standing tonight and on his way to Louisville to compete in the National A. A. U. track and field championships after a suspension that lasted only two days.

The Finnish-American star's reinstatement was announced officially tonight by the A. A. U. on the basis of returns from a telegraphic poll of the national registration committee, taken on Ritola's appeal from the suspension imposed upon him by the New England branch of the A. A. U. for failure to appear at the American Legion games in Boston last Monday.

The returns from this vote showed 17 ballots in favor of Ritola's reinstatement to only one in opposition, that registered by the New England representative. Since there are 23 members of the registration committee, the runner is assured of a decisive majority, regardless of the way the remaining votes are cast.

Ritola, in company with Nurmi, left for Louisville soon after receiving this assurance. They were due to reach Louisville at 2 p. m. tomorrow. Ritola will run in the national steeplechase event while Nurmi is slated to pass the National two-mile title in the championship event tomorrow.

The registration committee's reversal of the New England ban put on Ritola apparently closes a situation which threatened the continuance of the Finnish-American runner's indoor campaign. The suspension was made on the ground that Ritola not only failed to appear at the Boston meet, but through his manager Hugh Quist, had received advance expense money to the amount of $40.40. Quist explained that his failure to notify Ritola in time to go to Boston was responsible for the runner's absence there. He owned, however, that any money for Ritola's expenses had been received, maintaining that the amount involved was a loan on Nurmi's traveling expenses on a previous trip. This amount has since been returned to the Boston promoters by Quist.

CONN. AGGIES CLASH WITH R. I. STATE TEAM TONIGHT

(Special to The Bulletin)

Storrs, Conn., Feb. 27.—The Connecticut Aggie basketball team will play its last home game of the season tomorrow night, when the fast Rhode Island state quintet is met on the Hawley armory court. Following this contest, the Aggies will meet Harvard at Cambridge next Wednesday and Rhode Island in a return game March 7 in the last game of the season.

Rhode Island comes to Storrs with a record better than any other team that the Aggies have played in Hawley Armory, with the possible exception of Wesleyan. Ten victories in thirteen starts on the record made by the Kingmen to date. Among the teams that have fallen before Rhode Island are Springfield, Tufts, Maine, Clark, Northeastern, St. Michael's, St. Lawrence, Lowell Textile and New Bedford Textile. Boston University University succeeded in lowering the colors of the Rhode Island quintet twice, and Yale was the other team to take [illegible] Frank Keaney's charges.

The Connecticut team will take the floor with Captain Balock and Schofield, forwards; Eddy, center; Allard and Maholski, guards. This will be the last appearance on the varsity team on the Hawley Armory court this season, and the last as a member of an Aggie team for both Captain Balock and Eddy, both of whom are seniors. A large crowd is expected at Storrs for the last home game, and with the team in top form it is expected that the game will be one of the best of the season.

Rhode Island is putting a veteran team on the floor against the Aggies, and it is one that will make the Storrs quint leave throughout in order to win the game. In Captain Pinto, now playing his fourth year of varsity basketball, the Engineers have one of the best players in the history of the institution, and one that will give Schofield plenty of trouble tomorrow. Jenkins will team up with Pinto in keeping the Aggie forwards in check, and his three years experience as a varsity player should make him a hard man to get past. Hill and Haslam, the two Rhode Island forwards, have also been with the varsity for three years and their sharp shooting this season has been a big factor in the success the Engineers to date. Bishop, the same jumping center, is the only member of the team that is not a veteran, but his work to date has been of high order for all that. Last year he was a member of the Rhode Island quint freshmen team.

Preliminary to the varsity game, Coach Alexander's freshmen team will play the Rhode Island yearling five. The loss of Captain Hadley and Wilkins has weakened the Storrs yearlings, and Alexander has had difficulty in finding a smooth working combination as yet. Bagood and Watson will probably start in the forward berths, with Edey at center. Heller and Donahue will play the guard positions. This is the lineup that Alexander used against Brown, and it seems to be the best combination possible with the limited number of men available.

In the afternoon, the Co-eds from Rhode Island will play the Connecticut Coeds in basketball, and at the same time the rifle teams of the two colleges will meet in a shoulder to shoulder rifle match.

NURMI TO RACE NINE TIMES IN 13 DAYS

New York, Feb. 27.—Instead of taking his much desired rest, Paavo Nurmi has embarked on a campaign even more strenuous than any he has yet undertaken. The Finnish ace, on his way to Louisville to compete in the National A. A. U. championships tomorrow night has booked nine races in 13 days, including a stretch of four successive nights of running in the United States and Canada which will break his own record for consecutive performances.

His schedule follows: Feb. 28, Louisville, National A. A. U. championships; Mar. 2, New York, 71st Regiment; 4, Brooklyn, 106th Regiment; 5, Hamilton, Ont.; 6, Toronto; 7, Buffalo, 174th Regiment; 9th, Milwaukee; 10, Ohio A. A. U. championships, Cleveland; 12, New York, Greek-American A. C.

In addition to these dates, Nurmi is considering three invitations for races on March 14. They are from Baltimore, Hartford, Conn. and Newark, N. J.

Horsmans Beats Cochran

Chicago, Feb. 27.—(By the A. P.)—Edouard Horemans, Belgium, defeated Welker Cochran, Hollywood, Calif., 400 to 266 in 10 innings in the eighth match of the international 18.2 balkline billiard championship tournament here today.

NORWICH MAN TO MANAGE BATTLING THOMAS

Battling Thomas, Boston Tarbaby, who fought George Robinson at Danielson earlier in the season, is now managed by a Norwich man, R. F. Pellerin of 31 Happy street. Thomas will now be billed as Battling Thomas of Norwich and will spend more or less of his time in this city. Mr Pellerin has Thomas' name to a five-year contract with a renewal privilege clause attached. Thomas was formerly managed by Charlie Murphy, the Lynn, Mass., boxing promoter, but as there was a split between Thomas and Murphy Mr. Pellerin grabbed the Tarbaby.

Thomas has a very impressive record and is open to engagements with any middleweight in the world. He has victories over Butch O'Hagen, Panama Joe Gans, Young Jack Johnson, Joe Eagen, George Robinson, Jimmy Kelley, Dixie Kid and Jamaica Kid and many others of less renown.

Manager Pellerin hurls a challenge at Lou Bogash, Bridgeport battler, Willie Walker, Providence colored sensation, Tiger Flowers, Jack Delaney or Larry Estridge.

Mr. Pellerin has also taken on Young Baker, a youngster in the 118-pound class, and also Young Abbo 118-pound boy.

CHAPMAN TO PLAY AT BRIDGEPORT THIS EVENING

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, Feb. 27.—With six defeats in a row already on the Chapman Tech record for this season, the Red and Black will slip quietly out of town this (Saturday) morning for Bridgeport, where the high school quintet of that city will lock horns with the local representative five. This game will probably be the final out of town encounter of the season, outside of the trip the Chapman Tech team will make to Storrs to appear in the elimination tournament to be held there.

HAGENLACHER DEFEATS HOPPE IN SPESTACULAR MATCH

Chicago, Feb. 27 (By the A. P.).—In one of the biggest upsets of the international 1.2 balkline billiard championship tournament, Erle Hagenlacher, German champion, tonight came from behind in a wonderful display of cue artistry and defeated Willie Hoppe, world's champion, 400 to 299 in 12 innings. The victory left Jake Schaefer, former champion, who ran 400 from spot last night against Hagenlacher, in the lead in the standings.

Penn Track Star is Ill.

Philadelphia, Feb. 27.—Ray Fisher, half-miler of the University of Pennsylvania track team, was reported today to be suffering from a mild case of diphtheria. He is in the Municipal hospital.

A member of the football team is also reported under observation. He is suffering from sore throat, but Dr. Arthur A. Light, the team physician, does not believe it will develop into a serious malady.

Seeman Beats Lafay.

New York, Feb. 27.—Solly Seeman and Benny Valger, both of New York, won decisions tonight in elimination contests arranged by the state athletic commission to name a lightweight champion to succeed Benny Leonard.

Seeman won an easy victory over Frank Lafay of Troy, N. Y., and Valger was awarded a close verdict over Alex Hart of Philadelphia. Each bout went ten rounds.

Munn Beats McGill.

Rochester, N. Y., Feb. 27.—Wayne (Big) Munn, world's champion heavyweight wrestler, easily eliminated another challenger for his title here tonight when he threw Pat McGill of Nebraska in two straight falls, both times with the crotch hold and half-nelson. Munn won the first fall in 13 minutes 40 seconds, and the second in 3 minutes 26 seconds.

OVER 700 ATHLETES IN MEET AT URBANA TONIGHT

Urbana, Ill., Feb. 27 (By the A. P.).—More than 700 athletes, representing 64 universities, colleges and high schools, will compete for honors in the eighth annual University of Illinois indoor relay carnival here tomorrow night, making the event the largest exclusively college indoor meet in America.

Thirteen athletes who wore the United States shields in the Olympic games in Paris last summer will be in the competition. Six are from "Big Ten" universities and two of them are world's record holders. Dan Kinsey, Illinois hurdler, who tied the best recorded time for the 75 yard hurdles in the carnival last year, is the Olympic high hurdle champion, while DeHart Hubbard of the University of Michigan, in the broad hurdles, holds the Olympic title and a world's indoor record for this event.

The east will send three Olympic stars, Emerson Norton of Georgetown university, Furgess, also of Georgetown, and McDonald, Pennsylvania's star quarter-miler.

Amateur Billards

New York, Feb. 27.—Emil A. Renner of Youngstown, Ohio, defeated Herbert H. Hammer of Newark, N. J., 300 to 1 in today's play of the national amateur 18.2 balkline billiard tournament. Renner's victory gives him a tie with Hammer for last place, each having won one match and lost four.

COAST GUARDS CLASH WITH SUB BASE TEAM TONIGHT

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, Feb. 27.—The grindstone has been used overtime this week to sharpen the claws of the two bitter rivals who are only biding their time until they enter the floor against other at the Y. M. C. A. gym at 8.30 this (Saturday) evening. These teams, the Coast Guard Cadets and the Submarine Base, are fully aware what this contest means for either team to come out the winner. The city championship, which went to the Cadets when they turned the unexpected and won from the gobs last month, have been improving in their play steadily, until they have attained grace as well as ability to play fast basketball.

With a hard week facing them next week, when the Yale varsity junior team is met on Wednesday and the Springfield college five on Saturday, the effort to keep the record clean for the season, which it is at present, is a task which is harder than one would suppose. The Sub Base in event of a victory can claim a return battle with the Cadets, but a defeat would hopelessly send the five out of the city limelight as a basketball team and leader in this prospective field. This game with the contest with the Bulkeley-Leominster fives battling at the state armory will give local fans plenty of good basketball. In fact, it will be hard to discriminate between the two places of action, for both games will be good from start to the finish.

The Coast Guards will play Linholm and Coughlin, forwards; French, center; Purcell and Moore, guards. The regular lineup for the Sub Base will play.

BULKELEY TACKLE BAY STATE FIVE TONIGHT

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, Feb. 27.—Bulkeley faces her biggest game of the year, opposing the fast Leominster, Mass., High school five tonight in her first intersectional game of the year. This contest will be the main attraction of a card which will see three sets of teams in action, and following directly after the last game, which will be the intersectional contest, dancing will terminate the evening.

The stage is all set for the game to go over big, and from present indications it will succeed in every manner. The Bay State five will arrive from their home town Saturday night at 6 o'clock and will be the guests of the Bulkeley management Saturday night. One of the fastest teams yet to present their wares in this city in the line of high schools will take the floor when the opening curtain for the big game will go up.

The New Good MAXWELL

Verdun's Unhappy History

Verdun, which became blood-soaked during the World war, had been the scene of previous heavy bloodshed, one of the instances having been in the general massacre of Jews by peasants in a religious misconception in the Fourteenth century. This was about 1317. There was not a Jew in England from 1610 to 1624, and for some time after 1394 there was none in France.

In the Time of Trouble

Children and maids are frequently at a loss in an emergency and a directory hung over the telephone with the names, addresses and telephone numbers of the family physician and a substitute, the nearest fire box, the police station, the family pastor and the business places of all employed members of the family, will sometimes avert a tragedy.

Far-Flung Telephone Bell

The telephone is gradually spreading into the most out-of-the-way corners of the earth. On the bleak steppes of Lapland, in the swarming bazars of Mecca, under the fronded palms of the South Sea islands, may be heard the peremptory summons of the telephone bell.

Mohammed's Sweetmeat

One of the oldest dishes of which any record can be found is the Arabian "khabis," which is said to have been invented and named by the Prophet Mohammed. It consists of fine selected dates conted with a mixture of honey and butter, and it is still a favorite dessert and confection among the Orientals, to whom the date is a staple food. It is interesting to note that the word "khabis" has come to be used by the Arabs as a synonym for happiness.

Dromedary and Camel

Dromedary is a name sometimes given to the Arabian or one-humped camel, but properly belonging to a variety of that species distinguished by slenderness of limbs and symmetry of form and by extraordinary fleetness, "bearing much the same relation to the ordinary camel as a race horse or hunter does to a cart horse."

Greeting Cancels Stamp

One of the most original stamp cancellations ever put on a piece of United States mail was that used by the postmaster at Cassville, Wis., June 25, 1852, when he wrote "Good Morning, Edward" across the stamp when he recognized the name of the addressee as that of one of his personal friends.

SPROUNTING DOWN SOUTH

Study the Chigger

Chiggers are scarcely the sort of live material you would care to bring into your schoolroom for study; and it is to be hoped that no outdoor lesson may lead to the unwitting acquisition of a supply. On the other hand, a lesson would be valuable to any class, says Nature Magazine. Youngsters knowing when and where the danger of attack is greatest, and the best means of preventing it, may be saved much real suffering.

Early Shaving Implements

According to Herodotus, the Egyptians shaved continually, and only let the hair and beard grow when they were in mourning. The barber of the ancient Egyptians was known as the haq. He employed various instruments. A razor sometimes in the shape of a small short hatchet with a recurved handle, and other instruments shaped like a knife were most generally used.

Spirit of the Age

That which we call the spirit of the age is seldom a definite and comprehensive thing, like a sequential system; it is a fleeting cloud-picture, in which the beams of light fall apart ere they hardly have completed their image. All these varying colors do form the representation of an age, and when they constitute its distant though evanescent expression.—Hagenbach.

Important Spot in Eye

The circular yellow spot called "macula lutea" and known, after its discoverer, as "the yellow spot of Soemmering," is about one-twentieth of an inch in diameter. The only mammals in which it exists are man and monkey. It is the area of most distinct vision, a circumstance which may partly be accounted for by the fact that it is singularly free from blood vessels, which curve around it and apparently avoid it.

Food Value of Oatmeal

Oatmeal is richer in fats and proteins than any other cereal. It is considered valuable in the diet of growing children and is of special value to those who pass most of their time in the open.

Pity Above Wisdom

More healthful than all wisdom is one draught of simple human pity that will not forsake us.—George Eliot

From a Student's Essay

A mirror is a popular subject, for there are lots of people who are always looking into it. Most mirrors are square, yet everywhere we go we see them round. Often, like a walrus, a mirror has to be tipped or it won't give good service. Most of us see something to like in a mirror, yet it is always trading reflections on our personal appearance.—Boston Transcript.

Butterfly Table Delicacy

The Bugong moth or butterfly is a delicacy which epicures among certain aboriginal peoples of Australia will travel long distances to obtain. The butterflies gather every year on the slopes of the Bugong mountains, in New South Wales, where they are caught by being suffocated by the smoke of wood fires lighted under the trees.

Odd Monkey Specimen

One of the most interesting specimens in the world zoos was the monkey that didn't have a tail, in Australia. He was the most human-like of all Old-world monkeys on exhibition. He did not have even the vestige of a rudimentary tail and his cry was a single wail, singularly like the cry of a child. He was all black except for a white frontal band over his eyes.

Magic Power Adds Hours

In the artistic and utility scheme of things nothing is so dominant as lighting and its media, luminaires. By the press of a button or the turning of a switch we brighten and beautify the home. This magic invisible power simplifies our daily tasks, lightening the burden of housekeeping and adding more hours to our day, more luxury, greater convenience.

Where Two Rivers Meet

At Khartoum, the capital of the Anglo-Egyptian Sudan, the two rivers, the White and the Blue, meet. The water of the one river is of a [illegible] ish-gray color; that of the other clear and blue, except when in when it gains a chocolate brown [illegible] its alluvial burden.

Youth in Flower

The fairest flower in the garden of creation is a young mind, offering and unfolding itself to the influence of divine wisdom, as the heliotrope turns to sweet blossoms to the sun.—J. H. Smith.

IN NORWICH FIFTY YEARS AGO

Boat traffic in Long Island sound and the danger of flood conditions along the banks of the Thames made interesting reading for the Norwich people a half century ago. Boats were forced to return to the docks and those that did make the trip through the sound were badly damaged by the heavy ice. Long trips by ice in 1875 as late as February 27th told a far different story than that of the present year.

Items taken at part from the columns of the Bulletin of 1875 are as follows:

Monday, February 22, 1875—Plain Folks is the title of a new paper which made its first appearance in this city Friday. It does not announce the name of its publisher but it is understood that the genial John G. Cooley is back of it. In politics it announces itself as independent.

The City of Norwich was 32 hours making the trip from New York to New London Saturday. Her officers report that the ice in the sound has never been so heavy before. Firm ice stretches from shore to shore with the exception of a few narrow open spaces in the channel, but even these open places are not of sufficient width to allow for the passing of two ships.

At a recent meeting of the trustees of the mission chapel of the Broadway church it was voted that the name hereafter be The Buckingham Chapel. On Sunday it was announced that Gen. and Mrs. Aiken propose to present the school a bust of the late Senator Buckingham, which will be placed in the chapel when it is received.

Several people have suggested that a cannon be loaded and that a guard be kept near the Thames, to be ready to fire a warning signal should the ice suddenly let go. It is feared that if the ice lets go suddenly, flood conditions will prevail along the banks of the river. The cold wave of Saturday has made the ice solid once more but it is feared that beneath the outer coating the ice has rotted, due to the recent warm spell.

Tuesday, February 23, 1875—The locomotive Artisan which has been in the canal at Greeneville for some time, was raised yesterday and taken to the repair shop. It is expected that it can be repaired and put back into service.

The last car of one hundred coal cars made at the shops of the Norwich & Worcester company will be finished today.

Oystermen from many ports of New England are coming into New London harbor to ship their cargoes to other points. New London port has been the only port along the coast of New England that has not been closed this winter and this has caused many people to claim that it is one of the best natural harbors on the eastern coast of this country.

Earl S. Williams, whose mother lives in this city, left New Haven Friday morning and skated to Norwich, reaching this city late Saturday night. The entire journey was made on skates except from Niantic to New London Light and at the ferry slip where the ice was broken.

There is a possibility of a postal route via Groton and the navy yard, from this city to New London.

Wednesday, February 24, 1875—The resumption of the boats on the New York line temporarily increases the lately blockaded freight traffic. Last evening seventy-five cars came down on the express freight and forty-five go up in the morning. One hundred and seventy car loads of freight were at New London yesterday being shipped by the Norwich line.

Norwich is now well supplied with water, the level at present being less than three feet below that of full pond. The heavy thaw which set in last night began to tell on the ice on brooks and streams and the water is coming into the reservoir at a rapid rate, which should fill it to full pond within a week.

Blue birds appeared about the city in several places yesterday, and, as another sign of spring, a Ledyard boy killed a black snake over three feet long yesterday, the snake having come out into the open to sun itself.

Col. Bennett, contractor for the work on the Laurel Hill tunnel will begin work there Monday.

Thursday, February 25, 1875—Twenty five trains a day are pulling out of Norwich at the present time and the travel is reported to be excellent, both over the New London Northern railroad and the Norwich & Worcester line.

In one place on the face of Laurel Hill the water running over the brow has frozen and formed in ice a horseman riding a headless horse. The figures, as seen from the West Side, are perfect, and hundreds of people have gone there to take in this exceptional sight.

People have been suggesting that the street commissioner have one or possibly two of the crossings in the center of the city swept off so that people can cross the streets downtown without wetting themselves up to the knees.

Friday, February 26, 1875—The river rose considerably yesterday and before night there was five feet of water on the Greeneville dam. It is not expected that flood conditions will prevail.

With the coming of the warm spell coal dealers in the city hope to get new supplies of coal. All grades have run very low during the past month and there has been danger of a coal famine.

The fog in Norwich was so thick yesterday that when a boy in Preston threw a knife at a mark, the knife cut into the fog and stuck there.

James Ritchie collector of town taxes has notified the taxpayers that the tax of seven mills on the town list is now payable.

Saturday, February 27, 1875—Six feet of water was coming over the Greeneville dam yesterday but the ice, two feet thick, has not yet broken up in the river above the dam. Reports came down from Jewett City that the turnpike bridge has been washed away, but as there is no way of communicating with the village this has not been established as a fact.

Members of Christ church are to meet on the evening of March 1st to hear the report of the committee appointed to purchase a rectory. It is considered likely that the report of the committee will be accepted and that the rectory will be purchased.

The Norwich Elevator and Steam Mill has on hand at the present time, 20,000 bushels of old western mixed corn. Meal, provender, graham flour, white and yellow bolted meal are being ground fresh daily at the elevator and are being sold at retail and wholesale prices. Julius and Theodore Webb are taking orders for any quantity of grain at present.

The sound is not yet open to boats, several ships being forced back into harbor yesterday after running into the ice in the sound not far down the coast.

STAFFORD SPRINGS

At the fourth quarterly conference of the Methodist church held a few days ago it was unanimously decided to invite the pastor Rev. Ernest A. Legg to return for another year and the district superintendent, Rev. W. H. Bath of Norwich, was asked to convey this information to the New England Southern Conference. Mr. Legg has been at the local church four years and it is in a very active and prosperous condition. At the meeting the lay preacher's license of Richard E. Whittaker was renewed. Byron Coleman was confirmed as superintendent of the Sunday school and Harry Bradley as president of the Epworth League.

The town board of relief has completed its duties and the net result of their work has been to reduce the grand list $31,618. The list as returned by the assessors was $6,425,612 and the list as returned by the board of relief $6,391,944. There are 1,118 dwellings valued at $1,892,265 and 910 barns, garages and sheds with a valuation of $241,880. Mills and manufacturing plants add $1,115,135 to the list. There are 825 automobiles valued at $435,733. Furniture, musical instruments and libraries are valued at $68,240 and jewels $250. The rest of the list is made up of miscellaneous items. The board of relief heard 12 appeals. They added $2,643 to the list and deducted $34,161. The members of the board are Francis L. Upham, Charles R. Newton and Herbert A. Glazier.

Dr. and Mrs. H. H. Morse and Mr. and Mrs. Albert C. Cox returned Tuesday night from a month's visit in Florida. The trip both ways was made by automobile.

Miss Gertrude Bruce a teacher in the public schools in Deep River is spending a few days at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Bruce.

Mrs. Arthur Bosworth is ill with pneumonia at Johnson Memorial Hospital.

Miss Dorothy Pinney is at Miami, Florida, the guest of Miss Ruth Harrington of Worcester.

Miss Ethel Moore of Portchester, N. Y. was a recent visitor at her old home in Stafford Springs.

The teachers of the public schools are to have visiting day, March 9th.

Mrs. Arthur Johnson has returned from a brief visit with her daughter, Miss Dorothy Johnson, at Albany, N. Y.

George M. Stevens, of Stafford Springs attended the meeting of the Connecticut Retail Hardware Dealers' association in New Britain a few days ago and was elective treasurer of the association for the fourth consecutive term.

The interior of the local post office is being redecorated.

Burlson Davis of Monson road, was in the borough court Thursday morning charged with selling an unregistered automobile and not reporting the sale to the automobile commissioners. Davis pleaded guilty but said he did not know that it was necessary to report the sale. Judge Heald imposed a fine of $1.00 and costs, a total of $11.06 which was paid by David's father.

Clifford Ward of Buff Cap is ill at Hartford hospital.

Miss Edith Adams and Miss Mary Reynold of the First National Bank were recent visitors in New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank L. Converse have returned after a brief visit with relatives in Holyoke, Mass., and Providence, R. I.

LEBANON

George E. Chappell died at the Hartford hospital Tuesday evening. He had been a great sufferer for many months. He is survived by his wife and one son.

The Baptist Missionary Circle is to meet Tuesday at 2 P. M.

During March there is to be a supper in the chapel of the Baptist church again by the men who will also give entertainment.

Rev. Stanley Sellick's subject for his Sunday morning sermon was Washington and Lincoln, the C. E. meeting was led by Mrs. David Pitcher.

Rev. A. G. Little took for his subject the Voice of God, text, Heb. 3, parts of 7 and 8 verses. A duet was sung by A. A. Boothby and C. S. Briggs. The C. E. meeting was led by George L. Randall, and a lecture with pictures. The Sign of the Cross was given at 7:45.

A variety supper was served by the young men of the First Congregational church Friday evening to a large crowd. The supper consisted of baked beans, salads, pickles, rolls, pie and coffee. Following the supper an entertainment was given by the young ladies of the church. In two weeks the young ladies will give a supper and the young men the entertainment.

The Home Missionary Society met Thursday afternoon with Mrs. George McDonald.

Miss Myra Geer is spending a week with her aunt, Mrs. Charles McAron, in Richmond, Va., and on her return will spend a day and night in Washington. She was accompanied by Miss Ruth Lombard, a teacher in Suffield.

Mrs. Nellie Tuttle and sons, Donald and Charles of Hartford, spent Sunday with Mrs. Tuttle's sister, Mrs. K. F. Bishop.

Mrs. E. P. Abel gave a party for her children on Feb 15. Wednesday being the birthday of her daughter Helen and Sunday the birthday of her son Eugene. Fourteen children were present. The decorations were a combination of Valentine day and Washingtons birthday favors. Sandwiches cake, fancy cookies, punch and candy were served. Enjoyable games were played.

Rev. and Mrs. A. G. Littlefield and son Theodore and Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Goodwin spent Tuesday in Hartford where Mr Littlefield attended a ministers' conference.

Mr. and Mrs. C. N. Geer, Mrs. George Chappell and Mr. and Mrs Everett Chappell motored to Hartford Sunday to see George Chappell at Hartford hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. F. F. Manning and two sons, of Norwich spent the week end with Mrs. Manning's father, E. A. Hoxie

Mr. and Mrs. Austin Wade of Clark's Corner spent Sunday with their daughter, Mrs. E. P. Abel.

Mr. and Mrs. K. F. Bishop and Mr. and Mrs. O. L Pultz were Hartford visitors Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs A. C. Hoxie and daughter Phyllis spent the week end with Mrs. Hoxie's mother in Woburn, Mass.

Large flocks of robins have been seen about town the past few weeks.

Miss Janie Wield of Montville attended the Baptist church Sunday. She was the week end guest of Miss Cora Chappell of Chestnut Hill.

The man who loved and lost didn't get his presents back.

ECHOES FROM THE LODGE ROOMS

PATRONS OF HUSBANDRY

Norwich grange, No. 124, held its regular meeting Wednesday evening in steiner hall with a short business meeting, followed by the lecturer's hour which was in charge of Mrs. Ida Richardson, in the absence of lecturer, Louis Aldrich. A reading and a solo by Mrs. Richardson and a piano solo by Miss Beulah Rogers was followed by a roll call to which the members responded by telling the funniest jokes they have recently heard.

President Imbert Fellows of the New London county farm bureau gave an instructive talk along farm bureau lines, describing its lines of work and what had been accomplished in various ways.

A visitor was present from the grange at Gardner, Mass.

The next meeting will be neighbors night for which invitations will be issued to Konomoc, Pachaug and Plainfield granges.

V. F. W. AUXILIARY.

The welfare committee of the R. E. Hourigan Auxiliary, V. F. W., gave the Veterans at the state sanatorium a February treat Sunday. Mrs. Emma Hull, chairman, was accompanied by Mrs. Victoria Plante. Mr. Longo kindly put his car at their disposal for the trip.

ODD FELLOWS

The regular meeting of Shetucket Lodge, No. 27, was held Tuesday evening at Odd Fellows' hall with Noble Grand Archie Perry and Vice Grand John McNeely in charge. Considerable routine business was transacted and several candidates were worked in the third degree. Following the meeting a smoker was enjoyed.

At the next meeting the entertainment committee has arranged for several amusing sketches, in which there will be hits against members and other local cracks.

Palmyra Encampment No. 3, met in regular session Thursday evening at Odd Fellows' hall with Chief Patriarch Leslie Fowler in charge. There was work in the initiatory degree and after the meeting a social hour was enjoyed.

HIBERNIANS.

The joint committee of the Hibernian divisions which is in charge of the annual St. Patrick's dance met this week and elected Martin Burke general chairman, deciding that the dance would be given at the state armory on the evening of March 13 with a programme that would include the old and new dances and everything done to make this fourth annual joint event by the divisions one of the most enjoyable as a real Irish night. Each division has five members on the general committee which will hold a meeting on Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock in A. O. H. hall. The important business on hand calls for the attendance of every committee member.

B'NAI BRITH.

The Rose of New England Auxiliary No. 40, I. O. B. B., held a joint social with the Rose of New England lodge at the Buckingham Memorial on Thursday evening. The social took the form of a cultural program. In the absence of Sister President Pasnik, Sister Vice President Esther Trachtenberg presided. The program given follows: Prayer, Sister Smith; song, America; reading on Napoleon Bonaparte, Sister Jacobson; song, quartette, Brothers Pasnik, Herschel, Schwartz, D. Trachtenberg; recitation, Annie's Ticket, Miss Sadie Schwartz; reading, Oliver Cromwell, Sister E. Sears; piano duet, Mrs. A. Manes and Mrs. B. EASTERN STAR.

At the meeting of Sachem Chapter, No. 57, O. E. S., this week in Masonic Temple more than 100 members were present. The meeting was in charge of Worthy Matron Mrs. Ella H. Barber. Several candidates were initiated and action was taken on the death of Mrs. Mary E. Washburn, a member of the order for more than 20 years. This was the first meeting with initiation by the officers of 1925, who carried out the work in an able manner. It was also announced that the women of Eastern Star are to serve the supper to be given by the Grotto Saturday evening at Masonic Temple. The meeting closed in the usual form.

OPEN NOON LUNCHEON SERIES AT Y. M. C. A.

The Y. M. C. A. parlors were well filled Friday at the opening meeting of the noon luncheon series at which Dr. J. Romeyn Danforth of New London, was the speaker. Promptly at twelve the men partook of luncheon and at twelve thirty President James C. Macpherson called the meeting to order announcing the hymn, "Savior like a Shepherd lead me" and this was followed with prayer by Shepard E. Palmer, after which Hugh Kinder sang sweetly, "More love to Thee, O Christ." Dr. Danforth was then presented by the president, and the men evidenced their approval by sincere applause. Dr. Danforth announced the general theme of the series "Fire Lights of Faith," the topic of the first address being "The Burning Bush."

He spoke in part as follows:

The hearth fires of the world are the beacon lights of the generations. And our faith has its great fire lights. Let us look at a few of them in these Lenten days of our gathering here.

Often in imagination we have pictured Moses returning from the wilderness to see how Egypt fared. A bush growing in the scanty herbage of the fringes of the desert glows in fierce flame. He stops to look. Surely it will in a moment be a little heap of gray ashes on the bare ground. But no, it burns and burns and yet is not consumed. It would make any inquiring mind ask why. He turns aside to see. Then from the midst of the flame a voice addresses him and we have the turning point of his life.

There Moses finds illumination without destruction. God has the power to enlighten us and yet keep our personality intact. He has made us in his image. When we see the vision and hear the voice it is the very thing for which the soul in the image of God has all along been hungering and thirsting. We were made for such experiences. While in one way we cannot see God and live, in another we do not really live until we do see God. Moses had known God before; now he knew him better. And now knowledge gave him something to do. Here in the wilderness Moses received his mission and his power. He was told to go to Egypt and what he must do when he got there. It was no easy task, but no small power was given him for the doing of it.

When the Scottish Covenanters were suffering grievous persecutions they took for their emblem the burning bush. They were ever being burned by their foes, yet by reason of the Spirit dwelling in them they were never consumed. No wonder they took great heart and mighty courage.

More and more science is applying some kind of the same principal to the universe. There have been great discoveries in atomic activity and radio activity and if they keep on discovering forces like these they will soon be telling us that instead of the sun becoming an ash and the earth a snowball, the whole universe may keep on going indefinitely, a bush that burns but is not consumed.

Do we not find here some suggestion of the way in which the gift of immortal may be developed? Selfishness is destructive. The devourers are wasteful. Such traits within us as grasp and tear would tend to destroy us. We can hardly imagine greed as eternal. But the spark which dwells in man is continually causing our selfish traits to destroy not us but themselves. He is always planting and nourishing within us the building qualities, those which spring from love, of which the great God is himself the essence. Now these grow greater as the light of the shining presence of the glorious God abides within the bush of life. More and more we acquire elements which cannot die. Life within us shines more and more unto the perfect day. Moses looked for ashes and he found God. The clay of the earthen vessel we shall some day return to dust, but the heavenly treasure within it becomes the treasure in heaven. So God is ever giving us beauty for ashes. Each godly life is made a burning bush, and in each one the voice of God is speaking in the wilderness of years."

Where Designs Come From

Designs that fascinate the eye of embroidery lovers do not just grow in the mind of the designer or the factory girl who makes them. They are nature's handiwork. Growing plants provide the motif for much needlework, whether done by hand or on machines and the natural form assumed by a plant shooting into growth or a snowflake falling upon a black background are but examples of them.

Wife Understands

A husband often thinks that the reception is being given to celebrate the eighteenth anniversary of their wedding, observes H. R. H., but the wife is perfectly clear in her mind that the affair was planned to convince him by sheer force of numbers that at last they simply must have a sun-room built off the living room to the south, with French doors between.—Kansas City Star.

Claimed Prophetic Gift

Joanna Southcote, a domestic servant, aroused all England about 1814, with her pretended supernatural gifts and her claim to be the woman mentioned in Apocalypse, chapter 12. She gained over 100,000 followers.

Why Amber Mouthpieces

It was an early belief that amber had the power of preventing the spread of infection if held in the mouth, and from that belief it became the custom to fit amber mouthpieces to pipes.

PAROLED CHESHIRE BOY ARRESTED WHILE IN NEW LONDON FRIDAY

(Special to The Bulletin)

New London, Feb. 27.—Stanley Faulkner, about 18 of Watcrford, was arrested this morning by Probation Officer Richard W. Mansfield, charged with having violated his parole from the state reformatory at Cheshire. Faulkner, an ex-soldier, is now a prisoner at the police station awaiting the arrival of a guard from the reformatory, who will take Faulkner back. Faulkner was sentenced to the reformatory for taking an automobile without the permission of its owner. Recently he was paroled and obtained employment in Hartford. About a week ago it is alleged, that Faulkner stole wearing apparel from his employer, the plunder obtained including a suit of clothes. The police here were requested to be on the lookout for Faulkner as it was believed he would come to this city or go to his former home at Quaker Hill.

When he was observed about the street today by Probation Officer Mansfield the arrest followed.

Mrs. Mary Malan of 56 Washington street; Miss Mary Meade, 41 Meridian street and Miss May Frank, Groton, patients at Lawrence hospital, were dismissed today.

Lucy Conner has sold a house and lot on Hill street to Leonora Brown.

Mrs. Emily West of Hartford, formerly of New London, today sold the house and lot, 48 Prest street to Patsy and Concetta May.

The trial of Bernard L. Burnham, 318 Bank street and Thomas Stackhouse, 42 Crescent street, charged with reckless driving in the operation of their automobiles, held in the police court this forenoon, being postponed to Saturday morning. The two cars figured in a collision on Howard street late yesterday afternoon, which resulted in the Stackhouse automobile running over Charles Fuller, veteran newspaper peddler. Mr. Fuller was able to be about today apparently none the worse for his injuries, which consisted of bruises about the body and legs.

The cold weather that came Thursday evening caught a good many careless householders with water pipes in their homes unguarded and as a result plumbers were busy today in repairing burst service pipes and owners of premises had to thaw out frozen pipes. The temperature dropped to 10 degrees above zero.

Legislative action today in granting to Frau Moll the opportunity to take membership in the Teachers' Pension association, was gratifying to the many friends of that gifted woman, who was an instructor at Bulkeley school many years, and until the German language was cut out of the course of study.

Representatives of the local high schools and public library conferred with the budget committee of the city council in the office of City Manager William A. Holt, municipal building this evening for the purpose of making known the needs of the several schools and the library for the coming year.

Mr. and Mrs. Julius Hendel, 33 Linden street celebrated their 13th wedding anniversary today, in an informal manner at the Hendel residence with a gathering of only near relatives of Mr. and Mrs. Hendel and their family.

Abraham Sinlewitz and Hyman Stein, patients at Home Memorial hospital were discharged today. [illegible]

Mrs. Dan Fanning and her sister, Miss [illegible] Gordon, [illegible] motored to Watch Hill, R. I. The trip was made by automobile.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl C. Branch, Waterford, are spending a few days in New York. Mr. Branch being on his way to Beaumont, Tex., where he is to be employed.

Miss Mary Giardini, of Wes [illegible], who has been under treatment at Home Memorial hospital a fortnight, was able to return home today.

Mrs. Saniman, about 32, residing at [illegible] Lincoln avenue, was taken into custody this evening by Police Sergeant Samuel Hick and Patrolman Patrick Sheehan upon complaint of the woman's mother, Mrs. Frank A. Carlson, of the same address, who alleged that her daughter was insane. Mrs. Carlson stated that she had been ill several weeks and that her daughter, who had been caring for the mother, had exhibited signs of insanity the past few days, a condition Mrs. Saniman was said to have exhibited upon previous occasions. Mrs. Carlson declared that tonight the daughter attacked the mother, and besides beating upon the latter, Mrs. Saniman's husband, Mrs. Carlson hurled pails of water. Saniman is a salesman who disappeared two years ago, during which time his whereabouts has not been known to the wife. She will be examined by a physician and if her condition warrants, she will be committed to the Norwich State Hospital for the Insane.

The police today have been conducting an investigation, which if the facts in their possession prove correct, will result in an arrest of a well known man for a crime that will be revolting and will shock the community. The man has been under suspicion a long time as being a desenerate, but not until today was proof of his alleged practices lodged with the authorities.

The demolition of the fence along the Montauk avenue bridge in the gale of Thursday night meant watchfulness on the part of the New Haven railroad company to see that no accident occurred there as the bridge covers the tracks of that company. Two men with red lanterns were stationed at the bridge all night and patrolled to see that no autos drove over the side of the bridge and that no pedestrians got upon the rails. These watchmen saw the flames of the burning barn of Fernando Wheeler near Stonington and believed the fire was in the town of Groton. The atmosphere was clear and the reflection carried a long distance. They told this morning that a fire had been in progress at Groton and could not easily be convinced that they saw the reflection of a burning barn of Stonington. When a fire occurred at a leather goods plant at Colchester a few nights ago many attempted to go to the fire from New London and stopped only when they got well out of the city on the Hartford turnpike and realized that the fire was far away.

Rev. Myron E. Genter, who has been pastor of the Methodist church here the past seven years is to go to another assignment when the Southern New England conference of the Methodist church meets in New Bedford in March. It has been the practice in that denomination that pastorates be limited to five years. Only within a generation has the limit of pastorates been five years, prior to that time the length of service with any one church was restricted to three years. Rev. Mr. Genter has intimated that the church here expected too much of its pastor and did not show adequate liberality in the payment of a salary or in the provision of a parsonage. So he decided that he would ask to be assigned to a new field. The local Methodist church has prospered wonderfully under his administration of its spiritual affairs. No pastor who preceded him can point to as great a success for the church.

The general supposition that there is an immense quantity of liquor in the customs house in this city placed there after seizures by revenue steamers from the vessels rum running between the ships that bring the liquor across the ocean, is said to be an erroneous one. There is a quantity of liquor there and it is under the closest guard, but most of the liquor has been taken to warehouses in New Haven. The customs house is located at night and there is a well armed watchman there to see that the beverages under his charge are not molested. He makes his rounds at frequent intervals and goes prepared to meet any trespassers upon the property of the government or to encounter those who would break through and steal. It is a sad place for marauders to be caught!

Many friends and acquaintances of the late Michael O'Brien and his family visited the O'Brien home this evening to pay their tribute of respect.

MARY RUTHERFORD FOUND DEAD AT NEW LONDON

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, Feb. 27.—Mary Rutherford, 52, employed this winter by John P. T. Armstrong, 53 Hillside avenue, as cook, was found dead late last night in the yard of the residence of Miss Rutherford's employer, but not until this noon was it decided that the woman had died from heart trouble. Miss Rutherford's pocketbook contained a note, which revealed that a brother, James Rutherford, a motorman in the employ of the Connecticut company, resided in Norwich. He was notified of his sister's death today and came to New London to arrange for the funeral.

Miss Rutherford had been in sound health so far as was known, for she had not been in a complaining mood. Early last evening she left the Armstrong house to visit a relative. Miss Rutherford did not end her call until late and when she entered the yard of the Armstrong residence she was stricken, collapsing near the entrance to the rear of the house and dying without being able to give an alarm. Miss Rutherford's body was found by Mrs. Ainsley, mother of Mrs. Armstrong, some time afterwards. Physicians were summoned and pronounced the woman dead.

In her purse was found a note, which read: "Notify my brother, James Rutherford, Norwich, Conn., care trolley company."

This forenoon Medical Examiner Charles Kaufman, assisted by Dr. Alfred Labensky, performed an autopsy and decided that death resulted from angina pectoris and pulmonary adema.

It is believed that Miss Rutherford's exertion in walking against the high wind that prevailed brought about the heart attack.

After arriving in this country, Miss Rutherford was cook for a family on Lincoln avenue, Norwich, for many years. From Norwich she went to Ocean Beach, where for several years she had a very successful tea room on Park street, next to the Mabrey hotel. She was an exceptionally skilled cook, so that motor parties and others were her constant patrons during the season.

For a number of winters she was cook for members of Governor T. M. Waller's family, in New London. About three years ago she had erected an expensive cottage on lower Ocean avenue, at the beach, and this she rented, or made her home, in the season. For years she had as members of her household three or four chauffeurs from prominent families who came to the beach early each season, remaining late; and these "boys" esteemed Miss Rutherford as a real friend, solicitous ever for their well-being and comfort.

Besides the brother, James Rutherford mentioned in the note, Miss Rutherford leaves another brother, Joseph of Norwich, also an employe of the trolley company.

MYSTERY OF TELEPHONE GIRL UNSOLVED AT NEW LONDON

(Special to the Bulletin)

New London, Feb. 27.—Prof. C. J. Bartlett, of Grace hospital, New Haven, has made a report to Medical Examiner Charles Kaufman of the former's analysis of the internal organs of Miss Dolly Wench, 21, pretty Hartford telephone operator, who died at the residence of John Woods, 23 Ocean avenue, a fortnight ago, where Miss Wench was visiting. The report corroborates the decision as to the cause of death determined by Medical Examiner Kaufman, septic poisoning, following a criminal operation.

The authorities have abandoned all hope of learning who performed the operation upon Miss Wench, although they are satisfied that it occurred several days prior to the girl coming to this city and they are equally satisfied that the operation was performed in or near Hartford.

BRITISH RUM CRAFT FREE TO LEAVE NEW LONDON SOON

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, Feb. 27.—Schooner Over the Top, British craft seized off Block Island by revenue officers last October, charged with rum-running, which case was dismissed in the United States district court at New Haven yesterday by Judge Edwin Thomas, who claimed that the craft was illegally seized, will be released within a few days. Capt. Westhaver, who has been in New London since the seizure of the boat, is making arrangements for the craft's departure as soon as the federal authorities release her.

When the Over the Top was seized she was 19 miles off shore and although revenue agents visited the craft and purchased rye whiskey for $550, Judge Thomas decreed that the master of the schooner was within his rights in selling the liquor because of being outside the jurisdiction of the United States government. The schooner is now moored at the United States Coast Guard pier with her cargo of about 4,000 cases of rye and Scotch whiskey, in her hold. Captain Westhaver returned from New Haven last night and anticipates that the boat will be released next week.

WOMAN SENATOR PRESIDES OVER SENATE FOR FIRST TIME IN CONN.

(Special to the Bulletin)

Hartford, Feb. 27.—Friday sessions do not as a rule draw much of an attendance and today was no exception. Yesterday 14 committees were holding hearings and today but two were in session, the judiciary and cities and boroughs. But few bills had been on the calendar long enough to allow action, but when the assembly meets next week it will be greeted by the largest calendar this session.

H. B. 140, which passed the house today, makes changes in the personal tax law that affects towns of less than 15,000 only. It makes the tax payable on or before December 15th. If the population is over 15,000 the tax will be due and payable Feb. 1, except in New Haven where it will be payable January 1st.

The bill that would have prevented the advertising of patent and proprietary medicine in the state met with a quick death. Heard by the committee on Wednesday, reported adversely and rejected in the senate on Thursday, it received the finishing blow in the house today.

The same fate fell to the claim of John Potter of Griswold, who had presented a claim for over $2,000 for the loss of cider while in the possession of the state police and the federal enforcement officers. The claim was that over 1600 gallons were lost, containers were destroyed and property was injured. The claim was heard by the claims committee last week and today the house concurred with the senate in its rejection. The governor's appointments sent to the senate yesterday, were in concurrence sent to the judiciary committee.

A gale of laughter was caused by Representative Wheeler of Stratford when he introduced a resolution by request, that "directed the comptroller to order immediate cessation of the gale now blowing." For the purpose of immediate action, Mr. Bell of Salisbury is hereby appointed "special assistant to the comptroller." Speaker Darbie declared if there was no opposition the resolution would be considered as adopted.

Favorable Report on Shantok Bill

The committee on state parks and reservations which heard the bill introduced by Representative Sullivan of Montville which would make Fort Shantok a state park, made a favorable report this morning and it was recommitted to the committee on appropriations as the bill asks for an appropriation of $15,000.

The House

The house was called to order by Speaker Darbie and prayer was offered by Chaplain Lewis. Unfavorable reports were received on H. B. 138 that provided for the establishment of a state park in the towns of New London and Waterford and an appropriation of $200,000.00 for the same. No one appeared for or against the bill at the committee hearing; H. B. 69 that increased the compensation of jurors from $4 of $5 per day; H. B. 106 concerning limitation of time in new business could be presented to the assembly, provided that bills for all proposed legislation should be filed in the state secretary's office on or before the 15th of December preceding the convening of the general assembly; H. B. 284 that would limit the powers of justices of the peace in criminal cases, limiting them to imposition for maximum penalty of $50 or three months in jail or both; H. B. 455 concerning removal of obstructions to a clear view of street intersections.

The house concurred with the senate in the disposition of all business passed by that body on Thursday.

At 12 adjournment was made till 11.30 on Tuesday March 3.

Senate.

Senator Alice P. Merritt of the Second district presided at the meeting of the senate today. At the close of the day's session Senator Merritt was congratulated by the senators on the efficient and happy manner in which she conducted the proceedings.

The committee on the judiciary reported unfavorably on the bill concerning the cost of supporting children in institutions. The bill was rejected.

The committee on roads, bridges and rivers reported favorably on the bill concerning uniform system of accounts and report of jitney operations. Tabled for calendar.

Favorable reports were received from the committees on the judiciary on the following bills: Releasing the interest of the state in the estate of Nettie C. Rustemeyer; concerning the collection of forfeitures and penalties on account of bonds or recognisances given for appearances before the city court of Norwich; concerning changes in the boundaries of fire, sewer and other municipal districts. The bills were tabled for calendar.

On the recommendation of the committee on the judiciary the bill, increasing the salary of the secretary of the department of public welfare to $6,000 a year, was referred to the committee on appropriations.

The bill concerning the safeguarding of lives of the traveling public on state trunk highways was referred to the committee on appropriations on the recommendation of the committee on roads, bridges and rivers.

An unfavorable report was received from the committee on the judiciary on the bill creating a commission to investigate the advisability of establishing a state home for dumb animals. The bill was rejected.

The committee on roads, bridges and rivers reported unfavorably on the bills relating to certificates of titles for motor vehicles, concerning motor vehicles, additional number plates on motor vehicles, and local regulation of the speed of motor vehicles. The bills were rejected.

Senator Golden presented a petition from residents of Meriden against increasing the salary of the judge and of the deputy judge of the local court of that city. It was referred to the committee on the judiciary.

There was the ring of authority in the tap of her gavel, and sound when Mrs. Merritt used it to call the body to order for prayers every senator and others who had not noticed who had taken the presiding officer's seat looked up quickly. Senator Merritt presided in business-like manner and made her decisions on bills and other legislative matters in a clear firm voice.

On the motion of Senator Shaw the senate reconsidered its action on senate bill No. 117 concerning the collection of forfeitures and penalties on account of bonds or recognizances given for appearances before the city court of Norwich, and reassigned the bill to the committee on the judiciary. Senator Shaw said he made his motion at the request of Senator Robbins of the Nineteenth district.

When senate bill No. 68, concerning returns to the bank commissioner by trust companies, was taken from the calendar for action, Senator George E. Hall, of New Haven, called attention to a verbal inaccuracy in it. Senator Howe, who explained the bill, acknowledged the inaccuracy and on his motion the bill was tabled for correction.

Calendar.

Bills Passed—That treasurers of savings banks shall on or before November 1 in each year make a sworn return of the condition of the banks at the close of business on the preceding September 30; fixing the bond of the state treasurer at $200,000 and the bond of the deputy treasurer at $150,000 the premiums on the bonds to be paid by the state; providing for the printing of 15,600 copies of the state register and manual in years when the general assembly is in session and 12,850 copies in other years; that the annual meeting of the stockholders of the Stamford Trust company shall be held on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in February; incorporating the college of Our Lady of Mercy of Milford.

The committee on labor was given the use of the senate chamber for Wednesday, next, for hearings.

The senate adjourned to Tuesday, next, at 11:15 a. m.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

Peter Takes His Chance

When you've a chance don't hesitate;
Just seize it ere it be too late.
—Peter Rabbit.

Peter Rabbit was seeing something that he had never even dreamed he would have a chance to see. He was seeing Buster Bear awaken from his long winter sleep. It was something very few people have ever seen. It was somthing he would remember all the rest of his life, but that just then he would rather not have seen.

Buster was making the queerest noises. There were whines and grunts and growls all mixed together. He snuffed and snorted. He drew long breaths. Peter crouched as far back

H. Cady

It seemed to Peter that he never would get to that entrance as he could get and, making himself as small as he could, shivered and shook. Buster began to twitch his big legs and then to kick them out. You know he was very stiff. He was a long time about it, but at last Buster got to his feet.

Peter held his breath. Would Buster look around in that bedroom of his? But Buster didn't. He shook himself. He had stopped making those strange noises. He was making one noise now and that was a growl a grumbly, rumbly growl way down in his throat. He was back to Peter. He was looking out toward the entrance. He moved very slowly. He grunted with every step. It seemed to Peter that he never would get to that entrance.

Very softly Peter stole along behind him. He didn't dare get close to Buster's heels, but he wanted to be near enough to run out of that bedroom at the very first chance. At the entrance Buster poked his head out and then he stood for a long, long time. He couldn't seem to make up his mind to go out. Once he half turned as if he had decided not to go out. You should have seen Peter Rabbit scurry back to the very back of that cave. My, but Peter was scared!

But Buster didn't see him. Once more he put his head outside and stood blinking and looking about. He sniffed the air. He kept sniffing and sniffing. He grumbled at the snow.

"I've waked up too early," growled Buster in his grumbly, rumbly voice. "I've waked up too early. I may as well go back and go to sleep again."

But he didn't go back. He put one paw out in the snow and then drew it back. He did the same thing with the other paw. Finally he went wholly outside and stood looking around.

Now Peter was right at his heels. Now was his chance. With a great jump, Peter bounded out past Buster Bear, and away he went lippety-lippety-lip. My, how Peter did run! He made straight for a pile of brush and crept into it. Not until then did he look back. Buster Bear was standing right there at the entrance to his bedroom, blinking his eyes.

"Now where did that long-eared rascal come from?" grumbled Buster with a funny look of surprise on his face. "I didn't see him anywhere about. Yet he seemed to run out from right under my nose. If I were hungry I'd just go pull that pile of brush to pieces. But I don't feel hungry. I don't feel as if I had any stomach at all. I guess I'll look around a bit and then I'll go back and finish my sleep."

So without another look in Peter's direction Buster Bear slowly shuffled away. Peter drew a long breath. Then he looked around sharply to see if Reddy Fox was anywhere about. Reddy wasn't. Peter drew another long breath. "I can't get back to the dear Old Briar Patch too quickly," said he, and off he started.

The presidents of the three societies, Mrs. J. W. Carter, Mrs. F. E. Robinson and Mrs. A. M. Brown were seated on the platform. Mrs. George Sparks was pianist, a hymn of intercession opened the service at which Mrs. A. M. Brown presided. Mrs. Robinson led the Bible lesson and commentary on The Promises of God and the Testimonies of Men. Mrs. Carter led the responsive prayer of Thanksgiving. The Bible Reading A God-Given Measure was read by Mrs. Brown, also the facts fro meditation. Winifred Scates, Doris Bliven and Doris Johnson sang In the Secret of His Presence. The leader read the topics for silent prayer after which a Hymn of Brotherhood was sung. Mrs. E. M. Swift gave facts about the union colleges of the Orient—all students in America and in the world—foreign students in America and the production and publication of Christian literature for women and children in mission fields. Mrs. G. H. Prior offered the prayer for these subjects. Mrs. M. H. Bartlett told facts about the migrant groups that carry on our industries and offered the prayer for them; Mrs. W. C. Jeffers told of the Spanish-speaking and all other foreign speaking folk ni this country, and Mrs. Sarah Tracy offered the prayer; Mrs. G. H. Thorton read about the cities, towns and the country and Mrs. L. D. Howe offered the prayer. Mrs. A. C. Burdick read about the negroes, Indians and Alaskans and Mrs. Ella Geer made the prayer. Miss S. K. Adams told of the work in south and central America, Africa, the near and far east, and Mrs. C. D. Wolf offered prayer. Mrs. E. H. Hiscox gave the prayer for all church and missionay federations, schools of missions, conferences and city institutes. Mrs. E. E. Scates for the committee which outlines study courses and prepares literature. Mrs. Carter for the missionary societies and all organizations which plan policies and carry on the work and Mrs. Brown for closer cooperation between the churches in the God-given task of preaching the gospel to the nations. A prayer, the Lord's prayer, doxology and Mizpah benediction closed the service.

Amateur night Thursday drew a big crowd to the Finn Theatre. A part of the Segal and Mondor act was entirely unpremeditated, but it was so evidently a mishap that the audience forgot its manners and laughed. John Johnson and Isidore Uwant, members of the Keep Fit Sporting club gave a boxing exhibition. The Corby Sisters played harmonica duets. Theodore Boule, clever exhibition of athletic stunts, too second honors. Misses Segal and Mondor presented a singing and dancing act. Robert Pascussi played harmonica solos. Lewis Brown, seven year old colored boy in a fine jiggling number. To first prize. The management plans another amateur night at an early date.

Mrs. Aurore Wyant of Plainfield was taken to a New London hospital in the hospital ambulance Tuesday morning, suffering with double pneumonia. She died that night. The funeral service was held Thursday in St. John's church in Plainfield and burial was in Wauregan cemetery. The bearers were Aime Hardfield, Leon and Wilfred Blanchard, Alphonse Loisselle, Rosario Boucher and Aime Kawark. Hourigan Bros. were in charge of the arrangements.

Pachaug Community club entertained one hundred people Thursday evening under the direction of the executive committee. Mrs. C. T. Armstrong, Mrs. Frank Burton, Esther Frink, William Bitgood and Elmer Miller. Peter Olson of Jewett City gave a very fine talk on Merchant Marines, also gave an original poem. There was a reading by Susie Morgan, a solo by Annie Williams accompanied by her sister Mary, and a solo by Hubert Miller accompanied by Mrs. Raymond Krug. There was great fun afterwards at several tables where everybody stabbed peanuts. Ethel Fisk and Frank Wilcox won the prizes. Sandwiches, cake and coffee were served. Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Montgomery, Mrs. George Bessas, Mrs. Jane Lester and Fred Edmond comprise the committee for the next meeting.

Mrs. P. B. Driscoll went to Shelton two weeks ago to attend the funeral of a cousin. Her brother-in-law Stephen J. Riley, was taken ill while she was there, and she remained to help her sister, Mrs. Nellie Donovan Riley, care for him. Friday her sister here received word of Mr. Riley's death, just two weeks from the day his sister was buried.

A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Chronic coughs and persistent colds lead to serious lung trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with twofold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and kills the germ.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by the medical fraternity as the greatest healing agency for the treatment of chronic coughs and colds and other forms of throat and lung troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and destroys the germ that lead to consumption.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of chronic coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, catarrhal bronchitis and other forms of throat and lung diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or the flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Co., Atlanta, Ga. Adv.)

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

REACTION IN MARKET.

New York, Feb. 27.—Declining prices was the stock market's first reaction to the raising of the New York federal reserve rediscount rate from 3 to 3 1-2 per cent. When it was discovered, however, that most of the selling came from bear traders and that there was little general liquidation, the market rallied 1 to 5 points from its low levels. The subsequent raising of the call money rate to 5 per cent, coupled with the usual week-end profit taking, turned prices downward again in the late trading, closing quotations being irregularly lower with net losses of 1 to nearly 3 points scattered throughout the list.

Special strength again developed in the motor issues, buying of which was stimulated by reports of increased production and sales. Maxwell Motors A and B recorded new peak prices at 56 1-2 and 47 3-8, respectively. Jordan reached a new top at 56 3-4 and Gardner Motors at 14 3-4, all closing near their top prices. Pivotal industrials were reactionary most of the day. American Can dropped 5 points to 172 1-4 and then rallied about a point from the low. Baldwin closed 1 1-4 points lower at 42 1-4 after fluctuating between 140 3-4 and 141, and United States Steel common selling ex-dividend 1 3-4, showed a small net loss of 1 2-8.

Independent strength was shown in the wide variety of industrial issues. General Electric advanced 4 points to 241, 4 new Famous Players established a record top at 141, and issues of 1 and 2 points also were recorded by American Express, American Ship and Commerce, Barnsdall, Brooklyn Union Gas, Consolidated Gas, Coca-Cola Steel, Cuban-American Sugar preferred, Eastman Kodak, Kansas City Southern preferred, Remington Typewriter, Texas Gulf Sulphur, Tobacco Products, Union Tank Car and Virginia Railway and Power.

Oil shares offered stubborn resistance to selling pressure, the Pan-American issues establishing new peak prices for the year on reports of large current earnings.

Commercial Solvents A and B broke 4 5-8 and 3 3-8, respectively. United States Cast Iron Pipe dropped 4 1-2 and Mack Trucks, Allis Chalmers, American Car and Foundry, American Brake Shoe, Ludlum Steel, Railway Steel Spring and United Fruit were among the many issues to show net losses of two points or more.

Most of the rails yielded readily to selling pressure, the Western Pacific issues being an outstanding exception. Canadian Pacific dropped more than two points to 147 1-4 and losses of a point or more were recorded by the St. Paul issues, Rock Island, New Haven, Southern Pacific, Union Pacific, Northern Pacific, Norfolk & Western, Lehigh Valley, Colorado and Southern and several others.

Call money renewed at 4 1-4 per cent and then advanced to 4 1-2 and 5 in reflection of the higher rediscount rate and the usual heavy month-end demand for funds. Time money rates also displayed a firmer tone, 60 to 90 day funds being quoted at 3 3-4 to 4 instead of 3 3-4 flat and the long maturities at 4 to 4 1-4 per cent. Prime commercial paper commanded 3 3-4 per cent.

Demand sterling, which dropped 1 4-8 cents yesterday to $4.75 3-8 following the announcement of the higher bank rate, recovered its loss today on receipt of London cables predicting an increase in the Bank of England rate next week. French francs yielded slightly to 5.15 cents on reports that circulation of the Bank of France was close to the statutory limits of forty-one billion francs. Other changes were largely nominal.

SOCIAL CORNER POETRY

When Old Jack Died

When Old Jack died we stayed from school (they said,
At home we needn't go that day,) and none
Of us ate any breakfast—only one,
And that was pupa—and his eyes were red
When [illegible] where we were,
by the shed
Where [illegible] lying, half way in the sun
And half-way in the shade. When we begun
To cry out loud, pa turned and dropped his head
And went away; and mamma, she went back Into the kitchen. Then, for a long while,
All to ourselves, like, we stood
there and cried;
We thought so many good things of Old Jack,
And funny things—although we didn't smile
We couldn't only cry when old
Jack died.

When Old Jack died, it seemed a human friend
Had suddenly gone from us; that some face
That we had loved to fondle and embrace
From babyhood, no more would condescend
To smile on us forever. We might bend
With tearful eyes above him, interlace
Our chubby fingers o'er him, romp and race,
Plead with him, call and coax—aye,
we might send
The old halloo up for him, whistle
taist,
(If sobs had let us,) or, as wildly vain,
Snapped thumbs, called "Speak,"
—and he had not replied;
We might have gone down on our knees and kissed
The tousled ears, and yet they must remain
Deaf, motionless, we knew, when Old Jack died.

When Old Jack died it seemed to us,
some way,
That all the other dogs in town were behind
With their bereavement, and some that were chained
Even unslipped their collars in that day
To visit Jack in state, as though to pay
A last said tribute there; while neighbors craned
Their heads above the high board fence, and deigned
To sigh "Poor Dog" remembering how they
Had trifled him when alive, perchance because,
For love of them, he leaped to lick their hands—
Now that he could not, were they satisfied?
We children thought that, as we crossed his paws,
And over his grave, way down the bottom-lands,
Wrote "Oour First Love Lies Here," when Old Jack died.

A Poem on the Devil

Men don't believe in a devil now as their fathers used to do:
They've forced the door of the broadest creed to let his majesty through.
There isn't a print of his cloven foot or a fiery dart from his bow
To be found in earth or air today, for the world has voted it so.

But who is mixing the fatal draught that palsies heart and brain,
And loads the bier of each passing year with ten hundred thousand slain?
Who blights the bloom of the land today with the fiery breath of hell?
If the devil isn't, and never was, won't somebody rise and tell?

Who dogs the steps of the toiling saint, and digs the pits for his feet?
Who sows the tares on the fields of time, wherever God sows His wheat?
The devil is voted not to be, and of course the thing is true:
But who is doing the kind of work that the devil alone should do?

We are told that he does not go about as a roaring lion now:
But whom shall we hold responsible for the everlasting row
To be heard in home, in church and state to the earth's remotest bound,
If the devil, by a unanimous vote, is nowhere to be found?

Won't somebody step to the front forthwith, and make his bow and show
How the frauds and crimes of a single day swing up? We want to know.
The devil was fairly voted out, and of course the devil's gone;
But simple people would like to know who carries his business on.

BACK IN THE BICENTENNIAL CELEBRATION

Dear Social Corner Friends: A glad to see some of the older members come back. Billie suggested that we write about our earliest recollections. The time of the big centennial in 1869 I rode in a big covered wagon drawn by six pair of horses. The wagon was covered all over with red shiny cambric. It was trimmed outside with evergreens and flowers; the name was The New Concord. I remember the wide brim white leghorn straw hat I wore. Some one of the larger girls took it off and hung it up as it hid their view. I know of two others who were in the wagon beside myself who are living. I saw my mother and brother standing on the side walk and I wanted to get out and be with them. At the quarter millenial in 1969 I was in the city two days and two nights sightseeing. I well remember the tilting hoop skirts women used to wear and have often wondered how many could get any where near a bargain counter if they wore them now.

I also wore those Shaker sunbonnets, (they were horrid:) I have a sewing bird and would not know how to get along without it. There are two kinds; the one I like best is the one with closed wings—it's stronger. The one with spread wings has two cushions.

Catnip: Thank you for the valentine card. The sentiment is mutual.

Wild Flower: Be sure to march forth to our next meeting. It's somebody's birthday.

Foxglove: How can you leave your home for so long a time? I'm a poor hand to stay away even one night.

My sympathy goes out to C. E. S.'s family in their bereavement. Am so glad that I knew her.

Best wishes to all.

JOAN.

ROSALIND HAS CALLERS' DAY

Dear Friends and Editor of the Social Corner: I think the groundhog must have known it was time for warmer weather. He has certainly done his part so far. Sunday was a beautiful day. Happy Go Lucky and Primrose called in the afternoon. Happy presented me with a little present made by Primrose which was beautifully done. It was a napkin made out of white crepe and crocheted in one corner was the initial of my last name. I was very much pleased with it. Before they left there were three others who came to call. They were men folks and their main subject of conversation was about hens. I believe they decided the brown leghorn would lay the most eggs. As they were about to go three more came. These were young folks, one a student in high school. The talk mostly was on planets and one said Venus was more like our earth because it had only one moon. In the mean time I was showing them cards that I had received. One said "Keziah Doolittle, well that's funny. I didn't ever know you knew anyone by that name." After they talked it over among themselves, I told them it was a pen name in the Social Corner.

I was calling on a friend of mine a few days ago who is lame. I spoke to her some time ago about the theater and she said I don't believe I ever could get up out of one of those seats. I think othat every theater should provide a few seats for the lame and fat folks. Have them the same as a bench or if they have seats have the arms wide. In that way they could have them numbered. I want to tell Cactus Blossom that I have made some mince pices from her recipe and found them O. K I would like to get Primrose's recipe for mock cherry pie

All that came to our picnic in Putnam seemed to have a good social time

ASKING AND RECEIVING

Dear Social Corner Members: I seem to be talking quite often lately, but this time I'll not bother you but a few minutes. I mentioned in a recent letter how I had always wanted a sewing-bird.

I didn't know if there was one in existence now, but in a few days a kind neighbor presented me with one, and I was some pleased.

Now, when you want anything, just say it in the Social Corner, and may be as lucky as I was. If I talk too much I'll need to change my name, for I will cease to be a SILENT PARTNER.

A CANDY RECIPE

Dear Social Corner Editor: I have thought for sometime that I would like to join the Social Corner, as I have attended several of the club meetings and know quite a number of the members.

Now I will send my favorite candy recipe. 1 cup sour cream, 1 1-2 cup sugar and, boil ten minutes stirring all the time. Set in cold water and beat ten minutes, add 1 cup of chopped walnut meats, put in a buttered pan.

E. C. W.

JOINS THE CORNER

Dear Social Corner Editor: I have been to some of the club meetings and enjoyed them very much and would like to become a member of the Corner. I am sending one of my favorite cake recipes.

Spice Cake: 1 half cup butter and lard, 1 egg, 1 cup molasses, 3-4 cup milk, 2 cups flour, 1 cup raisins, 1 cup currants, 1 cup citron, 1 teaspoon cloves, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, 1 teaspoon nutmeg, 1 1-2 teaspoon soda.

I take for my pen name

PATTY.

JOINS WITH RIGHT SPIRIT

Dear Editor and Social Corner Sisters: May I join your cheery corner and start chatting with the rest of you? I'm going to be good and send a recipe to begin with.

One pound and 3 ounces sugar, one pound lard, two pounds flour, 1 ounce baking powder, 3 eggs well beaten, 1 pint sweet milk.

RADIO ROSE.

JOINS THE CORNER.

Dear Social Corner Editor: Having been a reader of the Social Corner page, would like to become a member. I will take as my pen name,

WANTS "MEMBER COLLECTION" OF PLANTS

Dear Editor and Social Corner Members: How glad I am to be able to profit by the splendid suggestions sent in by our members. It's just like having a party every Saturday evening when I read the letters in the Social Corner. I'm very fond of plants and all of mine were frozen this winter. I would like to start a "Member collection." If the sisters would send me a slip from any plant which may have, would return favor with flower seeds. I like geraniums especially the Martha Washington or pansy variety. How many have bouquets of the pussy willow? I think they are lovely. Plant life is so wonderful. A small seed, a little care, and an abundant payment in gorgeous blossom. Let's all plant something.

Speaking of early recollections reminds me of an incident which stands out in my memory away back yonder, years and years ago. My aunt, who reared me, took me to a photographer, who had difficulty in attracting my attention long enough to make a picture. He directed his assistant to crouch behind the scenery, (a gate post) and grasp the hair at the back of my head. The hair being short, he had to grab scalp and all, at the same time I was supposed to "Look pleasant, please," while the exposure was made. One can imagine the result. I still have the photograph.

Speaking of epitaphs, here is another found by an observer in the little churchyard at Pewsey in England. On the stone was cut these sentences:

Here lies the body of Lady O'Looney,
Great niece of Burke, commonly called the Sublime.

She Was Blind, Passionate and Deeply Religious,
Also She Painted in Water Colours,
And Sent Several Pictures to the Exhibition.
She Was First Cousin to Lady Jones,
And of Such Is the Kingdom of Heaven.

And still another more truthful than elegant.

Here lies old Ebenezer Jutt
Who called himself a botanist
He thought he'd eaten mushrooms, but
His judgment was the rottenest.

Now is the time of year we begin to take note of the condition of our complexion. Here is a method suggested to prevent wrinkles.

After stating that he knows of no method whereby wrinkles can be satisfactorily and permanently removed, Dr. MacDonald then suggests the following as a way of delaying the onset of wrinkles:"

"The face should be cleansed every night with hot water and a mild superfatted soap. Rinse finally in cold water and spray on an astringent lotion of this nature:

"Aluminium sulphate, four grams, glycerine, 50 grams, extract violet, five minims, aq. Laurocerasi, 10 grams, aq. rosae 10 grams.

"This lotion is allowed to remain on all night. Next morning apply cold cream with gentle massage and remove it when leaving the house. It is quite obvious that smoking, injudicious food and drink and late hours will hasten the ruination of any skin."

Best wishes to all from

ARIES.

LOOKING TO THE FUTURE

Dear Corner Sisters: There is a story of a white man who was traveling in a part of the world whence the people had at one time been cannibals. One of the natives the white traveler found reading a small copy of the New Testament. The traveler was one of those unfortunate men who had no belief in God, and for whom religion was only something at which to scoff.

Why do you waste your time reading that book?" he said to the native. "What good has it done you or anyone else?"

The native looked at the stranger in surprise and replied: "If this little book has never done you any good before. It has saved your life today. If it were not for what we learned from the book about a better way of living you would have been in a kettle cooking for dinner at this very minute."

Some people do not take to religion very seriously. They have never learned or do not stop to think that a man's religion is the most important thing about him. No man with any sense wishes to live very far from the sound of a church bell, unless he goes to a non Christian land as a missionary. The Christian religion is the inspiration to the noblest living and the brightest type of civilization.

It is so these are a great many who may scoff at religion but not so much as they used to.

Most boys appreciate the wisdom of looking ahead. The high school graduate w ho decides a college course is thinking in terms of the future. The young wage earner who opens a bank account has in his mind the day when a few hundred dollars of capital may enable him to take advantage of some promising opportunity. Intelligent humanity takes the future into account—It looks ahead.

But to look to the activities of middle life and to plan for old age is not enough. We must look ahead into life eternal. No boy lives as he ought who fails to realize the relation of today to immortality.

A young fellow was explaining he never could hope for a large measure of success. "I went through the high school of course," he said, "I need a college education and that is out of the question.". Somebody suggested the possibility of his working his way thrpugh college. "Why, that means having your nose to the grind stone every minute."

One of the leading lawyers of this country taught himself to read and write. That was the hardest. After that he taught himself the most of the things he knows. He has had to take care of himself almost from childhood but without the help of schools or teachers. He has become one of the foremost American citizens. It must be admitted he kept "his nose to the grindstone" pretty constantly through those early years. But he was ambitious enough to sacrifice the present for the sake of the future in which he believed—eternity as well helped him on.

ETHELYN.

WELCOMES THE NEW MEMBERS

Dear Editor and Social Corner Sisters: I feel it my duty to write a few lines and welcome the new members. Right now I feel you have not made a mistake. No doubt you all know a few of the members. But if not you will find upon entering the Social Corner you will always find Social spelt with a capital letter and the members always live up to the word. I am just speaking as to how I have found the members. I have met them in their homes, in the gatherings, on the street and in church and in all those places I have found them the same people. I met some of them on the street this morning and such a good time we did have together. There is something in their pleasant smile, and cheery voice that makes one feel "I am glad I am here." I trust all the new members will feel perfectly free in expressing their ideas. Many people many minds.

White Clover: I thank you. I remember those nice walks we had together. I am not in W very often now.

Grandma Gray: I am glad you wrote me a few lines. Thank you.

Calla Lily: I thank you. Yes, I am still here.

Uncle and cousins have to be taken care of. The one we lost was very ill but she did not complain in sffering.

Best wishes to all from

BON AMI.

HINTS AND EXPERIENCES BY ORMANDINE

Dear Cornerites: I want to thank the sister who wrote about using oil of peppermint in water to exterminate the tiny black flies on house plants. I have been bothered with the flies this winter and did not know what caused them to breed or what to do to them. I used the oil of peppermint and it "did the work," for which I am grateful.

Will send a few hints which I have tried and found satisactory. I have a white sink in my kitchen which gets stained easily—(rust stains mostly.) I find Cormond water and scouring powder are even better than kerosene and salt to remove the stains.

Bought some cotton blankets which were too large for the beds, (single beds,) so I cut off a 15 inch strip at side of blanket, and that I cut into squares and it makes dandy dish cloths.

I had a light gray felt hat which was soiled. Could not get any French chalk at the time so tried some talcum powder which I have had in the house twelve years. Rubbed powder on hat, then brushed off with a scrubbing brush, and it cleaned the hat as good as new.

Here is something else I tried. You can call it a success if you want to. (but I didn't.) Had eaten cake which had marshmallow on top and chocolate on top of that. (I do not know how the chocolate frosting was made) However, I had a square loaf of cake, which I split through the center and spread with frosting made of powdered sugar and chocolate mixed up with milk. Then on top I spread marshmallow fluff and over that the chocolate frosting. It looked very nice and I was delighted with it and set it away until next day. When I looked at my cake I found the chocolate had slid off of the cake and left some sticky marshmallow on top with chocolate frosting in a little heap beside the cake. I am going to learn how the chocolate frosting was made which I ate at my friends home, before I try the trick again. My way of doing it was a failure any way.

N. O. T.: Jack's Wife is wondering if you live in the little house at the foot of schoolhouse hill? She lived in the village 15 years and left Y 15 years ago, I went to school there, Mrs. Peckham was my teacher.

Evelyn Burr: Your friend and former neighbor (in P.) Mrs. L. R. would like to know your address since you moved as she would write to you if she knew where to address a letter. You wrote to her last summer at the time her daughter D was married. She wanted me to give you this message as it was the only way she knew of reaching you. Hope I have not made a mistake. When you lived in P. you were A. B. if I am correct.

Best wishes to all.

HOW TO USE CRANBERRIES

Dear Social Corner Editor, Sisters and Friends: How are you all and what are you doing this winter. I know one thing some of you are doing, and that is having good times at the Buckingham Memorial. I most certainly envy all those who can get together and enjoy those monthly gatherings, and only wish I could be with you. But that is possible only in spirit.

I have not done very much fancy work this winter. Since my fall on Christmas day my hand has been so bad I have to go to the doctor and have it dressed every week now.

I am having a run now on a new style of sleeping caps. Everyone is wild over them. I haven't found anyone yet who could tell what they were for when they were spread out.

Cranberry Marmalade: Put three cups of raisins through the meat grinder, add three cups of berries, three cups of water, 1 1-2 cups sugar and one teaspoon salt. Cook slowly until the mixture thickens, generally it takes about 45 minutes, pour into hot jars and seal.

Cranberry Marmalade: Put three wash one quart of berries. Place in a sauce pan and add one and three quarters cups of water. Boil ten minutes, rub the berries through a sieve and to the pulp and juice, add one cup of chopped raisins, three cups sugar and the juice of one orange. Simmer 20 minutes, then add one cup chopped nut meats, pour into hot jars and seal.

One of the best ways to discover the delightful taste of the berries is to grind them in a food chopper, using the coarse blade, sweeten them with sugar, and let them stand over night in a cool place. A wonderfully good relish is the result.

Cranberry Ice: Cook four cups cranberries in two cups of water ten minutes, then rub them through a sieve. Add two cups sugar and the strained juice of two large lemons and freeze. Use three parts of ice and one of salt in freezing. Serve with meat or as a dessert.

Good luck and a prosperous year for the Corner and all who are interested in it is the wish of DOM PEDRO.

LORNA'S CUP CAKES

Dear Social Corner Sisters: Just a few lines to keep our page full. Hope the sisters had a good time at the last meeting. I am sending a recipe for Cup Cakes: One fourth cup butter, one cup sugar, one egg, two thirds cup milk, one egg, two level teaspoons baking powder, one fourth teaspoon salt, one half cup of currants, if desired. Cream the butter; gradually beat in the sugar, alternating with the last of the sugar a few drops of milk; add the egg and alternately the rest of the milk, and the flour sifted with the baking powder and salt. If currants are used, add them to the creamed butter and sugar. Cover with a boiled frosting.

With greetings from

LORNA.

TEA MADE WITH MILK

Dear Sisters: Tea made with milk instead of water is more refreshing. The milk should be boiled and the teapot well warmed. Use the usual amount of tea. Let it stand two to four minutes then pour out.

Cabbages should always be boiled in two waters. In the first water I put a pinch of soda. The first water carries off much oil which is indigestible to a great many people.

While south I found the people dressing. I prefer it to sweet cream.

While south I found the people there use rice as a vegetable, scarcely ever as a dessert. Rice cakes are very good with any kind of meat.

Rice Cakes: 1 cup of rice in 3 cups of water or milk, wash rice thoroughly, bake 1 hour then add three tablespoon of cheese, salt, pepper and two beaten eggs. Drop by spoonfuls in deep hot fat.

UNCLE SAM'S DAUGHTER

HOW TO BREAK UP FITS OF ANGER

Dear Cornerites: Every mother should study the effect of health habits and self control. Let her set pace and insist that the child early in life follow her teachings. The time-worn adage, "As the twig is bent—the tree is inclined," still holds good.

Many children are given to fits of temper or exhibition of extreme anger. In many cases these are due to some physical trouble with the child which always should be sought for and if possible removed. I have known children who when denied something they very much desired would throw themselves upon the floor and kick and scream with might and main, even to the extent of doing them bodily injury. And of all the many remedies tried for this error I have found none so efficacious as utterly ignoring the fit by the family. Let the child kick and scream. If it finds no one seems to care at all, that it does not even receive reproof of any kind, it soon becomes ashamed. A very few results of this kind will break up the worst fits of temper. I know it will. It is better than threatening a whipping.

And as for naps in the life of nearly every child there comes a time when the daily nap is nearly out grown, but when the child still needs it a little longer. Then you have to invent some way to keep her taking it.

One way is to take a good sized post card, arranged to be hung upon the wall by a pretty red ribbon. At the top write, Mertoy's Good Naps or "Warren's Good Naps" maybe "Ruth's Good Naps." Cut gold stars, or stars out of gilt paper, and when the child has had his or her nap let him or her paste on one of these tiny gilt stars representing one of their good naps and the pleasure of pasting it on when they awake induces them to lie still and drop off to sleep.

You will find such a device with the child will probably give them a nap which otherwise would be omitted.

KITTY LOU.

HOME MADE SAUERKRAUT.

Dear Social Corner Sisters: I am going to tell you how to make sauerkraut. Cut the cabbage with a cabbage cutter very fine. Cut out all the outside leaves. Cut cabbage in two, put it in the cabbage cutter but cut some off of the white, thick part. For 30 to 35 heads of cabbage do not take more than a pint or pint and a half of salt, take large stick, shaped like a potato masher and press down kraut in barrell. Press solid, there must not be any lumps or chunks in the sauerkraut. Every time you cut about 3 to 10 heads of cabbage, put about a handful of salt on top, then press it down. Let it stand one week back of stove till it works. Then take it down cellar and put round cover on top of kraut and stone on top of board to keep the liquid on top of the cabbage.

Poultry and game can be greatly enhanced in its lusciousness by stuffing with previously cooked sauerkraut in place of the ordinary dressing.

Sauerkraut With Sausage: One can of kraut, one pound smoked sausage. Place in alternate layers in baking dish, sprinkle with pepper, add cut of water, cover and make one and a half hours in moderate oven.

Sauerkraut With Meat Dumplings: Cook meat either fresh pork loin or spareribs, add four cups sauerkraut and cook together or you can bake it for two hours. Two cups of flour, four tablespoons baking powder, half teaspoon salt, two teaspoons butter, one cup milk. Mix and sift dry ingredients and work in butter with tips of fingers, add milk gradually, drop by spoonfuls on top of meat and kraut. The dumplings should rest on the meat and kraut should not settle into the liquid. This makes them heavy so in case there is too much liquid remove some. Cover closely and cook 10 minutes without uncovering.

Spanish Onions with Sauerkraut: Peel six onions, scoop out from the top a portion of the center parboil them for five minutes and turn them upside down to drain. Fill them with the following mixture: 1 cup sauerkraut, 1-2 cup soft bread crumbs, half cup left over fish meat or chicken finely minced, the onion taken from the center chopped fine, pinch salt, quarter teaspoon paprika, 2 tablespoon butter. Fill the onions heaping full with the above mixture, sprinkle the tops with crumbs place them in a pan with an inch of water, cover and let cook in oven for one hour or until tender, but not so long as to lose shape. Take off the cover the last five minutes so they will brown slightly.

Egg Plant a la Sauerkraut: 1 egg plant, 1 cup sauerkraut, half cup bread crumbs, 1 tablespoon onion, quarter teaspoon pepper, 2 tablespoons fat. Cook the egg plant in boiling water 15 minutes, cut a slice from the top, remove the pulp carefully and to it add the sauerkraut, bread crumbs, onion, pepper. Melt the fat, add the sauerkraut and bread crumb mixture, stir well, refill the egg plant shell and bake in a hot oven 10 minutes.

Sauerkraut Roast: 2 cups sauerkraut, 1 cup peanuts, or any other desired nuts, 1 onion, 1 cup tomato pulp, or soup, 1 cup grated cheese, 1 cup cracker crumbs, 1 tablespoon salad oil or fat and seasoning. Put nuts and onion through coarse knife food chopper. Combine with sauerkraut, tomato pulp, cheese, or crumbs. Season to taste, pepper sage or poultry seasoning. Moisten with water or tomato pulp shape in loaf and bake 30 minutes. Serve with tomato sauce. These are robust winter dishes and healthful article of food.

GREETINGS FROM CRIMSON RAMBLER

Dear Corner Members: What beautiful weather we are having, aren't we? And what a nice lot of letters we had in our last Saturday's page! Keep up the number, members, soon we shall need two pages, instead of one.

Balsam Fir: I have not forgotten to send you that clipping. Will do so when the spirit moves for me to write a letter. I, too feel as one sister says like starting in housecleaning, the weather is so mild, it makes me feel like parting with the accumulated dirt of the priters.

Country Sister: Have you not made some kind of a mistake? You say you know my brother and I, if so our names are not Connelly. You may know who we are but the name is not correct. Guess again. Which brother did you know? I had five.

Was very sorry to hear of Sister C. E. S.'s death. Had met her several times in Willimantic.

Paula: What do you know, but the card came the next day after you were here! You sent it on a rambling expedition allright.

J. E. T.: Glad you responded to my question. Now all I need say is, C. R. get busy. You failed to let me know what time to send Sarah on her trip.

Savilla: You may expect a letter from me in a few days, and I hope you will grant my request.

Maple Leaf: Why haven't I seen you since? How is Chubby? Does he do his stunts allright? Think he is just like a four year old.

Good wishes to the members and long may the Corner survive is the wish of CRIMSON RAMBLER.

HOW TO REDUCE BY DIETING

Dear Social Corner: The question has been asked recently in the Corner and rather skeptically whether anyone ever did reduce the weight by dieting. I would say they most assuredly do and can. Reducing weight by dieting is really a very simple matter. It does not mean, as many think, starving oneself, but rather eating right things, eliminating from the diet fat producing foods. But there's always a but—the most essential element entering into your reducing is your own will power. You must have a certain amount—yes, a large amount—of stick-to-it-iveness. Sit down and commune with yourself. When you have made your decision go to it. (That expression is certainly expressive.)

Of course you'll break over. Now and then you'll go to a social, a picnic to a friend's home to dine. You will have occasions when you absolutely must have, you will feel, a few pieces of candy or some delectable cake.

My experience is you had better indulge the whim now and then—moderately—if you conscienciously return to the perscribed diet. Firstly, if you are the family cook don't think to prepare the usual meats, and from them pick out something or other or dine on a couple of crackers and cup of tea, as I knew one woman to do.

You must arrange a special menu for yourself of palatable foods, planning ahead to have on hand such food as will give you proper nourishment. I will append a list of foods one can usually have. This is simply a restricted diet—any more rigid diet should not be entered into without advice of your family physician.

You may have following on restricted diet to reduce: Meats, lean beef, lamb, veal, poultry. Fish nearly all except salmon, mackerel and halibut. You can have clams, oysters, lobsters, vegetables, all green vegetables as greens, green beans, cabbage, cauliflower, celery, turnips, onions, carrots, parsnips, tomatoes, (avoid creamed dishes) all bread 24 hours old, wheat bread toasted (eaten dry) with small amount of butter, eggs can be eaten, entire wheat or gluten or bran bread or muffins; no rich pastry, no cake, except occasionally a small piece of sponge, or a plain cruller or a cookie not very sweet.

For deserts, fruits as oranges, grapefruit, pineapple, berries (some) small amount of coffee or tea. Avoid all made dishes as escallops of macaroni, etc., no candy, cereals, without cream, small amount of sugar—no sugar is better—custards, or tapioca pudding occasionally, prune whip. Occasionally one can indulge in apple or squash or prune pie. You see how good a list of food one can select from. Eat meat only once a day and of your food try eating a little less in quantity.

A sample day's menu would be about like this: Breakfast—orange, half grape fruit, or baked apple, stewed prunes, dish toasted bran, slice dry toast, one egg, one small cup coffee or some other cereal and two bran muffins.

Dinner—small portion meat two vegetables (if green) all you want, entire wheat or graham bread; dessert—fruit or prune whip, or tapioca with fruit.

Supper—soup, two crackers, a dish of vegetable or vegetable salad, toast of bread as above and fruit.

In fact the whole thing resolves itself into this: eat less, of right food, avoiding starchy food, fats and sugar, using only enough sugar to make things palatable, using also small quantity of butter and you will be fully compensated for any self denial at the table by the comfort you are taking without the superfluous flesh. If rigidly adhered to this will take off your flesh gradually and in a few weeks you will be surprised at the ambition you will acquire and the general toning up of general health.

AURELIA.

C. E. S. WILL BE GREATLY MISSED

Dear Corner Friends: It is a long time since I have written for the Corner but having had sickness in the family since early in December, I neither had time nor inclination to write, although I very much wanted to let a Social Corner Member know I appreciated with thanks the the dainty calendar in the creamy shades of the Corner color. The pretty scene was one of "ye olden time," a Puritan maid sitting in a straight-backed chair and a lowboy near. Also I wanted to correct an error in the printing of my last letter when I described one of my night fishing expeditions and caught that large 18 inch fish instead of 13 inch as was printed. As that was the largest fish I ever caught or expect to again I rather wanted the credit of the whole fish before it was beheaded and curtailed.

How we shall miss our sister that has just left us—C. E. S.! How she served the Social Corner and was always willing to help in any capacity! How gladly she opened her doors to invite the Corner to partake of her hospitality; we always had a royal welcome and wonderful time. One could always go to her for help or sympathy and from the inexhaustible supply procured from years of experience we were benefited by her advice or council. Our sympathy goes to all that are left to mourn her loss.

Our 15th anniversary is at hand. Congratulations are due for the wonderful success and progress during this time. The Social clubs are busy. Why can't Club No. 1 have a real old time gathering on March 11? We want to see Aunty No. 1, Biddy, Aunt Hester, Tiny, Crimson Rambler, Joan, oh, so many more and the new members too—there is room for all in Franklin hall. Remember the date, your dishes and food as usual.

THEODA.

GREETINGS FROM CATNIP

Dear Editor and Social Corner Sisters: It has been quite a while since I wrote so thought perhaps you would like to hear from me so here goes. Hello, to you all, I am feeling quite well, the weather is fine and I hope it will be fine for next Wednesday. I hope we will have a full house. I miss a great many dear faces and hope you all can come. Of course I don't have far to go to the B. M. like a great many do but hope to see you all.

Whirlwind: I got your card all right, many thanks. Glad that Foxglove wished to be remembered to me. Hope you both will be able to come March 4. I have almost forgotten how you both look.

Lucy Acorn: Sorry you have been sick. Trust you will be able to come to the next meeting. I hope it will be pleasant for it must be dreadful walking. It is bad in the city and it must be worse down your way.

Joan: Hope you will give us some music. You are so good to play. There are more who can play but won't.

Lo: I hope you are better. Don't worry about the money.

True Blue: If there is anything I can do to help you I will. I am not much good but will try.

KITCHEN HELPS BY RURAL AUNTY

Dear Members of the Corner: How are you all this fine morning? I hope you are enjoying this fine weather. Some one said, "Why don't Rural Aunty write," so thought I would write a few lines if I didn't Kechie would think I spent all my time listening in on the radio. I want to tell him I have done a little something else. I have made two bedquilts and four rugs nearly done besides some crocheting besides my housework this winter. I often think that a woman who does not have any outside help and so many household cares to look after has a big responsibility on her hands, but I for one thoroughly enjoy doing my work, going from one thing to another and singing as I work, which helps to pass the time very pleasantly. And I can find time for a little recreation besides. I want to say right here that I certainly do enjoy my radio and have got some fine things on it. It is wonderful how many different things you can get. Some one thought I must be quite a radio bug and I will have to admit I am. I wish others could come in and enjoy it too.

I will give a few kitchen helps of my own. When making mince pies I just quarter the apples, take out the cores and poor places and part of the skins and they are then ready for the grinder and you wouldn't know the difference after they are cooked. It saves a lot of time paring them all over. In that way you can make a pie quickly. Put newspapers in sink when you wash a kettle that is black on the bottom and see how much less work it makes.

Instead of baking apples in the oven try cooking them on the stove in a kettle by putting in some sugar and a little water, and see if you don't like them better. They are much nicer. Cook the water nearly out but see that they don't burn.

A great help to anyone who can't see to thread a needle very well is to buy some embroidery needles. The eyes are much larger and you can thread them without much trouble. You can get most any size you want.

Stockings that have passed their usefulness make very nice rags for rugs. They are very soft to work on. When you are doing your work have a bench high enough so you won't have to bend over to work. It saves your back. I have seen some people bend over almost double doing their work which is very unnecessary.

I am a quite a hand to do the work I dislike first. It seems the other work comes easier. All these things I have found out by my own experience.

Two egg Sponge Cake: Break two eggs in a bowl with a little salt and beat well, then add a cup of sugar and a teaspoon of flavoring, and stir well, then a small half cup of hot water and stir again. Then sift 2 large teaspoons of baking powder and add to mixture and stir well. Bake in not too hot an oven. I hope some sister will try it and report.

Anna E: Sorry you don't gain as you would like to. Hope there will be an improvement soon.

Kechie: Have you got your sunbonnet ready.

Grandma Grey: Do write again soon.

Rosy Posy: I thought I had sent you my address. I will send it right away.

Ma of Greene Gables: Think you are smart in starting housecleaning. Send your son over to help me out.

Free Air: A little more free air would do us all good.

As my letter is getting long will ring off and give someone else a chance to write a better one. Long life to the Corner.

RURAL AUNTY

HOW TO COOK ASPARAGUS

Dear Social Corner Editor: Thanks for accepting me into the Social Corner. Also thanks to the Corner member who said she was, "glad to see the Corner growing." it sounded like a very pleasant welcome.

The early part of February did make one feel like housecleaning, still I think it is a little early to put the rugs and the mattresses out.

But in these days of near water famine we welcome every rain closed, and I for one just enjoy every storm. It means so much toward safe city water in our reservoir for the summer.

In the spring one's appetite craves the early vegetables, so I will send to the sisters the recipe for preparing asparagus which is very simple and tasty.

Take one large bunch of asparagus, cut into pieces about two inches long, until it cuts hard. Place the little tops in a separate kettle, and boil in salt water, both quantities, until tender. Save the liquid all are boiled in and moisten 4 or 5 slices of buttered toast with this liquid. Thicken the rest of liquid with flour to the consistency of cream then add the cooked asparagus to this cream and let come to a scald. Season to taste with pepper and butter, and pour over the buttered toast which you have arranged on a platter.

You can use canned asparagus tips in the same manner,—only there will be a lack of liquid, and you can use hot water to soften the toast (sparingly.)

The recipes in the Social Corner letters are very popular.

I have tried many myself and have heard of many people who enjoy them.

With best wishes to all.

ECLIPSE.

GREETINGS FROM EFFIE M.

Dear Social Corner Sisters: I want to thank those who sent me cards on the 16th also those who helped pass a long to be remembered day. I had 50 cards, a beautiful tray (and am in hopes we all sometimes can have something served off from the same) and the lovely pocket book, Selinda for the darling blue eyed baby, (it has been as good as can be) and Nutmeg for the knife. It surely was good wasn't it? Sorry some could not come. Better luck next time, Necha.

In November at our social Selinda was chairman and C. E. S., myself and others were hostesses. How C. E. S. enjoyed helping. She was always ready. Little did we think it would be our last time together. Do you, who were at the meeting, remember the last reading that she ever gave us? How jolly she gave it. If you should want to know Amy can remember it nicely as she gave it to us Feb 16.

Now Kitty and Bertha try and come in March, for she would wish you to.

True Blue: If you come in March bring samples so I can take time to look at them.

Nema: Surely my two little pigs are not growing.

Sis Hopkins: You were a busy one and many thanks.

Handsome: Remember you get one of those too, and others!

Mary France: I light it up at night.

Starlight: If I knew your address I would drop you a line. With best wishes to all.

EFFIE M.

NORWICH, CONN., SATURDAY, FEB. 28, 1925.

The Bulletin.

Norwich, Saturday, Feb. 28, 1925.

WEATHER

Conditions

The northeastern storm has continued to move northeastward over eastern Quebec and Labrador. High pressure prevailed over the eastern half of the country with generally fair weather. The temperature was considerably below normal Friday night east of the Mississippi river, except in the extreme south.

The eastward advance of a disturbance over Colorado will be attended by snow in the lower lake region, northern New England and northern New York, rain or snow in the upper Ohio valley, southern New England and the northern portions of the Middle Atlantic states.

The temperature will rise in the North Atlantic states Sunday.

Winds

North of Sandy Hook: Diminishing westerly and weather fair Saturday.

Sandy Hook to Hatteras: Moderate to fresh northwest, becoming northerly over south portion and weather fair Saturday.

Forecast

For Southern New England: Fair and continued cold Saturday; Sunday increasing cloudiness and warmer; rain or snow Sunday night.

Observations in Norwich

The Bulletin's observations show the following changes in temperature and barometric changes Friday:

TAFTVILLE

The regular meeting of the members of Troop 3, Boy Scouts, was held Friday evening in the recreation rooms in the basement of the Taftville Congregational church, with the Scoutmaster Harold E. Linderson in charge. The scouts plan to present a play in the near future and have a committee working on the matter.

Leon Bourdon of South A. street has resigned his position with the Ponemah company.

The weekly meeting of the Thursday Evening basketry class was held in the Red Cross rooms in the Ponemah building.

Chief Ranger William Smith was in the chair at the meeting of Court Wequonoc, No. 76, Foresters of America, which was held Thursday evening in the court rooms in St. Louis hall building on Main street.

Miss Dorothy Wood of the Willimantic State Normal school is spending a few days with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Wood of South Second avenue.

Complaints are being made about the wholesale killing of birds by boys of the town who possess air rifles. This is strictly against the law and steps are being taken to put an end to this practice.

James Carter presided at the weekly conclave of Castle Perilous, No. 377, K. O. K. A., which was held Wednesday evening at the Taftville Congregational church.

With only two more weeks for the filing of income tax returns, local notaries are busy filling out blanks and administering oaths for the taxpayers.

Mr. and Mrs. Hormidas Benoit and family have taken a house on North Fourth avenue.

Miss Helen C. Aberg of Willimantic is passing the week end at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Axel L. Aberg of North Third avenue.

The A-o-wo-ki-ya Camp Fire Girls entertained the Ocowasin Camp Friday evening in the vestry of the Taftville Congregational church. The affair was in the nature of a George Washington party, the rooms being decorated with red, white and blue bunting, and the electric lights in the same hues. The tables had streamers of red, white and blue running to each place, which was marked with a place card in the shape of a hatchet. A number of games were played after which refreshments were served and the company united in singing patriotic songs. The committees in charge of the pleasant affair were: refreshments, Miss Celena Adams, Miss Rose Hodkinson, Miss Mary Martin; entertainment, Miss Edna Krodel, Miss Elizabeth Newton, Miss Agnes Troeger, Miss Freida Saroski; decorations, Miss Louie Unsworth, Miss Melba Monty, Miss Mildred Troeger and Miss Florence B. Lukoff.

Ray Gero, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Gero of Norwich avenue, is a patient at the Backus hospital, following an operation for appendicitis.

About 6.30 Friday evening there was a chimney fire at the Army and Navy club on Dion street. Fire Company No. 2 responded to the alarm and the blaze was quickly under control.

EAGLES WIN PINOCHLE FROM POLISHERS UNION

The Eagles pinochle club defeated a team representing the Polishers union in the first evening of play at Eagles Home, Friday night. High score for the Polishers for the evening went to Capt. "Deek" Woodmansee with 7570 while President Timothy Fields of the Eagles carried off honors for his team with 8255.

Scores by the Polishers team were as follows: "Deek" Woodmansee, 7670; Charles Johnson, 7195; N. Petrone, 7065; William Baer, 6760; C. Nowacki, 6730; Edward Griffith, 6560; E. P. Mullins, 6535; William O'Brien, 6365; H. Herring, 6120; J. Doyle, 5020; T. Woodmansee, 5995; L. Hurst, 5490; total score, 78,386.

Scores for the Eagles were as follows: Timothy Fields, 8255; J. Bowne, 8140; W. R. Hastedt 8020; F. Hunter, 7825; George Nadolny, 7565; A. Hastedt, 7640; H. Marcus, 6955; N. Leirick, 6905; A. E. Steinke, 6650; H. Follenius, 6585; C. Schlinz, 6440; E. J. Mullins, 6070; total score, 87,050.

The second game of the series is to be played on Friday evening, March 6th at the Eagles club.

BOARD OF RELIEF MAKES TOWN'S TAXABLE GRAND LIST $22,022,704

The members of the board of relief James C. Fitzpatrick, M. Frank Leonard and Francis Belque, completed their work Friday and signed the completed taxable grand list of the town with the abatements they have allowed and the additions they have made. There were seven additions at a total of $8,025 and 106 abatements at a total of $180,549, making a net deduction in the list as left by the assessors of $172,524. This left the taxable grand list at $22,022,704.

Five of the seven additions were new lists, the additions covering three automobiles, 20 acres of land, four dwellings, one lot, one store and one garage.

In the abatements the largest allowed was of $120,000 to the Atlantic Carton Corporation on mill property in Greeneville. Thirty nine abatements totalling $28,315, were allowed upon automobiles, and the abatements covered 30 lists which had been ten per cent for a total of $1,039. In the abatements there were 26 which were allowed because of soldier-exemption.

WOMEN'S ANNUAL PRAYER SERVICE FOR MISSIONS

The annual prayer service of the women's missionary societies of Norwich was held Friday afternoon at 2.45 o'clock at the Church of the Good Shepherd, Universalist. The large attendance included delegations from a number of the mission societies connected with the local churches. Mrs. A. N. Foster presided at the meeting which opened with an organ prelude followed by an address of welcome by Mrs. Foster. The remainder of the programme was as follows: hymn; responsive reading, Mrs. Frank Tyler; prayer of thanksgiving, Mrs. James Spicer; response, Mrs. Helena M. T. Church; Bible reading, Mrs. James M. Sewed For South Carolina Hospital

Surgical dressings and small children's garments for the hospital at Greenwood, S. C., were prepared Friday at a sewing meeting of the missions department of the United Congregational church, which was held at the Community house, beginning at 10 in the morning. A cafeteria lunch was served by Charitable Circle, King's Daughters, and at 2.45 the meeting adjourned to attend the missions prayer service at the Universalist church, Mrs. W. H. Dawley, chairman of the missions department, was in charge of the sewing meeting.

Town Meeting Will Lay Tax.

The adjourned annual town meeting of the town of Norwich will be held on Monday evening for the special business of laying the town tax rate upon the grand list as completed by the board of relief. The rate will be made to meet the appropriations voted in the annual town meeting last October.

SEVERE BURNS FATAL TO MRS. CALVIN HARWOOD

Mrs. Ellen A. (White) Harwood, widow of former Mayor Calvin L. Harwood, died Friday afternoon about 2 o'clock as the result of burns received two hours earlier at her home, No. 12 Washington street. About 11.40 o'clock Friday morning the central station received a telephone call for the fire and a bell alarm from Box 116, Washington square, came in at the same time.

The firemen found Mrs. Harwood lying on the floor with her clothing on fire. Deputy Chief Henry R. Taft and others carried the suffering woman from the burning room into the hallway and she was rushed to the Backus hospital after receiving first aid. The fire in the house was quickly extinguished and the damage to the house was small.

The fire was discovered by Miss C. I. Frink who resides on the upper floor and at about the same instant was seen by Inspector Caruthers of the Connecticut Company, John Keinan and James Cafferty, linemen in the employ of the gas and electric department, who were working near the house and Officer John O'Neil. Mr. Keinan and Mr. Cafferty got into the house through a window and Officer O'Neil pulled in the alarm, immediately sent in a call for the ambulance and summoned Dr. W. K. Tingley. Dr. Louis T. Cassidy, who happened to be passing was also called on. Chief H. L. Stanton also sent in a call for the ambulance and summoned medical assistance.

Mrs. Harwood was given first aid treatment by the physicians and was rushed to the hospital accompanied by her son, Francis C. Harwood. She was terribly burned from head to foot and there were indications that she had inhaled the flames. Her death occurred about 2 o'clock in the afternoon.

Mrs. Harwood was evidently preparing luncheon when her clothing caught fire from a small gas stove. There are two possible causes of the fire. One is that her shawl caught fire from the gas flames or else the rubber tubing connecting the plate stove with the gas pipe had burst, throwing the flames onto her. This rubber tubing, Chief Stanton said, is the most dangerous type of piping used in the household. Evidently the clothing of Mrs. Harwood caught fire and she rushed about the room in an endeavor to put out the blaze. She had apparently gone to the telephone in the room to call for help for she was found lying with her clothes ablaze on the floor with the telephone lying on the floor nearby where she had fallen.

The flames spread to several sections of the room and the woodwork was considerably charred. The telephone table was burned and also the table on which the gas stove stood. Two lines of hose were laid but it was not necessary to use water, chemical sufficing to extinguish the blaze.

Miss C. I. Frink who lives on the upper floor of the house smelled smoke and went downstairs to investigate. She saw Mrs. Harwood in the doorway with her clothing on fire and endeavored to smother the flames with rugs. She then ran to the door and called for help. Miss Frink's hands were burned and her burns were treated by the physicians.

A parrot owned by Mrs. Harwood was smothered in the flames and was found dead in its cage.

Mrs. Harwood was born in Hinsdale, N. Y., May 22, 1843, and was the daughter of John C. and Sarah Potter White. She was united in marriage with the late Calvin L. Harwood Sept. 26, 1865. Mr. Harwood was mayor of Norwich from 1892 to 1896. Mrs. Harwood took deep interest in Trinity M. E. church of which church she was a member. She was greatly interested in the United Workers, especially the Rock Nook Home and was a former president of the Woman's Auxiliary of the Y. M. C. A. Mrs. Harwood is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Guy B. Delbeare and one son, Francis C. Harwood, both of this city. There are two grandchildren.

Mrs. Harwood was of a kindly and sympathetic nature and was ever ready to aid all in need. Her sudden death is mourned by a host of friends.

GRAND OPERA TRIO CHARMS NORWICH AUDIENCE

Rarely, perhaps never before, has a musical programme before a Norwich audience combined so much of charm as that given Friday evening at Slater hall in the Slater hall musical course by the American grand opera trio, Mme. Helen Stanley, soprano, Paul Althouse, tenor, and Arthur Middleton, baritone, with Edward Harris furnishing accompaniments that were perfection. Every seat was taken and every number was the signal for insistent applause that would not be stilled until the singers had come out again and again to bow their acknowledgments.

The gracious personality of the singers, the variety and interest of their programme, the splendor and richness of their voices, whether in solo, duet or trio, with the artistry of their performance, united to make an evening that will long be remembered by the big audience as a rare delight.

The programme was given as follows:

Duet—First act, Faust, Gounod
Mr. Althouse and Mr. Middleton.
Spring Dropped a Song Into My Heart, Fenner
At Parting, Rogers
Aria, "Un bel dl" (Butterfly) Puccini
Mme. Stanley
Follow Me 'ome, Bel.
The Bellman, Forsyth
Largo al Faetotum, "Barbieri" Rossini
Mr. Middleton
Duet—First act, "Madame Butterfly," Puccini
Mme. Stanley and Mr. Althouse
The Nomad, Hambien
The Blind Ploughman, Clarke
O Paradiso "L' Africaine," Meyerbeer
Mr. Althouse
Duet—"Thais," Massenet
Mme. Stanley and Mr. Middleton
Trio from "Faust," Gounod
Mme. Stanley, Mr. Althouse and Mr. Middleton

Following her group of songs, an immense bouquet of pink roses was presented to Mme. Stanley and she gave as an encore I Passed By Your Window. After the concert Mme. Stanley sent the roses to the patients at the Backus hospital, a gracious act that was greatly appreciated by the patients.

Mr. Althouse and Mr. Middletown also responded with encore numbers in the programme, the former singing a new ballad by Mary Brown, God Touched the Rose, and the latter rendering a negro song, Me and My Little Banjo. The artists also graciously obliged the audience with encore numbers after the Thais duet and the Faust trio, which closed the programme.

Frederick H. Cranston announced that because of the illness of a member of the Flonzaley quartette they would not be able to appear next Friday evening but would probably be here May 6.

Beautiful floral decorations for the stage were furnished by Otto F. Ernst, the florist.

ARTHUR F. CAMUBELL DIES SUDDENLY AT HIS HOME

Arthur F. Campbell, 35, died suddenly of acute indigestion at 6.30 Friday evening at his home, 327 Prospect street. Medical aid was summoned by his wife as soon as Mr. Campbell was seized by the attack but his death was almost intantaneous.

News of Mr. Campbell's death came with a great shock to his many friends as he had been entirely well and active in his association with the management of a cotton cloth manufacturing industry in Greeneville.

He was born in Lowell, Mass., July 11, 1889, and was the son of Arthur F. and Eliza Young Campbell, both natives of Scotland. The greater part of his life had been spent in this city, where for a number of years he was an engraver at the United States Finishing company. He was a singer of much ability, often being heard in public entertainments, and he was a past exalted rules of Norwich lodge, No. 430, B. P. O. E. Of a genial and companionable disposition, he had many friends in this city and in the home he was a thoughtful and loving husband and an affectionate son.

He is survived by his parents, his wife Natalie, two sisters, Mrs. Frank R. Denison and Miss Eliza Campbell and one brother, David Young Campbell.

River Avenue Grass Fire.

About 4.30 o'clock Friday afternoon the fire department answered a telephone call for a grass fire on River avenue.

SOCIAL CORNER

efficient in my "job," and at the same time lighten my work. If I go through the kitchen department in a big store or a home furnishing establishment I am on the watch for new ideas which I can turn to account and I find it pays me to be as up to date in home making as in any other kind of business.

If I see helps or ideas in magazines I am always willing to try it once, if I like their mode better than mine I always adopt it as mine. Have you ever tried restoring your dining room table, or refinishing it? Buy three sizes of sand paper three or four sheets of the coarsest, two sheets of the medium and 3 sheets of the finest. Give the table top a good rubbing with the coarsest, using plenty of "elbow grease," then rub with the next size, using all the paper; lastly rub with the finest until perfectly smooth, give a coat of shellac, rub this with the fine sandpaper, not too hard, and apply wax by putting a generous piece inside three or four pieces of cheese cloth and rubbing with it—the longer, the better. Your table will be like a new one with just the right finish.

To thread a darning needle with yarn cut the latter off with scissors, press the end flat between the thumb and forefinger of the left hand, loosen the tips of fingers a little and slip the needle in between. Another good way is to double the yarn, put a strong fine thread through the loop, pass both ends of the thread through the eye of the needle, and draw the yarn through with the thread. The first way is most successful and less work. If the metal tips come off of shoelacings take a needle and thread wrap the thread tightly around for about 1-2 inch sewing through once in a while especially at the end to keep the thread from slipping off, trim off, and the tip will serve as well as ever, with no danger of coming off.

By the way I made a discovery I wish to pass along to those who use aluminum ware. Salt corrodes or eats it. I have never had the experience but read this in an old magazine.

DOWN IN FLORIDA

Dear Corner: Greetings to the editor and all members of the Social Corner.

Am a long way from home and friends but have The Bulletin for every Saturday and read the letters from each of you as they are sent from week to week.

Florida is a very interesting place in which to spend a few weeks and escape the rigors of the New England winter.

We are located in Sanford which is situated on Lake Monroe in the celery district. The growing of celery and lettuce is a great business here. Celery can be seen in all stages of growth.

The orange trees are blossoming now and the air is just filled with the fragrance as you pass along the streets near these trees.

Yesterday I had the pleasure of going by auto to Orlando. There are many new tracts of land opened up for sale and a great number of new houses in the process of construction. We passed many orange groves and the trees were beautiful with their quantities of golden fruit and the grapefruit trees are just as interesting. I cannot understand how so many of those large fruits can be held up by such small branches. One cluster on a tree in the back yard of the house where I live had 21 large grape fruit in it.

Orlando seems to be a very beautiful place. We were right near Lake Eola.

The Orlando fair is being held now and the traffic was very heavy in the city. There are many tourists in Orlando. I was told that prices go up in the fall when the tourists come and then when they go everything is dead, but do not know how true that it.

Am sorry not to have my book of "who is who" with me. Would like to send post cards of Florida scenes to Uno, Pices, and True Blue. Thank you very much for remembering my birthday with cards.

In one of the yards here is a cactus as much as twelve feet tall. The stem of it must be five or six inches in diameter. The paddles on it are quite large. Perhaps I should have have called them leaves.

The ferns are wonderful here. There are so many varieties and they are all growing so luxuriantly out of doors.

One morning the temperature dropped to 32 degrees but the flowers keep on blossoming just the same. Have seen a number of varieties of roses here.

The begonia vine is a wonderful sight with its masses of flame colored flowers.

This morning I was looking at a eucalyptus tree and a gentleman who was near said, "This tree sheds its bark instead of its leaves." Strips of bark were all ready to fall from the trunk leaving it much like the light be the time for everything to put out colored trunk of the sycamore tree.

The latter part of January seems to its new growth. The trees are all getting their new foliage. Most of them have the old leaves on when the new ones come but the china berry trees were bare. The streets here are lined with live oaks which have long festoons of the gray moss hanging from their branches. The light green of the new leaves looks very pretty mingled with the gray moss.

As this letter is getting rather lengthy will close by sending best wishes to all.

CACTUS BLOSSOM, Jan. 28.

TOO EARLY FOR HOUSECLEANING

Dear Editor and Corner Sisters: What wonderful weather we are having. I only hope we won't pay for it by having a bad storm for our anniversary meeting.

Had a letter from a Massachusetts city and they said they went to the beach the 15th and it was a beautiful day and such crowds, while we had rain all afternoon and also a little thunder and lightning.

Oh you, Ma of Green Gables. If I had had hold of you I'd give you a slap on the wrist when I read your housecleaning letter. Aren't you ashamed of yourself making the rest of us envious? I was feeling exceptionally carefree and happy when I read your letter, and I just slumped down and shriveled right up when I read "housecleaning." For mercy's sake, don't anyone mention that word again until I get my sewing all done! But perhaps, Ma, you'll come down and help me. I'm sure you will feel just like starting all over again when you finish yours. You sure have pep. Do you get it by the pint or pound?

Free Air: Will have something to say to you that may interest you, if you come to the next meeting.

Yes, True Blue, I sure did miss a good time but you know it isn't the first good time I've missed; but we must be prepared for those disappointments. I just knew if Effie M. had anything to do with it, it sure would be good.

I see Brave was in the same hospital I was once. I know she got the best of care while there but I also know that a great deal depends on the patient herself for I have been in the hospital as a patient four times, and in three different hospitals. Not one word of fault have I to find with the treatment I received in any of them and I had some serious operations that required very good care. I'll tell the world the hospital has no terrors for me.

Balsam Fir: How happy you must be to be able to give so much pleasure to another. You surely are practicing the golden rule.

Joan: I will try not to fail you.

The sister that broke her fountain pen has my sympathy for I had that same experience. Had one that I'd had for years and thought so much of it as it was a Christmas gift. But you know busy little fingers got hold of it and put the finish to it. I'm just beginning to get used to a steel pen. I think, sister, you will find it will take some time.

Yes, Whirlwind, this weather suits me O. K. Hope it will be so you and Foxglove can come down, or does she go to Chicago before then?

Well we can't complain of the Corner page not being full now and it seems so good, but there are so many we don't hear from at all! Bet the editor is working overtime these days. Guess he is glad they are not all like me or he would require an assistant.

Calla Lily: Long before you read this those beans from Mayflayre and myself will be with Mrs. R. Very kind of her surely.

Mollie Larkin: How about shirts?

Well if I don't stop there won't be room for any more letters. Hope all who have been sick are well, and with heartfelt sympathy for all who have lost dear ones especially those who have lost their mothers.

BLACK EYED SUSIE, (April 20.)

LONGS FOR THE OLD TIMES

Dear Social Corner Folks: If not too late, I went to thank some one for the pretty calendar. This is my fifth one and I keep them all they are so pretty. I hope I am not forgotten, it is so long since I have written, but I think of you all, and plan to come to the next meeting, but something happens to keep me away.

I agree with the writers about, the dinners. We used to have such good times. After dinner, all would stay, and we would have a nice entertainment with music, readings, and a good old fashion grand march, in which all would take part. Stillwater always had a reading for us and Married and Happy and many others. Every one would help after dinner to get the tables cleared and get the work done quickly, so all could join in the fun. And the afternoon passed too quickly. I wish we could have the times again and not leave it to one or two.

Ma of Green Gables: If you will get ten cents worth of tartar emetic and mix with a little sugar and water, and put around in little dishes, you will soon be rid of black ants. But be careful that children do not get any of it, as it is poison.

I suppose you will have a big crowd next meeting. I am going to try and come.

True Blue: Bring some pretty new patterns of crochet and all bring something good to eat. Love to all.

CELIA LOUISE

GLAD TO SEE CORNER GROWING SO FAST

Dear Social Corner Sisters and Editor: What a jolly time there would be if we could all meet in the good old summer time somewhere and have a picnic. The Social Corner club I think must be the largest club of any. I too sympathize with C. E. S.'s family. It was a great stock to read of her death it was so sudden. No, Y. O. T. the blind lady I read to is not named Fannie W. L. but N. A. Edson, who is here in The Card Home where I am. I hope we may meet some day. I will now ring off with best wishes to all.

THE MAN WITHOUT A SPARE.

"He never has a spare," they say,
Which gives no comfort to me;
They've [illegible] enough alike
In life's [illegible]

He never has a [illegible]
Most [illegible]
Unforeseen [illegible]
If one [illegible]

He trusts that [illegible] Luck,
To make [illegible] with air;
"As long as [illegible]" says he,
"Why [illegible] a spare?"

Day after day [illegible],
His [illegible]
While others say, "I [illegible]
"I'd get a [illegible]

They speak of him as "lucky guy,"
A term quite well applied;
His rainy days all seem to come
When he has work inside.

You ask me if I envy him?
No thought like that is mine;
If he gets by without a spare,
The thing to say is: "Fine!"

We need the Man Without a Spare,
Our courage to enhance;
The timid would more timid be
If no one took a chance!
—William Herschell, in Indianapolis News.

"WITH PIPE AND FLUTE."

With pipe and flute the rustic Pan
Of old made music sweet for man;
And wonder hushed the warbling bird,
And closer drew the calm-eyed herd—
The rolling river slowlier ran.

Ah! would—ah! would, a little span,
Some air of Arcady could fan
This age of ours, too seldom stirred
With pipe and flute!

But now for gold we plot and plan;
And from Beersheba unto Dan,
Apollo's self might pass unheard
Or find the night-jar's note preferred—
Not so it fared, when time began,
With pipe and flute!
—Austin Dobson

HUMOR OF THE DAY

How is it that you always let your wife have her own way?

I tried to stop her once.—Everybody's Magazine.

Tourist, (doubtfully): You're not going to tell me that you are the famous centenarian?

Native.—O, no, it ain't me—it's my daughter.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

Children think themselves wiser than their parents.

Evidence of heredity, I suppose. Parents did the same thing when they were children.—Boston Transcript.

The Lady—Is Sir Reginal Wotname staying here?

Hotel Clerk—Yes, first floor, suite one.

The Lady—Sir!—London Opinion.

Florence—I can't understand why Ethel married Mr. Gunson, he's old enough to be her father.

Lawrence—Yes, but he's rich enough to be her husband.—Judge.

Prospective Employer—But can you get up in the morning?

Maid Applicant—Can it? Why, in my last place, I used to be up and have all the beds made before anyone else was up.—Exchange.

American Heiress—I can't understand your language, so if I were to marry you we couldn't converse.

Foreign Nobleman—Ah, but as money talks.—Boston Transcript.

"My client," declared the first lawyer, "is willing to do the right thing."

"So is mine," said the second lawyer.

"In that case matters ought to be easy."

"I don't know. The next question is: What is the right thing?"

"Well?"

"And I fear it will take a long suit to settle that."—Houston Fe.

"I have seen lists of the words most often misspelled," said a teacher quoted in the New York Times, "but in my experience the one most frequently sinned against in print is 'gauge.' I have even found it stamped 'guage' on the manufactured article. The next most frequently misspelled? I don't know. But for one infrequently used, 'buoy' certainly ranks high. 'Weird' seems to give some people lots of trouble, and almost everybody on a test will mispell 'deleble,' because better acquainted with its negative, indelible, which has changed its original spelling."

Amos Cady, of Bolivar, Mo., could play six instruments simutaneously while he has regained his sight can only play one. He was blind twenty-two years. He played a harmonica held to his mouth with a yoke, a banjo with his hands, a bass drum beaten with his elbow, cymbals struck with his knees, a triangle and eight Swiss bells rung by his feet. His inability to play more than one instrument now is explained by the fact that he can not concentrate sufficiently to play six because the acute sensitiveness of touch and feeling that comes with blindness left when his sight was restored.
